From Niuchuang Mr. Acting Commissioner Luson reports a decrease of tonnage in vessels entered from 3,570 tons in 1870 to 1,508 tons in the corresponding first quarter of 1871. The total tonnage cleared was, however, 1,508 tons, against nil, so that there is no appreciable disparagement in this respect. The imports show Tls. 21,551, against 5,000 in the first quarter of 1870, nil in 1869, and 43,180 in 1868, as regards shirtings. In other products and manufactures the imports show an even more discouraging result. In exports the return is not more satisfactory. The revenue from opium was Tls. 6,330, against 8,280; and the total revenue Tls. 9,037, against 9,602. This is accounted for by the port having been closed during the greater part of the quarter.

From Tientsin Mr. Commissioner Hannen reports a decrease of tonnage entered from 11,654 to 10,193, and of tonnage cleared from 10,247 to 8,629. In imports grey shirtings show Tls. 166,696, against 213,900 last years. T-cloths have declined from 91,659 pieces to 28,315 pieces, and drills make a far worse appearance. Camlets declined from 3,270 pieces to 670 pieces; and woollen and cotton mixtures from 9,330 pieces to 6,620. On the other hand Malwa opium rose from 602 piculs to 803. Exports show a falling off in every item, the principal being red dates, which fell from Tls. 3,425 to 719. The revenue, however, gives Tls. 43,398, against 43,099 in 1870, chiefly owing to the increase of opium.

From Chefoo Mr. Commissioner Wright reports a great increase in tonnage both entered and cleared. In imports grey shirtings rose from 65,450 pieces in 1870 to 175,499 pieces in the corresponding quarter of 1871. They were, however, 163,250 pieces in 1869. Metals show an astonishing increase; bar iron from 897 to 2,666, and nail-rod from 1,387 to 4,161. Seaweed shows an equal falling off. The import of native sugar has, however, increased 50 per cent. Exports show generally an improvement, and the revenue consequently appears as Tls. 69,216, against Tls. 71,735 in 1870, and Tls. 40,091 in 1869.

From Hankow Mr. Hobson, assistant in charge, reports the trade in piece goods as unsatisfactory. In metals very little was done, except in quicksilver. Opium remained as usual. In native goods the transactions were below the average, except in raw cotton. The export trade was highly satisfactory, the products most largely dealt in being wood oil, vegetable tallow, white wax, Schechuen silk, and brick tea, the result being an augmentation of the revenue over previous collections of Tls. 22,965.

From Kiukiang Mr. Commissioner Drew reports long ells in demand, but sugars and opium show a falling-off. The native troops in this city were drilling very industriously, and numbered about 2,000, of whom a few hundred were armed with foreign muzzle-loaders. The Fut'ai was expected to review them shortly. On the other hand, the Catholic chapel and other buildings destroyed at Wach'eng and Foochow have been fully rebuilt by the Chinese authorities of their own accord, and without direct foreign pressure locally.

From Chinkiang Mr. Acting Commissioner Woodruff reports that the most marked change in the quarter under review is the gain in sugar. There is a falling-off in the quantity of cotton piece goods imported, but that the sales made at the port have not decreased may be inferred from the gain in the quantity sent inland under Transit Pass. Opium shows a decline from 1,756 to 1,578 piculs. The revenue shows Tls. 16,984, against Tls. 10,338 in the corresponding quarter of last year, and Tls. 8,585 in 1869. The gratuitous distribution of mulberry plants is to be continued at the rate of 100,000 cuttings for the present year.

From Shanghai Mr. Commissioner Dick reports an increase of revenue from Tls. 677,107 in last year to Tls. 681,836. The tonnage both entered and cleared has greatly increased. The import of grey shirtings shows 1,590,264 pieces, against 816,765 pieces in the corresponding quarter last year. T-cloths, on the other hand, show only 415,145 pieces, against 879,608. Woollens fell considerably, and metals from 81,738 piculs to 36,958 in iron alone. Exports generally fell off, but in raw cotton they rose from 29,409 to no less than 194,587—more than double the highest amount attained in the last four years.

From Ningpo Mr. Commissioner White reports great depression, caused by over-trading. With few exceptions the articles of both import and export show a decrease. The total revenue collected shows a decrease of Tls. 23,381, involving every department of the trade of the port.

From Foochow Mr. Commissioner de Méritens reports the quarter's revenue as Tls. 330,389, against Tls. 213,478 in 1870, and Tls. 220,650 in 1869. Nothing can be more encouraging than this, but we may notice that the import duties fell off. They will no doubt recover themselves, and then the balance-sheet will be without a blot.

From Tamsui Mr. Detring, assistant in charge, reports a favourable contrast of the trade of the quarter with that of preceding years. The revenue shows Tls. 14,596, against Tls. 8,179 in 1870, and Tls. 10,768 in 1869. The firms engaged in the tea trade received very good reports of the reception of the Formosan teas in the American markets. A crop greatly exceeding the last is expected, and orders are counted on in proportion. Messrs. Elles and Co. have announced a steamer to run between Amoy and the Formosan ports. Mails for Tamsui and Kelung ought now to be forwarded via Amoy, instead of Foochow.

From Takow Mr. Cartwright, assistant in charge, reports an increase of revenue on the quarter from Tls. 32,184 in 1869 to Tls. 35,591 in 1871. The sugar and the opium trades have been unusually active, and have, in most cases, left a good margin for profit. Regarding piece goods there is little to remark. The usual supply has been received and distributed. The more extensive fabrics find little favour. For woollens there has been no demand.

From Amoy Mr. Commissioner Hughes reports the decline of the quarter's revenue from Tls. 137,119 in 1869, to Tls. 95,319 in 1870, and Tls. 88,350, apparently owing to the continual decrease in the exports. In imports, however, an increase in almost all descriptions is perceptible, though prices have generally declined. The only woollens in request are Camlets. The export of Oolong tea shows a great decrease. The yield of sugar has been greatly in excess of many previous years. Disturbances have been of frequent occurrence among the coolies at the jetties, owing to overcharges, &c., and unless these men are firmly repressed by the authorities Mr. Hughes thinks their acts may extend into actual strife and bloodshed.

From Swatow Mr. Acting Commissioner Huber reports an increase of revenue from Tls. 75,138 to Tls. 112,503. The trade of the port continues to flourish in the same uninterrupted proportion observable in recent quarters. This is by no means attributable to opium, there was not less than 430 chests in excess. Cotton yarn increased 2,877 piculs, and raw cotton above 18,000 piculs; grey shirtings increased 4,900 pieces; T-cloths, 8,500 pieces; and drills, 4,700 pieces.

From Canton Mr. Bowra (acting commissioner) reports an increase of revenue from Tls. 162,017 in 1869, and Tls. 156,053 in 1870, to Tls. 214,709 in the corresponding quarter of 1871. Opium has fallen a little, but imports and exports show a great and continuous advance.

The total amount of the quarterly dues and duties from the fourteen ports enumerated is Tls. 1,812,576; and on the whole it appears that the general returns afford matter for congratulation, though, no doubt, they would soon display even greater activity if the influence of the British Minister were used for their development.

BREAKFAST.—EPPE'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Each packet or tin is labelled—JAMES EPPE & CO., Homoeopathic Chemists, London. Eppe's Cocoa is also prepared with condensed milk, and sold in tins, labelled Eppe's Milky Cocoa.

Monetary and Commercial.

The tenders for £400,000 in bills on India were received on the 16th inst. at the Bank of England. The minimum was fixed, as before, at 1s. 10½d. on all the Presidencies. Tenders on Calcutta and Bombay at 1s. 10½d. will receive about 32 per cent.; above in full. There were no tenders on Madras. An increased demand for the means of remittance to the East is shown.

The meeting of the Mediterranean Extension Telegraph Company (Limited), convened for the 15th inst., was adjourned till the 22nd, there not being a sufficient number of shareholders present to form a quorum.

The following, on the arrival of the Danube with New Season's Tea, is from The Times:—"The Danube, steamer, from Canton, is the first which was ever loaded up at that city. She is discharging at Hay's Dock, near London-bridge, and has consequently brought her cargo direct from the warehouses in Canton city to the warehouses in the centre of the port of London, thus saving lighterage from Canton to Whampoa, as well as the employment of lighters in London. She has made the passage in fifty-seven days, all stoppages included."

The directors of the Ceylon Coffee Estates Company (Limited) have invited subscriptions for £58,000 Seven per Cent. Perpetual Debentures.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Candia, which left Southampton on the 19th inst., was, in gold, to Galle, £10,000; to Bombay, £26,578; to Madras, £10,000; to Singapore, £3,000—in silver, to Hong Kong, £40,500; total in gold, £49,578; in silver, £40,500.

EXPORT OF COTTON GOODS TO THE FAR EAST.

The following is a summary of Mr. Sam Mendel's Tables for the present month, containing details of the quantities of Cotton Manufactures and Yarn shipped from the ports of London, Liverpool, Southampton, and the Clyde, to Hong Kong, Shanghai, Japan, Singapore, Batavia, Manila, and Ceylon, during the month and twelve months ended 16th August, 1871, compared with the corresponding periods of the two preceding years:—

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

The arrival of the steamers Agamemnon, Cheops, Hector, and Danube has tended to increase the depression previously prevailing, and the trade still holding back large quantities have been forced off at public sale with the result of establishing a further decline in prices.

A public sale commenced on the 15th inst., comprising a total of about 8,500 packages catalogued; 5,130 packages passed on the first day, of which 4,300 packages sold, including nearly 1,000 previous to the auctions, the remainder chiefly offered with reserved prices were withdrawn. The catalogues included 1,757 chests new season's Congou per Enterprise and Ulysses, of which 621 chests were withdrawn, the bulk of the remainder being previously disposed of, only a few lots were sold at 1s. 6½d. to 1s. 7d. Old season's descriptions brought steady rates, especially for Green Teas. Very common to common Congou brought 6d. to 7½d.; about 850 packages Oolong low 5½d. to 6d., common kinds 8½d., to 9½d., fair to medium 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 4d., Soucheong 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 1d. Young Hyson, common 8½d. to 10d. good common 11½d. to 11½d., middling 1s. 3d. to 1s. 4d., Hyson 8½d. to 1s. 4½d. Imperial, common 8½d. to 9d., good common 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 3d., medium 1s. 6½d. to 1s. 10½d., Gunpowder 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 6d., low to common 7½d. to 10½d. per lb. This sale concluded on the 16th, when 3,920 packages passed, nearly the whole of which sold without reserve. The bulk consisted of small parcels, and prices showed no material alteration.

On the 17th public sales of 6,907 packages China were held, consisting almost wholly of new season's per Hector and Ulysses, viz., 3,883 chests, 770 half-chests new Morning Congou, and 2,254 packages Green. The whole was offered without reserve and therefore sold. New Morning Congou went off flatly at irregular and mostly lower prices, a large proportion consisted of inferior qualities, which sold at 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 1d., good medium selling at 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 6½d. New season's Ping Suey Green met a good demand and sold at fair prices, No. 1 Gunpowder at 3s. 8d., No. 2 at 2s. 11d., No. 1 Young Hyson at 2s. 5d. per lb. Some parcels of old Moyune, especially low qualities, sold at easy rates. Further public sales of 7,700 packages, chiefly Congou, were held on the 18th, without reserve, and were all sold as follows:—New season's Congou, 1,750 chests Morning at 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 7½d., 650 boxes flavoury broken leaf ditto at 1s. 8½d. to 1s. 9d., and 3,500 half-chests good and fine Ningchow kind at 1s. 8d. to 1s. 10d.; 1,900 boxes Scented, per Danube, sold at depressed rates; 1,300 boxes Scented Caper, common, 11½d. to 1s. 0½d.; good common, 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 3d.; fair, 1s. 7d. to 1s. 8d.; and 600 boxes Scented Orange Pekoe at 11d. to 1s. 4d. per lb.

The following is from Messrs. Huth and Co.'s Price Current:—The market is in a most depressed state, and is likely to be much worse. In China, as of old, the natives have gained the battle; 1s. 9d. to 2s. per lb. has been paid for second and third-rate teas, of which the Chinamen have, of course, been willing sellers; moreover, every financial facility seems to have been accorded to buyers indiscriminately, and the consequence is, that 64,000,000 lb. have been forced off to our shores up to the 8th August, or nearly half the supply of the season. The end is easily foretold; already teas have been sold in auction "without reserve" and privately, which leave a loss of up to 4d. to 5d. per lb. on China cost. But this is only the beginning of it; we have the new Poochow teas close at hand; from overland samples, which we tasted, the quality of that crop may be placed decidedly above that of last season—the fine and finest kinds have much flavour, combined with pungency, just the character wanted by the trade. Common blackleafs of Ninchow growth are being forced for sale at about 8d. to 9d. per lb. Good redleafs at 1s. to 1s. 1d. will, we expect, be wanted soon. The only really fine Moning teas as yet arrived have been sold at 2s. 5d., 2s. 6d., and 2s. 7d. per lb. respectively.

SILK.

There has been no alteration in the market since our report of the 14th inst.

COFFEE.

The favourable result of the Dutch sale of the 16th inst., noticed below, has tended to increase the buoyancy of this market, and the public sales have gone off with good competition for all kinds, Plantation Ceylon selling at a further slight advance, and other East India kinds realising somewhat improved rates. The prices paid for Plantation have been triage, 53s. to 59s.; small, 60s. to 63s. 6d.; low middling, 64s. to 67s. 6d.; middling, 68s. to 72s. 6d.; good middling colour and bold, 74s. to 77s.; pea-berry, 81s. to 83s. There have been no transactions in Native Ceylon. MANILA: Following our last report of 742 bags pale offered, 520 bags sold at 57s.; sea damaged at 53s. 6d. to 56s.; subsequently 1,054 bags have been chiefly sold, mixed brown, 54s.; fine ordinary Indian sort at 58s.; superior bold brownish at 73s. 6d. SINGAPORE: 216 bags Bonthyne country damaged have been sold at 56s. 6d., and 200 bags mixed at 54s. to 55s.; one lot at 55s. 6d.

Further large arrivals of Ceylon have swelled the weekly landings to 2,779 tons, or 1,460 tons in excess of the previous year, and export deliveries being only 300 tons larger, the deficiency in the stock is further diminished to 1,650 tons. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 163,106 cwt., against 286,739 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1870; Native 20,927 cwt., against 20,684 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is 5,811 cwt. Plantation, against 22,952 cwt., and 7,036 cwt. Native, against 31,983 cwt. The quantity of Coffee landed in the thirty-two weeks ended Aug. 12, 1871, was, of Ceylon, 24,869 tons, against 22,328 tons during the corresponding period of 1870; of all descriptions, 44,475 tons, against 37,559 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 6,800 tons, against 6,578 tons; of all descriptions, 11,994 tons, against 11,529 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 19,314 tons, against 17,427 tons; of all descriptions, 36,128 tons, against 27,431 tons. The stock on Aug. 12 was, of Ceylon, 12,360 tons, against 12,187 tons; of all descriptions, 21,161 tons, against 22,818 tons.

The Dutch Trading Company's public sale of 125,000 bags Java, &c., was held on the 16th inst., and with a strong demand the whole found buyers at nearly 2c. above the previous sales, or 1c. to 1½c. above the valuations, good ordinary selling at 36c. to 36½c. The following are the particulars of the sale:—

SUGAR.

A steady but not active demand has prevailed during the week for British West India, and sales of fair amount have been effected at previous rates. In other descriptions sales continue unimportant, and the business has been chiefly confined to Penang; of 1,509 bags in auction 550 bags sold, low to middling soft yellow (duties 4s. 9d. to 5s. 3d.) at 29s. 6d. to 30s. 6d., middling fine brown at 27s. to 29s.; privately 1,120 baskets common date have been sold at 22s. 3d.; also 2,570 bags unclayed Manila at 21s. 6d.

Only a slight variation has occurred in the stock, and as the landings are almost exactly on a par with those of last year, and the deliveries only 200 tons more, the relative deficiency in the stock remains about the same as last week. Stock, Aug. 5, 75,120 tons, against 104,192 tons; Aug. 12, 75,341 tons, against 104,642 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the thirty-two weeks ended Aug. 12, 1871, was, of Penang, 974 tons, against 2,277 tons in the corresponding period of 1870; of Manila, Java and China, 15,080 tons, against 14,360 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 2,581 tons, against 1,565 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 20,051 tons, against 16,191 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 163 tons, against 95 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 1,054 tons, against 1,825 tons. The stock on Aug. 12 was, of Penang, 1,201 tons, against 2,947 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 21,769 tons, against 32,134 tons.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—The market continues quiet; Ceylon is quoted £39 on the spot with buyers at £38 10s. to arrive and sellers at £39. At public sale over 100 tons Ceylon, June shipment, sold at £39; 77 casks Cochin were bought in at £51, and 27 pipes Ceylon at £39, both with 14 days' prompt.

HEMP.—About 150 bales Manila have been sold, brown at £38, good fair roping at £48 per ton.

PEPPER.—Black continues in good request, at a further advance of ½d. per lb., Singapore 6½d., sea damaged 5½d. to 6d., Penang 6½d. White steady; Singapore at 10½d., Penang at 10d.

RICE.—Only a limited demand continues to prevail on the spot, but for floating cargoes of soft grain steady rates are obtainable. The following cargoes have been sold during the week:—The cargo of 320 tons Rangoon, recently arrived per George Croshaw, at 9s. 7½d., ex quay; the Assaye, 1,460 tons Rangoon, arrived off coast, at 9s. 6½d., ex ship for London; the Tim Whiffer, 1,500 tons Rangoon, arrived off coast, at 9s. 9d., quay terms for Liverpool; the Ann Main, 675 tons Necransie Arracan, April sailing, at 9s. 7½d. for the Continent; the One, 730 tons do., early June sailing, at 9s. 11½d., Continental terms; the Broderene, 610 tons Rangoon, end of April sailing, at 9s. 10½d. for the Continent; the Ernest Maria, 400 tons Moulmein, at 10s. 1½d. for the Continent; the Caern Taal, 700 tons Necransie, at 9s. 3d. for the Continent; the Vesta, 960 tons Rangoon, end of April sailing, at 9s. 10½d. for the Continent; and the Gauthoid, 950 tons Necransie Arracan, at 9s. 3d. for the Continent.

TIN.—Dulness has prevailed during the week, and prices show a declining tendency; Straits has been sold as low as £131, and Banca here at £136; some few parcels having been pressed on the market.

ARTICLES OF EXPORT.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

The market has been inactive during the week, but without producing any change in values, and the actual business transacted has been on a moderate scale. At a fractional concession on last quoted rates orders to some extent are offered, without finding general acceptance.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.—AUGUST 5.

TEA.

The principal feature of the market since our last has been an auction sale held on the 2nd inst. The offerings were nearly all disposed of, and the prices realised were generally satisfactory, the particulars being as follows: 308 half-chests Hyson, 40c. to 80c. per lb.; 639 half-chests Young Hyson, 40c. to 98c.; 232 half-chests Gunpowder, 70c. to 109c.; 296 half-chests Imperial, 50c. to 90c.; 51 half-chests Twankay, 34c. to 84c.; 1,473 half-chests Oolong, 88c. to 69c.; 100 half-chests Powchong, 51c.; 999 half-chests Japan, 47c. to 83c. The demand for invoices continues moderate, and prices for all descriptions are maintained. The sales are 1,000 half-chests Green, per Witch, 3,900 half-chests Oolong, 2,000 half-chests Japan, and 350 half-chests Green, vessels not named.

The importations of Tea at San Francisco have steadily increased since the completion of the Pacific railroad. We find in the Bulletin of that city the following statistics of the increase this year, compared with last:

	Six Months, 1870.	Six Months, 1871.
China	lbs. 328,978	452,681
Total	lbs. 1,078,955	1,933,766

In the first six months of 1869, 1,096,000 lbs. was received, against 949,000 lbs. same time in 1868, and 761,000 lbs. in 1867. These amounts are exclusive of the quantities received in transit for Atlantic States, most of which lots come overland by rail direct from the wharf, though some are shipped by the Panama steamers. The quantity of Tea shipped to the East over the railroad for the first five months of the year aggregates 2,463,000 lbs. The returns for the month of June will swell the amount to 3,000,000 lbs., which, added to the imports on San Francisco account, makes a total of 5,000,000 lbs. received since January 1st.

COFFEE.—The current quotations for East India kinds are, Java Government bags, 18c. to 20c.; Java mats, 18c. to 22c.; Singapore, 16c. to 18c.; Manila, 14c. to 15c.; Native Ceylon, 15c. to 17c. Advances from Rio Janeiro to July 12 bring a confirmation of the probable short crop in Brazil, and the market has shown increased firmness, with a further advance, making one cent improvement from the lowest point of the season. Java is in large stock and dull in a wholesale way; the only sales of this and Singapore are in a jobbing way, at 18c. to 19c. for pale Java, 19c. to 19c. for medium brown, 20c. to 20c. for brown, and 22c. to 23c. for extreme brown; 16c. to 17c. for pale Singapore, and 18c. to 19c. for brown—all gold.

CORDAGE.—An advance of one cent per lb. in Manila Hemp has carried up the price of Manila Cordage three-quarters of a cent, and we now quote as follows:—Sizes above 12 thread, 19c. to 20c.; 6 thread and 9 thread (4 inch and 5-16 inch diam.), 20c. to 21c.; 12 thread (3 inch diam.), 19c. to 20c.; Manila Hay Rope, 19c. to 20c.; Manila Cordage, Bolt Rope Yarns, 21c. to 22c.; do., 6 thread and 9 thread, 22c. to 23c.; Tarred Manila, 18c. to 19c.; Fine Tarred Manila Lath Yarn, 20c. cash. There is an active demand at the above quoted prices.

CAMPOR.—China is quoted 19c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $2.10; Cassia, 80c. gold (in bond).

FIRE CRACKERS.—Market without alteration.

GUNNY CLOTH.—There is some inquiry, but the stock is held above buyers' views, and there is no business to report. We quote Borneo, 18c. to 18c. for present and future delivery.

HEMP.—Shortly after the date of our last report the quiet tone lately characterising the markets for Manila gave place to considerable activity and excitement; both manufacturers and speculators purchased largely, and in a few days sales were effected to the extent of 21,000 bales, including the following:—11,000 bales from store, 1,000 do. to arrive, per Nimrod, 2,500 do. to arrive by another vessel, the latter at 11c., 1,000 per Mindora, 500 do. per Bunker Hill, and subsequently 1,000 bales, a resale, in Boston, 12c., and to arrive 2,400 bales per S. G. Glover, and 600 per Nimrod, 11c. gold. The active movement, we understand, was largely, if not wholly, based on the fact that the consumption of the country for the first six months of 1871 exceeded by 35,000 bales the whole shipments of Manila to the United States for the same time. Since the large business reported above there has been quieter market, but extreme firmness has prevailed, and a further advance has been realised. Some of the sales have been made as high as 12c., and we quote 12c. gold, below which there is none to be obtained, the stock being reduced to 4,000 bales in first hands, and the market quite sensitive, so that no considerable parcels could be had even at this price, 13 being demanded by some holders. The late free purchases have, however, pretty fully supplied the wants of consumers, and there is at the close no inquiry of moment.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $8 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is 40c. to $1 currency (duty free).

RICE.—Carolina is very firm, with a small stock, and as advices to hand from the South indicates that there will not be enough left of the old crop to meet the wants of consumers till the new comes forward, the market has a hardening tendency for both Foreign and American produce. Rangoon has been quoted to the extent of 2,000 bags at $6.75 to 7.12 1/2 currency, and 1,600 bags in bond at about $2.25 gold.

SUGAR.—The market has been depressed, and a general decline of one-eighth of a cent per lb. has been submitted to. There is not much increase in the offerings, and holders generally continue firm, but the absence of demand weighs on the market, and prices have been carried down without much effort to maintain them. The only business in East India consists of the sale of 16,787 bags extra Manila at 9c.

SPICES.—Following our last report mail advices and cable despatches from Europe very favourable to holders of Nutmegs imparted a stimulus to an already sensitive market, and a large business was done, including 100 casks No. 1 Government, and about 100 cases Penang and Batavia to arrive, and embracing all that is offering on private terms, but at full prices, with resales of some 400 to 500 cases. Subsequently the market has become quiet, and with the falling off in demand the advancing tendency in prices before noted seems to be checked; while there is no quotable change in values, it is more difficult to obtain previous extreme rates than before, and the advantage is rather with the buyer. For trade lots there is a fair demand, and prices are firm at—for Mace, $1.50; Penang Nutmegs, $1; Cassia, 32c.; Pepper, 16c. to 17c.; Cloves, 11c.—all gold. The Argonaut, from Singapore, brings 3,620 bags Pepper and 298 boxes Nutmegs; the latter were sold previous to arrival, and the former since, on private terms.

TIN.—An active demand has been exhibited, and sales have been effected of 800 slabs Straits on a basis of 36c. and 300 slabs at 36c. to 36c. gold. At the close the market is quiet, no inquiry being manifested, but prices are firmly sustained, Straits being held at 36c. to 36c., and Banca at 40c. to 41c. gold.

PORT OF AMOY.

SHIPOWNERS, AGENTS, and COM-MANDERS are informed that the Dock Company's establishments at the above port afford every facility, at moderate charges, for REPAIRING and SPARRING VESSELS, cleaning and painting iron ships and steamers.

Their large Granite Dock has 286 feet length on the blocks, and at average spring tides can receive vessels of 16 to 17 feet draught. It has a caisson-gate and a powerful centrifugal steam pump, and an engineer's workshop fitted with lathes and tools, driven by steam; iron and brass foundries, boiler-makers' shop, a large smithy and carpenters and boat-builders' sheds. All superintended by resident Europeans.

Their two smaller GRANITE DOCKS can receive, at spring tides, vessels drawing 12 feet.

Spars, timber, and other Dockyard material kept in stock.

Quarters for officers and a DRY GODOWN for stores of vessels under repair.

ART, PICTORIAL AND INDUSTRIAL. An Illustrated Magazine.

THIS Publication was commenced on the 1st of July, in the belief that an ample field existed for a high class monthly magazine devoted to Art; and already the result has fulfilled this expectation. 'ART' is produced in a form eminently adapted to the drawing-room table. It is handsomely printed on fine paper, in super-royal quarto, and each Number contains four or more Full-page Helio-type Illustrations, being reproductions of Ancient and Modern Pictures, Engravings, Designs, Sculpture, and objects of Industrial or Decorative Art.

Among the contributors to 'ART' are Messrs. BLANCHARD JERROLD, CHARLES BURTON, J. CORDY JEAFFRESON, G. W. REID, HYDE CLARKE, GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA, W. R. RALSTON, JOHN FORBES ROBERTSON, HENRY BLACKBURN, G. W. YAPP, JOHN PIGGOT, Jun., E. OLLIER, &c., &c.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

BILIOUS AFFECTION.—In this country nothing is more common, and few ailments more distressing, than the class of diseases dependent on disordered liver. The sensation of nausea, headache, listlessness, and loss of app-tite will at once be recognised as the symptoms of liver affection, which can only be relieved by regulating the action of that organ. Holloway's Pills exercise over the biliary secretion a healthful influence known and appreciated throughout Great Britain and her colonies. These Pills cure, after everything else fails. Sufferers for years from biliousness, sick headache, and liver complaints, have been thoroughly restored by these Pills to sound health and a good digestion, who previously had no enjoyment in life.

THE MAILS.

Owing to the detention of the Messageries Maritimes steamer Tigre, in the Red Sea, by it is supposed a derangement of machinery, the French mail, due here on Monday last, will not be delivered until Friday next the 1st proximo. The following inward mail (P. and O.), with dates Shanghai, July 15, Hong Kong, July 21, Singapore, July 29 is due on the following day, the 2nd September, and advices by Pacific Mail, via San Francisco, from Yokohama, to the 22nd July—a telegraphic summary of which has already been received from New York—may be expected the same day.

THE KOREA.

ANOTHER ENGAGEMENT WITH THE AMERICANS.

By the Pacific Mail Company's steamer China, which arrived at San Francisco on the 13th inst., with dates from Yokohama to 22nd July, we have the following account of another engagement, which was telegraphed to the New York papers:—

"In the second battle between the American squadron and the Koreans the latter had 6,000 men, armed with gingals, and their bullets fell short, while the deadly fire of the American rifles told fearfully on the enemy. Under the cover of the rank vegetation and the shoulder of a hill the Americans advanced to within 120 yards of the forts before they came within range of the Korean musketry. The Koreans resisted desperately to the last. Lieut. McKee was killed as he entered the entrenchments. When the Americans reached the entrenchments the Koreans succumbed. A number of prisoners were taken, including the officer second in command, who was badly wounded, the Commander-in-Chief having been killed. The American force bivouacked in the forts, and next day demolished the forts and spiked all the guns.

"The fleet returned to the Boize anchorage two days later. The Koreans sent on board a letter filled with the most insulting and abusive language, to which no reply was made. Admiral Rodgers, however, sent to the Koreans to know what he should do with the prisoners. The Koreans answered he might do what he liked with them. Two days later he set them at liberty and sent two messages ashore, but the local authority refused to receive them, saying it was as much as his head was worth to send them, and it was no use to attempt to communicate further with the Court.

"Mr. Low, the American Minister, then sent a formal protest that his mission was peaceful, and that the American attack was not for a refusal to negotiate, but because the Koreans had treacherously fired on the boats.

"Their weapons are wretched old firelocks, and their cutlasses made of soft iron, which bent like old hoop. They were dressed in armour of nine thicknesses, cotton padded, so that only rifle balls could penetrate them. Their swords produced no effect. Documents captured showed that the Korean Government had planned the surprise of the American fleet, and were astonished at the failure of the forts to annihilate foreign vessels at the first fire.

"The expedition has accomplished no change in the relations of the two countries, and Minister Low and Admiral Rodgers will await instructions from Washington before proceeding to further hostilities.

"Twelve native Christians came alongside the Admiral's flagship in a junk, and begged to be taken to Shanghai, and that their junk might be burned, to prevent its falling into the hands of the native authorities, who would thereby discover from what village they came, and punish their relatives. The request was granted.

"Two Englishmen and one German, engaged in saving materials from the wreck of the German schooner Chusan, on Sir James Hall's Island, have been captured by Koreans, bound hand and foot, slung on bamboos and packed off to the interior of Korea. The British fleet has sailed from Japan to inquire into the matter.

COMMERCIAL POSTSCRIPT.

A special meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce will be held at Plymouth on the 26th and 27th proximo. Among the resolutions to be proposed is the following by the Bradford Chamber:—"That a memorial be presented to her Majesty's Government, calling their attention to the vast increase in our trade with China which would result from the opening up of the Yangtze River to steamers, and to the necessity of stipulations for this purpose being inserted in any future treaty or convention with China."

At a meeting of the Suez Canal Company, which has been held in Paris, the directors were authorised to raise a new loan of £20,000,000, for which the Viceroy of Egypt has accorded permission to increase the tolls by one franc per ton to provide for the interest and amortization. The question of a uniform system of measurement for vessels of all countries was raised, and the directors stated that a committee had been appointed to inquire into the subject, and propose some plan for equalising the tolls on the shipping of all nations. It was stated that the vessels which now adopt the Canal route represent a tonnage of 340,000 tons, which, multiplied by the number of voyages they make, represent annually 2,000,000 tons, and £20,000,000 of receipts. The company has received notice that between the months of September, 1871, and March, 1872, nineteen English Government transports will pass through the Canal, procuring a receipt of from £700,000 to £800,000. The English Admiralty has purchased 16,500 square metres of land of the company of Port Said, at the price of £40 per metre. The costs of navigation and of maintenance for the year had been estimated at £1,578,000 for the former and £1,700,000 for the latter. The expenditure during the first six months was within the estimates.

She was discharging her cargo and would go into dry dock; The Vanguard (str.), Ranton, from Shanghai to London, put into Malta, Aug. 18, to repair damage to machinery, and proceeded Aug. 22 for her destination.

NOTICES TO MARINERS.

Japan.—Inland Sea; Fixed Light on Awadji Island, North Point.—Information has been received from the Japanese Government that a light has been placed at Matsu-wo-no-hana, the north point of Awadji Island, Akasi Strait. The light is a fixed light of the first order, 158 feet above the sea, illuminating an arc from seaward between the bearings of West round southward to N.E. by E. $\frac{3}{4}$ E., and in clear weather can be seen from a distance of eighteen miles. The tower is built of stone, fifteen feet high; position, lat. 34 deg. 36 min. 40 sec. N., lon. 135 deg. 30 sec. E.

Gulf of Osaka.—Fixed Light on Wada Misaki, Hiogo.—A temporary light, until the completion of the permanent apparatus, has been placed on Wada Misaki, to the south-west of Kobe anchorage. The light is a fixed red light, 52 feet above the sea, and in clear weather can be seen from a distance of ten miles. The tower is an octagonal-shaped white wooden building, 46 feet high; position, lat. 34 deg. 39 min. 30 sec. N., long. 135 deg. 12 min. E. Also a temporary light, until the completion of the permanent apparatus, has been placed in Temposan Fort, at the mouth of the Agi Kawa; the light is a fixed light, 53 feet above the sea, and in clear weather can be seen from a distance of ten miles. The tower is a square-shaped white wooden building, 30 feet high; position, lat. 34 deg. 39 min. 45 sec. N., long. 135 deg. 26 min. 35 sec. E. All bearings are Magnetic Variation 4 deg. 15 min. THE MONT CENIS TUNNEL.

The total expenses of the Mont Cenis Tunnel amount to f.65,000,000; of these f.20,000,000 are to be contributed by the Victor Emmanuel Railway, or Railway of Northern Italy. This sum is to be paid on or before the opening of the tunnel. The French Government was to pay f.19,000,000 if the work was accomplished within twenty years, reckoning from 1862. But if the work was accomplished at an earlier date France bound herself to pay f.500,000 more for every year gained upon the stipulated time. As there have been eleven years thus gained, France will have to pay f.5,500,000 besides the f.20,000,000 of the original stipulation. She has, besides to pay 5 per cent. interest on the money due for the work as it proceeded from year to year. Thus the charge borne by Italy in this enterprise will be something less than f.20,000,000, an advantage fairly gained by her diligence in carrying on the work, a diligence stimulated by the very conditions of the contract. It must be observed that had the construction of the tunnel continued beyond the stipulated term of twenty years, it was Italy that would have lost f.500,000 for every year in excess of that period. There was a time in which the hard quartz, with which the excavators fell in on the side of Modane rendered it extremely difficult to foretell how long it might be before the tunnel could be terminated. Fortunately, the quartz stratum was only 380 metres thick, and no very serious resistance was met elsewhere. The masonry of the tunnel is excellent throughout. No inconvenience whatever from smoke, steam, or mephitic air is apprehended.

A French engineer, M. E. Legout, has written a letter to the Siecle in which he says that as the problem of cutting through high moun- tains has now been solved by the successful completion of this tunnel, there is nothing to prevent a railway being made from Paris to Pe- king. He estimates that the cost of the great tunnels would be only 220 millions of francs.

It having been finally arranged that the opening of the Mont Cenis Tunnel is to take place on the 18th of next month, great efforts are being made to give importance to the ceremony. In connection with the Fetes, there will be an Industrial Exhibition at Turin, which will re- main open until the 25th of September. King Victor Emmanuel will, it is expected, be present at the opening of the tunnel; and, according to the French papers, M. Thiers is also likely to be present.

THE RUSSO-CHINA STEAMSHIP LINE.—The Tchichatchoff steamer, belonging to the Russian Steam Navigation and Odessa Railway Com- pany, arrived at Odessa last week from her first voyage to China, bringing a cargo of 2,600 tons of tea. In order to celebrate this event, on the 20th inst. a grand dinner was given by Vice-Admiral Tchichatchoff, the director of the company, on board the steamer. The Admiral referred to the marked success which had attended the efforts of the company during the last few years, and the importance he attached to the Suez Canal as an easy route for them to India and China. He also humorously referred to the inveterate habit of tea- drinking among the Russian people, and the obligation which devolved upon them to supply the demand arising out of this practice in a manner as direct and cheap as possible. The company were very enthusiastic at the success of their undertaking, and believe have some reason to expect important trade in connection with this newly- established line.

It is a noticeable fact that the first public appearance at home of Sir Harry Parkes, our Minister in Japan, should have been made at a meeting, convened under the auspices of the Glasgow Working Men's Sabbath Protection Association, when a congratulatory address was presented to Lord Shaftesbury.

A TELEGRAM has been received announcing the arrival at Penang of the small screw-steamer Deli, in fifty-four days from London, includ- ing all stoppages. This is an excellent passage for so tiny a craft, and great credit is due both to her builders and navigator.

THE Rev. Joseph Henry Maclean, late of Matale, Ceylon, has been appointed assistant chaplain to the Chapel Royal in the Savoy.

HAMBURG, Aug. 22.

According to a letter from Berlin in the Magdeburg Zeitung there is a favourable chance of finding purchasers in the Far East for a con- siderable part of the muskets, ammunition, accoutrements, pieces of ord- nance, and other materials of war captured from the French in the late campaign. It is even asserted that a contract has been signed for the delivery of 80,000 needle-guns, chassepots, and other breechloaders to the Government of Japan. An idea may be formed of the immense quantity of superfluous war materials in the Prussian and other German arsenals from the fact that at Berlin alone there are stored no less than 560,000 chassepot guns captured in the late war, of which above 200,000 were found in the arsenals of Strasburg and Metz that were quite new and had never been used, neatly packed in cases of twenty- five each, just as they had been received from the manufacturers. Add to this number the 120,000 stand of arms partly captured from the Austrian and South German Contingents in the war of 1866, and partly found in the arsenals at Stade, Hanover, Cassel, Dresden, and Prague, when those places were conquered by Prussia in the same year. There is not sufficient available space at Berlin for placing all these trophies under shelter from the weather, and thus it happens that a large park of artillery, consisting of fifteen hundred French field-pieces and mitrailleuses, are drawn up on the artillery exercising ground out- side the city. Including the heavy siege guns and those of lighter calibre, captured at the Damevirke, the redoubts at Duppel, and at Alsen and elsewhere, during the Danish war in 1864, the total number of pieces of ordnance taken from the enemy during those three short but decisive conflicts is estimated to be more than seven thousand; and —wonderful to relate—not a single one was taken by the enemy. As the general principle of having one single pattern of gun for the artillery and one for the infantry of the whole of the German army has been laid down and will be strictly adhered to, it follows that all this treasure of arms are of no real use in their present state, though it is not im- probable that the alteration of the chassepot to the new needle-gun of the Werder pattern may be effected with satisfactory results and at a cheap rate.

A letter has been received here from one of the passengers per Ham- burg steamer Sedan, from this port to China, via Suez Canal, who writes that the hatred and malice of the French towards everything German are flourishing in the East to an incredible extent. On their arrival at Port Said not a single Frenchman could be induced to come on board, and the seven pilots first on the list for duty, being all French, flatly refused to pilot the steamer through the Canal. The eighth on the list was a Greek, and he was engaged. The principal cause of their irritation was the name "Sedan," to which was superadded the, to them, significant fact that the eagles over the rams on both bows had lost their heads, one of them being carried away by a heavy sea in the Bay of Biscay, and for the sake of symmetrical appearance the captain had the other removed by the ship's carpenter. The French took this as an unjustifiable impertinence and persiflage, as much as to suggest that it was at Sedan that the empire lost its head. The Greek pilot stated that their arrival was telegraphed all the way down to Suez with the words, "Vapour Sedan, deux aigles, les têtes coupées."

A considerable batch of German Consuls has been appointed by the Emperor at ports in the Far East; many of them having served hitherto in the same capacity for the North German Confederation are now raised to the dignity of Consuls for the Empire of Germany. Among the list I find the following names:—Mr. G. Bircher, at Aden; Friedrich Gerlach, at Akyab; August Carl Gumpert, at Bombay; Johann Schmidt, at Calcutta; F. W. Abel, at Cocanada; Adolph Theodor Eimbecke, at Hong Kong; F. M. Cartwright, at Madras; H. Hollemann, at Mouleim; Alfred Hasche, at Penang; John Louis Vanderspar, at Point de Galle; B. A. Dieckmann, at Rangoon, and Saul Solomon, at St. Helena.

The annual statistical returns of the trade and navigation of this port for 1870, compiled by the Board of Trade here, have just been published, and show that the falling off in the value of the imports was nearly sixty millions of marks banco—the exact figures being 369,030, 970 M. B. in 1870 against 427,863,770 M. B. in 1869. The falling off in the weight is comparatively not so great, the imports of last year amounting to 62,877,650 centners of 50 kilo. each, against 57,525,301 do. in 1869. In shipping the falling off is not so large as might have been expected from the blockade of the Elbe and the interruptions caused by the war, for though 1,000 fewer vessels of all descriptions arrived yet as their tonnage was generally larger, the falling-off was not more than 142,000 lasts, or 282,000 tons; the figures being 4,144 vessels, of 926,526 lasts, and crews of 56,141 men in 1870, against 5,192 vessels, 1,069,208 lasts, and 68,362 men in 1869. In the vessels that sailed from this port the falling-off is in nearly the same proportion.

The number of vessels that arrived from the Far East last year was as follows:—

COMMERCIAL.

The Tea market is firm, and sales are effected for local consumption and the interior of Germany. Among the transactions reported were 1,000 chests of Congou, ex warehouse, and 358 do. of the finest Onia Congou, per Ulysses, for delivery on arrival. In cleaned Rice a fair amount of business has been done at previous prices. No sales of rough Grain reported. Cassia Lignea in great request, and higher, 11½ and 11¼ sch. bco. having been paid. Flores firm, at 15½ paid. Pepper in favour, several parcels of Singapore having changed hands at 6¼ sch. bco.; of Penang there is none in the market. Holders of Spelter find they have been asking too high prices, and reduced their demands to 11½ marks bco., at which figure 2,000 centners were taken.

ROTTERDAM, Aug. 23.

The reorganisation of the present system of taxation has been for several years the question brûlante in Java, and the new Governor-General, Mr. Loudon, seems inclined to solve it. In a few days the Staats Courant will publish a Royal decree, by which Mr. P. H. B. Motké, Inspector of the Department of Finance, will be appointed to start with Mr. Loudon to Java to prepare for the introduction of a new system. It is said that Mr. Motké, a functionary of great ability, after having inspected all parts of Java, will lay his plans before the Government. I fervently hope that this measure will have the wished for result. It proves so far that Mr. Loudon is convinced that some reorganisation is necessary.

The commission charged with the examination of the construction of railways in Java has finished its difficult duty, and the report is ready to be printed. This commission, composed of persons interested in trade and the management of railways, has decided with unanimity that it is necessary to construct the lines Banjoemaas-Djoecarta, and to construct a branch from the Samarang-Djoecarta line to Sourabaya and Passarocang.

The remains of eight officers, who died about forty years ago during the defence of the Citadel of Antwerp, and who were buried there, have been transported with much ceremony to Holland, and are to be buried at het Ginniken. A flotilla of five men-of-war—the Tyger, Buffel, Valk, Krokodil, and Schorpioen—started to Antwerp, where our officers were received most cordially by the Belgian military authorities. After many speeches and military salutes the remains were taken on board, and our men-of-war returned to the Moerdyk, from whence the coffins were transported by rail to Breda. The more than friendly behaviour of the Belgian Government in this matter is regarded as having some political significance. At all events it is proved that the relations between these small countries are cordial. The speech delivered on the occasion by the Earl van Limburg Stirum has excited much remark, and I give the principal and most significant passage:—"We were united at Quatre Bras and Waterloo. Let us aspire again to an alliance between these two peoples, and let us hope that whenever we should be involved in a war, the fine Belgian army will fight in union with Dutch soldiers." I need not add that this phrase was enormously applauded by our Antwerp friends, who, contrary to the prevailing opinion in Holland, have much sympathy for a federative league between Holland and Belgium.

In a few days the African Trading Society, established in this town, will issue a prospectus for a loan of £2,500,000, by which its capital will be doubled. This company has done an excellent business on the (English) west coast of Africa, and no doubt the money will be forthcoming. It is curious that this occurs just after the endeavours of our Government to transfer our African settlements to England.

I regret to record the death of Professor G. E. Voorhelm Schneevooft. He was born in 1814, and died at his seat, Heyenoord, near Arnhem.

His Majesty has appointed Mr. T. H. der Kinderen, Director of the Department of Justice in Netherlands-India, President of the High Court of Netherlands-India.

The Bourse is as dull as our politics. There is plenty of capital, but no means for its employment.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

Beyond the August coffee sale of the Netherlands Trading Company, last Wednesday, which was attended with a good result, there has been upon the whole but little stirring in our market for Colonial produce, and buyers evidently confine their operations to the requirements for pressing wants. Prices remain for the most part unaltered.

COFFEE.—The favourable anticipations entertained of the result of the August sale of the Netherlands Trading Company have been fully realised. The whole of the 125,000 bags put up met ready buyers at an advance of 1 to 1½c. over the brokers' valuations. Good ord. Java sold at 36 to 36½c., and samples of defective taste at 34½ to 35½c. A firm tone continues to prevail, but holders keep back, which checks business. Sales have been closed by private treaty of 988 bags Java, ex Nyverheid, 150 do., ex Top Gallant, 2,896 bags do., ex Henriette Adriana.

SUGAR.—A quiet tone continues to pervade the market. Sales have been closed on secret terms of 1,256 baskets Java ex Assens, stored, partly for export, and 1,231 Java, ex Triton.

TEA continues to exhibit a firm appearance, but transactions are on a limited scale.

INDIGO quiet; only small lots Java of fine quality change hands. Several parcels came to hand recently by sundry vessels, together about 500 chests, which will soon make their appearance in the market.

COTTON.—The week opened upon a quiet market, but more demand sprang up, and towards the close increasing buoyancy has prevailed, and prices have advanced ¼c. to 1c. both for spot, afloat, and for forward delivery.

HIDES continue to meet ready buyers. The business done since my last has, however, been confined to the sale of parcels, ex Levant, Samarang, and Nation's Hope.

KAPOK.—150 bales uncleaned were sold by public auction at 30½c. to 31½c., averaging fully 32c.

TIN.—A quiet tone continues to prevail for this article, and prices rule in favour of buyers. Banca sold at £80 for usual prompt, and Billiton at £78½.

RATTANS.—A shipment of 80 piculs, ex County of Argyll, changed hands at a price not named.

RICE remains very dull, and prices are barely supported.

SPICES.—A steady demand continues to prevail for Nutmegs in the face of the coming public sale, and prices are firmly supported. Mace and Cloves without anything doing. Black Pepper is held for 33c.; a small shipment of 45 bags White do., ex Top Gallant, changed hands on secret terms. According to the descriptive particulars of the Spices to be put up at the Trading Company's annual sale, to be held at Amsterdam on the 30th inst., the valuation in bond of the Nutmegs are of 105c. to 185c.; of the 529 casks of Mace, 255c.; and of the 174 casks Cloves, No. 3, 27c.

TOBACCO (JAVA).—The business in our market embraces since my last small parcels ex Julie, afloat per County of Elgin and per County of Bate. The market is very dull.

CEYLON COCOA-NUT OIL has sold at £26½. Prime Cochin is wanting.

ARRACK.—The following parcels were put up here for sale by secret tender, but the same have not been adjudged, viz., 100 casks Sourabaya ex Gladstone, and 30 casks Passarocang ex Top Gallant.

CHEAP TEA.

(To the Editor of the Daily News.)

SIR,—I take the liberty of asking for a place in your columns upon a matter of serious public interest, relying upon your own judgment, after perusal of my letter, to decide whether it is worthy of the attention which I solicit. My subject is not a popular one. It relates not to politics, nor any of the great questions of the day; but it is one in which all classes are interested, and which, on that account, demands the attention and interference of the press, that rectifier of all wrongs, and radical reformer of all abuses. I have been connected in a variety of ways with the tea trade for forty years; have seen it, therefore, in all its phases and aspects during that lengthened period. When the East India Company alone imported it, I was a member of the trade. When the first shipments of private merchants came into the market, I was there. Since that period I have spent several years in China, and have never been absent from the trade for a single season. Few men, therefore, can boast of a larger experience. From various causes the quality of tea has undergone great changes during the time in which I have been connected with the trade. Latterly, however, the change for the worse has been marked to a degree. When I was in China there were but two ports open to foreigners, viz., Canton and Shanghai. Sometimes even then the growth of one season would be superior to that of another, but there was no general decline of quality. If 1849-50 was not so good as the preceding year, the succeeding season would be better, and so on—as in wheat, hops, or any other article grown in this country. When, however, the ports of Foochow and Hankow were opened, a general change for the worse was soon perceptible, and a gradual decline from year to year. Occasionally a better crop would come, but never one approaching to those of former times when only the two ports—which were further removed from the plantations in which the teas are grown—were open to foreign merchants. The reasons assigned for this falling off have never been thoroughly satisfactory. Some have attributed it to hurried preparation, with the view to get the teas early to the London and other markets; others, to the increased demand consequent upon our rapid reduction of duty, and the opening by Russia of her markets, which were previously closed by excessive duties and prohibitions; and others, again, have thought that the great Chinese rebellion destroyed many plantations, or so injured them that the quality could never afterwards be obtained. These opinions, however, it is not my object at present to deal with. Another matter, more serious than any of these, has this year cropped up in a form so decided as to require energetic notice from the press and serious action on the part of all lovers of fine tea. What I allude to is this, viz.: All the choice chops of Congou brought to the Hankow market this season had been bought for the Russian market and shipped direct to Odessa, without coming to London at all. Not a single chop of the finest grade of first crop tea has been seen in England (nor will be) of the growth of 1871 and 1872. You may say, what have we to do with that? How can we help it, and what business is it of ours? I will endeavour to answer those questions, and in doing so to show you why I ask for your assistance. I need not tell you, sir, how universal the cry is, We can get no good tea! Though willing to pay any reasonable price for it we find it impossible to get it. And it is perfectly true. For a long time past the chief portion of the finest chops have been bought in this market for Russia, and shipped from London to that country; but our retailers always get some little of it. This year they cannot get it at all unless they send to Russia for it, which would be rather too costly a process. So John Bull must fain be satisfied with the commoner grades, and allow the Russ to gloat over what used to be one of the boasts (and pride) of his breakfast table. What has led to this, and what can be done to alter it? The puffing and professed cheap selling of the retail grocer and tea dealer has brought it about and nothing else. For many years past there has been a rage throughout the kingdom for reduced prices. Every tea seller has professed to sell cheaper than any other tea seller, the British public has listened with a greedy ear, and taking the tea seller at his word, has gradually reduced his price, until the general retail price has fallen below the actual cost of superior qualities on the China market, many a retailer professing to sell the finest tea at 2s. 6d. or 3s. per lb., when really fine tea costs that money to the importer, and the Russians are willing to pay it rather than take inferior quality. Now, sir, you will see the remedy, and I think the press should help to bring it about. The retail price of tea is too low. There is no truth in the statement put forth so generally that really fine tea is sold retail at 2s. 6d., or even 3s. per lb. It is simply impossible that it can be done, and if the public continues to believe it and to patronise those shops that profess to do it, we must bid farewell for ever to that delicious thing, a cup of choice tea. The Russians will continue to outbid us, and all the fine Congou will go away, as nearly all the choice greens have done, to America, for the same reason, viz., because they will pay a higher price. If the press would go heartily into this matter, sift my statements through and through, and persuade the public to insist on paying a higher price and having a really fine article, they would confer a greater benefit upon the people than household suffrage, or vote by ballot can ever procure for them. Until the retail price rises to 4s. per lb. instead of 2s. 6d., which is now the ordinary figure, you will never again get fine tea to Great Britain, for the Russians know it, and appreciate it too well and too much to part with it, now they have once got possession.—I am, sir, yours, obediently,
A LOVER OF FINE TEA.

BREAKFAST.—EPPE'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Eppe has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills."—Civil Service Gazette. THE AMERICANS IN KOREA.

(THE TIMES.)

In one of the remotest regions of the world, between the Yellow Sea and the Sea of Japan, there lies a country at present almost unknown, but which a few months may perhaps suffice to bring within the sphere of international intercourse and modern civilisation. The new story of the Americans in Korea so exactly resembles a chapter of our own experience that we can appreciate every incident of the narrative; and, indeed, our correspondent at Shanghai ventured, with a confidence which events have justified, to predict the course and issue of the expedition while affairs were still pending. An ordinary map of Asia will show the reader the position of the peninsula in which the scene is laid, and, unless the discoveries of the French five years ago have been embodied in the latest charts, we know not where any more special information is to be found. Such details, however, are not indispensable. For the immediate purpose it is sufficient to observe that the Koreans—the inhabitants of the country in question—had given offence to the Americans by the destruction of an American vessel and the massacre of her crew, and that it was resolved to despatch an expedition to impress on them the obligation of succouring the shipwrecked, and to establish, if possible, some better communication with the people and their Government. It is, however, a significant feature of the story that its point of departure should be in Japan. That country, but a few years since a mystery to the world, now serves as a base of operations for fresh adventure, and the American flotilla sailed, as an English squadron might have done, from a Japanese port to the scene of action.

We enjoy on the present occasion one singular advantage. We know precisely what the Koreans thought of the invasion, what policy they determined to pursue, and on what grounds this policy was adopted. No sooner did the expedition arrive at the mouth of the River Kanghwa than a Government vessel came off to the flagship, and the officials on board, without waiting for any communication from the Americans, presented them with a formal despatch. This document, for a copy of which we are indebted to the activity of our Shanghai Correspondent, is so comprehensive as well as important, that we subjoin it entire:—"In the year 1868 a man of your nation, whose name was Febizer, came here and communicated with us and went away. Why cannot you do the same? In the year 1866 a people called the French came here, and we refer you to them for what happened. This people and kingdom have lived in the enjoyment of their own civilisation four thousand years, and we want no other. We trouble no other nations; why should they trouble us? Our country is in the farthest East, yours in the farthest West; for what purpose do you come so many thousand miles across the sea? Is it to inquire about the vessel destroyed? Her men committed piracy and murder, and they were punished with death. Do you want our land? That cannot be. Do you want intercourse with us? That cannot be."

The men who drew up this note were no savages. They anticipated, and correctly anticipated, all the demands of their visitors. They meant to refuse these demands, and they spoke their mind; nor would it be very easy to put their case in a more specious form. They obviously felt that an account was due of the shipwrecked vessel and her murdered crew, and they allege, therefore, that the treatment was deserved. They reject beforehand all overtures towards commercial or social intercourse, and claim to be let alone, to live, as they have contentedly lived, "for four thousand years." What are they to the Americans, or the Americans to them? Let the expedition depart, as other expeditions had departed—the French in 1866, and the Americans themselves two years afterwards. There could be no objection to following a course for which such precedents were at hand. Little more, we think, is needed for the comprehension of the whole story. This despatch tells the tale for both sides. The Americans desired to obtain redress for the destruction of their vessel, or, at least, to prevent such catastrophes in future by establishing the title of foreign mariners to safety and succour. For this purpose they intended to visit the Korean capital, and so produce an effect upon the Government; while the Koreans, on their side, were resolved that no such visit should ever be allowed. Accordingly they evaded the charge of murder, refused further communication, and in the meantime, as events proved, prepared themselves for resisting force by force.

On the 1st of June the expedition proceeded up the river. It was intended to be amicable if circumstances should permit, but it was well equipped for the chances of war, and the precaution was justified. The vessels—four steam launches and two corvettes—advanced for some miles without interruption, until they came to a point where the stream narrowed considerably, and where batteries had been erected with some skill to command the river. The instant the boats reached this point the Koreans opened fire, and maintained for some minutes a cannonade so hot that men who had gone through the battles of the Civil War were astonished at its intensity. Happily for the Americans, however, either the guns or the practice were so bad that the iron storm did very little damage; the launches with their 12-pounders made a most effective reply, and the corvettes, presently coming up, with their heavy ordnance, finished the whole work in less than a quarter of an hour. The Koreans could not withstand the shells pitched into their batteries, and they left their works and fled, though to no great distance. Two men only were hurt on the side of the Americans, but the vessels had received some injuries, and, as it had now become evident that war, and not peace, must be expected, the flotilla dropped down again with the tide to the river's mouth. The Americans, however, were naturally indisposed to desist from their designs at this stage. The Koreans had fired upon the United States flag, and had done their best to destroy American ships feeling their way to the capital, on a peaceful expedition. After an interval, therefore, of ten days had been allowed to the Koreans for apology or explanation, another and a stronger force was despatched, with orders to destroy the forts which had fired upon the squadron. These instructions were punctually executed. The American artillery again carried everything before it, and, after a contest in which, although the Koreans evinced much spirit, the Americans suffered little loss, the forts were captured, and the second expedition returned like the first.

But now occurs the question, what is to be done, or to what end are things tending? The Americans having experienced an affront have chastised the offenders, and so far as the immediate point of honour is concerned may well be content. They have made, however, no progress towards the original object of the expedition. They have not advanced to the Korean capital; they have opened no communications with its Government; and, if the matter is dropped at its present stage, the lives of sailors shipwrecked on the Korean coast will certainly be no safer than before. The Koreans will consider themselves, and not entirely without reason, as successful in the contest. Without heeding the capture of the forts or the defeat of their soldiers, they will remember only that an expedition which attempted to reach their capital never did reach it, and that they were left in undisturbed enjoyment of the isolation for which they contended. Nor is it in the least anticipated that they would be found more conceding on a fresh application. On the contrary, information has been received that an army of 30,000 men is assembled between the coast and the capital, prepared to encounter any invading force. Of the Koreans themselves, we are told that they are men of good stature, well trained, and, after their fashion, well equipped. That they are not deficient in courage these affairs have shown, and, though they can never offer an effectual resistance to an American Army, the United States' commander must receive both reinforcements and authority before he can renew the attack. Of course our countrymen in those parts are unanimous in thinking the attack must be renewed. They consider, indeed, it is only fair that the Americans should take their share in the inevitable work of subjugating the East, and would look with alarm on any policy which left refractory natives triumphant or unsubdued. Such reflections, we admit, arise naturally from their position; it remains only to be seen what view of the case may be taken at Washington.

THE LOSS OF THE "MEGÆRA."

Sir James Elphinstone has addressed a letter to The Times with reference to the loss of the Megæra, which recapitulates the conditions under which the vessel was despatched from England, and shows the strong grounds which existed for the remonstrances that were forwarded to the Admiralty at the time. We subjoin the principal statements made in the letter:—

In the early part of the year the Megæra was selected to carry thirty-three officers and 320 men, being the officers and crews of two sloops, which by the present practice were to be relieved on the Australian station, instead of being brought home for that purpose. There were two routes by which this service could be performed—the direct and safe course (seeing the ship only drew 17ft.) being by the Suez Canal, when she would have availed herself of the south-east trade after crossing the Line, and would certainly have carried fine weather as far as the supposed position of the Tryal Rocks, if not the whole way to Cape Leewin. The alternative route by the Cape of Good Hope would oblige the ship to run down 9,000 miles of easting in high Southern latitudes in the depth of winter, heavy gales of wind, accompanied by great seas, rain, and sleet, being the normal condition of the weather. The distance by the former route is, in round numbers, say, 10,000 miles; by the latter not less than 15,000. Why was the longest and more stormy passage selected? Sir John Hay said it was from motives of economy. This Mr. Goschen indignantly denied; but Mr. Gladstone, who came to the aid of his lieutenant, told the House that "a considerable portion of her stores were to be left at the Cape." Was it for the saving of freight on some 120 tons of stores to the Cape that this old ship was sent 5,000 miles out of her way at the risk of the comfort and convenience, if not the lives of 400 souls? If it was not economy, it was absurdity.

Now let us see what was the condition of the Megæra. She was built in 1846, before the construction of iron ships was so well understood as it is at present. It is not denied that as long ago as 1866 she was placed at the bottom of the list of store, not troop, ships, and was reported to be fit for only eighteen months or two years' service, if "repaired." Mr. Goschen, quoting from a report, said, "She may remain fit for service eighteen months or two years longer when repaired." It does not appear that she was ever thoroughly repaired. But Mr. Gladstone produced a report, dated July 30, 1866, which stated that the thinnest plates in the Megæra's bottom were three-eighths of an inch. "But the plates between wind and water, all round the vessel, to about twenty feet from the stern, from the wall down to the first lap, about eight feet in breadth in midships, and about five feet in breadth forward and aft, are very thin." Let any of your readers take a foot rule and lay off three-eighths of an inch on his thumbnail, and he will see the thickness of some of the Megæra's bottom plates in 1866. Mr. Gladstone seemed to think he had made a point when he showed that her bottom was not the worst of her. Well, this old ship was selected for service, and early this year she left Chatham with her cargo ill-stowed, and arrived at Plymouth in a miserable state. Instead of ordering her to be unstowed, her cargo re-stowed, and a critical examination instituted into her fitness to perform the duty which was to devolve upon her, she was sent to sea at a stormy season of the year, with her decks lumbered and her berths overcrowded. She next makes her appearance at Cork, with her outer bobstay gone, her ports leaking, her water-way seams open, her decks flooded, and her passengers' effects and bedding sacked with water. This is the condition the First Lord describes as one of "some discomfort." I should term it one of considerable danger, and, seeing what the ship had before her, one for the gravest anxiety.

Questions were asked in the House of Commons, and most flippant answers returned, though subsequent events show what good ground for inquiry there was, and how correct both Mr. Kavanagh and Mr. Walpole were in their queries and statements. Nevertheless, the ship was sent to sea, and we next hear of her stranded in a sinking state on a desolate island in the Southern Ocean.

In about eighteen months three ships have been lost by default of the Admiralty,—the Slaney, the Captain, and the Megæra. The first was driven ashore and wrecked on the Paracels in the China Sea, from sheer weakness of steam power; the second I will not here allude to—we have not done with her; the third is another perfect specimen of the result of Mr. Childers's reformed administration of naval affairs, and it is a remarkable feature in the discussion that the late Secretary to the Admiralty did not appear to explain the reasons why the Megæra was selected for the service she was sent on; Mr. Goschen alone can tell why she was not recalled from Ireland when she showed so plainly her unfitness for the work.

We are promised an inquiry when the crew of the Megæra are rescued from their present situation; it is a matter of course that such an inquiry should be made, but who is to inquire into the shortcomings of the Government! That will be the duty of another tribunal, and will not form a pleasant introduction to the Session of 1872.

I believe the loss of the last two ships, at all events, is due to gross mismanagement and to the confusion which has reigned supreme ever since Mr. Corry left the office.

A PERILOUS VOYAGE.

We have received an account of the arrival at Aden of the screw steamer Vixen under somewhat exceptional circumstances. She is a screw steamer of 1,081 tons register, plying between Calcutta and London, via the Suez Canal, with cargo and passengers. She left Madras on the evening of the 15th of May. Her speed was unusually slow, seldom exceeding 7½ knots an hour, and the day's run did not average more than 170 miles. On the 2nd of June the discovery was made that the vessel was completely out of coal. At first sight it would seem that the circumstances were not very grave. The ship was within 200 miles of her destination; she was in the track of all the vessels plying up and down the Red Sea; and she had masts and sails at her disposal, being rigged as a brig, with two fore-and-aft sails, and a set of square sails on the foremast. But the vessel was a very bad sailer, being barely able to go within seven points of the wind; the wind was, in this case, less than six points off the course to Aden; the screw was found to be stiff, and would not turn with the water, when the vessel was propelled by the sails; and as a consequence of all this, more lee way was being made than movement in advance.

Under these circumstances it was resolved to make for the coast of Arabia and anchor there; and in the meantime to try and establish communication with Aden. In the first place, however, every endeavour was made to lessen the distance by making the most of the fuel left on board. Everything in the shape of wood was cut up and thrown into the furnaces. On the afternoon of the 4th the distance between the ship and Aden had been reduced to about forty-five miles, but all the fuel had been expended, and the distance of the shore on the lee bow was not less than fifty miles; and the ship was a long distance now from the track of other vessels. At this stage matters were becoming so urgent that the captain fitted up a boat to sail to Aden. The chief officer took charge of this with a crew of ten men and one volunteer from the second-class passengers. On the 6th the vessel came to an anchor near the shore, at a distance, as then ascertained, of about 165 miles from Aden, the motion of the ship having been retrograde as regarded her destination. On the morning of the 7th a small expedition was organised for reconnoitring the shore, with a view, if possible, to obtaining water, or at least firewood. The captain and one or two passengers went ashore with two boats' crews. About every other man had a rifle, or a revolver, and they might be said, when viewed as a body, to be fairly armed. The party had not advanced more than a quarter of a mile from the shore when a number of Arabs appeared from behind the bushes. As the Arabs refused to sell water or give any other assistance the party drew off, and, while keeping well together, managed to cut down a little firewood, and carry it to the boats. A diversion had already taken place at the boats, a group of about fifty armed Arabs having suddenly come down upon them in a threatening manner. The men in charge of the boats immediately pushed off from the land, and waited in that manner till the party had rejoined them, when everybody re-embarked without further molestation. The manner of the natives was towards the last so conciliatory that many of the party really believed them to be friendly. This feeling was carried so far that the ship's doctor, Mr. Mathews, suddenly announced his intention of walking along the coast to Aden. His enthusiasm was caught by another European, the second steward of the ship, and by two of the seamen. The captain gave his consent, and these four started at once, on their walk of 165 miles along the burning sand, with nothing to eat and drink but a few biscuits and a bottle of water each, and with no arms on them but one rifle and three small revolvers.

Next day a small sail appeared in sight, the first that had been seen since the ship's troubles began. Signals were made and a boat was sent to intercept the vessel in her course. The latter measure succeeded, and the Arab in charge of the craft came to a parley, from which it was ascertained that the chief officer with his crew had been seen safe in Aden.

On the same day the white sail of a large Arab "dhow" was seen bearing down on the unfortunate steamer. The enthusiastic welcome of the chief officer, the rapid transfer of twenty tons of coal-bags to the hold of the ship, the huzzas of the whole ship's company as the first stream of smoke was noticed stealing out of the funnel, are not difficult to conceive! One or two on board, who were behind the scenes, knew that a real danger had been avoided. For news had just been brought from the walking party, who had got into the hands of a friendly Sultan, narrating their own experiences, and warning the ship's company not to go on shore a second time, as the Hill Arabs had formed a plan for overpowering them and taking possession of the ship. If any doubt had been entertained as to the truth of the warning sent by the Sultan it would have been dispelled by the appearance of the shore. For whereas during the whole day not a trace of any living being had been visible there, immediately the smoke appeared from the funnel of the vessel thousands of Arabs were seen to throng the coast. The Vixen steamed into Aden on the 10th of June, and there the story ends.

THE SINGAPORE JUDGESHIP SCANDAL.

A FRENCH wit has told us that there are three ways of getting out of a scrape. The first is to make such an excuse as will cause our mistake to be overlooked, but this is an inferior branch of the art. Far higher is the second method, which teaches us how to make capital out of our blunders, and absolutely to stand better with the world, after we have confessed them, than before they were perpetrated. It requires genius to do this, and, moreover, there is always a certain risk of the person who rashly attempts it involving himself in a greater trouble by extricating himself from the less—stepping out of a puddle into a morass. The part which the COLONIAL SECRETARY and the ATTORNEY-GENERAL took in the debate at the Legislative Council of Singapore on the late legal scandal there forcibly reminds us of the risks incurred by those adventurous spirits who, when they have got into scrapes, elect to stand or fall between the second and third of the alternatives of the Frenchman. It seems to us that both gentlemen offered a very unsatisfactory, though tiresomely lengthy excuse for their part in the supersession of Mr. OWEN; but this is not a matter of so much moment as it might otherwise have been, since the matter in dispute has been referred to the Colonial Office at home, and will be brought before Parliament at the commencement of next session. The ATTORNEY-GENERAL of the Straits Settlements may perhaps "be surprised" to learn that the course pursued towards Mr. OWEN has excited as much indignation among influential legal authorities in London as it seems to have caused in the bar of Singapore. But this, as we have already said, is beside the main question. There can be little doubt that the insult offered to Mr. OWEN will be made amends for in due time. Meanwhile, perhaps, the perusal of an odd number or two of the legal journals of London might afford the ATTORNEY-GENERAL some useful information—if his time is not so fully occupied that he has no leisure to devote to the forms and etiquette of his profession, as we fear, from his speech in Council, must have been the case. We shall probably deal in a future issue with the statements of the COLONIAL SECRETARY (of the Straits) on this unfortunate subject. To-day we have only space to indicate the extraordinary state of bewilderment in which his brother CURTIUS—the ATTORNEY-GENERAL—leaped into the senatorial gulf and stopped its yawning by, what we think he must consider now, an act of personal sacrifice not repaid by its result. It never fell to our lot to read any speech in which confessions of ignorance were made in such rapid succession as by the ATTORNEY-GENERAL. Such phrases as "I was not at the Court, and did not know, &c.;" "I was very busy" at the time, and did not take much notice, &c.;" "to this moment I know nothing about this case &c.," crop up with very suggestive frequency in the course of the hon. gentleman's address, though the pith and gist of his speech seems to have been entirely unperceived by himself. DOUGLAS JERROLD never made one of his personages say anything more severe of themselves than the ATTORNEY-GENERAL did, when, after explaining the monstrous injustice of referring all causes exceeding $50 to the Supreme Court, he said "it was matter of surprise that a Legislative Council had been in existence in Singapore for more than four years, without any means having been adopted for "altering the system." Cool people at home, who are not "so very busy at the time that they don't take notice," will probably ask whose duty it was to bring an Ordinance before Council to remedy this state of things. Such persons will entirely fail to perceive any justification of the personal slight, which was unquestionably passed on Mr. OWEN, in the explanation of a vicious system which the ATTORNEY-GENERAL was generally expected to reform. In a very few days the arrival of Sir WILLIAM HACKETT would have superseded Mr. OWEN's acting appointment. The Straits Government, however, could not resist the opportunity of resenting the Acting Judge's independent conduct with regard to a "particular case," which the COLONIAL SECRETARY says he "unfortunately alluded to" in a "private note." We repeat that we believe that if Sir WILLIAM HACKETT were called upon to take the course suggested to Mr. OWEN, he would refuse to do so; and we say that an "Acting Judge," for the period in which he acts is entitled to all the authority and consideration due to a confirmed servant of the State. The public and the profession in this country are of opinion that this consideration was not extended to Mr. OWEN, and that his authority was withdrawn contrary to all legal usage; and it will take much more straightforward language than the lame apologies of the COLONIAL SECRETARY and the ATTORNEY-GENERAL of the Straits to put their conduct in this matter in a favourable light.

THE SITUATION IN THE KOREA.

THE accounts from Korea, as well as Admiral RODGERS's general order on the occasion of the recent engagement, point conclusively to the necessity of carrying forward the expedition till some more tangible object is gained than the Koreans seem prepared at present to grant. Whether the expedition was wisely undertaken, and whether it was sensibly conducted, is beside the question. The prestige of foreigners in Korea (to say nothing of China and Japan) will suffer severely if affairs are allowed to remain as they stand now. The French expedition, some half-dozen years ago, exercised a very prejudicial effect, because it was not followed up; and the present American action will certainly tend still further to weaken the apprehensions of the Koreans with regard to foreigners, unless they are made to regard them, not as cropping up from time to time in the character of fitful foes, but as determined under reasonable conditions to secure themselves a permanent position as trustworthy allies. The Koreans have certainly been shown that they are no match for the Americans; but the Americans by the engagement on Kang Hoa Island have acquired no locus standi in the Korea. In fact, they are regarded with more dislike than before, and it therefore devolves upon them, in the interests of civilisation and commerce, to insist, by pacific but firm demands, on securing that recognition of foreigners in the Korea which Admiral RODGERS's expedition, whatever gallantry may have distinguished it, has entirely failed to acquire. The Times, in a leading article, which will be found in another column, confirms its Shanghai correspondent's views on this subject, which we need scarcely add echo those of the majority of the foreign community of Shanghai.

The latest advices via San Francisco, which we also reproduce elsewhere, state that the English press in China denounces the return of the American fleet to Chefoo, as having all the moral effect of a defeat. It is also stated that two Englishmen and a German have been captured by the Koreans, and sent into the interior, and that the British fleet has sailed from Japan to inquire into the matter. We give these reports for what they are worth; but they do not correspond with our own information, which is to the effect that, although Admiral KELLETT was most anxious to take part in the expedition, and render our American friends all the aid in his power, he was unable to obtain permission to do so and was greatly disappointed in consequence.

CHUNG HOW, with his suite, has arrived in London, and taken up his residence at the Grosvenor Hotel. We understand that no definite result has been arrived at in the negotiations entered into with the French Government.

THE RETIRING GOVERNOR OF LABUAN.

No doubt it is an admirable quality to be able to do a little thing well. It shows at least the capacity to apply the mind to details, and the disposition to regard nothing as trifling that contributes to even petty results when they come within the sphere of duty. And this "power of attention," which CHARLES DICKENS praised so justly in almost his last public speech, not seldom proves the groundwork of a career which may be usefully extended to more ambitious and responsible offices. Therefore we are far from grudging Mr. POPE HENNESSY the satisfaction with which at a late meeting of the Legislative Council of Labuan the retiring Governor reviewed the progress of that "tight little island" under his administration. It was much to say that the exchequer had always previous to Mr. HENNESSY's government been a drain on the Home Government, till the debt had risen to no less a sum than a quarter of a million; and that, almost immediately after his accession to office, he was enabled to turn the financial tables, and, instead of a continuing deficit, to show a rising surplus, which promises to pay off the island's debt in half the time it took to incur it. But in order to permit us to receive with unaffected satisfaction the announcement of such a boon as this, it is desirable that the claim on our gratitude should be advanced with a quality for which Irishmen are perhaps less distinguished than most other Europeans—modesty. Mr. HENNESSY was no doubt carried away with enthusiasm, and the consequence is that his speech smacks somewhat too much of Milesian bombast. It reads rather like a proclamation of the virtues of BRIAN BORU, accompanied by himself on the harp of Erin, than the modest account of the administration of a little speck on the ocean which even now raises a revenue of no more than £8,000. When we perceive that Mr. HENNESSY's panacea for the failing exchequer of 1867 was the simple expedient of pushing the opium trade, we must own that we are not struck with the originality of the idea, and cannot quite understand Mr. HENNESSY's being proud of it. From 1867 to the present time, under new regulations, the opium farm of Labuan has risen so greatly in value that, while it realised in the former year only $8,700, the crop for 1873 has already been sold for $16,800—a transaction which, however favourable in a mere pounds shillings and pence point of view, will, we can assure Mr. HENNESSY, be regarded by a large section of the people at home with disapprobation.

We have only one more word to add. There are no European merchants in Labuan, and we therefore see no reason for the gratuitous sneer at the "little group of Europeans, who had for so many years been the governing class," until Mr. HENNESSY was so much struck with the superior virtues of the Chinese as to "report that they were the only industrious and enterprising people he found in the island, and that consequently he intended to rely on them for counsel and assistance." This may be all very well in its way, and within due bounds, but we think that Mr. HENNESSY, who is himself an industrious and enterprising person, would have done better if he had taken measures to attract some of his mercantile countrymen to the seat of his government. It strikes us that the prosperity of Europeans in connection with Labuan—as with every other dependency—is the sole reason why the island was ever occupied, and why a British Governor is set over it now. If Mr. HENNESSY has done no more than consult the advancement of the Chinese, at the expense of the progress of the Europeans, he may not be able to speak with so much pride of the results of his government, now he is returning to England, as he did among the obsequious natives of the little dependency which he leaves, as he found it, without European merchants. We hope that Mr. BULWER's government will be more fortunate in this respect at least; and that the revenue may be increased by the expansion of legitimate commerce rather than by raising the opium trade to high pressure. We hear that a portion of the Singapore community have been so far captivated by Mr. HENNESSY's report of himself that they think he would make a very desirable successor to Sir HARRY ORD. This view, however, we have reason to believe, is not shared by the general public of the Straits; and we are therefore glad that Mr. HENNESSY's appointment to the Bahamas will prevent this occurrence.

WE have already announced that the railway service through the Mont Cenis Tunnel is to be inaugurated in September. This route (via Paris) to Brindisi will probably effect a saving of about twenty-four hours on the present one through Germany and the Brenner Pass, but we understand that our Postal authorities hesitate to make any change until the Tunnel service has been well proved and the general condition of France becomes more settled.

THE P. and O. Company's new steamer Mirapore leaves on 2nd Sept. for Alexandria, and on return will be despatched to the Indian side. The Peking will be ready in October, and the Peshawer will be launched about that time. Four new steamers, of about 3,000 tons, have been contracted for with Messrs. CAIRD and Co. and Messrs. DENNY and Bros.

LITERATURE.

The Claims of China on Christian Men. By the Rev. Alexander Williamson, LL.D. Edinburgh: Oliphant and Co.

This is a very little book which contains a great deal more than many ponderous tomes. The author of "Journeys in North China" needs no introduction to our readers, nor, we believe, to any commonly intelligent section of the public, for the rare merits of that work were acknowledged at once by the great London literary organs, whose chorus of praise we only contributed our mite to swell. As the British Quarterly justly observed, "Mr. Williamson's volumes are full of minute, thorough, and novel information of all kinds concerning the country." The reviewer might have added that there is a charm in the simplicity, sincerity, and earnestness of the writer, which must always command the respectful attention, and go far towards bringing over to his views those who have hitherto been of an opposite opinion, or, what is much more likely, ignorant and indifferent as to the subject. We have no hesitation in saying that such books as those of Miss Frere and Mr. Williamson are at this moment doing incalculable good by disseminating information about an almost unknown but deeply interesting country in a style at once unaffected, considerate, and penetrating. There is not a library of any pretension in the kingdom that has not got both these books on its list, and the benefit to be derived from them is now silently working in the minds of the readers who will take our places in the next generation.

The pamphlet before us is the "moral" of Mr. Williamson's larger work, but it contains so great a mass of information that those who may not have the opportunity of procuring "Journeys in China" will read it with as much interest in its facts as sympathy with its object. By way of striking a key-note, the author says (and we quote the observation in order to show his apt and striking way of bringing facts before us): "Suppose no China, and suppose that the Chinamen were distributed over the whole world—Europe, Asia, Africa, America, Australia, and the isles of the sea—why, every third man you would meet would be a Chinaman!" The author continues:—

Here, then, we have a people embracing one-third of the human race—a people possessing vast territories, as rich and fertile as ever they were, territories full of immense mineral wealth as yet practically untouched, all indicative of a triumphant future—a people of great reach of intellect, fertility of resources, full of energy and enterprise, fitted by nature and disposed by training to contend with any obstacle, and carry out their enterprises in spite of all opposition—a people, in a measure, cultivated and prepared to receive all that can be placed before them for acceptance—a people whose youthful minds are directed towards moral excellence as the acmé of all ambition, trained to imitate virtuous examples and to watch the springs of action, taught to set mental accomplishments above wealth, and virtue above nobility.

Here we feel ourselves compelled to pause an instant and ask Mr. Williamson whether he is quite sure of his facts in this last particular. If "virtue is set above nobility," why is Chung How, the assassin (virtually) of Tientsin, sent over to us as ambassador? With all due respect to our author, we must confess that we fear he has inverted his argument on this occasion. We are totally unable to disbelieve that in China at the present day—whatever may have been her former traditions—nobility is set so very much above virtue as to be quite out of sight of it. It is in order to reverse these relative positions, as we take it, that Mr. Williamson, and men as devoted as he, expend their lives as missionaries in the unenlightened regions—unenlightened at least as regards religious and moral truth. As our author himself says, "the litterati are only one in a thousand. We need men for the masses, and women for the masses." But, if the litterati, being only one in a thousand, govern the masses, and guide them to crime, how can it be maintained that "virtue is set above nobility?"

By a note at the beginning of the present pamphlet we learn that Mr. Williamson left this country for China on the 3rd of this month. While devoting himself once more to the missionary labour, the necessity for which he so ably points out, he has left behind him the valuable little work before us, by way of encouragement to those who have always been interested in missionary enterprise, and of information for those who have not yet given the subject the attention it deserves. We cordially hope it will have the large circulation which a production so valuable ought to command. The "Claims of China" has but one fault—it is not stated on its cover where it can be obtained in London; an oversight very easily remedied, but one which may possibly check its sale in England.

Monetary and Commercial.

—o—

In the current number of the Law Magazine is an article of great interest to the mercantile community of the Far East, on "The transmission of Bills of Lading and other negotiable Instruments by Telegraph." The question is discussed with great fairness and ability by the writer, who arrives at the conclusion that it would be feasible to substitute for the Bill of Lading, or any other Bill, a "certified telegram," which should have the effect of cancelling the bill, and which should thereupon become as negotiable, to all intents and purposes, as, but for its cancellation, the bill itself would have become. The proposition is startling but it recommends itself by its obvious convenience. The opportunity that it might afford for fraud, unless regulated by a very strict system, is the difficulty which the writer sets himself to contend with. The plan he recommends has at least the merit of simplicity. He proposes that, in all cases where the "certified telegram" is employed, all validity should be withdrawn from the bill, and invested in the telegram. Thus the latter instrument could always be negotiated; the former, never. The subject is one which will no doubt attract the attention of many of our readers, and we shall be glad to receive any suggestions on the subject.

The following letter relates to the tolls on the Suez Canal:—

"Sir,—You were good enough to publish a communication of mine pointing out the difficulties in the way of establishing an equitable uniformity of transit dues for the passage of ships through the Suez Canal, in consequence of the various systems of measurement prevailing in different countries, and, further, mentioning that these and other matters would be taken into earnest consideration, should any change in the mode of levying the dues be found desirable in the interest of shipping and of the Suez Canal Company. I have now to state that at present there is no intention on the part of the company to raise the existing dues, but simply to appoint a new special commission with the view to inquiry into these questions.—I have the honour to be, Sir, your obedient servant,
"DANIEL A. LANGE, English Director of
"the Suez Canal Company."

A meeting has been held of the Mediterranean Hotel Company (Limited). The directors' report, which was adopted, referred to the unsatisfactory result of the business of the hotel during the year, arising from the recent war in France. The neighbourhood of Nice was not disturbed, but "the fear of interruption of the usual means of communication deterred even those invalids whose existence almost depended on their spending the winter in the South from venturing on the journey."

At the meeting of the Mediterranean Extension Telegraph Company (Limited), held on the 22nd inst., the usual half-yearly dividend was declared on the 8 per cent. preference stock, less income tax, in addition to a dividend at the rate of 3 per cent. per annum, free of income tax, on the ordinary shares.

At the meeting of the Submarine Telegraph Company, a dividend was declared at the rate of 15 per cent. per annum, free of income tax.

The Financier has the following with reference to the hypothecation of shipping documents:—

The question of a uniform bill of lading, which is now being discussed by a committee of merchants and shipowners, leads to one of equal importance—viz., that of a uniform letter of hypothecation of produce or merchandise represented by bills of lading; and whether such a document, to be legal and binding, should not bear a bill of lading stamp, or an ad valorem stamp, according to the value of the property so hypothecated. On the subject of letters of hypothecation we believe the law to be singularly defective, and to admit of such a form as may suit the legal taste or acumen of any one to adopt, according to the best of his judgment. It would be difficult also to find a treatise on this important question that could be depended upon or referred to as an authority. In all transactions connected with goods or merchandise transported by sea from one place to another, and on which money is advanced by a third party, there is no part of commercial law that more requires revision, and adaptation to the laws of other countries, as well as to our own recognised customs. A great want of information as to the laws of foreign countries, it may be added, in such respects is generally admitted, which makes the business of advancing on produce shipped thither, from India, China, or other parts of the world where our commercial relations extend doubly hazardous.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

—o—

TEA.

Messrs. Capel and Co.'s Circular says:—

The market remains in a very unsatisfactory state, the large total of Exports from China, reported by telegram, viz., 66,000,000 lbs. to 19th August, or little more than two months, having had a very depressing effect. Importers in many cases show no confidence in the market, but press their Teas for sale by public auction, from day to day without reserve, thus inducing if possible greater reluctance on the part of the dealers to buy. The result, as may be supposed, has been a further decline in prices for all but the finest Chops of new season Teas, which from their relative scarcity command a fair sale at about the opening range of prices. The Abbotsford, from Foochow, the first ship from that port, arrived in dock on the 22nd inst. The samples have been on offer, but the quality has proved disappointing, and at present but few transactions have taken place. Public Sales took place on the 18th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd, and 24th inst. chiefly of new season's Teas, of which 35,217 packages have been sold without reserve.

Red-leaf Congous: Siftings and broken-leaf kinds show no alteration; the demand is limited. Fair to good common fully maintain previous prices, the supplies on offer being moderate. In fair to good Kaisow kinds but few transactions have taken place, buyers waiting the arrival of the new season's. The same remark applies to the Pak Lin kinds. Black-leaf kinds: The low qualities show no improvement. Fair to good common remain dull of sale at former prices. In new season's sales have been made chiefly at public auction without reserve. Good common 11d. to 11½d., fair kinds from 1s. 0½d., to 1s. 1d. per lb., good from 1s. 3½d. to 1s. 7d. per lb., fine from 1s. 8d. to 1s. 10d. per lb., showing a further decline of 1d. to 2d. per lb.; finest remain without alteration. Amoy kinds have sold, at public sale, without reserve, at lower rates. In new-make Canton kinds there have been no further arrivals. In Oolongs, Souchongs, and Flowery Pekoes there has been nothing of interest to report. Scented Teas.—The very large arrival of 50,000 boxes Scented Caper, per Danube, has created a sort of panic in the market, the desire to sell, both privately and at public sale, without reserve, being so great as to lead to a heavy fall in prices, the decline being equal to 2d. to 3d. per lb. on previous prices for fair to good and fine kinds, the finest being better supported. Orange Pekoes have also sold about 1d. per lb. lower, though the supplies continue moderate. In Foochow kinds but little has been done, and prices are unchanged. In Uncoloured Japans business has been dull. Green Teas: The arrivals of new Ping Suey Teas have met with a fair market; No. 1 Gunpowder has sold up to 3s. 8d. per lb. and No. 1 Young Hyson up to 2s. 6d. per lb.; the common to medium kinds less readily, but at fair prices. The market for old Teas remains without improvement.

Messrs. Shepard, Harrison and Rehden report as follows:—The market during the greater part of the past fortnight has been thoroughly disorganised, owing to a want of confidence shown by several importers, who, finding it impossible to effect sales privately, have resorted to public auction, without reserve, and 22,900 packages have been disposed of between the 15th and 22nd inst.; the lowest point was reached on the 18th inst., when finest Ning Chow touched 1s. 8½d. to 1s. 10d. per lb., but there has since been a recovery of 1d. per lb. The Abbotsford, from Foochow, arrived on Tuesday with the first of the new red leaf; the various parcels shown are of second class quality, and appear useful teas. A few sales have transpired from 1s. 6d. to 1s. 9d. per lb. The export from all China to the 19th inst. is 66,000,000 lbs., being only 2,000,000 lbs. in eleven days, and if shipments continue on this moderate scale, it will soon bring about a favourable reaction in this market. For export, shippers continue to buy but sparingly, but some large parcels after being offered on the market have been withdrawn the last days for shipment to Russia.

The following is from Messrs. F. Huth and Co.'s Circular:—Since our last report the further arrivals of Moning tea, with the exception of some counterparts of the first arrivals, and a small quantity of boxes, per Cheops (which were very superior, and sold at 2s. 10d. per lb.), have included hardly any very fine tea. The highest price realised is, we understand, 2s. 3d. per lb., except for one small lot of 56 half-chests sold at 2s. 8d. per lb. The Russian demand is stopped for the present, the great dealers there having left for the Nishni fair; most of the teas sent for transshipment are now on their way to Russia, and will arrive, it is expected, a good deal before the time at which the shipments via Odessa are likely to reach Moscow. It is not unlikely that the fact of the shipments via London having had the quickest run will have an important effect on the prescribed route of next season's Russian orders. The prices realised for the Kysows and Pechlings by the Abbotsford are from 1s. 4d. to 2s. per lb. The character of the tea by the Abbotsford shows strength and point, without on an average being very fine; some not yet sold are of very superior quality, for which up to 3s. per lb. is demanded.

SILK.

The market has become quieter during the last week or so, and although Chinas are not quotably lower, still there is some difficulty in obtaining the quotations current a fortnight ago, and the knowledge that 6,000 to 7,000 bales of China Silk are at hand, and will be here in a few days, tends to keep buyers from operating, under the belief that they can ensure easier prices by holding back; Red Peacocks are offering at 26s., and "best chop thirds" at 29s. Japan Silk is quite neglected, and there is no business to report; prices are again to a certain extent nominal. Canton Silk is unchanged, prices remain the same, and keep firm, best qualities of Silk which are scarce being much wanted.

The Salut Public of Lyons gives the following as the situation of the trade there:—"Prices are far from being remunerative, and do not correspond with the cost of the raw material. The latter remains at a decline, which seems to be only logical; hardly can any allowances be obtained for the spun silks which arrive, and which already form a considerable stock. The supplies from Shanghai are expected; they will be welcome on our market; they are necessary to supply the provision which is at this moment so restricted. The exportations from China are estimated for the present season at 45,000 to 50,000 bales, the half of which is already on its way to Europe. Japan has recommenced sending material, but it will have a difficulty in regaining lost ground. Its exportations in 1871 do not exceed 8,000 bales, 6,000 less than in 1870, when they were 14,400. The new harvest will, however, be satisfactory, and the Japanese seem to have made serious efforts to improve their qualities; that progress is indispensable if they desire their goods to regain the place they formerly held in this market."

Deliveries of Silks have sensibly declined, but although much below the immense clearances in June and July, still are fairly good, being from 1st to 23rd inst.—

COFFEE.

The improvement in the market caused by the favourable result of the Dutch sale last week has been maintained. The greater part of the supply at the public sales has consisted of Plantation Ceylon, which has met a good demand at existing rates, so that quotations for this description are about 1s. higher than those given in our report of a week since. For Native Ceylon, of which the supply placed on offer has been moderate, a fair demand has been shown at last quoted rates. The last prices paid have been Plantation, triage and ordinary, 52s. to 61s.; small, 61s. to 65s. 6d.; low middling greyish and pale greenish, 66s. to 69s.; middling coloury, 69s. 6d. to 75s.; good middling to fine middling, 75s. 6d. to 80s.; good bold coloury, 83s. to 86s.; pea-berry, 81s. to 84s. 6d.; Native ordinary, 53s. 6d.; real good ordinary, 57s. 6d.; good bold 60s. 6d.; pea-berry, 58s. 6d. to 60s. There have been no offers of East India other than Ceylon.

SUGAR.

The tone of the market is still quiet, but some demand has been shown for East India descriptions, and sales have been effected to a moderate extent at previously ruling rates. PENANG: At auction 118 bags fine grainy (duties 5s. 8d. and 6s.) sold at 36s. to 36s. 6d. JAVA: At auction 7,400 bags low Java syrups (duty 4s.) were bought in at 22s., but subsequently 1,500 bags were sold privately at that price. MANILA: Privately 6,000 bags unclayed Taal have been sold, half at 20s. 6d., half at 21s.; 2,600 bags low brown (duty 4s.) at 23s.; 6,800 bags Zebu at 22s.; also 4,400 bags clayed (duty 4s.), 1,900 bags at 24s., and 2,500 bags at 26s. per cwt. At public sale 1,300 bags clayed (duty 4s.) have been sold at 25s. 6d.; also 6,000 bags Zebu unclayed at 22s. 6d.

COCOA NUT OIL.—The quotation for Ceylon still rules at £39 per ton, but the market is dull and there is very little doing; for arrival 100 tons have been sold at £38 15s. At auction an offer of 16 hog-heads Ceylon met no biddings and was withdrawn.

CAMPHOR.—There has been a good inquiry, but holders are generally asking 75s. per cwt. for China, which has checked business so that only a small trade has been done at 70s. to 72s. 6d. for good quality; 200 cases at auction were retired at 75s. Japan is scarce.

CARDAMOMS.—Very firm, and again higher, and very few fine to be had. No transactions in Ceylon.

CORA GOODS.—Yarn has met a fair inquiry, and at the auctions of the 18th inst. dholls realised full prices to a slight advance, other sorts being steady; 187 tons 518 bales 88 ballots 39,865 dholls partly sold—Ceylon at £24 up to £37 15s. for common to fair; Coehin at £23 10s. to £50 10s. for low to fine; and Madras at £11 15s. to £12 5s. Of Fibre, 294 bales 3,791 ballots sold at £16 5s. to £16 10s. per ton, and 533 bundles Kitool at 8d. to 9½d. per lb.

CUTCH.—Holders are firm, but the demand is inactive; fine Pegue, 22s. 6d. to 23s. per cwt. At auction 316 bags Calcutta taken in at 20s. 6d. per cwt.; large sales are announced to take place in a few days.

CUBERS.—Without alteration; at public sale of 78 bags offered, 30 bags sold at 25s. to 25s. 6d. per cwt. for good quality, but rather stalty.

COPRA.—Penang still out of stock.

DRAGON'S-BLOOD.—Scarce, and no offers have been made during the fortnight.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Cinnamon very scarce, and wanted. Citronelle steady; fair trade at 1½d. per oz.; 76 cases at auction partly sold at 1½d. for good, and buyers now at the same figure. Lemon Grass quiet; none offered. Anniseed has been in speculative demand to a considerable extent, and is rather scarce; some 40 cases have been sold and resold up to 9s. 9d. per lb.; but the market closes quieter. Cassia has been sold largely, 100 cases 4s. 3d. and 4s. 4d., now asked; 13 cases at public sale retired. Nutmegs steady; 4 cases offered and retired.

EBONY.—Fine figured wood continues to command extreme rates 51 logs Ceylon at public sale brought a slight advance, viz.; £13 to £13 7s. 6d. per ton.

GALLS.—Prices are steadily maintained, but there are no transactions to report; 75 boxes offered at auction were bought in.

GAMBIER.—Market rather firmer, but some considerable arrivals have occurred. For arrival 150 tons have been sold at 15s. 9d. to 16s. ex ship. On the spot 16s. to 16s. 6d. is the value of bales, and some business has been done in cubes at an advance, 20s. being paid for fair rather blocky.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Sumatra 2nds held firmly; 6 cases at auction sold at £9 2s. 6d.; 3rds steady; of 32 cases, half sold at 80s. for fair, and 58s. low; Siam steady; 8 cases offered and 5 sold; block £14 5s. to £15 15s.; yellow dark £10 12s. 6d. Manila Copal rather easier; at auction 316 chests hard retired; 80 chests fair yellow soft brought 30s. 6d. to 31s.; at a subsequent sale of 1,271 cases offered 400 cases sold, fine pale clean scraped at 39s. to 39s. 6d.; ditto blocky, 34s. 6d.; dark scraped, 33s. 6d. to 34s. 6d.; ditto blocky, 31s.; soft yellow, 29s. 6d.; a small lot fine, 32s. 6d.; siftings, 15s. Damar very firmly held; of 201 chests offered, 40 chests sold at 57s. 6d. to 62s. 6d. for sorts, part rather dark; the fine Batavian retired at 72s. 6d. Gambooge steady, but there have been considerable arrivals, and little business done.

GUTTA-PERCHA.—Market very quiet; 3,204 slabs at auction retired. HEMP.—There is no alteration to note in the market. Manila is held firmly, but the demand is only limited.—Sorsagon has sold at £50 to £50 10s. per ton. Of Sunn, 93 bales in auction were partly sold at £22 10s. to £24 10s. for middling to fair; privately very common has sold at £17 to £17 10s. per ton.

HIDES.—At the fortnightly public sales held on the 24th a large quantity of East India kips was brought forward, and the bulk sold generally at fully previous prices to ½d. per lb. advance. Tanned sold at previous rates. Buffalo were in improved demand without any alteration in prices, except for a parcel of Batavian, which brought extreme rates. Ox and Cow, 3,347 Singapore sold, light 5½ to 7½ lb. at 9½d. to 10½d., heavy 8½ to 9½ lb. at 8½d. to 9½d., extra 11½ to 12½ lb. at 8½d. to 9d., small 4½ lb. at 8½d. Buffalo, 4,968 Singapore and Penang partly sold, light 12½ to 17 lb. at 6d. to 6½d., heavy 28½ to 36½ lb. at 5d. to 5½d., second 26½ to 31 lb. at 4½d. Of 2,987 Batavia 987 sold, light 13½ lb. at 8½d., heavy 17 to 20 lb. at 5½d. to 8d.

HORNS.—Without change.

ISINGLASS.—The market continues dull, except for good qualities, for which prices are steadily maintained. We are quite overstocked with common qualities. At auction, 11 packages were offered, and partly sold; leaf, 3s. 5d. to 4s., good to fine pale pipe 2s. 5d.; middling cake, 1s. 4d. fine.

INDIA-RUBBER.—There is no change in the market.

JAPAN WAX has advanced, private transactions having been effected up to 97s. 6d. for good, and higher figures are now demanded, as there is scarcely any in stock.

MUSK.—Market firmer, and at auction 72 caddies Tonquin were offered and all sold, good even well-shaped selected pods, 33s. to 36s. 6d. per oz.; rough and bally, part hard and heavy, 16s. to 20s.; wet pickings, mixed, part very good, 24s. to 26s. 6d.; 7 tins grain, fair to good, brought 52s. 6d. to 56s. 6d.

PLUMBAGO.—Prices of Ceylon steady, and good quality in request: 1,043 barrels at auction partly sold—lump, good and fair, 25s. 6d. to 21s.; middling, 18s.; mixed with foul, 13s. to 16s.; low, 7s. 9d. to 9s. 3d.; chips, good to fine, 13s. to 15s. 3d.; ordinary, 7s. to 9s.; dust, 9s. to 10s. good, 6s. 6d. to 7s. 6d. middling to fair.

PEPPER.—Black has again been dealt in to a considerable extent, and some 5,000 bags Singapore have changed hands at a further advance of ½d. per lb., closing at 6½d. cash. Penang is very scarce, and only a little business has been done at 6d. to 6½d. At auction of 2,424 bags offered about half sold, (Singapore 6½d., one lot 6½d., Penang being retired; 80 bags Trang sold at 6½d. to 6½d. To arrive about 100 tons Singapore near at hand have realized 6d. to 6½d.; 100 tons Penang and West Coast 5½d. to 5 15-16d., part distant. White has been very steady, and firmly held with small sales at 10d. per lb. for fair. At sale 863 bags offered, and part sold at 10d. to 10½d. per lb. for Singapore, and 10d. for Penang.

RHUBARB.—China is rather higher, and at public sale 71 cases were offered, and the greater part was sold, fair root in colour and break, well trimmed, but rather small 2s. 6d.; middling ditto, bolder but rougher and slightly darker fracture 2s. 2d.; ditto, rather more un-ightly 1s. 10d.; pale rough half dried 1s. 2d. to 1s. 4d.

RATTANS.—Market steady, and at auction about one-third of 15,915 bundles offered, was sold at 2s. 10d. to 5s. 2d. per 100 canes.

RICE.—On the spot the inquiry is still restricted, and but small sales have been effected of Ballam and Moonghy from 8s. 10½d. to 10s. Madras at 9s. 6d. to 9s. 7½d., and sea damaged Rangoon at 9s. 4½d. for first class; for arrival 500 tons Moulmein per Dunkeld, May shipment, have been sold at 10s., ex ship London, and were subsequently resold at the same price. Floating cargoes of soft grain descriptions have continued in demand, and the following sales are reported. The Mount Royal 1,730 tons Rangoon at 9s. 7½d., continental terms, damaged at valuation. The Silistria 1,400 tons Bassein, at 9s. 4½d., ex ship for London. The Manray 800 tons Rangoon at 9s. 10½d. for the Continent. The Hourri 1,280 tons Rangoon at 9s. 9d. for the Continent. The Scandia 515 tons Rangoon at 9s. 10½d. for the Continent. The Velocity 650 tons Necranis at 9s. 3d. for the Continent. The Papa, 500 tons Rangoon at 9s. 10½d., for the Continent. The Sarah and Emma, 1,480 tons Rangoon, at 10s. 3d., landed terms for London. The Britomart, 750 tons Rangoon at 9s. 10½d., Continental terms. The Marietta, 1,630 tons Necranis, price not reported, but supposed at barely 9s. 3d., for the Continent.

ROOTS.—China quiet, small transactions privately up to 21s. Colombo: Steady, with small business at £29 per ton for fair quality.

SPICES.—Cassia Ligna quieter, and little doing; small private sales at good prices. 433 cases Vera at auction and part sold at 73s. per cwt. for good. In Buda we have no change to report; 11 cases at public sale were retired. Cloves: Penang very firmly held, and in few hands, high figures demanded. Amboyna dull, and stocks heavy; 52 packages at auction sold at 7½d. to 7½d. for good, 4½d. ordinary. Cinnamon: No alteration in the market for Ceylon in anticipation of the quarterly sales to be held next week. Of Chips, 570 bags in auction were partly disposed of; coarse bark at 2½d., very coarse 1½d. to 2d., and middling shavings at 2½d. to 3d. per lb. Mace has been held very firmly, and, for the small quantity sold, extravagant prices were obtained; 5 cases at sale retired. Nutmegs have continued in demand, but little trade done privately; 51 cases Penang at auction, of which half were sold at 2s. 9d. per lb. for 107s, being again 1d. dearer.

SHELLS.—Mother o' Pearl without change. Tortoise: A good general demand prevails for the better kinds; but common and undesirable are quite neglected, the stock being large.

SAGO is on the average about 6d. per cwt. lower, and the market is very quiet. Public sales have embraced 4,042 bags 462 boxes, about half sold—small middling to good bright, 16s. to 16s. 6d.; ordinary to good greyish, 14s. 6d. to 15s. 6d.; fair large, 17s. Flour unchanged.

SAPANWOOD.—Manila and Siam: Firm, with but little good wood offering; 17 tons Manila at auction brought £7 15s. per ton for good small roughish wood, being a high figure. Ceylon: Market firm, and there is a fair demand, especially for fine quality, but no supply.

STICKLAC.—Siam firm, the stock being in few hands; at auction 80 cases of fresh import sold readily at dearer rates—fine bold clean sifted, 77s. to 78s.; medium do., 75s. to 76s.; a small lot dust 49s.

SOY.—Market steady with small business in China at last quoted rates, viz., 2s. to 2s. 2d. per gallon.

STAR ANNISEEDS.—In little request; no business to report.

TAPIOCA.—The market continues quiet; 1,083 bags Penang, and 596 bags Singapore offered at auction, and part of the latter only sold at 2½d. per lb. for fine. Flour still and very dull; 381 bags Penang retired.

TURMERIC.—Nothing doing.

TIN.—Early in the week the market for Straits was flat, owing to speculative realisations, £130 being accepted; but later, more demand sprang up, and business has been transacted at £131 to £132. The market closes firm at the latter figure, both on the spot and afloat; Banca is quoted £136, Billiton, £133 per ton.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.—AUGUST 12.

TEA.

There has been a little more inquiry for the various descriptions, but there is an increased firmness on the part of holders, which has greatly checked business, the market closing quiet, but very firm. The sales are 3,530 half-chests green, 1,100 do. Souchong, and 2,160 do. Oolong—vessels not named.

COFFEE.—The current quotations for East India kinds are. Java Government bags, 20c. to 22c.; Java mats, 22c. to 23½c.; Singapore, 19½c. to 20c.; Manila, 14c. to 15c.; Native Ceylon, 15½c. to 17c., showing an advance for Java and Singapore. The demand for Brazil increases, and the advanced prices are well sustained, the market closing with a firm, buoyant feeling, the tendency being rather in sellers' favour. Values are now 1c. to 1½c. gold above the lowest point of the season. The leading feature of the market, however, has been a large movement in Java and Singapore; the sales and resales here, to arrive, and in Boston, amounting to about 95,000 to 98,000 mats, being the largest purchases ever recorded within a like period. The sales noted include all of these descriptions at this port and in Boston, and all the Java to arrive between the present date and the close of the year; the stock now being concentrated, holders have advanced their prices 1c. to 1½c. per lb.: buyers, however, hold off, apparently waiting to see if these higher figures are to be maintained. The following are the particulars of the sales: Of Java, 8,318 mats per Alcione, 25,046 mats per Cyclone, 15,468 mats per Rainbow, 3,500 piculs, or about 7,500 mats to arrive per Juno, and 4,000 piculs to arrive per Desdemona; of Singapore, 11,186 mats per Argonaut (the third resale), and 23,000 to 25,000 mats in Boston, per Victor, Polly Lewis, Napier, &c., &c. The closing rates for jobbing lots are Singapore 19½c. to 20c., pale Java 20c. to 20½c., medium Brown 21c. to 22½c., and extra Brown 23c. to 23½c., with sales of 500 mats at prices within this range.

CORDAGE.—Manila continues in active request for consumption at the late advances, beyond the capacity of manufacturers to supply it, and has further advanced, in sympathy with the rising market for this description of Hemp. We quote:—Manila Cordage, sizes above 12-thread, 20c.; do., 6-thread and 9-thread (½ in. and 5-16 in. in diam.), 21c.; do., 12-thread (¾ in. in diam.), 20½c.; do. Hay Rope, 20½c.; Manila Cordage, Bolt Rope Yarns, 22c.; do., 6-thread and 9-thread, 23c.; Tarred Manila, 19½c.; Fine Tarred Manila Lath Yarn, 21c.; Sisal Rope, sizes above 12-thread, 17½c.; do., 6-thread and 9-thread, 18½c.; do., 12-thread and Hay Rope, 18c.; all net cash.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 19c. gold (in bond).

FIRE CRACKERS.—Market without alteration.

GUNNY CLOTH.—Is in better demand, and there has been considerable business at about the prices previously ruling. The sales are 600 bales Native at 16c.; 138 do. Borneo, 18c.; and, in lots, 100 bales at 16½c. to 16¾c. for Native, and 18½c. to 18¾c. for Borneo.

HEMP.—Manila is firm, and prices are well supported at the advance reported last week, the market being strengthened somewhat by a telegram from Liverpool announcing that the ship Nimroud, from Manila for this port, was at Mauritius, "leaky, cargo damaged, and would have to discharge." Sales have been made of 500 bales Manila here, and 500 in Boston, at 12½c. gold; at the close the quotation is 13c. The cargo of 4,300 bales at hand, per Great Admiral, was sold before arrival.

INDIGO.—Is in better demand, and the business has been larger than for some time past. The sales are 50 chests Manila, $1 to $1.20 currency.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $3 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is 40c. to $1 currency (duty free).

RICE.—Carolina has again advanced 25c. per 100 lb., the stock being reduced to such small proportions that it is doubtful whether there will be sufficient for the wants of home use until the advent of the new crop. Rangoon is steady; most of the common and fair qualities have been sold for export. The stock of good and prime grades is much less than at this date last year, and as importations have stopped, the general demand will have to be supplied from parcels now here for nearly two months, or until the receipts of the "new crop" Carolina are sufficient; the prospects indicate a firmer market. The sales of this description have been 1,300 bags at $6.75 to 7.12½ currency, and 562 bags in bond at $3.25 to 3.35 gold.

SUGAR.—The weakness in the market for Raw, noted in our last, has resulted in a decline of ½ cent per lb. on all descriptions, most marked, however, on the low grades of Refining Muscovado, which are less desirable to store than good dry qualities; at the reduction there is an improved demand, chiefly from refiners, though the trade have bought to a fair extent, and the market closes steady. In East India the only sale to report is of 429 baskets Java at 9½c. four months terms.

SPICES.—There are but few whole parcels offering, and these are held above buyers' views; the market, however, may be called steady, though the excitement noted a fortnight ago has entirely subsided. In invoices there has been no business; but there continues a steady jobbing demand at $1.50 for Mace, 95c. to 100c. for Nutmegs, 32½c. for Cassia, 16½c. to 17½c. for Black Pepper, 25c. for White, and 11 for Cloves.

TIN.—The market for Straits has been irregular, and, in some instances, lower prices have been accepted; sales have been made of 400 slabs Straits at 36c. to 36½c. gold; and 500 do. on private terms; at the close there is a better feeling, with Straits held at 36½c. to 36¾c., and Banca nominally 40c. to 41c. gold.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

Korean Archipelago.—Discovery of Sunken Rocks.—Information has been received of the recent discovery, by H.M.S. Leven, of a dangerous sunken reef lying in the fair-way of navigation, about midway between Ripple Island and Nimrod Island, Korean Archipelago. The reef (Leven reef) appeared to be about half-a-mile in extent, east and west, and on the western part, which seemed to be only a few feet below the surface, the sea was breaking heavily. The following bearings were taken from the Leven:—Ripple Island, centre, S.E. by S. ½ S.; Lyra Island, south extreme, W. by N. ½ N.; Harford Peak, E. ½ N.; West extreme of the reef, N. by E. ½ E. about half-a-mile. These bearings place the reef in lat. 34 deg. 5 min. 50 sec. N., long. 126 deg. 10 min. E. All bearings are magnetic. Variation 3½ deg. Westerly in 1871. BLOOD TO THE HEAD, WITH SYMPTOMS OF APOPLEXY.—Holloway's Pills are undeniably the finest medicine in the world for biliousness and indigestion.
In all cases of deranged stomach, determination of blood to the head, biliousness, sick headache, liver complaints, which frequently end fatally, by producing apoplexy or paralysis, there is no medicine known that will give such immediate relief as these renowned Pills; young and old, rich and poor, patronise them, and so many cures are effected by their use that their praise is sounded from the torrid to the frigid zone; in truth, persons who travel consider them a necessary requisite. Frequently the blood becomes overheated, the liver torpid, the skin irritated by prickly heat, and the whole system languid and exhausted. Nothing so soon gives relief as Holloway's Pills.

SINGAPORE DOCKS.

THE PATENT SLIP AND DOCK COMPANY execute SHIPS' REPAIRS of all descriptions in the most efficient manner under the supervision of European Engineers and Shipwright.

There are TWO DRY DOCKS, each capable of admitting two vessels at the same time, being over 400 feet in length, with depth of water ranging to 20 feet.

Adjoining the above there is extensive WHAIR WAREHOUSE, and other accommodation, including every convenience for coaling Steamers, discharging cargo, and storing goods, together with ample MACHINERY and appliances for repairing iron steamers, &c.

Apply at the offices of Messrs. PATERSON, SIMONS and Co., Singapore; or 21, St. Swithin's-lane, Cannon-street, London, E.C.

WM. CLOUGHTON, Managing Director.
New Harbour, Singapore, January, 1870.

PORT OF AMOY.

SHIPOWNERS, AGENTS, and COMMANDERS are informed that the Dock Company's establishments at the above port afford every facility, at moderate charges, for REPAIRING and SPARRING VESSELS, cleaning and painting iron ships and steamers.

Their large Granite Dock has 286 feet length on the blocks, and at average spring tides can receive vessels of 16 to 17 feet draught. It has a caisson-gate and a powerful centrifugal steam pump, and an engineer's workshop fitted with lathes and tools, driven by steam; iron and brass foundries, boiler-makers' shop, a large smithy and carpenters and boat-builders' sheds, all superintended by resident Europeans.

Their two smaller GRANITE DOCKS can receive, at spring tides, vessels drawing 12 feet.

Spars, timber, and other Dockyard material kept in stock.

Quarters for officers and a DRY GODOWN for stores of vessels under repair.

Summary of News from the Far East.

YOKOHAMA.

The following extracts are from the Japan Mail of July 22:—The Adventure, with some three hundred marines has arrived at this port. The marines will take the place of the 1st battalion 10th Regiment, which is to be moved to Hong Kong and Singapore. There is to be a farewell entertainment to the officers of the 10th.

A party, consisting of Mr. Russell Robertson, H.M.'s Vice-Consul, M. Jaquemot, Mr. Strachan, and Mr. Walter has recently returned from a tour in the silk districts made under the auspices of Mr. Adams, H.B.M. Chargé d'Affaires.

The silk crop is reported as large and good, and it is also said that the notification distributed to the silk-reelers has had much effect in producing more careful reeling.

We announced last mail that Russia had taken entire possession of the Island of Saghalien, refusing any joint occupation of it with the Japanese. The act is unscrupulous and unjustifiable, but the resources of the island will be more quickly developed by Russia than by the Yedo Government. Compensation will however have to be paid to the Japanese for the portion of territory of which they have been dispossessed, and as it contains valuable coal mines, it is to be hoped this will be liberal.

Except for these mineral resources it is impossible to look upon the island as of any great value to Japan, though it is equally impossible to regard the action of Russia without reprehension. As will be observed, a commissioner has been sent northward to negotiate upon the whole matter.

Soyejema, one of the councillors of state, left Yedo on Tuesday, the 11th, for Hakodadi and Possiet Bay, in order to open negotiations with respect to Saghalien.

We have received the second number of the Yokohama Mosquito. It is very neatly printed, and the frontispiece is well designed. We notice but one omission, but that is of some importance in a comic paper; the contributors seem to have such a dread of levity that they have left out all the jokes.

TERRIFIC GALE.

On the night of the 5th—11 P.M. to 1 A.M.—we were visited with a typhoon, the effects of which and the tidal wave, if it was one, have been fearful. Four steamers and one barque are total wrecks, two more steamers (small ones) are high and dry on the beach—in fact, partly in the houses in which they broke down. Whole properties are entirely destroyed; one shipyard and foundry (Wignall's) is utterly devastated, not a stone standing to show where either house or foundry stood, whilst the heaviest machinery, such as lathes, punching-machines, &c., many weighing tons, are washed yards from where they were before firmly fixed. Mr. Wignall, his wife, and child had a very narrow escape, having only got out of the house when the water was up to his neck, and only five minutes before all was swept away; four servants were drowned. This case is not a solitary one; numbers had equally narrow escapes. One lady had to throw her children out of the window, and jump after them; junks without end have been sunk or destroyed, and the number of native lives lost must be immense. The case of the barque Pride of the Thames is the worst; she either parted her anchors or dragged on shore, where she turned on her side; captain, mate, second mate, steward, and one man were drowned; the rest were rescued from the rigging. She now lies within a hundred feet of the beach (which is very steep) on her side, the upper side being about six feet out of water at low water. Numbers of craft building have been washed away, and every scrap lost. The China and Japan Trading Company's loss is the heaviest; they owned three of the steamers lost. The old Cricket is at last done for; she lays on the beach broken in two. All the bund masonry is washed away, and altogether the Kobé of to-day is as different from that of the 6th as old Shanghai to the present one. We escaped, as we live in a place surrounded with trees, and these broke the force of the wind; so that though many of them are uprooted, the house escaped. I do not think the force of the wind was as great as I have experienced in two or three previous typhoons, but the water did the damage. I fear many foreigners are entirely ruined. You may imagine the force of the water when I tell you that in a back street, 150 feet from the bund, and running parallel with it, an iron safe weighing three tons, which was too heavy to be put inside a store, was carried some forty feet up and across the road. The bay is covered with floating wreck. It will take a very long time to restore things to their former state, and many fear will greatly injure the prospects of the port.

The following items are from the Hiogo News :—

Mr. Morel, of the Imperial Railway Department, arrived here on Friday from his preliminary survey of the route between Tsuruga Bay and Kioto. We are very glad to hear that it has been determined by the authorities to construct a line of railway from Tsuruga to Kioto, and thence to connect it at Osaka with the Hiogo and Osaka line. This new line is viewed with much favour by the Japanese of all classes, we are informed. It will connect the east and west coasts of the island, passing through one of the most fertile districts of Japan, and its advantages to ourselves, both at Osaka and here, are incalculable. The town of Tsuruga—or Tsurunga, as it is pronounced—is but a comparatively small one, of perhaps 12,000 inhabitants. The bay to which it gives its name is stated by some who have seen it to be one of the finest, if not the finest, in Japan. The entrance to it is narrow, but it afterwards expands something after the fashion of the famous harbour of Sydney, which, with that of Rio de Janeiro, competes for the honour of being the finest harbour in the world.

The passes through the ranges between Lake Biwa and Tsurunga are reported to be of easy gradients, and the greater part of the proposed route, as it runs along the lake, is stated to present no greater difficulties than does our own simple line to Osaka. The surveys are to be commenced at once, and as soon as they shall have been completed the works will be immediately begun.

From Simioshi and Sakai reports reach us of great mischief done by the recent typhoon. Many junks have been destroyed, and some lives lost. We hear that no less than one hundred and seventy houses were destroyed at the two places.

In the districts where the sea has overflowed the rice-fields to the depth of but a few inches, the plants may possibly yet be saved, as, although the outer blades are browned, the inner ones are generally left green.

From Kiushiu we have also reports that the harbours on the coasts have suffered very severely from the effects of the late typhoon. In Kata harbour alone over 130 junks and some 850 houses are reported destroyed, 450 people being killed and 300 wounded. In another harbour, thirty to forty junks are reported destroyed, and fifty or sixty people killed. At the village of Terawada, the head man of the coolies and 300 of his men are said to have been drowned.

From Kioto we hear that many houses were blown down during the late typhoon, and that six persons lost their lives thereby. Owing to the inundation consequent upon the heavy rainfall, the native steamers running between Kioto and Osaka, for some days after the storm, were obliged to stop at Yodo; we believe, however, that they now reach Fushimi, as of old.

The yearly feast of Nanko was held, as customary, at the Kusunoki Temple, on Wednesday last. There were the usual display of flags and processions of finely-dressed Japanese officials, a special envoy from the Mikado's Court paying his respects to the shrine of the Saint during the course of the day. The whole of the ground for the new temple and its garden has been levelled, but there was little to be seen on Wednesday beyond a Japanese crowd and the everlasting drums. Of course there were the usual merman and other stock curiosities, but little to distinguish this from any other native holiday.

The British barque Pride of the Thames, with all her appurtenances, was sold by public auction on Monday last, for the sum of $1,500, Mr. Frank Fisher being the purchaser.

Their Excellencies Okuma and Ito, accompanied by Mr. Carrigill, arrived here in the Phase. They proceeded to the Mint, where it is to be hoped they will settle the difficulties which have hitherto delayed the issue of the new dollar.

NAGASAKI.

NAGASAKI, July 15.

Since my last, on the 15th ultimo, via San Francisco, the following mails have been received here: April 28th and May 5th on the 26th June by the steamer Emerald, and those of the 12th and 19th May on the 7th instant, by the P. M. steamer Ariel. The movements of the war vessels have been as follows: arrivals, June 19, H.B.M. gunboat Elk from Hiogo; 25th, Russian gunboat Er-mak, and corvette Haydamaack, both from Shanghai; 26th Danish frigate Tordenskjold, from Yokohama; July 5, Russian corvette Almaz from Shanghai, and French ironclad Alma on the 8th from Chefoo. The departures for the same time have been: H.B.M. gunboats Elk and Ringdove on the 21st ultimo; the former for Foochow and the latter for Chefoo; 28th ultimo Ermat for Hakodadi; July 1, Haydamaack for Vladivostock, 14th, French ironclad Alma.

The export, &c., of coal from Nagasaki to the 8th inst. is as follows:—

	Takasima. Tons.	Karats and other kinds. Tons.	Total Tons.
January ...	2,870	10,154	13,024
February ...	865	4,834	5,699
March ...	2,142	4,580	6,722
April ...	1,382	8,436	9,818
May ...	2,954	6,562	9,516
June ...	2,111	4,848	6,959
To 8th July ...	—	1,111	1,111
	12,324	40,525	52,849

The tea season has not yet opened at this port, and as yet only musters have been shown. The annual report that high prices rule up country is again current here, but is disbelieved. If it is really true that the local teamen who have gone into the country to purchase are resisting the attempt to raise prices, they are to be commended, but there is always considerable doubts whether these rumours are not got up to induce foreigners to extend their ideas.

The Japanese steamer, formerly known as the P. and O. steamer Grenada, has been wrecked on Hika Sima, a short distance from the spot where the American steamer Yangtze was wrecked a short time ago. The accident occurred at about 5 A.M. on Tuesday morning last, when the vessel was steaming at the rate of seven knots per hour, and it is supposed that the captain mistook the proper channel owing to it being very foggy at the time. She was bound for Kokura with Higo troops on board, all of whom were saved, and arrived here by the British steam tug Argus, which was despatched to render assistance. It is reported that there is but little chance of getting her off, as she is very badly damaged indeed, and nearly covered at high tide.

The natives are beginning to get anxious about the rice crops in the neighbouring districts, which, owing to the absence of rain, are reported to be suffering. It was only a month ago they were complaining the rain was spoiling the barley, and now they complain of the absence of rain. Truly farmers all the world over are a grumbling lot, but I thought this failing was confined to the British specimen.

Dr. G. B. Newton, R.N., whose name was frequently before the public owing to the appointment he held from the British Government to superintend the establishment of hospitals for the reception of patients who would come under the Contagious Diseases Act if in England, died somewhat suddenly on the morning of the 11th inst., aged about forty-one years. He had been suffering from an internal complaint for a long time past, and had been far from well, but no one thought his end was so near. Up to Saturday last he was walking about the settlement, and even so late as Sunday evening nothing remarkable occurred, except that he appeared to be extremely restless; but on Monday morning several medical men had to be called in, but they could do nothing to save him. The cause of his death was his blood and water mixing together, but I do not know the medical term for the complaint. He was buried with military honours on Tuesday afternoon, in which several of the officers and detachments of men from the men-of-war then in port joined. The whole of the Consuls, and nearly the whole of the community, who held the deceased in high esteem, also followed him to his grave.

Everything in freights and exchange is quite nominal, except native coin, which is 292 to 294 nebukin per $100.

CHINA.

—o—
SHANGHAI.

Dates are to the 14th July. The English mail of May 19th arrived on the 4th July.

SHANGHAI, July 14.

The political horizon looks clouded. The Yankees have decidedly put their foot in it in Korea. Their boats were fired on from the Korean forts; the boats replied, and shelled the forts. Two days after the forts were taken, with a loss to the Americans of one officer and two men killed, and seventeen men wounded. The Koreans lost 240 killed, besides wounded. Having captured and dismantled the fort, the American forces re-embarked, as their force was too small to march inland. The Americans must either abandon their enterprise of opening Korea, or bring 5,000 men next spring, and land, and occupy the principal towns, so as to bring the Korean Government to reason. The expedition has returned to Chefoo and this place, being unable to carry the matter further without instructions from Washington. The Chinese will, doubtless, magnify this into a defeat, and become more defiant in their demeanour towards foreigners. The usual feathery are going up, which show how the wind blows. The mandarins have commenced squeezing any Chinese here who do business through foreigners, and torturing them until they pay the squeeze demanded of them. The fact is that, in defiance of treaties, the old Hong system in force during the East India Company's time is as rampant as ever, and under the name of Guilds the same monopoly still exists. There is a combination in prices, both in buying and selling, so that the foreign merchant is at a disadvantage. The Chinese have also established a blockade of the port of Hong Kong, as far as Chinese boats are concerned. They have one gunboat stationed in the Lyemoo, and another lies in the other entrance to Hong Kong harbour on the land side, and these levy toll on all Chinese vessels passing. Oh, for the days of Pottinger and Elgin! but, alas, we have fallen on degenerate days. The Granvilles and the Wades are willing to see their flags dragged in the mire, and make no sign.

Two British subjects (not missionaries) have been seized by the Koreans, and it is supposed beheaded. The Ringdove, a British gunboat, has been sent from Chefoo to inquire after them. Of course no further steps will be taken till instructions come from home, and as their deaths may not influence the price of calico, the presumption is that nothing will be done. The Gladstone Administration is not likely to move in the matter; most likely their inquiries will be directed to the Consul, to ascertain whether those unfortunate individuals have paid their registration fee, as Lord Granville did in the case of Sister Louise, who, not having paid the fee, was ignored as a British subject. Some of the Chinese gunboats have hoisted the Viceroy's flag at Canton. One subject ought to be agitated at the revision of the Treaty, viz., the heavy tonnage dues levied in Chinese ports on foreign ships. The charge—three shillings or more a ton—is enormous, and when compared with that levied in England is enormous and a heavy tax on our shipping. I am surprised that the shipowners in England do not agitate the question. When this charge was fixed by Sir H. Pottinger it was thought a great improvement in the charge of five or six thousand dollars levied upon ships at Canton, but those days are now over, and a more reasonable charge ought to be levied, particularly as until lately the Chinese have done nothing to improve the harbours or light or buoy their entrances. The Lismore steamer was wrecked at the entrance of this harbour nearly a year ago, yet nothing has been done to remove the obstruction to navigation.

A few days ago we printed a translation of a memorial from the Governor of Hunan, regarding the desperate financial condition to which that province has been reduced by excessive drains for military operations in Kansuh. To-day, we give one from the Governor of Chekeang, describing a similar dead-lock, brought about by excessive demands for finery for the Emperor's approaching marriage.

It is only at long intervals that we get glimpses of the state of affairs in the province of Yunnan, and when we do so the tale is generally very similar. Success fluctuating between the Imperialists and the Mussulmans, and the country devastated by hostile troops. A correspondent has courteously given us a more complete sketch of the position of affairs there than we have had at our disposal since the interesting narrative by M. de Carne appeared two years ago in the Revue des deux Mondes; but the tale is still the same. The two most important cities in the hands of the Mahomedans are Tchen-kiang-fu and Tali. Our correspondent writes that, if the Mahomedans remain united, and the Imperialists do not bring far greater resources to bear, the former will hold out for several generations, and the latter until times too remote for calculation. The greatest success the Imperialists have lately gained has been the treacherous execution of a daughter of the principal Mahomedan general, who seems to have been a sort of Jeanne d'Arc. She had gone to a Chinese city to negotiate, under safe conduct, but was arrested and killed.

About a month ago we mentioned that a Chinese merchant on the French Concession had been squeezed $70 by city emissaries, for doing business through foreigners. We now hear of a still more outrageous case of persecution under very similar circumstances. An English firm, located on the French Concession, shipped for Kiukiang 700 bundles of seaweed by one of the U.S.N. Co.'s steamers. A few days later the native broker through whom the purchase had been made was summoned to the Tax-office, next door to the Custom-House, where he was ordered to pay Tls. 100 squeeze. The purchasers of the seaweed, on learning the affair, sent a shroff to support his case, and to ask that he might be released. The shroff was threatened with a flogging for interference. A foreigner then went down, and was told he had been sent to the Mixed Court. The Maloo people, however, denied any knowledge of the affair. It was eventually discovered that the man had been sent into the city. He has now been released on payment of Tls. 306. He was given the option of payment, or imprisonment and torture—implements for the latter purpose being displayed before him. The case has been laid before the English Consul, in so far as it affects the interests of the firm; but the intervention of the French Consul has been also sought to stop the detestable system of espionage which is evidently at work in every corner of the settlement. Notably, we are informed there are spies regularly stationed at the U. S. N. and S. S. N. godowns, to mark every transaction in which a native is concerned; and that even every hong in the French Concession is similarly watched. Whether the other Concessions are similarly favoured we are as yet unaware; but it is very probable.

Another native was arrested on Wednesday, for the crime of doing business through a foreign firm, and squeezed Tls. 27.50. His case has been laid before the Consul-General for France, the man being a resident on a French concession.

A fire has occurred in Messrs. Dodd and Co.'s tea-packing establishment, situated at Twa-tu-tia, a town about twelve miles from Tamsui, and after burning a short time was extinguished with the loss of the bulk rooms and firing rooms.

A fire occurred on Thursday morning in Cheap Jack and Co.'s bakery, Hong-kew. The loss is estimated at Tls. 1,000, and is we believe, covered by insurance.

The difficulties of the Shanghai Club in regard to a committee were finally arranged on the 10th. The present Committee was asked, and consented, to serve during the remainder of the year; and committees are in future to be elected by ballot.

The P.M.S.S. Company advertise a second mail steamer to America this month, which will, we believe, be the first of a fortnightly line.

The American residents in Shanghai celebrated the 4th of July festival in their usual hearty manner. A large number assembled at the U.S. Consulate at noon, where the Declaration of Independence was read by the Vice-Consul-General, Dr. M. T. Yates, and in the evening, we believe, much festivity took place. Mr. G. F. Seward very opportunely returned from his visit to Japan in the afternoon.

The execution of William Williams, for the wilful murder of Thomas Mitchinson, took place on the 4th July. Considerable difficulty was experienced in finding an executioner.

Without a word of warning or of farewell, the Cycle appears to have quietly lapsed; the only faint indication that we can discover, in recent numbers, of its approaching fate, being a sarcastic declaration, on the 27th May, that the press in China has no influence.

The second number of Puck has been published. The hitherto unpublished chapter of Dr. Johnson and Boswell's experiences in China is pointed and well sustained, and the lighter paragraphs are witty and genial.

The following particulars (from the Shanghai Courier) relating to the loss of the Chusan, on the Korean coast, will be read with interest at the present juncture :—

It appears that on or about the 2nd of June the German schooner Chusan left Chefoo for Possiett, or Port May, but in passing round the Korean peninsula was drifted out of her course by the current during a fog, stranded on an island of the Sir James Hall group, and was abandoned by her crew, who reached the Korean coast in safety. The authorities offered to send them back to Chefoo overland, but intimated that they would be allowed to take nothing with them from the wreck, which they considered as theirs. The Chinese portion of the crew accepted the offer of a convoy overland, but the captain (Shölke) and the foreigners preferred risking a run across the Gulf of Liautung in their two boats. One proceeded direct to Chefoo, but Captain Shölke and his party fell in with the Palos on her way to Korea, and were taken on board by her and treated with the hospitality they needed.

It appears that in the confusion of the wreck a gun had accidentally exploded, shattering severely some of the Captain's fingers. As soon as he reached Boisé amputation was performed on those fingers requiring it.

In due time the wreck was sold at auction at Chefoo, and was knocked down "as she lay on the island of the Sir James Hall Group," for some $80 to two British subjects, one named Campbell and the other Paul. They immediately got ready a junk and with another foreigner, a German, and a numerous body of Chinese to conduct the salvaging operations, started for the scene of the wreck. But they had scarcely arrived there when they were surrounded by large numbers of the Koreans, who bound the three foreigners hand and foot, and slinging them on bamboos, as we see pigs carried about through the Settlement, hurried them off into the interior. The Chinese were glad to make their escape, and reaching Chefoo on the morning of the 6th inst., reported what had occurred. The Admiral had left some time before in the Salamis; and Captain Hewitt, of the Ocean, as senior naval officer, at once sent orders to H.M.S. Ringdove to get up steam to proceed, to make inquiries regarding the abducted foreigners.

The result is already known; the two Britishers were restored, but the German has yet to be rescued.

The lighthouse on Shawsheishan Island, opposite to the Tsung-ming, or North Channel branch of the Yangtze river, has just been completed, and the light was first exhibited at sunset on the 1st of July. The tower is of cast iron, whilst the lightkeeper's dwellings, which are detached from the tower, are of brick. A couple of six-pounder guns are mounted on the island, and the lightkeepers have each a snider rifle. The difficulty of landing materials was got over by the employment of a steam derrick crane. The works were executed by the Imperial Maritime Customs from the designs and under the superintendence of Mr. David M. Henderson, C.E., the Chief Coast Lights' Engineer. The tower was made in London by Messrs. Eastons, Amos, and Anderson, whilst the lantern and light were made by Messrs. Chance, of Birmingham. The light from the Tungsha light-vessel is, in ordinary weather, visible at Shawsheishan, twenty nautical miles off; this apparatus was made by Messrs. Wilkins and Co., of London. The new light-vessel for Niuchuang has arrived at Shanghai, after a very lengthy passage from London, and on the 9th July she proceeded north to her station at the mouth of the Siam river.

Extract from Notice to Mariners, No. 10, as published in the Shanghai papers:—

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

No. 10 of 1871.—SHA-WEI-SHAN LIGHT-HOUSE (ENTRANCE OF YANGTZE).—On the 1st of July the Sha-wei-shan Island Light, latitude, 31 N., 24 min. 30 sec., longitude, 122 E., 14 min. 16 sec., was duly exhibited. The apparatus is a catadioptric one of the first order, showing a fixed white light all round the horizon. The light has its centre 229 feet above high water, and, in clear weather, it will be visible twenty-two nautical miles. The tower, which is fifty-five feet in height from base to vane, is painted black, whilst the lightkeepers' dwellings are painted white. DAVID M. HENDERSON, Chief Coast Lights' Engineer. Light-house Engineers' office, Shanghai, 10th July, 1871.

HONG KONG.

Dates extend to the 21st July. The outward mail (French) of June 9 arrived out July 18.

The following items are from the China Mail:—

Mr. W. F. Mayers, H.B.M., Consul at Chefoo, has succeeded in rescuing two British subjects from the Korean authorities. He did so in H.M.S. Ringdove. A German subject, likewise held in imprisonment, was also demanded, but not obtained, though an officer of the N. G. frigate Hertha accompanied the expedition.

The U. S. fleet has returned from the Korea, and is now at Chefoo or Shanghai. Lieutenant McKee's body received funeral honours at Shanghai, and was placed on board steamer to be conveyed home.

Much excitement has been caused by the posting in Fatshan, Canton, and neighbourhood of placards inimical to foreigners, and descriptive of the sale of some imaginary "genii powder." Mr. Hughes (H.M.'s Consul at Canton) has taken up the matter, and the Viceroy has promised his support in allaying the agitation.

The claim for damages brought against the Attorney-General of Hong Kong by Kwok Asing for reiterated arrests on charges connected with the coolie tragedy on board the Nouvelle Penelope was submitted to a jury and disallowed.

Reuter's agents have discontinued to supply telegrams to the press of China, even for payment—we presume for commercial reasons.

It is stated that the Canton authorities have determined upon a site at Honan for the erection of an arsenal, similar to those establishments at Foochow and Shanghai, for the manufacture of vessels of war, as well as offensive weapons of the newest invention known to the Western nations. It is further rumoured that orders have been sent more than a month ago to the scientific countries for appliances and machinery. Another rumour is to the effect that the mandarins are dying to possess a dock of their own at the city of Rams.

The following account, duly certified, of the average amount of bank notes in circulation in Hong Kong, during the month ending 30th June, 1871, is published for general information:—

Banks.	Average amount.	Specie in reserve.
Oriental Corporation...	$463,504	$154,502
Chartered Mercantile of India, London, and China	323,504	150,000
Chartered of India, Australia, and China	181,550	100,000
Hong Kong and Shanghai	1,370,510	600,000
Total	$2,339,068	$1,004,502

The half-yearly meeting of the Hong Kong, Canton, and Macao Steamboat Company took place on the 17th July, when a dividend at the rate of 16 per cent. per annum on the paid-up capital was declared. The company have ordered a new steamer from England, so as to establish a nightly service to and from Canton.

We regret to have to announce the death, at Swatow, of Captain Reay, master of the British barque Constantia, from drowning. It appears that he put off from shore a few nights since, in a sam-pan, for his vessel, which he however unfortunately never reached as the sampan was found next morning foul of a cargo boat, and had evidently capsized the evening previous. Neither the body of Captain Reay nor that of the sampan man have been found.

A large number of distressed people, it is stated between 700 and 800, have arrived from Hupeh at Canton, seeking for relief, having been driven from their homes by the recent floods in that Province. Some more of such people are expected to arrive. We fear the influxion may extend to this colony.

We hear from Canton that the cotton spinning machine recently set up at Honam under the auspices of the Rev. Mr. Vrooman is working satisfactorily, producing about three piculs of cotton yarn daily. This undertaking is likely to be a profitable one.

BORNEO.

SARAWAK.

The following items are from the Sarawak Gazette:—

We hear that the schooner Courier, lately the property of the Borneo Company, has been lost on a reef on the Java coast. Besides a cargo of cattle, sheep, and ponies, she had a thousand dollars in specie on board. Her present owner is Tambie Abdullah, and she is uninsured. The wreck has been sold by the Dutch. The crew and some of the cargo were saved.

The Opium Farm for 1871-2 will be sold by public auction at the Court-House on Monday, October 2nd (for the 1st November).

A report has been published of the Coalfields at Ombelin in Sumatra. The coal is said to be superior to that from Labuan and Borneo, valuable for steamers, but not so good as English coal for iron-founding and gas-making. Large seams have been discovered in the island of Nias.

After the successful expedition of Mingat, who is at the present time in Sarawak, and the failure of the enemy in attacking the head of Sakarang, two slight reverses have occurred to our Dyak forces. Our force had a few wounded, but lost no lives; and they report many of the enemy to have been killed in the brush they had with them.

The Undup bala has started, but it is expected it will not meet with better success than Lang Endang's force did, as Dyaks armed with shields and spears can make little impression upon strong stockades at the summit of steep; however, it is not expected that this mountain will be a permanent abode for the enemy, but merely a hold-fast to stop incursions into homesteads. The force commanded by Usit, only numbering twenty small boats, has returned from Katibas; they advanced to within a very short distance of the enemy's houses in Bangkit, and there had an encounter, which terminated in our party losing two lives; both sides then retired, and ours came back having had enough of it.

There is some interesting news from the Kayan and Koti countries. A party of Sarawak and Sibn Malays some months ago went on a trading excursion up the Rejang river, and have just returned, after having penetrated as far as the head of the Koti river, the mouth of which is on the eastern side of Borneo. The Malays report the population to be very numerous and friendly. The chiefs sent some handsome shields and swords to the Rajah, with a message to express their desire to come and meet him in Sarawak with a view to open trade; their country is several weeks distant from the mouth of the Koti, and many high rapids prevent intercourse by boats. This inland population has scarcely ever seen a Malay, and they were glad to receive salt at a moderate price. The Malays say rice is very plentiful, that one crop lasts two or three years; however, these reports coming from a distance are apt to be exaggerated.

The resident of Rejang reports trade active in his district, there is a great scarcity of rice, and this leads to extra work in gutta; there is no anxiety in the minds of the friendly Dyaks or among the Chinese, and since the expedition of Mingat up the Kanowit river, many of the up-river population have sued to become friends. Layang, Entring, and the ubiquitous Lintong had gone up the Kanowit for the purpose of receiving those who wish in earnest to become friends, and to assist them in removing down the river. Layang and Entring are staunch friends to us, and their report when they return may be relied on.

COCHIN CHINA.

SAIGON.

The only item of general interest in the Courier is the announcement that Messrs. Cornu, Denis, Dierx, Sandner, and S6-manne are appointed members of the Tribunal of Commerce, the first as president, the other four gentlemen as judges, for the year 1871.

The Chamber of Commerce has commenced the publication of a price current, containing the usual information as to freights, produce, exchange, &c.

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

In the Rice market supplies have, in consequence of heavy rains, been rather scanty, and the natives, who are busily engaged preparing the fields for the new crop, do not at all seem inclined to come forward with their stocks, but hope to obtain higher prices in a month or two; under such circumstances, and against all expectations, prices continue to rule high, and quotations are at the close $1.68 to 1.70 for best, and $1.63 to 1.64 per picul long grain. The business has been very important, but almost all shipments have been made on Chinese account.

There is a fair demand in the market for imports at the following quotations:—Grey Shirtings, 8½ lb. $2.50, per piece, do. 7 lb. 2.10; Irish Linen No. 150, $1.70 to 1.75, No. 120, $1.65; T-Cloth, 7 lb. $1.80 to 1.85, 6 lb. $1.70, 5 lb. $1.35, 4½ lb. $1.25, 4 lb. $1.15.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates extend to the 29th July. On the 17th July the English mail of the 16th June, arrived.

The following items are from the Straits Times:—

The Legislative Council had only held one meeting during the fortnight, at which two new Bills relating to the summary jurisdiction of magistrates and the police passed their first reading. It is proposed to make some important alterations in the organisation of the police, and also to raise their pay so as to obtain a better class of men.

The interest in the Lalangore affair has not yet died out; and the Colonial Secretary has gone in the steamer Pluto to confer with the Sultan concerning it. Mr. Birch has made an official report of the result of his expedition, which appears to be that three insubordinate rajahs have been outlawed, and the appointment of Tunkoo did Oodin, as governor of all his provinces, confirmed by the Sultan in the presence of Mr. Birch and Captain Blomfield. The Sultan sent to Mr. Birch a pair of elephants' teeth to be presented to the Queen. This result is regarded as highly satisfactory.

The criminal sessions closed on the 25th July. The only important case was a charge against the head of the Ghee Hok Kongsee, of abducting a Chinese woman. While the case was pending it was rumoured that the Chinese societies meditated rising if the case was decided against the prisoner; but no overt act was committed. The jury were unable to agree, and the prisoner admitted to bail to take his trial next sessions.

It has been decided to rent Beach House for the girls' school of the Raffles' Institute, and devote the whole of the Institution building to the use of the boys' school.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA (via San Francisco).—Grey Shirtings and Yarn had continued in fairly steady request during the month, and whilst no particular change in the former has taken place, quotations for the latter had somewhat improved, with, however, a slightly weaker feeling at the close. There had been some inquiry for T-Cloths, and they had advanced considerably. Quotations:—G. E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., $2.17½ to 2.22 per piece; 8½ lb., $2.52½ to 2.55; 9 lbs., $2.87½ to 2.92½. T-Cloths, 6 lbs. to 7 lbs., $1.56 to 1.95. Cotton Yarn, Nos. 16 to 24, $38.00 to 38.50 per picul; Nos. 28 to 32, $42.00 to 43.00; Nos. 38 to 42, $38.00 to 40.00. Camlets SS., Assorted, $11.00 to 12.00 per piece; Black, $9.50 to 10.00; Scarlet, $14.00 to 15.00. Lastings, 30 yds. 30 in., $10.00 to 11.00.

NAGASAKI (via San Francisco).—The following is from Messrs. Gribble and Co.'s Circular:—Manufactures: Grey Shirtings, 8½ lb., $2.47 to 2.50 per piece; Dyed Shirtings—Indigo, $3.15; Gentian, $3.10 per piece; Victoria Lawns, 12 yds. 42 in., $1.13 per piece; Camlets, SS., white, $16; scarlet, $15.15; orange, $15.15; gentian, $13.63; green, $14.60; black, $11.30 per piece. Plain Lustres, 30 yds. 32 in., black, $5.75. Metals: Nail Rods, up to 3-16 in., $3.50 to 3.65 per picul, wanted.

HANKOW.—Prices of all Cotton Goods had advanced in sympathy with the Shanghai market. A strong demand existed at the early part of the fortnight, and the dealers purchased freely, but inquiry had since ceased, and prices closed weak. Grey Shirtings: An advance of about 8 candareens had been effected, the quotation for 8½ lbs. being Tls. 1.86 to 1.95 per piece; at the close these rates were no longer obtainable. Closing quotations—7 lbs., Tls. 1.65 to 1.70; 8½ lbs., Tls. 1.84 to 1.92. Heavy goods improved, and worth Tls. 2.40 to 2.50. White Shirtings: Small business at previous prices. T-Cloths: A further advance of about 6 candareens has to be noted; a large quantity taken. Mexicans, 6 lbs., Tls. 1.45 to 1.50; 7 lbs., Tls. 1.62 to 1.68; 8 lbs., Tls. 1.80 to 1.88. Drills: Business restricted by holders asking advanced rates. Good English saleable at Tls. 2.90 to 3.05. Jeans sold at Tls. 2.35. Fancy and Dyed Cottons: Coming into demand. Sales of Dyed Brocades at Tls. 2.95 to 3.05; Spots at Tls. 2.90 to 2.95, and Gentian Shirtings at Tls. 2.50. Camlets: Few transactions; dealers generally unprepared to pay higher rates asked by importers. Long Ells: Quotations higher, but nominal. Spanish Stripes: Good assortments saleable at Tls. 52 to 55. Metals—Lead: Small sales at Tls. 4.60 to 4.70. Quicksilver: Nominal at Tls. 68 to 70.

SHANGHAI.—The fortnight had been one of uninterrupted improvement in all classes of textile imports. The London telegrams advised an advancing cotton market in Liverpool, and a corresponding rise in Manchester; and holders here had, in consequence, displayed great firmness, which has resulted in a materially higher range of prices. Grey Shirtings: Native merchants had displayed no small anxiety to invest, paying readily the enhanced rates demanded by holders, who, by their firmness, had run the quotation up to Tls. 1.88 to 2 per piece, for 8½ lbs. ordinary common to best chops; 7 lb. and heavy counts had also improved. Very ordinary heavies sold at Tls. 2.45 to 2.5 per piece. White Shirtings: In better demand at an advance of fully one mace; 60 Reed, Tls. 2.03 per piece; standard, 64s Tls. 2.15. T-Cloths: Fair business transacted, while rates had shown little variation; best Mexican 6 lb. and 7 lb. firmer, and sales at Tls. 1.52 6 lb., and Tls. 1.70 7 lbs. Chop Dollar 7 lb. Tls. 1.75 per piece. Drills: A further advance reported; best quality English, 15 lbs., Tls. 3.10, and Tls. 3.05 per piece quoted for the best Dutch. Americans to arrive and on the spot placed at Tls. 3.10 to 3.37½. Fancy Cottons: A demand had sprung up for many articles, which for months had been unsaleable. Velvets and Velvetens: Large sales reported at a marked improvement, and continue in good request at rising prices. Dyed Brocades changed hands to the extent of 8,000 pieces at Tls. 2.85 to 3 per piece. In the other kinds of fancy Cottons not much change to note, but all firmly held for an advance. In Woollens there has also been a steadily progressive business done during the fortnight. For Scarlet Long Ells C.P.H., Tls. 5.65 refused; assorted of same chop saleable at Tls. 5.30 to 5.35. Camlets: Sales restricted by the firmness of holders. For favourite chops and assortments Tls. 12½ to 13 per piece were nominal quotations. Figured Orleans in good request at a rise of 2 mace. Lustres, Tls. 3.50 to 3.75. Crape Lastings, Tls. 6 to 6.50. Spanish Stripes: Latest prices obtained, Tls. 0.52½ to 0.57 for standard qualities. Metals: Dull; no change.

HONG KONG.—During the fortnight a speculative movement had set in which led to large settlements of Piece Goods by both foreigners and Chinese, prices being still considerably below the equivalent of cost in Manchester for some of the principal articles of Import. The business thus commenced had continued upon a steady scale, and prices of Cotton Goods showed a fair advance all round. There had been a fair business doing in Woollens at the enhanced prices recently established. Cotton Yarn: Disposed of to a fair extent, prices showed little variation from last quotations, holders having met demand freely at current rates. Nos. 16/24s, $110; Nos. 28/32s, $122½; Nos. 38/42s, neglected at $122 to 130 per bale. Grey Shirtings: Largely dealt in at steadily advancing prices; best makes quoted, $2.17½ to 2.20 per piece for 7 lbs., and $2.52½ to 2.55 for 8½ lbs. White Shirtings: Rather more active at about previous quotations. T-Cloths: Very active, and prices advanced fully 10 cents per piece. Quotations: 6 lbs. 32 in., $1.60 to 1.62 per piece; 7 lbs., $1.80 to 1.85. Mexicans 6 lb., $1.75 to 1.85; 7 lbs., $2.10 to 2.20 up to $2.25 for finest. 8 lbs., 36 inches, $2.45 to 2.52½. Grey Twills: Fair business, at an advance of 20 to 25 cents. Dyed and Fancy Cottons: Slight improvement in price, but transactions unimportant. Medium Cloths: Few sales at $1.10 to 1.50, according to quality. Spanish Stripes advanced; HH quality worth 70 cents per yard Assorted, and 72 cents for Scarlet. Good assortments of CPH placed at 68 to 69 cents per yard; inferior, 63 to 64 cents. Long Ells firm, at $7 to 7.10 for Scarlet "Lion Chop;" HH, $7.25 per piece. Camlets taken to a moderate extent at an advance of 25 cents. Lastings: Best qualities worth $15½ to 15½ per piece, according to assortment. Metals—Nail Rod Iron: Sales of Nos. 1/6 $2.23 per picul, but well assorted parcels worth $2.40; holders firmer. Bar and Hoop neglected. Tin Plates: Sales at $5.70 to 5.80 per picul. Quicksilver: Further advance; sales at $84 to 86. Lead still depressed, and quoted $5.45 to 5.50 per picul for L.B. W.B. unsaleable.

SINGAPORE.—Manchester Goods: Market very quiet during the fortnight; prices very little changed; holders firm. 39 inch Grey Shirtings: 8½ lb. fair sales at $2.42½ to 2.45; 7 lb. limited request at $2.05 to 2.07½; 6 lb. very dull at $1.77½. 45 inch: Inquiry confined to 9 lb. at $2.82½; 8 lb. dull at $2.37½ to 2.40; other weights neglected. 36 inch White Shirtings: Low without inquiry; medium in less demand; fine wanted, though late prices barely maintained. 45 inch without inquiry. 36 inch White Spots: Moderate demand for 14 by 15 at $2.45; finer quality unsaleable. 32 inch Grey T-Cloths: No change. 32-inch Grey Madapollams: Fair demand for 2½ lb. at $17. Grey Yarn: 40s in limited inquiry at $109 to 110; 30s very dull at $100 to 102; 18/24s small sales at $83½ to 95 according to quality. Woollens Dull of sale and prices are low. Sales reported of 32 lb. Assorted Camlets at $15; and 12 lb. Scarlet Long Ells at $6.70. Metals.—Iron: Flat bars of good assortments inquired for at last quotations. Nailrods quiet at $2.40 to 2.45. Yellow Metal is dull, but still held for $20½ by most importers. Pig Lead very dull, no transactions.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA (via San Francisco).—Business had continued on a fair scale, and settlements amounted to fully 2,500 piculs, making total settlements since the last American mail about 8,000 piculs, the greater part of which had been of good medium and fine grades; prices had ruled much the same as last quoted, the finer kinds maintained full rates, but the medium grades were, if anything, slightly easier. Supplies had been plentiful, and stocks were increased. The quality showed some slight improvement. The Hong Kong sailed for San Francisco on the 18th July with 139,181 lbs. The Flying Spar was on the berth for New York. Quotations:—Medium, $36 to 38 per picul; good medium, $39 to 42; fine, $43 to 46; finest, $47 to 50; choicest, $52 upwards.

NAGASAKI (via San Francisco).—The only arrivals of new leaf had been some 500 bales suitable for Coloured, and about 200 bales suited for Uncoloured kinds. The former had been bought for Shanghai at $17 to 19 per picul, and the latter remained unsold. No fine Teas had reached this market, beyond a small lot of imitation Yokohama leaf, for which $33 per picul was asked.

KIUKIANG.—About 40 chops of Black Teas had been shipped on native account, but no settlements had been made. There is nothing to report relative to Green Teas.

HANKOW.—The following is Messrs. Drysdale, Ringer and Co.'s report:—We have to report a much larger business here than that of the corresponding period of the previous year, viz:—24,857 chests, 9,360 half-chests against 9,268 chests, and 1,800 half-chests. Of the above, a considerable portion is second crop leaf, or 8,065 chests, 4,728 half-chests. These Teas have come to hand much earlier than last year and are generally considered superior. First arrivals were nearly all from the Yong-low-toong district and were readily taken up at Tls. 21 to 22½. Good parcels are still worth Tls 20 to 21. Inferior grades have ranged from Tls. 17 to 20. Two or three favourite chops of Cheong-sow-kye Tea have been placed on the market; we hear offers of Tls. 21 have been made for them, but no sales are reported. On the whole values have been well maintained throughout the fortnight, the range of price only declining as the quality of the Tea remaining on offer got inferior. The stock is now small and comprises few desirable parcels. Shipments on native account have continued on a fair scale, for the fortnight 34,850 chests, 6,240 half-chests.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs. Drysdale, Ringer, and Co. report as follows under date 14th July:—Black Teas: For several days after the issue of our last report demand was by no means active; advices of a large business done in Foochow and our own heavy shipments made buyers more cautious, and sales could only be effected by a reduction in price, which was gradually conceded by tea-men till a decline of Tls. 2 was established in medium to good medium grades, when a large business ensued in them, and we think the best value obtained throughout the fortnight has been in this class. Common to flavoury Oonams have also been freely taken at Tls. 17 to 20, showing a reduction of Tls. 0.5.0. to 1 per picul. Fine to finest, being in limited supply, have been more firmly held, and cannot be quoted more than Tls. 1 lower. Of the second crop Teas which have been offered, some of the best have found buyers at Tls. 26 to 27.5.0; and they are considered to compare favourably with last year's crop. A few chops of old Tea have been taken at Tls. 12 to 14 per picul. Quotations (exchange at 6s. 0½d., freight £3 per ton):—Hohows, fair to medium, 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 3½d.; Oonam, common to fair, 1s. 0d. to 1s. 3d.; Oopacks, fair to medium, 1s. 2½d. to 1s. 5d.; do., good medium to fine, 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 8d.; Oanfas, medium to good medium, 1s. 4½d. to 1s. 6d.; Ningchows, medium to fine, 1s. 3½d. to 1s. 8½d. Green Teas: The business has been almost entirely confined to American buyers, who continue to take Pingsuey at Tls. 38 to 58 per picul for chops of average proportion. One parcel of finer lines has been settled at Tls. 65 per picul. The range of price is high, compared with last year, but is not wholly attributable to an advance in price. The chops do not contain so many low lines as usual.

FOOCHOW.—During the interval the market had been fairly active, all descriptions of Congou being in good demand and realising full prices. Buyers for England had been somewhat inclined to caution in view of the present large export, but market prices had nevertheless been strongly supported as so many Australian orders for early Tea had been received, and again Tea-men had an advantage over buyers as the supplies of new stock had been forwarded so sparingly, scarcely keeping pace with the settlements. A great weight of Congou had been despatched to the Colonies, but buying still continued, and there were several more cargoes nearly completed. The second crop Teas had recently arrived in quantity, and being well made and possessing strength and pungency they had been freely bought at prices which, compared with last season's, were about Tls. 2 higher for the common grades, and from Tls. 3 to 5 for the better descriptions. Large settlements of Souchongs had been reported, the bulk of them being intended for America. Prices had been very full, considering the quality of the Teas. Scented Teas had also been in considerable demand at recent quotations. Settlements had been: Congou, 50,625 chests, at Tls. 6.8 to 13.3 o.b. for dust to broken leaf; Tls. 13.3 to 18.6 o.b. for leafy to ordinary, Tls. 17 to 19.3 o.b. for fair to common, Tls. 20.8 to 26 o.b. for flavoury to good medium, and Tls. 26.8 to 30.8 o.b. for good medium to fine. Souchong, 8,585 chests, at Tls. 19.8 to 25.8 o.b. for common to medium, Tls. 27.8 to 42.8 o.b. for good medium to finest. Oolong, 6,062 half-chests, at Tls. 22.3 o.b. for common to fair cargo, Tls. 25.8 to 26.3 o.b. for good cargo, and Tls. 27.8 to 31.8 o.b. for superior cargo. Scented Teas, 28,534 boxes, at Tls. 22.8 to 24.8 o.b. for common, Tls. 25.3 to 27.8 o.b. for medium, and Tls. 29.3 to 34.1 o.b. for good medium to fine. Flowery Pekoe, 985 chests, at Tls. 31.8 to 62.8 o.b.

AMOY.—About 2,800 half-chests of Congou had been taken at prices showing no change. Large purchases of Oolongs had again been made, and values had ruled even firmer than before. The settlements of these Teas since the opening of the market aggregate upwards of 70,000 half-chests, while the receipts had been only about 65,000 half-chests, as up to the close buying from muster packages before the chops are at hand had steadily continued. On the berth for New York were the barques Lanercoast and Ardentenny, and the steamer William Miller. The British clipper Leander was expected to load for the same destination.

CANTON.—The market had ruled quiet, and the entire business of the fortnight in all kinds of Teas had been small. About 15,000 boxes of Scented Teas had been settled at easier prices for most descriptions, as tea-men had shown more desire to move off their stocks. A few parcels of Canton Greens had been taken for America and the Continent.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA (via San Francisco).—Since the last American mail arrivals of new staples had been very small, and buyers having shown some anxiety to purchase, prices had advanced from $500 per picul to 570, and at the close there was not a bale of new Silk on offer. With the commencement of August large arrivals were expected, and the quality would no doubt show considerable improvement, as no really good Silk had as yet made its appearance.

SHANGHAI.—The following is from Messrs. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular:—There has been a large and active business during the fortnight at very irregular prices. The selections made for the American market have been taken at extreme rates, and dealers are now trying to force prices Tls. 10 to 15 higher than those given below, notwithstanding an established advance of Tls. 20 since our last issue. Prices in the interrior are higher, and dealers complain of being unable to replace their stock. The following are a few of the prices paid:—Koo Fong Sing chop 3rd, 29s. 5d. to 29s. 8d.; Chooching check chop 3rd, 29s. 6d. to 29s. 9d.; Dragon chop, 29s. 2d. to 29s. 5d.; Cock and Worm chop 3rd, 29s. to 29s. 2d.; Yakee chop 3rd, 29s. 9d.; Blue Flag No. 3, 27s. 5d. 27s. 8d.; Euke fung Elephant chop, 26s. 8d.; Kukee Chin Jan, 26s. 5d.; Red Peacock, 25s. 11d. to 26s. 5d.; Dancing Bear, Nos. 2 and 3, 25s. 8d. and 24s. 7d.; Medium and Common Tsatlee, 25s. 6d. and 24s.; Fatmow Haines, No. 2, 24s. 10d. to 25s. 1d.; Ching Yuen Sing Tinghow Kaking, 27s. 5d.; Tung Yu Chang Vong Kahing, 28s. 2d.

CANTON.—The third crop had arrived at market and exhibited a marked improvement in quality on that of the second crop, being far cleaner. Holders were asking extreme rates, so far above the views of buyers that no settlements had yet been made of third crop Silk, although there was a good inquiry for fine descriptions. For Europe a fair amount of business has been transacted in Silk of the second crop, and settlements amounted to about 350 bales. For America about 400 boxes had been taken at prices showing a slight advance on previous quotations.

CASUALTIES.—Advices from Manila, dated July 18, state that the Marlborough, Larking, which sailed from Zebu, July 2, for London, took ground when leaving that port, but floated in about 24 hours, and proceeded.

The Assyrian, Finnister, which sailed from Ilo Ilo, July 1, for the Channel, grounded on the Otong bank, where she remained for some time; she had to discharge part of her cargo before she could be got off; but it was not yet known whether she had sustained any damage.

Telegraphic advices from Shanghai, dated Aug. 31, state that the Her Majesty, from Foochow, with tea, had put in there with damage, having experienced bad weather, heavy repairs would be necessary.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Mirzapore, which left Southampton September 2nd, was, in gold, to Galle, £30,000; to Bombay, £530; to Madras, £4,271; to Calcutta, £10,000—in silver, to Malta, £300; to Calcutta, £10,800; to Penang, £1,950; to Hong Kong, £24,792; to Shanghai, £9,940; to Sydney, £500; total in gold, £44,801; in silver £48,282.

WE regret to hear that telegrams have been received reporting the death of Mr. Owen, Acting Judge at Singapore, whose case formed the subject of some comments in our last issue.

LONDON: MONDAY, SEPT. 4, 1871.

THE KOREAN DIFFICULTY.

EVERY item of information and rumour which reaches us concerning the American expedition adds, very much against our will, a grain of weight against the discretion of its conduct, and a drachm to the necessity (imposed by the present situation) for prompt action. Any advantage that may have been gained should be improved, and any loss of prestige that may have exacerbated the bitter memories of the French attack five years ago should be repaired, without delay. No doubt we must wait for the declaration of the policy of the Government of the United States in this matter before we can estimate, with any degree of confidence or fairness, its effect on the future of the intercourse between foreigners and the Koreans. But, at the first blush of the evidence before us, it seems undeniable that the Koreans have the best of the argument and the best of the result of the engagements. True, they had their forts captured; but they were immediately deserted by the foreigners who took them. On the other hand, the prejudice against foreign intercourse, if affairs are allowed to stand as they are, will have been vastly confirmed by the very guns which shattered the forts; and it will be a far more arduous task to dislodge the animosity and vain-glory of the Koreans at the abrupt retreat of the Americans than it will be for them to reconstruct their batteries.

The Koreans took the arrival of an armed fleet as a demand, and they lost not a moment in replying clearly, as it appears to us, with the view of avoiding a collision, if possible. Whether they had made up their minds to resist any proposition that might be made to them, or no, is beside the present question. It is certain that they made preparations to do so; but, in the mean-time, we think every candid mind will perceive that they not only totally misapprehended the object of the expedition, but also asked for an explanation of that object in terms which any English gentleman might employ in debate without the slightest failure of courtesy. At this point the main difficulty of the situation faces us. We are not told that any formal or categorical reply was given to the simple and necessary questions in the Korean despatch. All that the American Minister vouchsafed was a declaration that his mission was peaceful. We have no evidence that he declared formally that he did not want the Korean's land, and that he did want to inquire into the destruction of the vessel, that he did want to make a treaty to save future vessels from destruction, and that to that end intercourse was necessary. So far from taking this reasonable course, it appears to us that he took "French leave" to establish the intercourse denied him, and that the Admiral effected his introduction to a country which he was sent to conciliate in the strangest manner ever heard of in diplomacy. The Admiral pushed on, as it appears, after having been warned off. He sent a detachment ashore to take surveys (of all things the most irritating to an Oriental), and thus gave colour to the idea which had prompted the main question in the Korean despatch—"Do you want our land?"

The rest is known. It is the preliminary part of the proceedings, which requires explanation; and this we trust Mr. Low and Admiral RODGERS may be able to give. In the meantime it is clear that affairs cannot be allowed to remain in their present position. The withdrawal of the American squadron is looked upon as a virtual defeat by the Koreans. They are now smarting under the losses they have sustained—and will, therefore, immediately arm themselves to resist with more success a future attack. The American Government have now to decide on the course which it devolves on them to take. Their expedition was sent to open the Korea—it is result has been to close it more firmly than before. They may well reflect on the wisdom of Lord STANLEY's aphorism (in 1855) that "of all the errors a great nation can commit, the greatest is to humiliate an enemy which it cannot crush." The mischief that has been done must be repaired. To all present appearance the mission failed, not because its object was unreasonable, but because its commanders did not "go the right way about it." Another course is open and imperative—diplomacy through China or Japan; and we are persuaded that temperate demands calmly explained, and backed by the distinct ultimatum of war, cannot fail to gain all that is required.

The rumour which we gave in our last that the British fleet had sailed for the Korea turns out, as we said, to have no foundation. The "British fleet" on this occasion happened to consist of the gunboat Ringdove, which was despatched, with Mr. MAYERS, the acting Consul at Chefoo, on board, to take off two English sailors and a German who had been wrecked from the barque Chusan. The Englishmen were recovered; the German, we regret to learn, was not surrendered.

We have much pleasure in presenting our readers, in another column, an exhaustive article on "Judicial Independence" at Singapore, with which we have been favoured by a correspondent in the Straits. The tone of this communication is so entirely in accordance with the views we expressed concerning Mr. OWEN's unjustifiable supersession, and, moreover, the whole of the argument is reviewed so impartially by our contributor, that we will content ourselves with commending his present article to our subscribers, without overweighting it with any comments of our own. There is very little doubt that we shall have to return to the subject before long; because for power to override justice is an abuse too little in accordance with the spirit of the nineteenth century to be maintained with impunity even by its most doughty and reckless champion. It is painful to reflect that Mr. OWEN has been removed before he was fully aware of the sympathy of the public, and the members of his profession at home, which was so unmistakably called forth by the gratuitous [and spiteful indignity passed upon him. The "powers that be" and their supple and malicious supporters may, however, rest assured that whenever the subject is renewed, whether in Parliament or in legal circles, their conduct on this occasion is certain to be severely criticised. The ATTORNEY-GENERAL's attitude in defending "with effusion" such an attack on the prerogatives of his profession is especially condemned. If advocates do not respect the honour of the Bench, how can they expect judges to protect the independence of the bar?

THE removal of Vice-Admiral WELLESLEY and Rear-Admiral WILMOT from their commands in the Channel Squadron have necessitated several changes in recent naval appointments. Thus the appointment of Vice-Admiral HASTINGS to the command of the China Squadron has been cancelled, and the successor to Sir HENRY KELLETT on the station will be Rear-Admiral CHARLES F. A. SEADWELL, C.B., formerly commander of H.M.S. Sphinx on the China Station.

A CHINESE PUZZLE.

If the adage be true which tells us that "happy is the country that has no history," China, in this year of grace 1871, must be a veritable Paradise. It is so unaccountably long since we heard anything from Mr. WADE that his proceedings are beginning to be almost as much a mystery, and as great a source of anxiety, as the whereabouts of Dr. LIVINGSTONE. The most curious part of the matter is, however, that our Minister at Peking seems to have given over the practice of sending any news home at the precise moment when the completion of the telegraph enabled him to communicate with us most quickly. We suppose we must accept "no news as good news;" but, in the meantime, we are not quite satisfied that his Excellency CHUNG HOW is not a great deal better informed of the state of the Chinese capital than we are, or that his Imperial master does not know much more of the condition of the British War Office than we are permitted to do of the forces of the Flowery Land. That astute diplomatist having spent a few months in France without getting an inch nearer to the settlement of the matters he was sent over to negotiate, and his presence in France having been persistently ignored by our own Government throughout the session, seems to have been struck with the "happy thought" of crossing the Channel to see us—a feat which he accomplished precisely two days after Parliament had risen, and our Foreign Secretaries had betaken themselves to the moors. It is just possible that this may have been a "coincidence;" but we must confess it does not look very like one. At any rate, it achieves some very desirable objects—for the Chinese. First, no interview can now take place between CHUNG HOW and our Ministers; secondly, no inconvenient questions can be asked about CHUNG HOW and his mission in the House of Commons; and, thirdly, CHUNG HOW will be able to go home at his own convenience with the proud and incontrovertible statement that he waited on England in due form, and that he found not one member of our Government at his post to receive him. This is how our interests in the Far East are being frittered away; and, in order to deprive us of any special complaint against such neglect, Mr. WADE, with a persistency which is as disheartening as it is unaccountable, fails to send home any intelligence which the Foreign-office vouchsafes to communicate to the public. We have no means now of remedying the evil complained of; we can but protest against it; but Mr. WADE cannot but be aware of the anxiety which his protracted and unreasonable reticence is exciting in the public mind:—

(COMMUNICATED.)

In 1867, while Sir Harry Ord was still in the full flush of carrying everything before him in the Legislative Council, an Act was passed authorising the Governor, whenever it should appear (to himself, of course) necessary, for any special or temporary purpose, to appoint as many judges of the Supreme Court as might be expedient, who were to act until such purpose had been accomplished, or until the appointment was cancelled. With the first breath of opposition, in 1868, it was pointed out that such powers were extremely unconstitutional. To give a Governor power to appoint a judge for a special purpose whenever he thought fit was to empower him to set aside the ordinary Court, and to delegate to a creature of his own any case which he did not like to entrust to a too independent judge. To let him appoint a judge to act until his own appointment was cancelled was to make the tenure of the judicial office dependent on the uncontrolled pleasure of the Governor. The Act was therefore repealed, and in lieu of it a power was given, in the event of the absence or incapacity of one of the regular judges, to appoint a temporary judge, to act during such absence or incapacity. Thus the power was limited to the single event of a regular judge's absence or incapacity, and the appointment was fixed to last during the length of the contingency which created the temporary vacancy.

Such was the state of the law when the Governor, and shortly after him, the Chief Justice, left Singapore, early in the present year. Colonel Anson was appointed to act as a temporary governor in Sir Harry Ord's place, and upon its being represented to him that some inconvenience was found by the public from the absence of a resident judge, he announced in the Gazette of the 24th May that Mr. Owen had been appointed to act as a temporary judge. But as if it had been predetermined that every step should be marked by a blunder, the Gazette stated that the appointment had been made under the repealed Act of 1867, instead of the repealing ordinance of 1868. This mistake, however, was of no moment, except as an indication of the capacity and care which the local Executive brought to their duties. The gentleman appointed was the senior magistrate, a man of high character, both as a gentleman and as a lawyer; and he at once entered upon his new duties. A month, however, had not elapsed when the public was informed by a fresh announcement in the Gazette that the appointment was cancelled, on the ground that "the particular work for which Mr. Owen had been appointed had been completed." Now, we are sorry to say anything unpleasant of so respectably-edited a publication as the Straits Government Gazette, but we are compelled to say of the above statement that it was not true. Mr. Owen had not been appointed for any particular work; indeed, any attempt to limit his functions and make him a bit of a judge, to use Mr. Greenshield's expression, would have been simply nugatory, and illegal; but, further, the "particular work" in which Mr. Owen had been engaged—matters of routine, and matters not admitting of delay—was by no means completed, as the Bar plainly proved in certain resolutions which they passed and sent to Colonel Anson, on hearing what had happened. The cancellation of Mr. Owen's appointment was a second and serious blunder, legally as well as constitutionally; and the concealment of the real cause of it under a pretext to which the books of the Court gave the flattest contradiction, was a third.

But this does not close the catalogue of the Acting Governor's blunders. Another is to be found in what really led to the dismissal. Mr. Owen was cashiered simply because he refused to obey an order issued to him by Colonel Anson requiring him not to try a certain matter which had been set down for hearing, and in which the Government had an interest. That the Executive has no power to issue prohibitions and injunctions to Courts, and that every judge is bound to exercise the functions of his office when properly required to do so, are elementary principles which a gallant officer of artillery or of police may perhaps be excused for not knowing; but gentlemen who fill even temporarily the office of a Colonial Governor have no excuse for being ignorant of them. Colonel Anson had no power to issue any such order, and Mr. Owen would have violated his duty and degraded his office if he had given it any attention. The Acting Governor, in a word, committed a fourth blunder in making such an order, and a fifth in cancelling the appointment through resentment of the disobedience which he properly encountered. We shall not impute to him any responsibility for the tone in which Mr. Birch, the Colonial Secretary, allowed himself, in the Legislative Council, to speak of the gentleman who had thus been publicly insulted.

Such is the pretty pass to which things have come in Singapore. Though the Colonial-office has always defended the theory, it has rarely sanctioned the practice of Governors removing Judges. Indeed, its defence of its theory has mainly been that the power of removal was merely a brutum fulmen in the hands of a Governor, since he wielded it with the rope round his neck. Mr. Owen's case will be a sufficient answer to such reasoning; for it shows that the executive power may sometimes be entrusted to heads weak enough to be intoxicated by the fumes even of a brief and temporary authority. Certainly, to judge from their stumbling and tumbling from beginning to end in this transaction, the Acting Governor and his advisers seem sorely in need of sedatives, and Lord Kimberley is not the man to be either slow or gentle in administering them when they are required. But will his eyes be opened to the necessity of restoring to the Supreme Court that independence which it enjoyed under the Government of India, which it lost when it passed under the administration of Downing-street, and which they, the Colonists, have repeatedly asked to be restored? The Duke of Buckingham in answering the Straits petitions on this subject in September, 1868, observed that Her Majesty's Government "was fully alive to the importance, or rather paramount necessity, of enabling Colonial Judges to administer the law in all cases brought before them, without any apprehension of direct or indirect interference from the Executive;" and Lord Kimberley is probably willing to endorse these views; but can practical effect be given to them as long as the powers of suspension are left in the hands of a local Executive? The present case is but one of many which testify how unqualified the ordinary personnel of such an Executive is in knowledge, discretion, and temper, for exercising such powers.

THE MISSION OF CHUNG HOW.

The arrival in London of Chung How, the Chinese Envoy, has attracted singularly little public attention. To those who remember the flourish of trumpets which greeted the arrival of Mr. Burlingame and his associate Ministers, the two native Government clerks, the apathy with which the presence among us of the Imperial Commissioner of Trade and Vice-president of an Imperial Board is regarded is striking enough. We have not, however, far to look for one cause of the difference between the welcomes accorded to these envoys. Mr. Burlingame was believed to be—and he was the last man to dispel the illusion—the bearer of a spontaneous offer on the part of the Government of China to admit Europeans into a full community of interests with its own subjects, whereas Chung How comes as the apologist for a real national crime with which his own name has been unpleasantly associated. He has even been accused of being an accomplice of the murderers of the unfortunate victims of the Tientsin Massacre; but for this charge we believe there is not the slightest foundation. That he showed himself wanting in presence of mind and decision when the emergency arose we readily allow. There is no doubt also that he was well aware of the mischief brewing weeks before the outbreak took place, for it is admitted that he warned his own Government against the impending danger; and the mistake he made was that, being aware of this, he failed to acquaint the foreign consuls with the state of the popular feeling. It is probable that in his own mind he much underrated the force of the public animosity against the missionaries; and we can quite imagine that he was as much astonished as anybody at the unlooked-for dimensions which the riot assumed. But this does not justify the decidedly neutral attitude he maintained throughout. And it must be confessed therefore that, though his error was one only of judgment, he yet is not entirely free from blame in the matter.

But, in addition to this, the cloud of Mr. Burlingame's unfulfilled promises overshadows him. Every one must admit that Mr. Burlingame's mission was for the time being a great success. He was graciously received at every Court which he visited, from Washington to St. Petersburg; and he gained the adhesion of the most distinguished of European statesmen to the programme he proposed on behalf of the Sovereign he had chosen to represent. But, unfortunately, that he might be able thus to chain fortune to his chariot wheels, he was obliged to make promises in the name of his august master, and, still more unfortunately, those promises have to this day remained unredempted. The result of this untoward discrepancy is now apparent. The Overland China Mail publishes a despatch purporting to be addressed by M. Jules Favre to Chung How in answer to an application on his part to be allowed to present his credentials to M. Thiers in person, in which the Foreign Minister reminds Chung How that Mr. Burlingame was received at an audience by the ex-Emperor only on the understanding that the same privilege would be accorded to the representative of France at Peking, and that up to this time this pledge has been unfulfilled; he therefore politely shelves the question of an audience with the Chief of the Executive, and promises to appoint a diplomatic functionary to confer with the envoy on the subject of his mission. This reply is exactly what it should be, and it will do more to open the eyes of the Chinese to the necessity of acknowledging the equality of Western nations with themselves than any number of gunboats at the ports or hostile demonstrations against the capital. The Chinese Government have become so accustomed to see their ambassadors, of whatever rank, received at audiences by European Sovereigns, while the foreign representatives at Peking have submitted to exclusion from the Imperial Palace, that they doubtless confidently expected that the elevated rank and high social position of Chung How would have borne him through, notwithstanding the extra weight circumstances have compelled him to carry. This check will therefore be a surprise to them, and it is to be hoped that it may act as a healthy alternative. They will, at least, learn from it that they have drawn to the full amount of their credit on the indulgence of the European Powers, and that the time has come when, if they lay claim to be treated on terms of equality with civilised nations, they must acknowledge the reciprocal obligations which will be required of them. It is a matter of congratulation that Chung How's mission led him to the French Court in the first instance, as it now only remains for our Foreign-Office to follow up the line of policy initiated by M. Jules Favre.

Foreign Intelligence.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Aug. 31.

Politics are sleeping their deepest summer's sleep, and we are in the season of race meetings and regattas. A meeting of lawyers has been held at Amsterdam to discuss matters concerning their practice, and some people flatter themselves that these "reunions" will tend to make our ministers of justice more business-like than hitherto. Archery contests have taken place at Amsterdam attended by the volunteers of this town and by the King, who is astonishing the public with ultra military speeches. In the papers we look in vain for political news. The clubs are empty; the members are enjoying their holidays on the borders of an Italian lake or on the mountains of Switzerland. In the meanwhile the greatest activity prevails in the ministerial bureaux. The ministers and high functionaries are working hard preparing the budgets, which are to be laid before the members when the sitting opens. Some papers state that the Contagious Diseases Bill will be discussed before the Budget; it was published some days ago, and I am happy to say that its provisions are efficacious.

I hear that it is the firm intention of Mr. Blussé, the Minister of Finance, to propose an income-tax, and that this will be announced in the Royal Speech. It is even said that this tax will be fixed at 2 per cent. upon annual incomes. This, indeed, would be enormous, the more because it is asserted that the license and other taxes will continue to be maintained, but I think this impossible. The Second Chamber cannot vote such burdens and grant at the same time such colossal amounts for the army and navy. But these are only rumours, and very soon the actual facts will transpire.

Some days ago the report of Resident Steinmetz was published upon the coffee cultivation. It is very voluminous but out of date.

The Netherlands India Gas Company advertise a dividend of 8 per cent., being f.20 per share.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

Business transactions continue to be void of animation, but hardly any alteration is to be reported in prices of the leading articles of produce. Sugar looks rather more animated, as a partial demand has prevailed for the medium numbers for export, which could only, however, be insufficiently met for want of suitable parcels.

COFFEE.—A healthy tone continues to pervade the market, and some numbers of the late public sale are inquired after at the prices paid at the same. The result of that sale has made a favourable impression upon dealers abroad, who readily accept the offers made them, which in concurrence with the reported short yield of the crop in Java causes the position of the article to be very strong at present. Sales have been closed of 3,200 bags Java, ex Maria Diederika; 3,950 bags Java, ex Statt; 1,000 bags Java, ex Nederland.

COTTON.—An animated demand has continued to prevail, and sales have been making to a fair extent for export and on speculation at further advanced rates. The quotations are for American low middling 46c. to 47c., middling 47½c. to 48½c., strict middling 48½c. to 49½c., basis middling per October 47½c.

SUGAR.—The medium numbers of Java have been in better request, and about 3,000 to 4,000 baskets were disposed of at f.½ to f.1 below the prices of the late July sale. There is very little on offer in the market, 237 mats Java No. 17, ex Bellatrix, sold at f.1 under July prices.

TEA.—Continues to look firm; 400/12 chests fine Monong Congou, imported from London, have changed hands.

SPICES.—Sales have been closed on secret terms, of 55 casks Nutmegs, 28 casks 2 barrels and 5 chests Mace, ex Jacoba Christina and Nederland, beyond which transaction not much has been done privately. The Dutch Trading Company sold yesterday, in public auction, the following parcels:—

	Casks.	Valuation.	Prices paid.
Nutmegs, No. 1 ...	170 ...	185c. ...	191c. to —
Do. No. 2 ...	430 ...	175c. ...	182c. „ 183c.
Do. No. 3 ...	186 ...	135c. ...	146c. „ 147c.
Do. No. 4 ...	180 ...	105c. ...	101c. „ —
Mace, E ...	435 ...	255c. ...	241c. „ —
Cloves, No. 3 ...	170 ...	27c. ...	27c. „ 29c.

Stock on warrants in the Trading Company's stores:—Nutmegs, 2,066 casks; Mace, 48 casks; Cloves, 2,670 casks; Cinnamon, 29 packages; Pepper, 100 bags.

TIN.—The demand for this article remains quiet. Banca has been selling for usual prompt at f.80, f.79½, and f.80, and for delivery ex the coming autumn sale at f.78. Sales have been closed by secret tender at Amsterdam of 1,000 slabs Billiton, but the price has not been allowed to transpire.

HIDES.—Java Cow continue to meet ready buyers at full, and even advanced, rates, but Buffaloes are rather lower in price. The following parcels were sold since my last, viz.: 3,000 Sourabaya Cows, ex Lord Raglan; 2,000 ditto, ex County of Argyle; 625 ditto, ex Jacoba Christina; 271 Batavia Buffaloes, ex C. G. Michiels.

DRUGS, &c.—About 18 tons African India-rubber, recently arrived from Banama, ex Ida Maria de Raadt, will be put up to tender here the day after to-morrow, for account of the African Trading Society.

INDIGO.—A few lots Java of very superior quality found buyers at steady prices.

RATTANS.—The business done in this article has been confined to the sales of 25 piculs, ex Asfens, and 338 piculs, ex Lord Raglan.

RICE.—About 900 tons Rangoon afloat, per Elise Querola, were disposed of at Amsterdam on secret terms.

TOBACCO (JAVA).—The following sales have been closed since the last mail:—

544 bales Java, head mark	ETB/KEDIRIE, ex Jacoba Christine.
564 „ do. „	SOEKOWONO, afloat.
1,097 „ do. „	P. K./BLITAE.
646 „ do. „	TEMPEH
133 „ do. „	J. T. M. } ex Willemina Clara.
181 „ do. „	K
1,413 „ do. „	B.V.L. & R. } afloat.
960 „ do. „	TEMPEH
880 „ do. „	KOTTA
169 „ do. „	D/KAWI, ex County of Elgin.

TORTOISE-SHELL.—Sales have been closed on secret terms of 4 chests Macassar, ex Vrachzoeker.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Each packet or tin is labelled—JAMES EPPS & CO., Homoeopathic Chemists, London. Epps's Cocoa is also prepared with condensed milk, and sold in tins, labelled Epps's Milky Cocoa.

THE P. AND O. STEAMER "MIRZAPORE."

The Mirzapore steamship, built for the Peninsular and Oriental Company by Messrs. Caird and Co., of Greenock, and commanded by Captain A. Parish, underwent a most successful trial on the 30th ult. at the measured mile in Stokes Bay. The Mirzapore is a sister ship to the Khedive, which was despatched to the Eastern seas a little over three months since, and the Pekin and Peshawar, both of which will be ready for service before the end of the year. The following are her leading dimensions:—Length between perpendiculars, 380ft. 3in.; breadth of beam, 42ft. 6in.; depth from top of floor to spar deck, 33ft. 1in.; tonnage, builders' measurement, 3,762; registered tonnage, 2,090; engine-room ditto, 1,672; gross tonnage 3,762. Her engines are on the combined high and low condensing principle, of 600-horse power nominal, indicating 3,182 during the trial; two 68in. and two 96in. cylinders, with a stroke of 4ft. 6in.; heating surface of boilers, 11,720 square feet; firegrate surface, 320 sq. ft., and condensing surface, 6,059 sq. ft. She is fitted with a common four-bladed propeller, 17ft. 6in. diameter; pitch, 22½ ft. to 24ft.; length, about 4ft. 3in. With a pressure of 48lb. of steam, 26½ in. vacuum, and engines making 62 revolutions per minute, she made two runs on the mile with the following results:—First run, against wind and tide, 5 min., 12,000 knots per hour; second run, 3 min. 47 sec., 15,850 knots, giving a true mean speed of 13.925 knots per hour. Wind at the time light from the south-east; barometer, 30.03in.; smooth sea. The vessel had a total weight on board of coals, water, and stores, of 905 tons, and her draught of water was 17ft. 8in. forward, and 18ft. 9in. aft, her mean draught being 18ft. 2½ in.

The Mirzapore left Southampton on Saturday last on her first ocean voyage, with the heavy portion of the next India, China, and Australian mail.

BULLION AND SPECIE.

GOLD—The imports, limited as they have been, have been more than sufficient for the export demand, as with the exception of a few small orders for India, nearly all arrivals are purchased by the Bank, £75,000 having been sent in since the 24th ult.; on the other hand, sovereigns to the value of £70,000 have been withdrawn. We have received during the week:—£56,500, per Tasmanian, from the West Indies; £2,440, per Bonita, from Brazil; £30,500, per steamers, from New York; Total, £89,440. The Nyanza has taken £68,430 to Bombay, and the Celt £97,000 to the Cape. The incoming Australian mail, due on the 9th proximo, has £480,500 for this country.

SILVER—The market has become a shade firmer, and the price may be quoted as 60 11-16d. to 60½d. per oz. standard, the demand being principally for Holland.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

Public sales, "without reserve," have been held almost daily during the past week; the prices realised have shown but little change from the rates previously ruling, the only alteration being a slight improvement in new season's Ping Suey Greens, while one or two parcels of common Black-leaf Teas have been quitted at a further decline. Privately new Moning Congous of really fine quality have realised 2s. 2d. to 2s. 6d. per lb., ordinary Moning Congou 1s. 4d. to 1s. 6d., and Kaisows, per Abbotsford, 1s. 5d. to 1s. 10d.; a few finest 2s. to 2s. 2d. per lb. The following is a record of the public sales:—

On the 28th ult. 4,670 packages new season's tea were offered without reserve, and all disposed of. Congou met a moderate competition, prices being about equal to those paid previously; 1,340 chests black leaf sold at 10½d. to 11½d., and 300 chests do. at 1s. to 1s. 0½d. per lb. 2,819 packages new Ping Suey Green sold with fair spirit, the valuations being fully realised for most of the fine and finest qualities; medium and common in the invoices on the other hand went slowly and at low rates throughout. The finest grades in boxes sold as follows:—Gunpowder, No. 1 at 3s. 9d. to 3s. 9½d., No. 2 at 3s. 0½d., No. 3 at 2s. 11d., medium and inferior kinds at 1s. 8d. to 2s. 8d., Young Hyson, No. 1 2s. 4½d. to 2s. 5½d., No. 2 at 1s. 11½d. per lb.

On the 29th small public sales were held, the total not exceeding 1,170 packages, which were all sold. 200 chests new season's black leaf Congou sold at 1s. 6d. to 1s. 6½d. per lb., being steady. Small parcels of common Green sold at previous rates.

On the 30th 3,257 packages new season's Ping Suey Green, ex Achilles, were offered without reserve, and all sold. Rather more competition prevailed, and firmer prices were obtained; the bulk (2,500 packages) consisted of Gunpowder, the better qualities in boxes sold at 3s. 6½d. to 3s. 7d. for No. 1, and 2s. 5d. to 2s. 11½d. for Nos. 2 and 3, inferior kinds in half-chests and boxes at 1s. 7½d. to 2s. 0½d.; 757 packages Young Hyson sold, No. 1 at 2s. 3½d. to 2s. 3½d., No. 2 at 1s. 11½d., inferior in half-chests 1s. 1d. to 1s. 1½d. per lb.

On the 31st ultimo, 2,730 packages were offered, and, with the exception of 117 packages offered with reserved prices, the whole was sold without reserve. 376 half-chests new black-leaf Congou sold at 1s. 5½d., 160 chests old Foochow at 10d. to 11½d., and 243 chests 200 half-chests Souchong at 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 1d. 800 boxes new scented Orange Pekoe sold previous to the auction, 400 boxes scented Capor brought 1s. 1½d.; 434 half-chests Moyune Green sold—Gunpowder 1s. 4½d. to 1s. 4½d., Young Hyson 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 5½d., Imperial 1s. 3d. to 1s. 5½d., inferior 1s. to 1s. 0½d., Hyson 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 5½d., common 9½d. to 11½d. per lb.

COFFEE.

There has been little or no alteration in the market since our report of the 25th ult. Considerable supplies at the public sales have met a strong general demand, and have been nearly all disposed of. Plantation Ceylon at fully previous rates, pale kinds at full prices. The latest rates paid have been: Plantation Ceylon, triage and ordinary 52s. to 62s., small dull to coloury 63s. to 67s. 6d., low middling grey to dull 66s. 6d. to 69s. 6d., bold ditto 72s. to 76s., middling coloury 70s. to 75s. 6d., good middling to good bold coloury 76s. to 85s., pea-berry 83s. to 84s. Native Ceylon, good ordinary 57s., one lot 57s. 6d., bold 59s., pea-berry 60s. 6d. Of 117 bags Singapore offered, 55 bags mixed sold at 54s. to 54s. 6d., Pari Pari being bought in at 57s. Of 361 bags Manila Indian sort offered, one-half sold at 58s. to 58s. 6d. By private contract there has been a good demand for pale kinds, and a rather large business has been done both on the spot and for arrival at full rates, but particulars are not reported, on the spot; native Ceylon has realised 57s. 3d. to 57s. 6d. up to 62s. 6d. for fine bold; native East India for arrival (about 500 tons) 60s., and 220 bags Manila Indian sort on the spot 58s. 6d.

The landings, which continue to consist chiefly of Ceylon, are again larger than in 1870 by 610 tons, but as the deliveries are heavy and exceed last year's by a similar amount, the deficiency in the stock is unaltered. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 124,534 cwt., against 308,112 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1870; Native 19,247 cwt., against 23,140 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is 5,811 cwt. Plantation, against 15,108 cwt., and 7,036 cwt. Native, against 21,768 cwt. The quantity of Coffee landed in the thirty-four weeks ended Aug. 26, 1871, was, of Ceylon, 27,923 tons, against 23,920 tons during the corresponding period of 1870; of all descriptions, 48,687 tons, against 39,729 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 7,264 tons, against 6,932 tons; of all descriptions, 12,832 tons, against 12,214 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 21,093 tons, against 18,262 tons; of all descriptions, 38,917 tons, against 28,946 tons. The stock on Aug. 26 was, of Ceylon, 13,171 tons, against 12,590 tons; of all descriptions, 21,747 tons, against 22,788 tons.

CINNAMON.

The quarterly sales took place on the 28th ult., and comprised a total of 2,660 bales. The bulk of the quality was good and fine, and about 1,900 bales sold, prices, as compared with the quotations of last May, being thus:—Fair and medium descriptions at steady prices; good and fine 1sts, at steady prices to 1d. per lb. advance; good and fine 2nds at 1d. to 2d. advance; 3rds at steady prices; 4ths at 2d. to 3d. advance; common mixed qualities, with flavour, sold readily at 3d. to 4d.; whilst of 550 bales low nondescript kind, or cassafra bark, only a few sold at 1½d. to 1¾d.; superior quills sold at 3s. 6d. to 3s. 7d. per lb. There were about 493 bales of 1sts, 888 bales of 2nds, 688 bales of 3rds, and 182 bales of 4ths, the rest being nondescript:—

Of Chips, 1,475 Ceylon met a good demand, and were all sold at dearer rates, coarse to thin bark 2d. to 2½d.; ordinary mixed, 3½d.; low middling to middling chips, 4d. to 5d.; good middling to good, 5½d. to 6½d.; small lots fine chips and broken Cinnamon, 1s. to 1s. 6d. per lb.

SUGAR.

The demand has only been moderate, and the business—which has also been checked by the firmness of holders—has been limited. The only sales have been 480 bags low Java syraps at 22s.; 1,500 bags good clayed Manila (duty 4s.), at 26s. 6d.; 13,100 bags common brown (duty 4s.) at 24s.; 8,100 bags Zebu unclayed, at 22s. 6d., a few at 23s.; 2,200 bags Taal unclayed, at 21s. per cwt.; and 13,000 bags Ilo Ilo unclayed at 22s. 9d.

As against the light landing in 1870 those in the past week are 2,000 tons heavier, deliveries continue above those of the previous year, and the deficiency in the stock is slightly reduced, but still amounting to 30,000 tons. Stock, Aug. 19, 73,484 tons, against 105,228 tons. Aug. 26, 72,812 tons, against 102,937 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the thirty-four weeks ended Aug. 26, 1871, was, of Penang, 974 tons, against 2,277 tons in the corresponding period of 1870; of Manila, Java and China, 16,715 tons, against 14,423 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 2,782 tons, against 1,588 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 21,212 tons, against 17,032 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 184 tons, against 95 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 1,054 tons, against 1,830 tons. The stock on Aug. 26 was, of Penang, 984 tons, against 2,924 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 21,242 tons, against 31,351 tons.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—Market dull; and sales difficult to effect for all kinds, especially Ceylon, which continues to exhibit a downward tendency. On the spot parcels are offering at £38 10s., without finding buyers; afloat 100 tons June shipment have been sold at £39.

HEMP.—Manila has remained firm, but sales are only to a moderate extent. Fair to good fair roping £47 to £48, brown £38; Coconada, £22 to £23; Sunn, good £22 10s. to £24 10s., common £17 to £17 10s. A large business has been done during the last few days in parcels afloat at £46 to £47 per ton.

JAPAN WAX.—Very firm; fine, 96s.; middling rather soft, 91s.; mealy 83s. to 85s.

PEPPER.—Black: Batavian sold, sound at 6½d., sea damaged 6d. to 6½d. for first class, ordinary Singapore at 6d. to 6½d. West Coast Penang, now landing per Kangaroo, at 6 1-16d. White: Good demand at full rates, Singapore fair 10d. to 10½d., good 10½d., Penang 10½d. to 10¾d.

RICE.—Business is still principally in floating cargoes, in which considerable transactions have been effected at advancing prices. On the spot good middling white Bengal has been sold at 11s., Madras at 10s., Ballam at 10s. to 10s. 3d.; floating cargoes have been sold as follows:

—The William Alberg, 1,080 tons Rangoon, at 9s. 10½d., for the Continent; the Waterloo, 1,715 tons Necransie, arrived here at 9s. 4½d., ex quay for London; the Moskwa, 810 tons Rangoon, at 9s. 11½d., continental terms, damaged at valuation; the Ellen Rickmers, 450 tons Rangoon, at 10s., on similar terms; the Persia, 600 tons Necransie, at 9s. 4½d., ex ship for London; the Australian, 950 tons Rangoon, Ang. sailing, at 10s. 3d., for the Continent; the William, 815 tons, Rangoon, off coast, at 10s., for the Continent; the George Kendall, 1,085 tons Rangoon, price not reported; the Orion, 750 tons Rangoon, at 10s., continental terms; the Asterion, 750 tons Rangoon, at 10s., continental terms; the Augusta, 581 tons Necransie arrived at 9s. 6d., ex ship London; the Ellen Goudy, 1,300 tons Necransie, April sailing, also at 9s. 6d., ex ship for London; the Persia, 600 tons Necransie, arrived, re-sold at 9s. 6d., ex ship London; the Carn Tual, 700 tons Necransie, arrived, also resold at 9s. 6d., ex ship London.

TIN.—Prices have been irregular throughout the week. Some parcels of Straits, for immediate cash, have been sold at £130, and even £129 has been spoken of; but the latter figure is no criterion of the market, as there have been buyers throughout at £130. Buyers of considerable quantities for forward delivery have been obliged to pay higher rates, owing to the high prices current at Penang and Singapore. Telegrams from Holland announce that the Trading Company's sale will take place at Rotterdam on the 28th inst., when 83,000 slabs Banca and 2,000 Billiton will be offered without reserve.

ARTICLES OF EXPORT.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

Since the 25th ult. the tone of the Market has been quiet, with a very steady feeling. Spinners and manufacturers are asking higher prices, owing to the dearer tendency of the Liverpool Cotton Market. Buyers generally, however, do not feel inclined to increase their offers, and the business in progress is consequently limited. The Market is however, improving, and closes strong.

ART, PICTORIAL AND INDUSTRIAL.

In Illustrated Magazine.

THIS Publication was commenced on the 1st of July, in the belief that an ample field existed for a high class monthly magazine devoted to Art; and already the result has fulfilled this expectation. 'ART' is produced in a form eminently adapted to the drawing-room table. It is handsomely printed on fine paper, in super-royal quarto, and each Number contains four or more full-page Heliotype Illustrations, being reproductions of Ancient and Modern Pictures, Engravings, Designs, Sculpture, and objects of Industrial or Decorative Art.

Among the contributors to 'ART' are Messrs. BLANCHARD JERROLD, CHARLES BURTON, J. CORDY JEAFFRESON, G. W. REID, HYDE CLARKE, GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA, W. R. RALSTON, JOHN FORBES ROBERTSON, HENRY BLACKBURN, G. W. YAPP, JOHN PIGGOT, Jun., E. OLLIER, &c., &c.

TANJONG PAGAR DOCK COMPANY

VICTORIA DOCK, SINGAPORE.

This Company's Granite DRY DOCK, 450 feet in length, 65 feet width of entrance, and 20 feet depth of water on the sill, was OPENED on the 17th October, 1868. In the high tides of the North-East Monsoon there is a foot to eighteen inches more water.

In connection with the Dock is a complete range of workshops, fitted with steam machinery, driving all descriptions of engineers' tools required in the construction and repair of vessels and machinery, and a foundry for iron and brass castings.

The Company's extensive Wharves and Godowns for receiving and storing cargo immediately adjoin the Dock.

Having an efficient European staff in each department, the Company is in a position to guarantee the best workmanship, executed with every possible despatch, as well as low rates of charges.

These advantages, and the great facilities which the proximity of the Dock to the town offers for the transport of materials, &c., enable this Company to adopt a very low scale of charges for ships' work of all classes.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

TYPHOON IN THE CHINA SEA.

HONG KONG, SEPT. 4.—A typhoon occurred on the coast on the 2nd inst. Nearly a dozen ships are reported to be ashore, but no loss of life is announced.

HONG KONG, SEPT. 6.—The Vistula and Silversparre, which were loading for Havana, foundered during the storm; the Mericano, from Swatow, for Hong Kong, in ballast, has been totally wrecked; the Roline Marie, loading for Java, has sunk; the Edouard Marie, loading for Java, has stranded; the Holomboe, from Ningpo, for Hong Kong, has foundered; the Colombo, from Saigon, for Hong Kong, has been abandoned; and many more vessels which have been caught in the typhoon are coming into port in a very crippled condition. The hurricane has also visited Formosa, and several vessels have been totally wrecked, including the British ship Westward Ho, the French ship Adele, and the Dutch ship Batavia Packet, but all the crews are reported to have been saved; the commander of the Westward Ho was drowned.

It is feared that the typhoon has created havoc among the shipping at other of the China ports, but at present no details of further damage than those mentioned above have been received, nor do the telegrams state if there was any serious loss of life in connection with the foundering of so many vessels.

OFFICIAL AMENITIES AT SINGAPORE.

THE discussion in the Legislative Council on the temporary judgeship brought to light a state of feeling and temper not calculated to elevate official life in public estimation. In the first place, the Council was told by the COLONIAL SECRETARY or the ATTORNEY-GENERAL that the local Government was not disposed to appoint a temporary judge in the absence of a regular one, unless there was some special reason for it. Now, why this new-born reluctance? In 1867 the official views were very different. The absence of Sir BENSON MAXWELL, the Chief Justice, was then so much felt that Sir H. ORB, before he had been four months in office, found it absolutely indispensable to obtain powers from the Legislative Council to appoint judges for special and temporary purposes whenever he thought fit; and he immediately exercised his powers by sending the ATTORNEY-GENERAL to hold the Malacca Assizes, which could well have been held by Sir W. HACKETT, the judge of Penang. But when such appointments from the local Bar are vetoed by the Colonial-office, and a member of the English Bar is appointed senior magistrate at Singapore, with the understanding that he is to be available for a temporary judgeship whenever the occasion arises, how comes it that scruples fill the official breast about giving the public the benefit of his services in that capacity? Mr. BIRCH tells us that he was once a judge at Ceylon, and it is rumoured that he at first proposed to act as the temporary judge himself the other day. Mr. BRADDELL, as we have mentioned, enjoyed the dignity of a judge of assize for a whole week. Neither of these gentlemen appears to have been much gratified by the preference given to Mr. OWEN's pretensions; and their dislike to the occasional temporary elevation of another to the place is explicable on a natural, if not very lofty, feeling. But it is to be hoped that their aversion to the appointment of temporary judges will not have the effect of preventing such appointments whenever a really competent man is available, and the public interests are thereby promoted.

But Mr. BIRCH was betrayed into the exhibition of something worse than a childish jealousy. In defending an unconstitutional act, he thought fit to make a personal attack on the temporary judge, holding him up to public obloquy as seeking to evade his ordinary duties, and alleging this as a ground, if not the ground, of his dismissal. Such an attack, even if well founded, was as reprehensible as the pretext which it furnished was disingenuous. The speeches of Mr. BIRCH and Mr. BRADDELL, and the correspondence which was read, proved plainly that Mr. OWEN's appointment had been cancelled, not because he had sought exemption from serving on a Prison Committee—on which it had been suddenly found so absolutely necessary to put him—but because he had refused to obey the illegal order which required him not to try a cause to which Mr. BIRCH "unfortunately," he says, referred. But, even if the charge and the pretext had been true, what had the Council to do with the merits or demerits of Mr. OWEN's conduct? They asked why he had been dismissed. Mr. BIRCH questioned their right to demand an explanation; but he did not question his own right to asperse the character of a brother official behind his back. We think that he was bound to give the explanation, and equally bound to abstain from the attack. The production of the correspondence sufficed to give the true explanation; and if Mr. BIRCH desired to find another in Mr. OWEN's supposed conduct, it sufficed to state it in the briefest and most general terms. To go into allegations which Mr. OWEN had not the opportunity of contesting, and before an Assembly which had no jurisdiction over them, was to exhibit a haste and temper simply deplorable. It was an outrage at once on the local authorities whom he defended, on the gentleman he attacked, and on the dignity of the Council; and the Acting Governor would have better understood his duty if he had at once silenced instead of encouraging his subordinate. If Mr. BIRCH carries a similar tone into the official correspondence which passes through his office, we can be at no loss to account for those rumours of ill-feeling in the Straits public service which for some time past have occasionally reached our ears.

THE COLOMBO WATER SUPPLY.

MR. J. J. GRINLINGTON's Report on this urgent subject sets out with the enunciation of two most important facts—first, that the resident population of Colombo amounts to 100,000 souls, exclusive of a floating population of 10,000, who visit it every day for business; and, secondly, that the water of the city is so bad that one-half the year it tastes like “a strong infusion of old leather,” and the other half “as if it had been used in cleaning the vessels of a dairy.” To remedy such an abominable state of things as this—an object which, now the cholera is at hand, is stimulating even our own sluggish authorities to unwonted exertion to secure to the metropolis that prime necessary of life, pure water and plenty of it, must engage the interest of Englishmen at home, as well as in Colombo, in an unusual degree. It is but bare justice to Mr. GRINLINGTON to say at once that his Report, and his recommendations founded on that Report, carry with them prima facie evidence of being thoroughly well considered, and very candidly and unassumingly expressed—somewhat at too great length perhaps, but that is a complaint which almost all the Reports we ever saw are subject to. Perhaps the reason why we, even thus slightly, allude to the length of Mr. GRINLINGTON's document is that he makes out such a very clear case at the beginning of his argument that we feel almost compelled cut him short by exclaiming, “Sir, you are quite right. There are 110,000 of you and your neighbours. You have got as bad water as there is in the world. You want good water; it is within your reach, and you must have it. There is no doubt about that, so don't beat about the bush, but tell us the best way to get it. It is idle to talk as if you thought that the Government could afford to sacrifice the health of a place like Colombo (even if it were willing to do so) for the sake of a preliminary expense which, after all, is only a question of time. You must know that there is not a place in the British Empire which is so anxiously watched, has been so rapidly and healthily developed—or begun to be developed—and has so richly repaid the first outlay of public capital which was advanced to improve her. Why, then, doubt lest a water supply, which will be as remunerative as your railway (in another sense) may be withheld? Propound your scheme, and be sure it will be adopted, because the greatest sufferer by delay will be the mother country, to which the colony is of inestimable value.”

To this (pursuing the idea of an imaginary conversation) Mr. GRINLINGTON replies by propounding his own plan, and alluding to no less than four more, of which, as the particulars are not before us, we can only say that, if they are better than his, they must be very good indeed. The very circumstance of four gentlemen like Mr. DAVID WILSON, Captain GRAHAM, Captain DONNAR, and Captain FYERS, having prepared plans shows the urgency with which the question is properly regarded on the spot; and Mr. TOWNSHEND, who has been sent out by the Colonial Office, at the request of Sir HERCULES ROBINSON, to examine the merits of the several schemes, must have found his labours considerably lightened by such an embarras de richesses on his arrival in Colombo on the 5th ult. No doubt we shall soon hear something of the fruits of his investigation, for the subject is known to be one which Sir HERCULES ROBINSON fully recognises the importance of, and there could not be a more graceful act for a retiring Governor, who has distinguished his term of office by so many improvements, than this—which would be the greatest improvement of all.

Mr. GRINLINGTON's case is extremely clear, and the amount he recommends the Government to advance is very moderate compared with the advantages to be gained. There would be plenty of money without Government aid at all, if the wonderful success of the railway had not lessened the municipal income, by almost abolishing the carts which used to flock into Colombo in the days before steam, and so having done away with both tolls and licenses to the tune of no less than £6,000 a-year. Under these circumstances it is utterly out of the power of the municipality to carry out the new scheme without Government aid. The total cost of the proposed works is estimated at £174,000—a sum which appears by no means excessive when we take into consideration the distance the water has to be brought. Mr. GRINLINGTON suggests the formation of a Company with a guarantee of not less than 6 per cent., a very moderate rate in a place where money commands 8 or 9 per cent. with the best possible security. For a payment of about £10,000 or £11,000 a-year (the interest on the above capital) Mr. GRINLINGTON thinks that a company might be formed to execute the works, lay on a supply in every street, and erect public fountains at convenient intervals. The amount of the proposed Government subsidy is very small—no more than £3,000 a-year, the exact sum by the way which the Government offered to pay for the same object seven years ago. This grant Mr. GRINLINGTON asks for only twenty years, making up the remaining £7,000 a-year, half from the general revenue, and half from a public water-rate. The plan appears to us to be so simple and efficient that we can hardly doubt that our friends in Colombo will adopt it without hesitation.

RUSSIA IN THE FAR EAST.

WE are somewhat surprised that the annexation of the island of Saghalien (Tarakai) by the Russian Government, though so quietly effected, should have excited no comment in the London journals. We agree with the Japan Mail that “the act is unscrupulous and unjustifiable, but that the resources of the island will be more quickly developed by Russia than by the Yedo Government.” We have never given way to Russo-phobia, but we must confess to some apprehension lest the “development” of the island alluded to by our contemporary at Yokohama may not prove somewhat incompatible with our own peace. The new annexation certainly complicates the situation in the Far East as regards foreigners. The island itself is a very valuable acquisition, well-wooded, containing great mineral wealth, and possessing a fertile soil and a tractable and intelligent population. It is no less than 600 miles long, by from 80 to 120 miles wide; in other words, it is a little larger than Scotland, containing an area of about 30,000 square miles. It extends along the Eastern Coast of Asia between 142 deg. and 145 deg. E. long., and is only separated from the continent by a strait. Its position is most important as an arsenal or a harbour in time of war; and we are therefore the more unable to account for the perfect equanimity with which our Yokohama and China contemporaries seem to view its being taken possession of, without the slightest excuse or show of reason, by the Power which a large section of the public suspects of the design to wrest our Eastern Empire from us.

WITH reference to the Chief Justiceship of the Straits Settlements, a person, signing himself “KLING,” and professing to date from the Temple, addressed yesterday such a letter to the Standard as no other journal in the Empire would probably have lent itself to insert. The writer asks, “Why the Colonial Secretary has appointed a Roman Catholic barrister, without practice and experience, and utterly unknown at Westminster Hall, to fill the important post vacated by Sir BENSON MAXWELL, to which a salary of £2,500 per annum is attached?” There is more of this sort of virulence in the composition under notice, which we decline to copy, believing that the period when intolerant invective against any man on account of his religious persuasion passed away at about the same time when the emple, from being the head-quarters of insane Crusaders, was converted into the sanctuary of Justice. We are not informed concerning the special demerits assigned by the Standard's correspondent to the gentleman in question; but the writer of this scandalous letter may rest assured that the mud which he has flung against the new judge will certainly contradict his pseudonym—it will not “cling.” The taste with which reference is made to the want of practice and experience of a fortunate rival in an honourable profession will be at once appreciated by all but the senile subscribers to “Grandmamma;” and the sneer at the Roman Catholic persuasion will recoil on the briefless writer who conveniently forgets that one of the most distinguished judges on the English Bench is a member of that Church.

THE “RINALDO” AND “PLUTO” AMONG THE PIRATES.

The following is the official report of the action in which Her Majesty's ship Rinaldo was engaged on the fourth of July last against the town of Salangore, which was found to be a nest of pirates:—

“To his Excellency Colonel Anson, Administrator Straits Settlements.

Her Majesty's ship Rinaldo, off Salangore, July 6, 1871.

“Sir,—In consequence of a requisition from you on the 30th ultimo, I have the honour to state that within twenty-four hours after receiving your letter I started from Singapore to meet the Colonial steamer Pluto at the rendezvous arranged by telegraph; then to proceed to Salangore for the purpose of seizing the six pirates still at large concerned in the murder of the thirty-four men, women, and children on board the junk, and to take such measures as might seem best for the punishment of those Malays who resisted the Colonial officers and men in their attempt to secure the pirate.

“On the evening of the 2nd we fell in with the Pluto at the rendezvous off the North Sand lightship in the Strait of Malacca, and proceeded in company with her towards Salangore. At 4.45 on the morning of the 3rd we anchored near the bar of Salangore River, manned and armed boats, and sent them with field-piece party to the Pluto. Our party consisted of ninety-five men and officers under my personal command (Lieutenant Grosvenor Stopford, senior lieutenant; Acting Lieutenant Eustace D. Maude, Sub-Lieutenant Christopher G. Williams, and Acting Sub-Lieutenant James A. Ward). At 7.30 the Pluto started for the river with boats in tow; at 8, stopped to overhaul two prows sailing out of river; 9, grounded on the bar. Commander Grey, your private secretary, who was on board as my guest, then left the steamer in her gig, with the second officer, for the purpose of obtaining information that might be useful to us;—1, floated and proceeded; 2, anchored off the town of Salangore, when Commander Grey returned on board.

“Sent boats away manned and armed to search both sides of the river and vessels at anchor. Lieutenant Stopford was in charge of the pinnace, with Mr. Skinner and Commander Grey, and that party proceeded to search the houses on the south side of the river. Lieutenant Maude was in charge of the cutter armed with a rocket, and went to search a few huts on the north side. Mr. Williams, sub-lieutenant, was in charge of the other cutter, and proceeded to search the vessels at anchor; he was accompanied by the owner of the captured junk, and the only survivor of the crew. Maude had with him the second officer of the Pluto, who speaks Malay, and one of the Pluto's men who knows the place.

“After the lapse of an hour and a half I saw Lieutenant Maude's party return, and immediately afterwards firing began between the natives, surrounding them in houses and jungle, and that party.

“Lieutenant Maude's story is as follows:—“On landing he asked for Rajah Mahmood, and was told that he was away, and that no one knew where his house was. He then marched about 200 yards on the path leading from the beach. A native then told him the Rajah would come, so he landed and waited about ten minutes. Finding he did not arrive he continued his march, and after going about a mile, met the Rajah, who saluted and shook hands, and said he would go off to the Pluto. They all marched together to the beach, where Maude drew up his men. The Rajah went between the boat and the small arm men, with about fifty men around him. He was told that the boat was ready, when he replied that he would not go now as he wanted to cross over to the other side. Maude told him if he did not come willingly he must force him. Immediately afterwards a shot was fired at our men from the nearest house, at a distance of only ten yards. The Rajah and his men immediately fled into the jungle, and heavy firing immediately followed from huts and jungle.

“One of our men fell mortally wounded at once—and Maude was obliged to make the best of his way back to the Pluto, followed by a continuous fire, which did not cease till he got alongside. As the Pluto was only 200 yards off, a return fire was instantly opened by those of our men who remained on board, and from the field piece which I had ready for use in the bow of the steamer. The other boats returned when they heard the firing. Several Malays fell to the fire of Lieutenant Maude's men, and Rajah Madie was said to be one of them.

“I have to deplore the following loss:—

“Lieutenant Maude cut on hand with kriss.

“William Horton, leading seamen, thought to be mortally wounded—shot through the lungs.

“William M'Gee, ord., shot wound in side.

“James Cole, leading seaman, shot in shoulder.

“Edward Barnes, ord., shot in neck.

“Charles Bradley, armourer, shot through both legs.

“Thomas Biddlecome, smith, shot in hand.

“You may imagine how painful it was for me to order the Pluto's anchor to be weighed without inflicting more decided vengeance on the piratical rascals who had fired on Lieutenant Maude's men, but our men, crowded in boats, were at a fearful disadvantage from enemies concealed in the jungle, and we had no medical man to attend to the wounded. However, I called all hands aft and told them I would land and take the forts at the entrance of the river directly the Pluto got close to them. The jungle there seemed less dense, and it seemed the only revenge open to us at the moment. But Captain Bradbery, of the Pluto, then made such a strong remonstrance to me that his vessel had only half-inch plates, and that his boiler was above water, that I reluctantly changed my mind and determined to take the Rinaldo in next day if possible. I am very glad now that I did change my mind.

“Under these circumstances, I decided to return to the Rinaldo, anchored about six miles off, and to send the Pluto to Penang with the wounded, and with a letter to the Lieutenant-Governor, asking for a surgeon. I also advised that some troops should be sent to assist in jungle fighting, and desired that a telegram be sent to the Secretary of the Admiralty.

“It cannot be too strongly or clearly stated that no violence had been offered to Rajah Madie or his men when Lieut. Maude's party was attacked.

“On the 4th, at 4.45 A.M., weighed and proceeded alone, under steam, for Salangore River. I knew that it was touch and go whether we could get over the bar (more than two miles in width) at the tops of high water; that we had no chart of the river, that we had no surgeon on board, that it would be twelve hours before we could get out again, and that for the whole of that time we might be under fire, yet took the responsibility of incurring all risks for the sake of punishing the pirates for their treacherous attack yesterday, and for the sake of teaching them to respect the flag for the future. According to ‘Horsburgh's Sailing Directions,’ this has always been a piratical haunt, and no doubt they felt themselves secure in the strength of their position.

“At 6.15, when about 400 yards from the forts on the southern entrance of the river, fire was opened on us from these forts and from those on the northern bank.

“It was a hot and well-directed fire, and was, of course, immediately answered by the Rinaldo; in less than five minutes we had three men wounded and had suffered severely in hull and rigging, but by steaming past their batteries into the river their position was turned, and before they could get most of their guns round we had either dismounted them or rendered their chief defences untenable.

“At 6.40 anchored in three and a-half fathoms in the centre of the river, off the town of Salangore. Laid out an anchor astern to keep guns bearing on forts; this service was done under fire by Mr. Rickard, the boatswain.

“About eight the enemy was driven from all his guns. I then ordered each gun to fire once every quarter of an hour to prevent him from re-opening his fire, and this practice was regularly kept up during the day, except when we saw him trying to man a gun, when two guns would fire till he withdrew. A fire of musketry was directed at us from time to time, as the river is barely half a mile broad.

“At 10.28 ship grounded in soft mud, happily with her broadsides bearing in the proper direction. Had the fort on the hill commanding the town possessed powerful guns we should now have presented a fair mark at 700 yards distance, for they might have sent a plunging fire upon our upper deck, the whole of which must have been visible to them; but they could do nothing against the superior power and accuracy of our guns.

“At 11.40 the ship was in 11ft. of water, our draught being 15ft. 4in. At 2.30 flood tide making up strong, ship dragged best bower anchor, let go small bower.

“At 3.5 ship swung to tide, weighed port anchor; 4.30, weighed starboard anchor; 4.30, weighed kedg and steamed out of river; 5.30, ceased firing, having silenced all the forts and partially burnt the town and houses on opposite bank; at 6, anchored in Roads to wait return of Pluto from Penang.

“It may be asked why, after silencing the forts, we did not land and destroy the guns. The reply is, that although they were driven from their batteries they remained concealed in the jungle, which surrounded them on all sides, and that I did not feel justified in sending my men to be shot down by a concealed foe. There were, I am glad to say, but three men wounded on our side—viz., George Lucas, quartermaster; John Haskins, boatswain's mate; and Edwin Bush, A.B.

“Enclosed is a report from the boatswain and carpenter, from which it will be seen that the fire was both well-directed and heavy.

“It was a hard day's work, and it is very gratifying to me to be able to say that every officer and man did his duty well. I had the greatest assistance from Commander H. N. E. Grey, R.N., your private secretary, who happened to be my guest for the cruise, and who when his advice was requested at critical times gave it with remarkable self-possession and good judgment. Commander Grey remained on the bridge the whole of the time we were under fire.

“What I have to say of the officers and men of this ship I hope you will see in my despatch to the Secretary of the Admiralty.

“The Pluto returned yesterday at 4.30 P.M., from Penang, with the troops as per margin.* The Hon. Arthur Birch, Lieutenant-Governor of Penang, had generously sent the whole of his disposable force. These troops were under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Shortland, 19th Madras N.I., whose report upon the proceedings of this day is enclosed. Shortly after the Pluto anchored there was firing from the forts, as if they were getting the range of their guns. We all expected a stubborn resistance this morning, but were mistaken. The punishment we gave them on the 4th proved enough.

* It turned out to be the Rajah Madie.

"I have the honour to be, Sir, your most obedient servant,

"GEORGE ROBINSON, Commander, R.N., and Senior Officer of the Straits Division."

"P.S.—Five piratical war proas were burnt, three with two 24-pounders and one small gun each. All had arms—viz., spears, muskets, &c. They measured from 80 to 100 tons apiece."

The Globe remarks that two of Her Majesty's ships, the Rinaldo and Pluto, have recently done gallant service in the China seas under exceptional disadvantages. They were sent to Salangore to obtain satisfaction from the Malay chiefs for piracy. Salangore is a sort of fortified head-quarters of the pirates who still infest those regions. Its two forts mounted thirty-eight guns, some of them thirty-two-pounders, commanding the narrow river at the mouth of which they are situated. Although in the end the gallant little British force succeeded in demolishing the forts, burning the town, and killing a number of its Malay defenders, the result was not achieved without three contretemps, reflecting seriously upon some authority superior to that engaged in the expedition. Why was so small a force sent against the notoriously formidable stronghold of Salangore? On the first of the two days' fighting the landing party were fairly driven from the shore by the Malays, one British sailor being killed and seven wounded. Then why was no surgeon on board the Rinaldo or Pluto to attend to the wounded? The wounded men had to be taken by the Pluto to Penang. The Globe continues:—Who was responsible for sending two ships into action without a surgeon on board? We believe the Rinaldo's surgeon was left ill at Singapore, but was there no other surgeon on that naval station to take his place? That the Admiralty is a little ashamed of the matter is evident from the fact that two surgeons were last week gazetted to the Rinaldo. To add to these lamentable mistakes, we find that, owing as we presume to the want of proper appliances for operating in shallow waters, the Rinaldo was for some hours aground within range of the forts, which, but for the effect of the British fire in silencing the Malay guns, might have battered the British ship to pieces, and destroyed her brave crew. The Rinaldo appears to have inflicted a righteous revenge upon Salangore; but nothing is said about the recovery of the pirated property, which was the ostensible object of the expedition, nor of the submission of any of the Malay leaders, one of the rajahs being simply reported killed. Piracy will no doubt be practised there as unblushingly and with as great impunity as ever. Altogether, it may be concluded that this last naval expedition has vindicated British prowess, and has added to our modern reputation for successful blundering.

The Standard says:—A British ship of war has just been engaged in battering and burning to the earth a fortified town in the East Indies, and her Commander, Captain Robinson, has supplied official details of the affair. Though not of itself greatly important, it arose out of a very serious outrage, and its effect will probably be felt throughout the Malayan waters, unless, indeed, as the Straits journals seem unaccountably to fear, the proceedings of Commander Robinson, if not disavowed, are canvassed in a manner to cripple the discretion of our naval officers in those seas for years to come. Some months ago a buccaneering gang, from the Salangore territory, in the Malay Peninsula, on the Malaccan side, boarded a commercial junk, and in cold blood murdered thirty-four men, women, and children. Many of the assassins were made answerable for the deed, but six were known to be in refuge behind the strongholds of the Salangore river, long notorious as a piratical nest, though nominally within the frontiers of an independent prince friendly to the British flag. It was felt by the entire mercantile community of the settlements, from Hong Kong to Singapore and Penang, that while these miscreants enjoyed an asylum, and while the value of the cargo they had pillaged was not recovered, no valuable freight in a Chinese or any other unarmed vessel, and the lives of no persons in charge of it, would be safe, not to speak of the small traders, and even fishers, whose craft, with their crews, continually disappear, and are never heard of more. Colonel Anson, Governor of the Straits Settlements, deemed it his duty, early in July last, to deal a little more emphatically than usual with the Salangore horde, and accordingly summoned to his aid Commander Robinson, of the Rinaldo, 7 guns, who retained for his service the Pluto, colonial steamer, and an expedition was undertaken. Its incidents may be rapidly summed up: the river was reached and searched by boats; the principal man of the place styling himself a rajah, dissimulated, promised help, and led the party into an ambush, whence it was fired at from huts and bushes. Severe wounds were inflicted, one upon the officer in charge, and one, supposed to be mortal, upon the leading seaman. There was no chance of immediate retaliation; the men were crowded in their boats—an open mark; the enemy lay concealed in the jungle; the Pluto, like the Rinaldo—thanks to the providence which sits up aloft at the Admiralty—was without a surgeon; it was necessary to be patient, and to get reinforced for a struggle in the marshy woodland which fringes the channels everywhere throughout that region of piracy. What vengeance could be taken, however, was not long delayed. The Rinaldo followed in the path of Pluto, crossed the bar of the Salangore river, though destitute of a chart, and necessarily locked up by the tide for at least twelve hours, cannonaded the batteries, turned and silenced them, knocked the defences of the town into mounds of rubbish, destroyed the town itself, but left the guns undestroyed; was kept from landing her men by a perfectly justifiable apprehension of fresh ambushes, and, in fact, did all that was possible to be done, at a cost of three men wounded. Subsequently a landing was effected among the shore forts, which were gutted; their artillery spiked or broken up, five of their armed prahus burnt, and a quantity of warlike munitions captured. But no indemnity could be exacted, and the six pirates in pursuit of whom the expedition had been organised remained at large.

The affair was creditable to all concerned in it, but the results are little more than nil. During forty years the English have been attempting the extirpation of piracy among the Channels of the eastern islands, which are, in reality, vast highways of commerce. In proportion as steam navigation has developed, and as the importance of maintaining a competent Royal squadron in those seas has been recognised, the number of open attacks upon European merchantmen has greatly diminished; but the feeders of trade are still preyed upon to an incalculable extent, and more especially those Chinese who venture their cargoes in the narrow waters, where the Malayan pirates—running out from cover and running into cover again, absolutely disappearing from sight—make of them the easiest prey. We have swept off countless flotillas; but in our assaults upon the buccaneering strongholds have generally done what the Rinaldo and the Pluto did—driven the thieves to their lair, broken through their outer line of defence, and hesitated, as any commander might well hesitate, to go further. The Straits papers are obviously in fear lest that, in the view of Her Majesty's Government, Her Majesty's officers have not gone too far already, bearing in mind, as they do, that the piratical "Rajah" may be claimed as a feudatory by the nominal Sultan of Salangore—a potentate who has no substantial existence, and whose revenue is probably derived from robber tithes. While we consent to negotiate, on the one hand, with him, and, on the other, to bombard his nominal lieges out of their dwellings, the police of the Oriental seas must be a burden upon us. It seems, however, as though it were fated that the freebooters of the Indian Ocean should be hunted down in their haunts by commanders assuming a discretion, and afterwards apologising, in more or less humble terms, to the Admiralty. In this manner scores of piratical communities in the Archipelago, so favourable, with its clusters of islands, indented coasts, natural retreats, tortuous channels, and intricate navigation, to lawless adventure, have been dispersed. The pirates, who once thought it a trifle to attack square-rigged merchantmen, are rarely heard of now; yet they were once a power, having political relations with every independent sovereign in the entire region. We, with the Dutch, cleared them off the seas, notwithstanding their wonderful tactics, their secret hiding-places, and their terrible methods of warfare, by which whole islands were depopulated. No Borgis boat now dares to lurk on the course of either our Royal or our mail or merchant steamers. The marvellous city behind Malludu Bay is a memory of the past; but the pirates have not been extirpated—the ferocious inhabitants of jungle beyond jungle whom our cruisers and boats can never reach, who lurk in the mazes of natural fortifications, and can pour out their volleys unseen. Of course theirs is a land not less than a sea piracy. They are kidnappers as well as buccaneers. But with their slave trade we have hitherto been totally unable to cope. We cannot even chase them out of their reef-bound haunts or their inland lagoons embowered amid miles of jungle ambushes. It must suffice for us at present, even after so many years of effort, if we can keep open the acknowledged highways of traffic, and prevent wholesale rapine on the high seas. But of one weakness we have too long been guilty; we have diplomatized with the piratical Sultans, the ridiculous Deys of these pigmy Algiers. They obtain their revenues from piracy, through one medium or another, and our merchants know it. The Archipelago, and more particularly the Sunda and Malacca Straits, are known to be swarming with depredators, nearly all, however, under some nominal or titular protection; and the Salangore seaboard for the last two hundred years has had, in these respects, an evil repute. What may be ensconced and hidden on the banks of its river, far above the point to which the Rinaldo or the Pluto or their boats could penetrate, may not for a long time be discovered, but this much is certain, that season after season, so surely as the eastern gales of June commence, so punctually do the Salangore pirates launch their flotillas—formerly to assail English, Dutch, or Spanish ships, but now for the most part Chinese junks or helpless native traders. We may not be so sanguine as Commander Robinson when he thinks he has sufficiently punished these bandits of the water by burning them out of their nest; but there can be no doubt that the Queen's ships could hardly be better employed when on that distant service than in making the holes of those rats too hot for them.

SUEZ CANAL COMPANY.

The special meeting of this company took place on the 24th ultimo, when a further report was read by M. Ferdinand de Lesseps.

The report, adopting a proposal made by a number of the shareholders, proposed that the vacancies in the council of the company should be filled by votes of the general assembly, each candidate to be the holder of one hundred shares.

The next clause in the report has a general interest; it relates to the mode of determining the transit charge of ten francs per ton by measurement. The directors refer to the efforts made by the French Government to obtain the consent of other Powers to an unification of tonnage for vessels of all flags, and state that, ad interim, the tonnage was calculated according to universal custom from each ship's papers. The siege of Paris put a stop to proceedings on this subject, but a commission has it in hand, and the results arrived at are to be made known at the next meeting.

The report embodied four resolutions, three having reference to the internal rules of the company, the fourth to the chief business of the meeting, the loan of twenty millions of francs. The report declares that this sum will be sufficient to cover the two half-years' interest due to the holders of obligations, as well as that of the current year, so that the company may await without fear the moment, doubtless not far off, when remuneration for its capital will be forthcoming.

With regard to the grounds upon which these hopes are founded, the report says:—

Leaving out of the question, for the moment, the vessels now building, and announced to pass through the Canal, the number of commercial steamers now passing through the Canal represent a total of 340,000 tons, and, multiplying this by the number of probable voyages upon which we may safely calculate, we arrive at a product of two millions of tons, yielding an income of twenty millions of francs. This is exclusive of Government ships, which will furnish further important receipts. We may cite, for example, the transports of the English Government, which, according to a programme addressed to the company, will make nineteen transits between the month of September, 1871, and the month of March, 1872, and yield the company a total sum of 700,000 to 800,000 francs.

One single English shipowner will run a line of steamers direct from London to Shanghai from the 1st Oct., which will give the company an annual income of a million and a-half of francs.

The report also states that the sale of land progresses regularly, those of Port Said fetching on the average f.54.95 the metre superficial. The English Admiralty has just purchased 16,500 metres outside the town of Port Said at the rate of f.40, making, with the value of construction, a sum of f.660,000. The actual expenses of working and maintenance are declared to be less than were estimated; the former only amounting to f.1,500,000, in place of f.1,578,000, as previously calculated. As regards the latter, the report quotes the following passage after the chief director of the navigation of the Canal:—

The important economies introduced into our establishments, the reductions made in the number of employés, and the sensible diminutions in the dredging, boat and other services, bring us down to a figure much lower than that of our Budget. The Canal is in a highly satisfactory state; the shifting of soil, caused by the passage of vessels, is very slight; the slope of the Canal sides retains its normal form, that is to say, no slip has taken place since the formation of the Canal.

The report further states that the Khedive has authorised the company to charge a sur-tax of one franc per ton for the special purpose of the twenty millions loan, to be discontinued when that loan is paid off. The Sultan has ratified this arrangement, but the directors add that this additional tax will not be levied "unless it should be judged necessary." All the resolutions proposed in the report were adopted.

THE KOREAN EXPEDITION FROM AN AMERICAN POINT OF VIEW.

The New York Times says:—A display of force was rightly considered to be essential, but anything like hostile measures seems hardly to have been contemplated. Apart from the very effective way in which the attack upon the forts was conducted, the Korean expedition leaves us very little to be proud of. Since it was found necessary to adopt the barbarous Oriental code of retaliation, the task ought to have been performed much more thoroughly. The defeat of a single provincial Governor is not a feat of arms calculated to strike a very salutary terror either in Koreans or in the neighbouring Oriental States who have been interested spectators of the conflict. The complications which have been announced calling for the intervention of the English and German Governments in the affairs of Korea may form a convenient excuse for getting creditably out of the difficulty by taking part in a general expedition against the intractable natives. But failing any such opportunity, it seems tolerably clear that neither in China nor Japan will our prestige be at all improved by an expedition which we had not force enough to follow up. The hostility of the Koreans against our countrymen will be more intense than ever, and will probably tend to further atrocities perpetrated on crews shipwrecked on that rocky and dangerous coast, which will compel us to administer a more memorable lesson to the ignorant rulers, who already, no doubt, consider the withdrawal of our ships as the result of the panic of the American "outer barbarians."

THE PAPER MANUFACTURE OF JAPAN.

A very interesting report has just been published (it is called "presented to Parliament"—but Parliament has risen for some time) on this subject. Besides containing an exhaustive account of an almost unknown branch of industry, the volume before us is profusely illustrated with characteristic coloured lithographs representing the progress of the manufacture in all its stages. The book is, therefore, one that will commend itself to the general public as well as to those more particularly interested in Japan.

Mr. Consul Lowder, in his account of the manufacture of paper from the mulberry (Broussonetia papyrifera), says: it was introduced into Japan about A.D. 610. Up to the year A.D. 280, silk with a facing of linen was used for writing upon, and thin wood shavings were also employed. In that year, however, paper was imported from the Korea, and this appears to have been the only paper known to the Japanese until the year 610, when two priests named Doncho and Hojo were sent over to Japan by the King of Korea. Doncho is said to have been a clever man, learned in the Chinese classics, and moreover a skilful artist. Besides the manufacture of paper he also introduced that of writing-ink and mill-stones into the country. Shotoku Taishi, a son of the reigning Mikado, learned of Doncho how to make paper. But although the paper made by Doncho was very good of its kind, it did not take ink well; it would not bear rough handling, and tore very easily; and, moreover, it was liable, because of its material, to become worm-eaten, seeing which, Taishi introduced the manufacture of paper out of the paper mulberry; he made four kinds, called Unshi, Shiku-inshi, Haku-jushi, and Zoku-hakushi, and he caused the paper mulberry to be extensively planted all over the country, and the mode of paper manufacture to be largely promulgated among the people.

In the island of Kiusiu the makodzu is planted in the ninth and tenth moons, but in Kioto and its vicinity in the first moon, the time varying according to the climate of the place. Some old roots are separated and cut down to a length of about three inches; these are planted so that a little less than half an inch appears above ground. They will grow about a foot high in the first year, and in the second they will rise to a height of two or three feet. In the third year they will reach a little over four feet; in the fourth year they attain to six, or, if particularly fine, to even nine and twelve feet. Each year in the tenth moon they are cut down to the roots, and from each stalk five branches appear the next year, so that in five years a large and dense shrub is developed. The cuttings of the fifth year's growth are used for making paper. The roots will not thrive well in old ground; the best place for planting is round the edges of new-made ground or paddy-fields. They will not stand salt or brackish water, nor will they flourish beside millet or sorghum. Care must be taken not to over or under-manure them; if under-manured they die, and if too much manure is used the plant is injured. If planted in the vicinity of other crops, such as rice, they rejoice in the effects of the manure which is used for their neighbours. They are sometimes planted on mounds which are raised along the beds of valleys, but newly-turned ground is the best.

In steaming the paper-mulberry the diameter of the boiler is two feet six or seven inches; the steaming vessel is of straw. The mulberry stalks are cut into lengths of two and a-half to three feet for steaming. When the skin of the stalk begins to separate at the cut ends they are sufficiently steamed. The skin is then stripped off, and after peeling, the skins should be at once dried. They are divided into portions of a thickness that a woman can grasp conveniently in one hand. They are then hung on transverse poles and tied loosely at the ends, [shown by illustration], so that the part tied may not be prevented from drying. They take ordinarily two or three days to dry, but if there is any wind they may dry in a day. After drying, they are weighed into portions of about 32 lbs. avoirdupois, and tied up in bundles. They are next washed in running water and the outer dark skin is scraped off with a knife, [shown by illustration], the knife being held stationary, pillowed on a straw padding, while the material is drawn towards the operator until the dark skin is removed. This dark scraping is used for making inferior kind of paper, known as "chiri-gami," and also "kizo-suki."

The manufacture is carried on in a vessel called a "boat," length six feet, breadth three feet, with a perpendicular rest for leaning the frame against it. The false bottom is placed in an outer frame, into which a portion of the pulp is then poured. The inner frame is then fitted in to keep the false bottom steady, and a peculiar and dexterous jerk is given to the whole, which sets the paper. The frame is then leaned against the upright rest, to allow the water to drain off while another frame is prepared. By the time the second frame is ready the first may be removed.

The winter manufacture, which is made with "tororo" only, is called "kidzuki;" it is used for making books, and it does not get worm-eaten; it is the best paper made. The spring manufacture, in which rice paste is used, is liable to become worm-eaten.

The mode of making paper cloth, warranted to wash (Shifu), is described thus:—Take some of the paper called "hoshu," or some of the best "seuka," and dye it of the colour required. Boil some of the roots called "kon-niaku-no-dama" with the skins on; try them with the inner portion of a rice stalk: when it penetrates easily they are sufficiently boiled. Peel them and let the water run off, and then pound them into a paste. Spread this paste on either side of the paper, and let it dry in the sun till quite stiff. Then sprinkle water on it until it is thoroughly damped, and leave it in that state for a night. The next morning roll it upon a bamboo of the thickness of the shaft of an arrow, and force it with the hands from either end into a crumple in the centre; unroll it, and repeat this process two or three times, rolling it from each side and corner of the paper. Then crumple it well in the hands by rubbing it together until it becomes quite soft, and then sprinkle water on it again to damp it. Pull it out straight and smooth, fold it up, and pound it with a wooden mallet. It may then be put into water as much and as often as is liked without sustaining injury, having become a strong and lasting material. This cloth is made principally in the Daimate of Sendai. Boxes, trays, and even saucepans, may be made of this cloth; and saucepans thus manufactured sustain no injury over a strong charcoal heat. Bags may be made of it, in which wine may be put, and heated by insertion in boiling water. Paper thus prepared may be used for papering windows; and will withstand the rain without being oiled. Amusing experiments may be made with it.

Oil-paper for rain-coats, &c., is thus explained:—The glue used for joining the paper is made of young fern-shoots, ground and boiled into a paste ("warabi-no-ko-nori"), and thinned by admixture with the juice expressed from unripe persimmons. The dye is usually green, yellow, red, or black. Whichever colour is used, the colouring matter, generally a powder, is boiled with bean paste, and the paper is then painted with it. The preparation of the paper consists principally in softening it by rubbing it in the hands. The oil used is a seed-oil called "ye-no-abura."

The kaji tree grows more or less all over Japan, and is cultivated much in the same manner as the tea plant and mulberry tree. It grows to a height of some six or eight feet, and thrives best in dampish ground. In some districts it is produced on the hill sides. The bark is stripped off in the autumn, and is at once ready to be used for paper-making. The branches are left either to decay or are cut away, and fresh shoots are produced before next autumn, when the same process is gone through. The tree or shrub of the kaji resembles the willow of our country, and thrives well near water and in a mild climate. It is, however, also found in the north of Japan, but does not flourish in such perfection in a cold region. The price of dried bark of the kaji in the country ranges from 3 dollars 75 cents to 4 dollars per picul (133½ lbs.). There are no reasons why the kaji tree should not flourish in England, more especially if planted in a damp soil, and when it is considered that paper could no doubt be manufactured from this bark at a cheaper rate than it could be made from rags, added to the considerable strength it can attain, and the various useful purposes to which it can be applied, the cultivation of the kaji shrub in England is well worthy of a trial. Some inquiry after this bark has been made by home paper manufacturers from merchants at this port, and samples have been sent to England, where its value will no doubt be appreciated and turned to account.

The method of making paper from the bark of the kaji in Japan is thus explained:—The rough bark is soaked in water for several hours, and the outer rind separated; it is then again washed, then boiled, after which it is beaten with mallets until it forms a sort of pulp. The manufacture of the paper now commences, and is carried on as follows:—The pulp is placed in a sort of reservoir about six feet square and one foot deep, containing cold water, and is stirred about with a large flat ladle made of wood until it is entirely dissolved. A sort of size (obtained from the inner bark of a tree called "ousuke" soaked in water) is mixed with the preparation, which is now ready to be drawn up, and is effected by the help of two frames made of wood and bamboo, of such dimensions as the sheet of paper is intended to assume. Between these two frames a very thin matting of bamboo is placed, which acts as a sieve, and when the preparation is drawn up, it is moved on this frame, till the required substance is obtained. The sheet thus made is then deposited on another sieve. The same process is recommenced, and when another sheet is ready it is placed over the first; a strip of straw is laid on the edge to separate each sheet, so as to obviate the risk of adhering, together, and to enable each sheet to be taken up separately. When about a dozen sheets have been thus formed into a layer, they are taken up singly and spread on boards to dry in the sun. By the same process old paper is made into fresh sheets, with the addition of a size obtained from the decoction of a creeper called "sane kadzura," which grows on the hills around Nagasaki, and gives consistency to the solution. The manufacture of old paper into new can apparently be repeated as often as desired.

It will be observed how wonderfully proficient the Japanese are in rendering to paper the hardness and weight of heavy wood, and manipulating it in all sorts of shapes. Some of the common paper made is so tough that it can only be torn with difficulty. Coats, hats, shoes, umbrellas, boxes of all kinds, ornaments of all descriptions, pocket-handkerchiefs, fans, &c., are made from paper; in fact, a Japanese will turn paper into a hundred useful forms.

Mr. Consul Enslie also contributes some valuable information. He tells us that in India the canonical books were in ancient times written on leaves; these books were, in the language of the country, styled "bairatayo." In China, leaves and thin slips of bamboo were used. Up to and, during the cycles of Taika (645 A.D.) and Hakuchi (650 A.D.) the sacred books of Japan were written upon long rolls, and the reverse side was used for ordinary writing purposes. Kakinomoto H'tomaru, Lord of Iwami (one of the western provinces of Japan), instructed his retainers during the cycles of Kei-un (704-707) and Wado (704-715) in the art of making paper; he died in 729. The celebrated house of O-uchi-uji, at Yamaguchi, in the province of Suwo, had by this time existed for many ages, and its fame had reached as far as China; one of the heads of this family greatly improved the manufacture of paper, and such was the renown of that made in his provinces of Seki-cho-ho (Iwa-mi Nagato, and Suwo) that people not only came from all parts of Japan, but also from foreign countries to purchase it. It may here be mentioned that the last lord of this great house was murdered during Taiko's time by one of his principal retainers, Suye owarino Kami Harukata, in 1551. Four years later the faithless Suye was killed by Mori Motonari, another karo of the O-uchi house and an ancestor of the Choshu family. This Mori Motonari provided, in 1560, the funds required for the "Go sokui" (public proclamation and ceremony of accession to the Throne) of the 107th Mikado Okimachino-ju, 1558-87. In return for this loyal act he received permission to wear the Imperial crest and style himself Daidsenno Daibu. The family is still known by this name.

The time for planting the makoso, or paper plant, varies; in the western provinces it is planted in the ninth or tenth Japanese month (the end of September to the commencement of December); in the neighbourhood of Kioto and Osaka, however, it is planted in the first month (February). The branches are cut off to within two feet and a-half of the ground, and soil is then heaped up round the old root to within three or four inches of the top of the stump; the new shoots average about five every year, so that in five years it is a good-sized tree about nine or ten feet high, when it is cut down and used to manufacture paper. If planted in a new field or on a bank it will grow well; not, however, in rich soil. It requires a little manure, and will not flourish in brackish soil, or in the neighbourhood of a field of millet. It will grow well on the slope of a hill, in a valley, or on a bank near a patch of water; excessive heat will blight it, and continuous rain will prove injurious. Care should be taken to prevent wild boar from getting at it, as it is considered a great luxury by that animal. The inhabitants of the northern provinces say that if a wild boar is killed in the neighbourhood of a takaso and buried there, a second one will never come near it.

Paper is now generally made throughout the whole of Japan, the principal paper-producing provinces being:—

Iyo, where the principal manufactures are goyoshi, hosho, seicho, toshi, takenaga, hankiri, rasagami, &c.

The eastern provinces, such as Musashi, Sagami, Surunga, Awa, &c., produce nishino uchi, santomi, rataori, and several other kinds.

Ise, Musashi, Kishiu, and Settsu are the principal shibori producing provinces.

Geishu supplies morokuchi, hanshi, and chirigami.

Minô has minogami, onaoshi, and tengujo.

Yéchidsen has otaka, danshi, kobosho, mani-ai, and usuyo.

Yamato supplies yuton.

Kinsatsu or bank-note paper is principally made at Najiwo, in Settsu, and in Yéchidsen.

Two of these kinds are used for making the paper ornaments which are the indispensable adjuncts of the ancient religion of Japan. The presentation of these paper sacrifices to the Daigingu of Isei, a god, and the father of the first Japanese Sovereign Jimmu Tenno, is an important ceremony which precedes the accession to the throne of each native monarch.

In making kinsatsu, or bank-note paper, 25 lbs. of bark are mixed with twelve pints of a concoction of fine gravel and water, after which 2½ pints of rice starch are added. The kinsatsu paper generally consists of three layers of paper, and nine pints of nibé or powdered wheat-husks are also mixed with the pulp to give more substance to the paper. The water-mark in this paper is made by placing an impression of the mark upon the required spot during the second immersion.

THE LOSS OF THE "MEGÆRA."

The following telegram, received at the Admiralty from Her Majesty's Consular Agent at Batavia, has been forwarded to us for publication:—

Rokby, Haslewood, Commins, and Anderson arrived by sailing opportunity from St. Paul's, with Captain Thrupp's despatches, which will be forwarded by French mail of 11th inst. Left St. Paul's 5th of August. Eight men ill, and rest commencing to manifest evident prostration. All on quarter allowance, with supplies for about thirty days. Megara embedded in rocks; decks used for firewood and protection stores.—FRASER.

From the Admiralty we also have the following additional information:—

The vessels sent for the relief of the shipwrecked crews are the steamship Oberon, which left Batavia on the 9th of August, and might be expected to reach St. Paul's Island by the 23rd of August; the Peninsular and Oriental steamer Malacca, which left Singapore on the 15th, and would arrive at St. Paul's about the 26th or 27th; and Her Majesty's ship Rinaldo, which vessel left Batavia on the 11th, and being more dependent on canvas, might be somewhat later. The Rinaldo had orders to return to Singapore, and would probably bring the first intelligence of the rescue of the crews, to be telegraphed either from that place or Batavia towards the end of the month. It will thus be seen that ample supplies will reach the island before the exhaustion of the provisions. The despatches alluded to in the telegram may be expected about the 22nd of October. Some obscurity exists as to the names in the telegram; only one—that of Mr. Commins, an assistant-paymaster—being recognised among the officers who went out in the Megara.

According to the above explanatory note, the Admiralty officials are enabled to recognise only one of the names contained in the telegram. On referring to the Navy List, however, we think there can be little doubt as to the identity of the officers. The first, Rokby, is clearly intended for Roxby, a navigating sub-lieutenant; the name of the second officer is correctly given in the telegram, and can be no other than Navigating Sub-Lieutenant Hazlewood; the third name is that recognised by the Admiralty Assistant Paymaster Cummins; and the fourth, Anderson, is evidently Mr. Henderson, a midshipman. All these officers, we understand, left England on board the Megara to join their ships on the Australian station, and it seems highly probable that the Admiralty does not possess an authentic list of the names of the officers and men who sailed.

GERMANY.

HAMBURG, Sept. 6.

The portentous events of last year are now being acted over again—though happily only in retrospective thought—and almost every day we hear of some regiment or other celebrating the anniversary of some great battle in which they were engaged, whilst the memory of those who fell in action or subsequently died of their wounds is duly honoured by fresh chaplets of flowers and immortelles placed over their tablets or graves by their sorrowing relatives. Saturday last was the anniversary of the day of Sedan, which will ever be memorable in the history of the world for the capture of Napoleon and the fall of the second Empire in France. It was at first proposed to celebrate the day officially, but the Emperor Wilhelm, with his usual good feeling and correct tact, ruled otherwise, pointing out that any official display under present circumstances would be out of place, and that any demonstrations of joy should emanate spontaneously from the people, but that he personally should rejoice to hear the day was celebrated in a manner worthy of its decisive importance. Here at Hamburg it was declared a close holiday, most of the shops and all the schools were shut up, and the display of flags on both public and private buildings, and more particularly in the harbour, was very general.

The German Parliamentary session is to commence the beginning of the month of October if the provisional building that is being erected at Berlin be ready by that time. It is being hurried on as much as possible by working day and night—during the dark hours by the aid of the electric light—the day workmen being relieved by other gangs every twelve hours. During the late strike of the masons at Berlin the works were somewhat interrupted, but by the energy of the Minister of War, who ordered 120 bred masons serving at the time in the different regiments in garrison at Berlin to do the work, for which they received a dollar per day besides their pay, the difficulty was soon removed. The session is expected to be a short one, in order to make room for the specifically Prussian Parliament, which will then be convened for the purpose of passing the Budget and voting the supplies for 1872; and it is hoped that this will be got through before the end of the year.

An interesting little pamphlet has just been published by the Postmaster-General at Berlin, giving full particulars of the activity of the field post-offices from July 16 last year to the end of March. The rapidity with which he organised this special service does great credit to that functionary, when one considers that he employed in it more than 5,000 officials of various grades, 1,933 horses, and 465 mail carts and post waggons. During the above-mentioned period there were sent to the armies in France 80,659,000 letters and correspondence cards, 2,354,310 newspapers, 36,704 official letters, and 43,023,460 lbs. of service packages, besides 16,842,460 lbs. (mostly eatables and articles of clothing) in 2,379,020 letters and packets to soldiers.

The Medusa, Commander Struben, of the German navy, has arrived safely at Kiel, from the China station, after having been nearly three years in commission. She left Kiel October 21, 1868. The Nautilus, one of the new class of gunboats for service against the pirates in China, was successfully launched on August 28, at the Imperial Navy-yard at Danzig, and will be immediately fitted out for her destination.

Subjoined are some statistics of the trade of this port last year, taken from the tables published by the Board of Trade here:—

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Sept. 7.

It seems now quite certain that the members of the Second Chamber will not deal during the present session with the Contagious Diseases Bill, notwithstanding that the public and the newspapers have expressed a desire that this measure should be passed at once, now that the cholera has reached our shores. At the Helder one case of the epidemic has occurred with a fatal result; but I do not hear of any others. The First and Second Chambers will be convoked one or two days before the new Session is opened, to hear from the mouth of Mr. Thorbecke what has been done since September, 1870. The speech may be very short, as the measures of importance have been few. The Liberal party in the First Chamber has been reinforced, Mr. A. Prins, from Zaandam, having been elected by the provincial States of North Holland. Mr. Insinger, the Conservative candidate, was beaten by a considerable majority.

Painful news has reached us from the Colony of Surinam. Since the emancipation of the slaves great discontent has prevailed there. This measure, the principle of which is certainly good, has not given such results as were generally wished for. The local papers complain that it has contributed to bring the colony in a state of decay, because agriculture is now at a standstill for workmen. The uneasiness, or rather the indignation, has augmented since the Minister van Bosse resolved, without hearing the opinion of the Colonial States, to introduce a tax on spirits. The fact that taxes are imposed on these colonists against their will has made a very bad impression, so bad that when a stupid telegraphist wired that "Guyana," instead of "Guinea," had been sold by Holland to England the greatest joy prevailed. The colonists were very glad to be protected henceforth by Great Britain from Holland. It is stated by correspondents, who are very moderate in tone, that the colony will indeed be obliged to appeal to Great Britain for protection, as a measure of self-preservation, if Holland will not help the colony. This news has awakened the Dutch to some extent from their deep indifference about the fate of Surinam, and the arrival of the next mail is waited for with the greatest curiosity.

Another meeting has been held here with the object of altering the arbitrary clauses in bills of lading for steamers bound to the Far East and other harbours. In the name of one of the largest steamship companies it was declared that the owners would meet just complaints if they were made when the goods were shipped. But it was maintained that some clauses could not be given up, they being strictly necessary, and it demonstrated that the clauses had never given the least difficulty in actual practice. From the side of the traders it was proposed to stamp the bills with a "not agreed to," and if the shipowners declined to alter the clauses not to ship any further by their vessels. At last a commission was appointed, in order, if possible, to solve this question.

Your know that for the conveyance of Government produce from India to our harbours preference is given to those vessels which have certificates of the two Dutch Unions of Exports, Veritas and de Nederlandsche Vereeniging. The Minister of the Colonial Department has now decided that the same preference will be adjudged to the certificates of Lloyd's Register of British and Foreign Shipping. This measure is generally applauded by the shipowners.

LITERATURE.

The present month is singularly rich in the publication of Oriental literature on the Continent. The progress of education, which has been so unhappily interrupted by the Franco-Prussian war and the French Revolution, seems now likely to be resumed with increased vigour. Professor Stanislas Julien has just published the concluding volume of his valuable Chinese Syntax. This work cannot be strictly called a grammar, but it has the merit, equal if not greater, of affording in a brief and easy way the greatest assistance to students of the Chinese language. The volume before us contains a critical review of some translations from the Chinese by M. Lasthier, who is justly regarded by M. Julien as one of the most accomplished Oriental scholars of the day. It contains, moreover, a vocabulary of the Chinese romance, "Yu-kido-li," and a literal translation of the celebrated Chinese drama, "The Orphan of China."

The Marquis d'Hervey Saint Denys has also undertaken the translation of the works of the renowned Chinese encyclopedist Ma Zouaulin; and his first volume gives assurance of an exhaustive work. It comprises, among other interesting matter, a valuable history of Japan.

In Japanese literature Professor Leon de Rosny announces for immediate publication an Anthology, which will comprise translations of the gems of the different styles of Japanese poetry, ancient and modern.

One of Professor Rosny's pupils, M. Francois Leoretti, has also published at Geneva a translation of several chapters of the Japanese historical romance, the Heike Monogatari, which contains an account of the civil wars of that country in the twelfth century; and two more of the professor's pupils also have kindred works in the press. M. Severin promises a volume on the Curiosities of Yokohama, and M. Gustave Dehondre a translation of a Japanese work on the Manufacture of Wine.

Lastly, there has just been published at Rome a new edition of the Latin-Japanese Dictionary compiled by the Jesuits at the close of the sixteenth century; a work which, besides being a literary curiosity at the present day, comprises a vast deal of valuable information for the student of the Japanese language.

THE NAVAL COMMAND IN CHINA.

Rear-Admiral Charles F. A. Shadwell, C.B., F.R.S., who has been appointed to be commander-in-chief of the China station, vice Admiral Sir Henry Kellett, K.C.B., is son of the late Right Hon. Sir Lancelot Shadwell, Vice-Chancellor of England. He entered the navy May 23, 1827, passed his examination in 1833, became lieutenant June 23, 1838; and on the 26th of the following month was appointed to the Castor, 36, and took part in the operations against the towns of Caiffa, Jaffa, and Tsour, and assisted at the bombardment of Acre. At Caiffa he was sent with a flag of truce to demand the surrender of that place to the Sublime Porte, on which occasion he was gazetted. From Dec. 3, 1841, until advanced to commander, June, 1846, he was first lieutenant of the Fly, 18, in the East Indies; and as commander he commanded the Hecate, 6, on particular service, the Sphinx, 6, and for his valuable services during the Burmese war of 1851 and 1852 obtained post rank Feb. 7, 1853. He commanded the Highflyer, 21, East India and China, from 1856 to 1860; the Aboukir, 86, in the Channel and North America and West Indies, 1861 and 1862; was in command of the Hastings, 50, flagship of Rear-Admiral Sir L. T. Jones, K.C.B., at Queenstown, from Oct. 8, 1862, until appointed captain superintendent of the Royal Clarence Victualling-yard, Gosport, and of the Royal Hospital at Haslar on June 20, 1864, which post he held until advanced to flag rank, Jan. 15, 1869. Admiral Shadwell is the author of "A Table of Arcs for Facilitating the Computation of the Latitude by Double Altitudes of the Principal Fixed Stars, calculated for the years 1835, 1845, 1855, &c.," published in 1837. He has selected Mr. William B. Hutchinson, paymaster, R.N. (1862), to serve with him as his secretary.

On the 1st inst. Rear-Admiral Shadwell hoisted his flag on board the Cambridge, gunnery-ship, and exchanged salutes with the flag-ship, after which the flag was struck to be rehoisted on board the Iron Duke, 14, double-screw iron ship, armour-plated, which vessel has been taken out of dock, and will probably sail on the 16th, via the Suez Canal. The following are the appointments which have been made to the Iron Duke:—

Captain.—William Arthur, 1867, as Flag Captain to Rear-Admiral Shadwell (vice E. H. G. Lambert, appointed to Caledonia).

Commander.—Hardy M'Hardy, 1870.

Lieutenants.—Edward C. Abbs (for gunnery duties), Frederic Rowland Dicken (flag).

Chaplain and Naval Instructor.—The Rev. John C. Edwards 1871.

Paymaster.—William B. Hutchison, 1862, as Secretary to Rear-Admiral Shadwell.

Sub-Lieutenants.—Ernest Kinder, Henry H. Jauncey.

Assistant Paymasters.—Walter H. Rae, Charles E. Gifford, Henry G. Herbert (the two latter as Secretary's clerks).

Engineers.—James Ritchie, Edward L. Carte, James W. Scoble.

BOARD OF TRADE RETURNS.

The Board of Trade returns for the month of August are of a character more remarkable than any yet presented. The declared value of our exportations has reached the wholly unprecedented amount of £22,221,245, being an increase of £4,804,162, or 30 per cent. on the corresponding month of last year, when the war between France and Germany was at its height, and of 26 per cent. on August, 1869, when there was nothing to disturb the general prosperity. The animation has doubtless been partly stimulated by the shipments to France, in order to anticipate the possible imposition in some cases of augmented duties, but every branch of business has shared in the movement, the only material instance of a decrease being in the shipments of telegraphic wire and apparatus, which, although they figure for the large total of £373,478, have been less by £160,806 than in the same month of 1870. With regard to general articles, an increase is shown in coal of 6 per cent., in earthenware 5 per cent., in haberdashery—always an important index of the state of the colonial trade—29 per cent., in hardware 16 per cent., in iron and steel 23 per cent., in machinery 35 per cent., in oils 110 per cent., in miscellaneous 30 per cent., in linen manufactures 16 per cent., in silk manufactures 69 per cent., and in woollen manufactures 80 per cent.

One of the most striking features of the return consists, however, in the Continental demand for yarns to furnish the basis of a renewal of the manufacturing industry checked by the war. Thus, our exportations of cotton yarn have been 25 per cent. in value and 14 per cent. in quantity larger than in August, 1870, while of linen they have been 41 per cent. greater in value, of silk 250 per cent., and of wool 230 per cent. Germany has taken £287,056 worth of cotton yarn against £10,376 last year, of linen yarn £45,237, against £3,178, of silk £12,166 against £30, and of wool £303,094, against £15,757. In like manner France figures as regards cotton yarn for £117,514, against £5,826 in August 1870, and in silk yarn for £44,441, against £6,043. At the same time it is a curious fact that, while we were last year charged with profiting by the war through the exportation of arms and ammunition, our shipments of these articles now show an excess of £31,199, or about 37 per cent. over those at that date.

The following is an extract from these Returns of those figures which relate to our Export trade with China and other countries in the Far East:—

Monetary and Commercial.

Business in the stock markets is inactive, in the absence of many of the leading operators. There is a fair demand for money at the Bank. The operations in the general market have been also rather more numerous, at $1\frac{1}{2}$ to $1\frac{3}{4}$ per cent. for the best three months' drafts. The charge for six months' India and China bank bills was $2\frac{1}{2}$, and for trade ditto, $2\frac{1}{2}$. On the Stock Exchange the rate for short advances is 1 per cent. Consols stand at $93\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ for money and the account (October 4).

The prospectus of the new Turkish Six per Cent. Loan for £5,700,000 nominal capital has been circulated by Messrs. Dent, Palmer, and Co. The price of issue is 73 per cent., at which reckoning allowances, the return to the subscribers will be about $9\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. per annum. The instalments extend to December next. The loan, which is redeemable at par by means of an accumulative sinking fund of 1 per cent. per annum, is secured upon the general revenues of the Turkish Empire, and the portion of the tribute now payable to the Porte by the Khedive of Egypt not applicable to the loans of 1854 and 1855. This tribute was raised in 1866 to £705,000. The sum of £282,872 has been annually paid to the Bank of England since 1855 by the Egyptian Government to meet the requirements of the loans of 1854 and 1855, and the Turkish Government has directed the Khedive to pay a further sum of £399,000 to that institution on account of the present issue. The Government has also engaged that the necessary funds for the payment of interest and sinking fund shall be placed in the hands of the agents of the loan, through the Bank, at least fifteen days before each payment falls due. Both principal and interest will be payable in London in sterling, and the loan is specially exempted from all taxes. The subscription list was opened on the 4th inst., and will be closed this day.

The introduction of the new Spanish Loan has proved successful, the total applications here and abroad for the £20,000,000 stock offered having reached no less than £140,000,000. Owing to this enormous subscription, and the circumstance that the apportionment will be made in Madrid, the allotment letters are not expected to be issued for a fortnight. The scrip is in demand at 1 15-16 to 2 1-16 prem.

Messrs. Clews, Habicht, and Co., as the authorised agents of the State of Georgia, have, in connection with the Imperial Bank and Messrs. Borthwick, Wark, and Co., invited subscriptions to a 7 per cent. Loan for the State of Georgia to the extent of $1,400,000. The debentures are of the nominal value of $1,000 each, and the interest is payable quarterly, in London, at Messrs. Clews, Habicht, and Co.'s. The issue price is £175 10s. for each debenture of $1,000.

The tenders for £400,000 in bills on India were received on the 6th inst. at the Bank of England, when the amounts allotted were—to Calcutta, £317,000; to Bombay, £28,400; and to Madras, £54,600. The minimum price was fixed as before at 1s. 10½d., and tenders on all the Presidencies at 1s. 11d. will receive about 52 per cent., and those above in full. These results show a further slight increase in the demand for means of remittance to the East.

The prospectus of the Carmarthen Silver Lead Mining Company (Limited) has been issued, with a proposed capital of £25,000 in 5,000 shares of £5 each, for the purpose of acquiring the leases of the Silver Lead Mines situate at Trelech, in the county of Carmarthen, and working the same. Former proprietors, commencing some few years since with an available capital of less than £1,000, raised from one of the lodes nearly 800 tons of lead ore, which produced upwards of £10,000; the stopes at the bottom of the 54-fathom level yielded 2½ tons per fathom. The leases are for 21 years from the 29th September, 1868, at one-twentieth royalty. The purchase money for this valuable property will be £2,500 in cash, and £6,000 in paid-up shares of the company (1,200).

The Canadian Oil Works Corporation (Limited) are offering 1,600 First Mortgage Twelve per Cent. Debenture Bonds of £100 each, redeemable at par, with a bonus of £10 by September, 1876, in half-yearly drawings. Messrs. Frederick Huth and Co. have been appointed the commercial agents of the Corporation.

Reuter's Telegram Company (Limited) have declared the usual interim dividend at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum for the half-year ending the 30th of June.

At the half-yearly meeting of the General Omnibus Company the report of the directors was adopted, and a dividend was declared at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum.

The Secretary of the British Australian Telegraph Company (Limited) has issued the following telegram relative to the progress of the land lines in South Australia:—

"Fresh news from interior, all sections progressing rapidly. Explorer Ross reached Port Darwin 7th June; plenty of timber and water; country good. Steamer Omeo will reach Port Darwin August 20th, followed immediately by four ships."—Treasurer, Adelaide, August 13.

The Spanish Consul-General has invited tenders for the concession of a submarine telegraph cable, connecting Manila with China.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Mirzapore, which left Southampton September 2nd, was, in gold to Galle, £30,000; to Bombay, £530; to Madras, £4,271; to Calcutta, £10,000—in silver, to Malta, £300; to Calcutta, £10,800; to Penang, £1,950; to Hong Kong, £24,792; to Shanghai, £9,940; to Sydney, £500; total in gold, £44,801; in silver £48,282.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

There has been rather more steadiness in the market for good black-leaf Congous. The supplies offering have generally found buyers at about previous prices, a considerable quantity having been sold at public sale without reserve, whilst privately there has been more disposition to purchase. Common to fair, of new import, have, however, sold at ½d. to 1d. per lb. lower at public sale. Foo Chow Teas: The cargo of the Abbotsford found buyers at fair prices, from 1s. 2d. to 1s. 6d. for fair to good, 1s. 8d. to 2s. for fine, and 2s. 1d. to 2s. 4d. for finest kinds. The further supplies, per Glendarroch and Diomed, on offer this week, have not been so readily saleable, except for kinds with briskness and strength, and the few superior Chops. The bulk of the Teas being wanting in quality and flavour, the trade show no eagerness to purchase them, and prices show a decline of 1d. per lb. for such kinds. Pak Lin kinds, which realised full prices, ex Abbotsford, have also sold lower. On the whole, the tone of the market is as good as could have been expected in the face of arrivals of over 20,000,000 lbs. during the past month.

In old season's teas but little has been done; Congou siftings have sold from 3½d. to 5d. per lb., being ½d. per lb. lower, fair to good common remain steady, with a limited business doing. Fair to good Kaisows have sold from 1s. 2d. to 1s. 6d. per lb., later sales showing 1d. per lb. decline, good to fine from 1s. 7d. to 2s. per lb.; finest from 2s. 1d. to 2s. 7d. per lb. show extreme rates, owing to comparative scarcity. Pak Lin kinds: Half-chests sold from 1s. 4d. to 1s. 7d., boxes from 1s. 9d. to 1s. 11d. for good quality, but these prices do not now seem obtainable. Black-leaf kinds: Low qualities remain neglected. Fair to good common of new import have sold from 10½d. to 11½d., being fully 1d. per lb. decline; fair to good from 1s. 1d. to 1s. 7d. per lb. show no material change; fine have been firmly maintained, whilst in finest there is no alteration, the quantity on offer being limited. In Amoy kinds a few fair to good quality have sold from 8d. to 9d., low kinds being almost unsaleable. New-make Canton kinds: Some considerable sales of fair quality have been made at 1s. 1d. per lb., being ½d. per lb. decline. Good have sold from 1s. 3d., to 1s. 7d. per lb. In Souchongs there has been but little business done. Oolongas have been difficult of sale, and prices show a decline of fully 3d. per lb. from opening rates, except for finest kinds. Flowery Pekoes have sold at full prices. Scented Teas: Canton Capers have sold to a large extent at from 1½d. to 1s. 1d. for common to fair, 1s. 2d. to 1s. 4d. for good, and 1s. 5d. to 1s. 10d. for fine to finest kinds. Foo Chow Capers: The few arrived sold at fair prices. Canton Orange Pekoes: The imitation Foo Chow kinds have sold from 10½d. to 1s. 1d. per lb., being about previous rates; long-leaf kinds from 1s. 3d. to 1s. 7d. for fair to good, showing ½d. to 1d. per lb. fall. Foo Chow kinds sold from 1s. 10d. to 2s. 3d. per lb. Uncoloured Japans: common kinds are neglected; fair to good and fine meet with a moderate demand. Green Teas: The further arrivals, per Achilles, have met with a fair demand, having been chiefly realised at public sale without reserve, No. 1 Gunpowder selling from 3s. 6½d. to 3s. 9d.; No. 2 from 2s. 10d. to 3s. 0½d. per lb.; No. 1 Young Hyson from 2s. 3d. to 2s. 5d. per lb., being full prices, quality considered. Old season's Teas still sell at very low rates. Public sales took place on the 1st, 5th, and 6th inst., chiefly without reserve.

Messrs. Shepard, Harrison and Rehden report as follows:—A favourable change has taken place in the tone of the market the past fortnight, more noticeable the last few days, owing to improved country demand and the absence of forced sales without reserve. Further arrivals of red-leaf prove the crop to be preferable to the last few years; finest Kaisow, being in request, has sold at 2s. to 2s. 7d. per lb., the chop Keh-Faung realising this latter figure. The export trade to all quarters has been limited. Deliveries stand thus:—

SILK.

Large arrivals of the new China Silk have been the feature of the market, and have occupied the attention of buyers to the comparative exclusion of other Silks. Under the rapid pressure of sales to secure the profits which the first arrivals showed, prices of Tsatlees have declined a full 1s. from the highest opening rates, establishing the quotation of 23s. 6d. to 24s. 6d. for No. 5 and 4½, and 25s. to 26s. for fair to good 4, and at these rates the market is steady and a fair business doing, with no immediate appearance of lower prices. Kahing Taysaams have been readily taken on arrival at full rates, as also a few parcels of Hangchow and Hainins, but the great bulk of the 9,000 bales of Chinas which have already arrived have been Tsatlees of No 4 to 5 class. Japan silk is again quite neglected, and the few sales of Mybash which are made are at most irregular rates, and have to be forced. Bengal Silk is also dull, with very little enquiry; prices are somewhat nominal in consequence of the absence of demand. Canton Silk has received a fair share of attention during the past month, fine Loong Kong, and good to fine Tsatlees having been taken readily at full rates; lower qualities however will not sell. Deliveries of Silk continue good, and manufacturers are everywhere fully occupied.

Deliveries 1st to 6th inclusive—China, 640 bales; Canton, 199 b.; Japan, 201 b.; total, 1,040 bales.

COFFEE.

The market since our last report has been quiet. The sales have gone off without activity, and lower rates have been accepted for commoner and grey descriptions of Plantation Ceylon, while Native has also sold at easier rates. The latest prices paid have been:—Triage, 50s. to 60s.; ordinary small, 61s. to 62s.; small, 63s. to 66s.; low middling rather small and grey, 64s. to 66s.; dull, 66s. 6d. to 68s. 6d.; middling colour, 69s. 6d. to 74s.; good middling to fine middling, 76s. to 79s.; good bold, 83s. to 84s.; pea-berry, 82s. to 85s. Native, fine ordinary, rather bold, 58s.; small and rather small, 53s. 6d. to 54s. 6d. At the close the market is very steady.

SUGAR.

An extremely quiet tone has prevailed during the week, there has been little disposition to buy, and sales have been restricted, in prices, however, no alteration can be reported. The public sales of East India have been confined to small lots of Manila, comprising 3,600 bags unclayed 110 110, at 22s. 6d., 7,000 bags unclayed Taal at 21s. 3d., and 1,000 bags ditto, at 21s. per cwt.; privately 5,550 bags low Java syrups, ex recent auction, have been sold at 22s.

CAMPOR.—The recent inquiry has almost entirely subsided, and with large stocks very little business has been done; small sales are reported at 67s. 6d. per cwt. for China. Of Japan there is no supply.

CHINA GRASS.—Firm, but demand not active; the nearest quotation is £55.

COCOA-NUT OIL is dull of sale at 38s. 6d. to 39s. 6d. for Ceylon, 32s. to 33s. 6d. for Sydney, and 47s. to 50s. for Cochin. At auction, of 313 casks Ceylon offered, 233 casks sold, viz., 143 hogsheads middling to good £38 10s. to £39, ordinary to low middling, £37 10s. to £38, 30 puncheons good middling at £38 10s., and 60 pipes ordinary to good at £37 10s. to £38 15s.

COIR GOODS.—The supply at the last sales was limited. Yarn sold at previous rates; 103 bales Cochin sold—low middling, £29 5s. to £30; medium to good, £31 to £37 15s.; fine, £44 5s.; 19 tons in dholls chiefly sold—common, £25 10s.; good common, £28 5s.; medium, £31 10s.; fine, £44; 2 tons Ceylon sold at £30 5s. 201 bales Cochin Fibre were bought in—good to fine, £33 to £35; ordinary to fair, £26 to £30, except 34 bales which sold at £24 to £24 5s.; of 4,541 ballots (13 tons) Ceylon only 2 tons sold at £17 5s., the remainder bought in at £17 to £18; 180 bundles bristle sold at £39 10s. to £33 15s.; also 379 coils (3 tons) Cochin Rope, 1½ inch, at £29, 2 and 4½ together at £25 10s. per ton.

CURCH.—The demand has not revived, and large parcels offered have been bought in at 21s. for Calcutta, and 22s. for fine Pegu. Privately small lots of the latter have been taken at 22s. per cwt.

GAMBIER.—Market steady, but rather quiet, 200 tons sold afloat at 15s. 10½d. to 16s. per cwt., and 100 tons landing at the same figures, ex ship. Of 2,815 bales in sale, 775 bags were placed, Rhio Cubes at 20s. 6d. to 21s.

GALLS.—The market for both China and Japan is quiet, with small stocks; at auction 223 boxes offered and bought in. Parcels are offering afloat. Private sales reported at 49s. to 50s.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Sumatra 2nds are a shade easier, several holders being anxious to sell; 3rds steady, of 120 cases offered, half sold at £8 17s. 6d. to £9 5s. per cwt. for good 2nds; £8 7s. 6d. to £8 12s. 6d. fair, and 46s. low 4ths. Siam steady; 3 cases block sold at £10. Manila Copal rather easier; at auction, of 1,471 chests hard offered, upwards of 400 chests were placed at 39s. to 39s. 6d., and medium and some bold, well scraped and clean, with blocky at 34s. 6d.; dark well scraped, 33s. 6d. to 34s. 6d.; block 31s. Damar: About 5s. cheaper; of 838 cases offered, only a few fine selling at 65s. Gamboge rather lower; at sale of 52 cases, about two-thirds placed, good clean pipe, a little blocky, £15 5s. per cwt.; new softish drossy to good, part run, £11 to £14 10s.

HEMP.—The market for Manila has been rather quiet, but holders are still firm; about 500 bales have been sold, good fair to good roping £47 to £48 10s., and business is reported for delivery chiefly early next year at £46 to £47 10s.

HIDES.—At the fortnightly sales held yesterday, East India kips were in good demand, and nearly all sold, the best descriptions at an advance of ½d., whilst ordinary sold at about former prices. Buffalo were in limited demand without alteration in prices, except for a parcel of Batavian, which brought an advance of ½d. per lb. Of 9,100 Singapore and Penang Buffalo offered, 4,890 sold, light 11½ to 13½ lb. at 6½d. to 7d., best heavy 25½ to 38 lb. at 5½d. to 5½d., second 27 to 34½ lb. at 4½d. to 4½d.; 2,000 Batavian sold, light 9½ lb. at 9½d., heavy 16½ to 16 lb. at 8½d. to 9d.

JAPAN WAX.—The market continues very firm, and 100s. has been paid for fine saucers; of 94 cases at auction about half were placed at 80s. to 100s. ordinary mealy to good. The stock is now very small.

MUSK.—Business has been done at prices showing a decline of about 1s. 6d. per oz. for selected, and at full prices other qualities; of 86 caddies at auction three-fourths sold, fair and good even well-shaped selected pods 33s. to 34s. 6d. per oz., fair to good rough bally 18s. 6d. to 21s., pickings, wet 21s. to 23s.

OILS.—Annised: The speculative demand has partially subsided, and sales on the spot have been effected at 3d. per lb. decline, viz.: 9s. 6d. Afloat a fair trade has been done at 9s. 4½d., and the market at the close is firm. Cassia has been also less active, and forty cases at auction were retired at 4s. 4d., at which figure small sales are effected. Nutmegs rather better, 6 cases sold at 6½d., 1 lot 6½d. fine pale. Cinnamon very scarce, and wanted. Citronelle steady; fair trade at 1½d. per oz.; 93 cases at auction sold at 1½d. for good, with 2 lots 1½d. Lemon Grass quiet; none offered; 3d. per oz. paid privately in retail.

PEPPER.—Black has fully maintained its value, but transactions have been limited. Auctions have embraced 1,240 bags Batavian, mostly sold at and since the sales at 6½d. per lb.; 400 bags Singapore (Rhio kind) sold at 6d. to 6½d. Privately 3,000 bags Singapore and Penang have changed hands at 6½d., with a small quantity at 6 3/16d., and West Coast at 6 1/16d., now landing. Afloat, several small parcels near at hand have been disposed of, among which 500 bags Penang at 6 1/16d. per lb. White has been in better demand for shipment and home consumption (speculation in the article at present high rates having ceased), and ½d. per lb. advance has been paid. At auction 1,331 bags, a large proportion sold at 10d. to 10½d. for middling fair, and 10½d. to 10½d. good. Business has been done privately to the extent of about 300 bags at 10½d. cash, fair quality, but at the last moment sales are reported at a fraction less.

RHUBARB.—The better descriptions of China are again rather dearer, whilst low kinds are much neglected; of 164 cases at sale, three-fourths were placed, selected bold grey and pinky fracture, but rather dull coated at 3s. 7d. to 4s. per lb. fair root both in fracture, and coat well trimmed but rather small 2s. 6d. to 2s. 10d.; more dull, and part darker fracture 1s. 11d. to 2s.; ditto rather wormy 1s. 9d.; rough high dried dark to middling 6d. to 1s.

RICE.—The market has been very dull throughout the week, and only few sales have been effected; on the spot small parcels of ordinary white Bengal have been sold at 9s. 7½d. to 10s., Ballam at 10s. to 10s. 3d., Necransie at 10s., Rangoon at 9s. to 9s. 1½d.; the floating cargo per Abergeldie, 800 tons Rangoon August shipment, has been sold at 10s. 3d. for the Continent; the Ottawa, 930 tons Rangoon, at 10s. for the Continent; the Wylo, 1,060 tons Rangoon May sailing, at 9s. 10½d. ex ship for London; and the Payche, 875 tons Necransie, at 9s. 4½d. for the Continent.

SAGO.—Continues very dull, and stocks are heavy; 1,401 bags offered at auction and mostly sold at 14s. 6d. to 15s. 6d. per cwt. for ordinary pinky to fair white small. Flour: flat; 835 bags Singapore offered and retired.

SAPANWOOD is in good request, especially the better kinds; 35 tons Manila at auction sold at £8 2s. 6d. to £8 7s. 6d. per ton good wood, rather badly damaged, and 6 tons indirect at £8.

SHELLS.—The periodical sales will take place on the 12th inst.

SPICES.—Cinnamon: No business since the public sales reported in our last issue. Cassia Lignea: Quieter, and little doing; small private sales at good prices; parcels offering afloat. Vets: Of 150 cases Singapore at auction, small part sold at 70s. In Buds we have no change to report; holders are asking £7, with no buyers. Cloves: Penang very firmly held, and in few hands; high figures demanded. Amboyana dull, and stocks heavy; 120 packages at auction, a few sold at 4½d. Nutmegs have advanced in value to the extent of fully 1d. per lb. for the small descriptions especially, and about 100 cases have been sold privately, most recent quotations being 86s at 3s. 1d., 88s at 3s. 0½d., 107s to 120s at 2s. 11d. to 2s. 10d. At auction, 160 packages were offered and chiefly placed—68s to 76s at 3s. 10d. to 3s. 3d., 83s to 86s at 3s. 2d. to 3s. 1d., 103s to 112s at 3s. to 2s. 11d., lined and wormy at 1s. 7d. to 1s. 6d. Mace: A moderate trade has been done privately at full rates, but at the auctions a rather easier tone has prevailed, and 21 packages were mostly bought in.

STICKLAC.—Siam steady, and at auction, of 294 cases offered, the bulk sold, fair to good, 70s. to 75s.; 1 lot 75s. 6d.; dust, 40s. to 42s.

TAPIOCA has been steady, but with only retail trade. Public sales have presented 1,742 bags Singapore and Penang, about one-third sold, the former at 2d. to 2½d. per lb. for flakey white to good bright small, and the latter at 2½d. to 2½d. for good. 444 bags Pearl also offered, and with the exception of the damaged portion sold at 16s. to 18s. 6d., all was retired. Flour still low in price, but a little more inquiry, notwithstanding the increase of stock.

TIN.—As usual on the eve of the Dutch tin sale (which is fixed for the 28th) there is a lull in the market, consumers not caring to anticipate the result. The statistical position is strong, and at the same time the tinplate trade shows unusual activity. The future course of the article must greatly depend upon the manner in which the tin offered at the sale is taken up. Present quotations are:—Straits on the spot £130; afloat, £130 to £131; Banca, £135 10s.; Billiton £131.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At ADEN.—William Miller (str.), from Amoy, for New York (via S.C.).

CASUALTIES.

Advices from Manila, dated July 18, state that the Marlborough, Larking, which sailed from Zebu, July 2, for London, took ground when leaving that port, but floated in about 24 hours, and proceeded.

The Assyrian, Finnister, which sailed from Ilo Ilo, July 1, for the Channel, grounded on the Otong bank, where she remained for some time; she had to discharge part of her cargo before she could be got off; but it was not yet known whether she had sustained any damage.

Telegraphic advices from Shanghai, dated Aug. 31, state that the Her Majesty, from Foochow, with tea, had put in there with damage, having experienced bad weather, heavy repairs would be necessary.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

CHINA—YANG-TSE-KIANG.

Fixed Light at Shaveishan Island.—Information has been received from the Harbour Master's Office at Shanghai that a light is shown from Shaveishan Island, at the entrance of the Yang-tse-kiang. The light is a fixed light of the first order, 229 feet above high water, and in clear weather can be seen from a distance of twenty-two miles. The light-house is fifty-five feet high, painted black, and the light-keepers' dwellings white; position, lat. 31 deg. 24 min. N., lon. 122 deg. 14 min. E.

Tungsha Light Vessel.—Also, that a new light vessel is moored on the south-west part of the Tungsha bank. The light is a revolving light, with flashes at every half minute, elevated 40 feet above the sea, and in clear weather can be seen from a distance of eleven miles. The light vessel is painted red, with the name Tungsha on her sides, and lies in 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms, with the following bearings, viz.:—Gutzlaff Lighthouse, S. by E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E.; Shaveishan Island, N.E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N.; Kin Toan Lighthouse, N.W. by W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. A gun will be fired when vessels are observed running into danger, and the course that should be steered will be signalled in Marryat's Code. In foggy weather a steam horn will be sounded at intervals of half a minute. When necessary to lower the light for trimming, a small light will be hoisted and a blue light burned.

Wusung Light.—Also, that the light to lead through the channel from the Yang-tse-Kiang to the Wusung or Wangpu river will be more powerful. The light bears from the centre of the navigable channel S.W. by W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W.

Wusung Bar.—Also, that in consequence of the changes on the Wusung bar, two red buoys have been placed to mark the channel. These buoys are moored in 13 feet, on the northern edge of the shoal extending to the west-north-west of Gough island, and are to be left at a distance of one-third of a cable on the starboard hand by vessels bound in, and must not be brought to bear to the northward of the line between them. Also, that two signals have been added to the Code, a ball under the 24 feet signal will show 25 feet water on the bar, and two balls under the 13 feet signal will mark 26 feet. All bearings are magnetic. Variation 1 deg. 50 min. W. in 1871.—Hydrographic Office, Admiralty, London, Aug. 28, 1871.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

AND PILLS.—URGENT NECESSITY.—It would be well for all travellers if they knew that these preparations afford the best and cheapest means of removing all ordinary surgical and medical maladies, arising from natural causes or mishaps, both in this country and in its colonies. In the latter the Ointment and Pills are invaluable, for none but the careless would be without an antidote to the accidental injuries and many complaints to which the settler must be more or less exposed when exploring or settled at a distance from all professional help. Sprains, cuts, bruises, burns, skin diseases, abscesses, and varicose veins are readily cured by Holloway's remedies, which also prevent indigestion, internal inflammation, and fevers.

NOTICE.

WE have this day established ourselves as GENERAL MERCHANTS and COMMISSION AGENTS at this Port, under the style and firm of THOMSON, VINAY, and CO.

From our experience in the Ceylon trade, we shall be enabled to care satisfactorily for all interests intrusted to our care.

Special arrangements have been made to afford every facility for coaling steamers with despatch at current rates.

The advices by the present mail are of no later date than those received via San Francisco, and published in our issue of the 4th inst.

HIOGO AND OSAKA.

The following account of the recent tempest is extracted from the Hiogo and Osaka Herald :—

The 4th of July, the anniversary of American Independence, was being duly celebrated at Kobe when the proceedings were suddenly interrupted by a severe storm, which commenced with a squall in the afternoon, immediately followed up by a deluge of rain, which lasted until the following morning, when the weather cleared up for a spell. However, this was only a short respite, for after the interval of a few hours the rain again began to fall freely. At 9 p.m. the wind began to rise, and by eleven o'clock ripened into a typhoon. At midnight the storm was at its height; reports vary as to the occurrence of an earthquake at this hour—some also are of opinion that a tidal wave visited us; whilst others maintain that the following disastrous occurrences are the results of the typhoon only. The sea came rolling in with heavy breakers, bringing with it steamers, sailing vessels and small craft, dealing destruction and havoc to nearly all the premises on the beach, from which many had to escape by wading up to their shoulders in water. The whole of the sea wall bordering the bund on the Foreign Settlement was swept clean away, and the whole of the houses, their rails, fencing, &c., were more or less damaged. At the east point, whereon is situated Messrs. Board and Co.'s ship-building yard, the violence of the breakers seemed to have passed by as very little damage was caused there, but further on, across the Ikutangawa, Messrs. Domoney's and Co.'s and Kirby and Co.'s premises were swept clean away. Messrs. H. W. Tabor and Co., lost some tons of coals, the sheds wherein they were stored being floated up towards the hills, also about 500 cases of kerosine were floated away. The other cattle-yards, &c., received little or no damage, but we understand that at the new Ikuta-ngawa the fell destroyer has broken up the greater portion of the works which were on the point of completion. The houses in the native town, so far as the western camber, save and except those on the beach already referred to, received but trifling damage, except such as was caused by inundation. At the west point, however, Messrs. Fitzgerald and Strome's premises and gear received some very rough treatment, but a little further on, where stood the Hiogo foundry, belonging to Mr. Wignall, now stands a complete wreck. The house in which he resided was battered down and carried away by a large boat belonging to Messrs. Nachtigal and Co. Mr. Wignall, wife, child, brother and book-keeper escaped with their lives only, most perilously; as three servants were following behind to get through the window of the foundry they were washed away and have not since been heard of. At the Vulcan Iron Works the damage was considerable in comparison, and at Hiogo also. The Fukuwara has been pretty well knocked about. The greatest sufferers on the beach are Messrs. Carroll and Co., whose premises must have received the full brunt of the storm. The new hotel building on the corner—to have been opened on the first proximo—came sadly to grief, the upper foundation stones under the doorway and along the whole front, as also the verandah, were washed away, whilst several of the rooms received a general smash in. The two next houses, occupied by General Paul Frank, and Mr. C. Wiggins (Messrs. Carroll and Co.) were likewise deprived of their verandahs and ornamental work. At the store of Messrs. Carroll and Co., the iron doors were battered out by the sea inside and the whole place was inundated, the verandah was carried away, and other serious damages caused to the whole building. Adjoining, Messrs. Tillson and Co.'s butcher's shop and front of dwelling house were entirely destroyed. In the remaining portion of Carroll buildings, where has been temporarily carried on the Belle Vue billiard saloon, there is one billiard table and bar counter as standing monuments of its former greatness. Messrs. Nachtigal and Co.'s new and commodious store was razed to the ground; the front of Mr. Domoney's bungalow was battered in, and the building itself was carried about two feet back from its foundation stones. At 1 A.M. the flood was at its height. A very large foreign-owned Japanese-built boat was driven up into the town, and landed opposite the Pacific Mail office. The inundation extended to within 100 yards of the rear boundary of the Foreign Settlement, and people were wading through the streets of the town with the water up to their waists. At half-past two the water had subsided.

Amongst the shipping the disasters have been truly terrible; the British barque Pride of the Thames dragged her anchors and for some time wore along the bund; when, however, she had arrived opposite the United States Consulate, she grounded astern on the debris made by the washing away of the Hatoba, and a tremendous sea coming in at the time turned her clean over. The captain, first and second mates and steward, and one or two of the crew, have not been seen or heard of since. Four of the crew were seen clinging to the bottom of the vessel, and means were suggested to endeavour to save them. A boat was procured, but an attempt to launch her failed, in consequence of her partially filling with water and there being no oars to propel her. However, a line was procured, and Messrs. Sim, Stewart and Blackwell volunteered and swam off with it to the wreck. By this means and the co-operation of a number of gentlemen on shore the boat was hauled out and the poor men on the wreck rescued. The three steamers plying between this port and Osaka, and owned by the China and Japan Trading Company, were taken clean over the new sea wall, the wrecks of which are now lying upon the beach. The Rising Sun was broken up, and the Sakata-maru and two others were landed high and dry considerably the worse for rough usage. The loss of native craft has been estimated by a Japanese ship-master to be over 200. The beach has been washed away some four or five feet lower by the force of the water. The total loss has been estimated at about half a million of dollars. We are informed by natives that a similar occurrence took place some thirty years ago, and that another need not be expected during this century. We hope the prognostication may prove a correct one.

At the naval Court of Inquiry held at the British Consulate, before Mr. Acting Vice-Consul Enslie, Mr. Browne, and Captains Roskel and J. J. Smith, it was decided that, considering the scanty evidence obtainable, owing to the loss of the captain, two mates and steward, no blame can be attached to any body, and that the loss of the British barque Pride of the Thames was only owing to stress of weather.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

Dates from this port extend to the 28th July. The London mail (P. and O.) of the 2nd June arrived out on the 17th, and the following French mail of 9th June on the 23rd July.

The following items are from the North China Herald:—

A meeting of Treaty Consuls was held on the 12th July, to discuss the Transit dues difficulty which has lately arisen, and various other questions. The Consuls declined to sanction the new form of application for Transit passes.

The Japanese Ambassador to China, Date, Prince of Uwajima, arrived on the 13th, by the steamer Golden Age. The Japanese flag was first hoisted at the Consulate on that day. His Excellency's mission, according to the Japan Times, is to make a commercial treaty, similar to those already concluded with European nations.

By a curious and perhaps not wholly accidental coincidence, the anniversary of the Tientsin Massacre—June 21st—was marked at Chefoo by a very considerable assemblage of men-of-war of different nationalities, numbering seven large vessels in all. First and foremost was H.B.M. iron-clad frigate Ocean, Capt. Hewett, V.C., which arrived on the 19th inst., from Nagasaki. Besides this stately vessel there were in harbour H.M. corvette Barrosa, despatch vessel Salamis (flying the flag of Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Kellett, K.C.B.), and troopship Adventure, with the marine battalion on board. The French iron-clad corvette Alma and corvette Cosmao, with the Prussian frigate Hertha, complete the list of what is probably the heaviest squadron that has ever rendezvoused so far to the northward in these waters. The 20th June, being the anniversary of Queen Victoria's accession, was celebrated by a Royal salute at midday from all the vessels in harbour, the men-of-war and merchant vessels in port having also "dressed ship" for the day. On the following day the Taoutai paid a visit to Admiral Kellett on board the Ocean, and afterwards called on board the French and Prussian flagships.

We learn with much satisfaction from Chefoo that H.M.S. Ringdove, with Mr. Mayers, H.M.'s Acting Consul, on board, returned from Korea on the afternoon of the 12th July, bringing back the British subjects Starick and Campbell, together with eleven Chinese, who were surrendered by the Korean authorities on Sunday, the 9th inst., without the use of force. The prisoners had been well treated, under the charge of a high native official, by whom they were given up to Commander Maquay and Mr. Mayers. Information obtained by these officers and Lieut. Hassenpflug of the German corvette "Hertha," who accompanied the expedition, leaves little doubt that the third European, Brinckmann, must have met with foul play on board the junk, as he did not land in Korea. The Ringdove visited the port of Li Tau, on the South coast of the Shan-tung promontory, on her return voyage, where the junk is detained, for the purpose of making inquiries there, and further investigations will of course be made. The Ringdove also brought back some of the material saved from the wreck of the Chusan, and we understand that the expedition has been altogether a most interesting one.

A paragraph in the Customs Daily Returns announces that, in future, the names will be published of foreigners who take out permits to land opium, and the quantity specified in each permit.

The Supreme Court has been occupied during three days with a heavy collision case. The British steamer Norna ran down and sank a junk near Video. The decision is fully in favour of the junk.

We understand that costs in the case of Mahlmann v. Groom, Bidwell and others, have been disallowed.

There is a rumour, for the accuracy of which, however, we are unable to vouch, that the United States Government is in correspondence with that of France, with regard to a joint expedition against Korea. It is supposed that the forces the French can bring from Saigon, added to their fleet in these waters, would suffice, together with the United States force in China, to complete the work which the partial attempts hitherto made have failed to accomplish.

At a meeting of the French municipal council held on the 3rd July Mr. Forbes handed in documents relative to the proceedings he had been authorised to take against the municipal shroffs and Mr. Godaert. Mr. Voisin was appointed to continue the necessary proceedings, during Mr. Forbes's temporary absence; and it was resolved that Mr. Weill be required to continue the investigations, but that the special committee be dissolved, as the affair was already before the proper tribunals. A scheme for reorganising the system of collection was submitted, and time taken to consider it. An application was received from the collecting shroffs and from Mr. Godaert for their salary for the month of June. It was resolved to pay the same into the chest of the French Consulate-General, pending a further decision. An application from Mr. Lepissier as candidate for the post of secretary was filed. A letter was read from the secretary of the English council, accepting an offer to contribute Tls. 200 towards the creation of a Home for distressed foreigners, and promising to receive any such who might be sent from this concession.

Dr. Henderson, as municipal health officer, has drawn up a concise memorandum on sunstroke, for the guidance more especially of masters of ships lying in the river, but which may give useful information to newcomers on shore.

The interminable and irritating Soochow Creek Bridge question has been brought up again in full force, in the minutes of a Municipal Council meeting. The failure of the Bridge Company to complete the new bridge by the 1st July, 1871, broke the contract binding the Council to pay Tls. 1,500 a year to commute foreign tolls. Negotiations were entered into, with a view to purchase the bridge or to renew the commutation, but seem to have had an unsatisfactory termination. We expect the only solution will be for the public to build a bridge themselves. For the Bridge Company to speak of the cost of the present bridge, and eighteen years tolls, as the terms of sale, is extravagant.

The Chinese have been praying for rain for some time, and spending a lot of money in dragon processions to propitiate the god. A storm happened on July 24, which was, of course, looked upon as a direct result of their prayers, instead of a natural incident after a number of hot days.

Tientsin seems to be suffering from a practical illustration of the old adage that it never rains but it pours. Usually, the complaint is, want of rain; and failure of the crops is constantly apprehended from this cause. Now the whole country is flooded, and the crops are threatened from excess of water. The four men arrested for the murder of the Russians last year have been released.

The water is five feet below the level of the bund at Hankow, and twelve feet below the highest level of last year. Residents hope, therefore, to escape a flood this year, and anticipate a large trade in imports, in consequence. There have been large settlements of tea during the fortnight, as well as large shipments to Shanghai on native account.

It is feared that the losses by the late typhoon in Japan are not all known yet, and that they will be found to include some out at sea. Anxiety is felt regarding the American schooner Rolling Ware, which left for Shanghai a short time before the typhoon occurred, and is now some thirty days out.

The two Chinese and one Japanese saved from the Nuanu have been again brought up at the Mixed Court. The Chibsen, the Sub-Prefect Chen, the Japanese Consul, and a North-German assessor were on the bench. The captain of the brig was sufficiently recovered from the injuries inflicted on him by his mutinous crew to be present, but was only able to say that when he went on deck he had seen the two Chinese prisoners with something in their hands, and could not identify them as amongst his assailants. The men themselves stoutly denied everything, though, when first examined separately and searchingly, they had made very sufficient confessions. They have now been removed to the city, where their further prosecution will be before the Taoutai. The Japanese is remanded for punishment, on account of his guilty knowledge of the plot.

A meeting of members of the racket club has been held. The accounts show a profit on the six months ended 30th June last of Tls. 679.72, out of which it was resolved to pay a dividend of 5 per cent.

The Tientsin authorities have, we hear, determined on preventing the export of ponies from the north of China, owing to the fact that disease has, to a great extent, become apparent amongst such cattle and they fear that the stock will fall short of home necessities. Fanciers will therefore be unable to recruit their stock from this source for the next autumn meeting at this port.

SHANGHAI, JULY 27.

The progress of the late events in connection with the American invasion of Korea has been watched with intense interest by the Chinese, and it is not at all improbable that the withdrawal of the vessels under Admiral Rodgers' command may be followed by a general demonstration against foreigners in China. The Chinese version of the late operations, resulting in the destruction of five Korean forts with the loss of three men of the attacking force, runs thus:—"Great victory over the Yang-Kuay-tz! One thousand foreigners killed! Four foreign war ships caught in the river and unable to get out!"

I am in the hope of being enabled to obtain some important information relative to the preparation of "Maloo Mixture." I have already ascertained that twenty or thirty women are employed in a quiet out-of-the-way "location" in this settlement—the house is to all outward appearance tenantless—in separating dogs' dung, &c., from second-hand tea leaves after they have been spread out in the sun to dry.

HONG KONG.

Dates from this port by this mail are to the 4th August; the outward mail, with London dates to the 16th June, was received on the 24th July. The following items are from the China Mail:—

There have been disquieting reports of the likelihood of an outbreak at Canton, and news has come to hand that a Protestant Chapel at Fatshan has been destroyed; but though at one time it was rumoured that foreigners might be attacked, matters have passed off quietly so far as Europeans are concerned. Though the rumours, as is always the case, were much exaggerated, there was sufficient in them to cause apprehension. H.B.M.'s gunboat Thistle was despatched from Hong Kong to Canton on the 23rd July, and on the same day a considerable number of troops were held in readiness to depart for Canton at an hour's notice, should the Consul send a requisition for them. It is probable that this prompt display of firmness urged on the mandarins to take steps to put down the excitement. The reports were to the effect that foreigners had been selling a peculiar drug, which had very deleterious effects on those who took it; and with the credulity which forms so strange an adjunct to the shrewdness of the Chinese character, these stories seem to have been very generally believed. The Viceroy has issued a proclamation distinctly asserting that foreigners have nothing whatever to do with the sale of the objectionable medicine, and matters seem to have settled down into a quieter state in the city, though there is still considerable excitement in the provincial districts.

The anti-foreign agitators are thus extending their operations to Canton, where the all-important "evil genius" mixture has become the staple food for gossip amongst the shopkeeping citizens. One proclamation has been torn down from a wall in the city. The Chinese have had a current rumour of riots having occurred at Canton, but this has not been confirmed.

Shin Amoon, one of the two men who were executed at Fatshan on the 30th July, made the following statement before the Namhoi magistrate:—"That he was a hawker of bean sprouts at Fatshan, and while pursuing his avocations one day he visited the Chow Mah street, where the chapel is situated. He heard one man speaking aloud, saying how was it that the chapel was not destroyed, when, according to the placards, its demolition was threatened to have taken place on or before the 23rd July last. Shin Amoon replied that if any one wished to destroy it he would join company with him. Thereupon he was arrested by a policeman and was conveyed to the divisional sub-magistrate of Ng Tow, where he was preliminarily tried and sent over to Canton for final examination. Looking over the depositions, the Viceroy offered a reward of $100 for the arrest of the person with whom he had been loudly speaking at Fatshan. As the man was single-eyed there was little difficulty in finding him out. When both were brought up, further evidence was adduced against them, charging the former with being at the head of a secret society numbering over 160 people, and the latter at the head of a company of over 400 members, and that the intention of these societies was to create a misunderstanding between China and the foreign Powers by the distribution of the "Shan Sin Fan" and the spreading of false rumours, thereby exciting people to rise against the mandarins. The prisoners were found guilty on this charge, and the Governor-General was said to have approved of the verdict and confirmed the sentence of decapitation. We hear on very good authority that the "Shan Sin Fan" proves to be no more nor less than rice flour! One of the pills and some of the powder having been obtained, the component parts of both were found, on analysis by a competent gentleman, to be of the same harmless substance, except that the pill, in addition, was covered with a little red colouring matter.

The Daily Press makes the rather startling suggestion that a Custom-house should be established in Hong Kong, duties levied on the same scale as at the treaty ports, and the net proceeds handed over to the Chinese, to induce them to leave off collecting duties surreptitiously. The free port theory, it argues, is very good in the abstract; but, as a matter of fact, Hong Kong never has been a free port, because the Chinese contrive, one way or another, to tax every junk that leaves it. Would it not be better to recognise the fact and reduce the exactions to a definite shape? There is some plausibility in this idea; but the further question suggests itself, whether the squeezes would not go on as actively as ever, even if it were carried out. The arguments pro and con are precisely the same as they were in regard to Sir R. Alcock's proposal to make the transit duties five per cent. We suspect it is better for Hong Kong to go on as it has been going, and fight the squeezes as vigorously as it can.

A charge of conspiracy to defraud certain Chinese silk merchants has been brought by the Attorney-General against three Mahomedans named Abdoolah Moosa, Noord Mahomed Camissa, and Hassan Mahomed. The defendants are alleged to be mixed up in some way with the business conducted under the style or firms of Fazulbhoy Mahomed Essa and Company and Hassambhoy Goolam Hoosein and Company; and Essa Ahmed (manager of the firms in Bombay), and Abdood Devaraj (late manager of the firms in Hong Kong and Canton) were included in the writ of summons. The action of the Crown has arisen out of certain revelations made before the Chief Justice in Bankruptcy, and as nearly two million dollars are said to have been swindled lately from the Canton silk merchants, great interest is felt in the progress of the case. The examination of the first witness for the prosecution before the magistrate has already extended over three days, and is yet unfinished. The case stands adjourned.

A Canton correspondent informs us of the presentation to Mr. David Gillies, the superintendent of the Hong Kong and Whampoa Dock Company, on the occasion of his leaving Canton, of a silver vase on the part of the European foremen and clerks, and a richly embroidered red satin banner,—in the centre of which, in characters of gold, was a complimentary address—on the part of the Chinese workmen engaged in the docks. The silver vase was presented by Mr. Welsby, accompanied by a neat speech. The banner was, by the Chinese who were present in consequence of their inability to speak English, placed in the hands of the venerable Archdeacon Gray, in order that he, as their spokesman, might present it with a few suitable remarks.

Under date of Aug. 2, advices from Toong Kun City report that the residence and chapel of the Rev. J. Nacken has been entirely destroyed, and also that the Roman Catholic Chapel there had met the same fate.

Messrs. Spratt and Co. have completed a steam launch for the use of the Portuguese Government. The launch was ordered by some of the leading gentlemen in Macao, as a present for the Governor. She is well modelled, and her lines have been greatly admired, by all judges of marine architecture. In length the miniature clipper occupies about 51 feet, in breadth 10 feet 4, and in depth 5 feet. She is built of Oregon pine, with teak topsides and garboard and oak keel. Her frame is double and close jointed. She is copper fastened to water line and through floors keelson and keel. Her engines, which are 12 horse-power, nominal, were built by Messrs. Inglis and Co. of the Victoria Foundry. Her draught of water is 3.6 ft and 2.6 forward, displacement 19 tons. Carpenter's measurement 26 tons. At a trial trip, with a party of Macao gentlemen on board, she ran round that island averaging 8 knots per hour. The boat was built from designs furnished by Mr. Nelson Spratt, by whom most of the Pacific Mail Steamers were modelled.

The Gazette announces the confirmation of the appointment of the Hon. Richard Rowett as an unofficial member of the Legislative Council, in place of H. B. Gibb, Esq., resigned. The Lieutenant-Governor has appointed Mr. Frederick Stewart to be assistant superintendent of the Hong Kong Fire Brigade.

An extraordinary general meeting of the Hong Kong Hotel Company was held on the 24th July, when the report was adopted. The debt of the company has again been sensibly diminished, and the directors are enabled to report that they have been successful in obtaining the loan of $90,000 from a local company on considerably more favourable terms than hitherto paid. The existing lease of the hotel building will expire on the 31st August, and the board are in communication with several influential natives on the subject of reletting the entire building. Messrs. Belilios and Landstein, the retiring directors, were re-elected.

A company has been formed under the title of the Hong Kong Wharf and Godown Company, to provide landing and storing accommodation in view of the requirements caused by the large steamer traffic via the Suez Canal. The capital is to be $300,000 in 3,000 shares of $100. It is intended, the prospectus says, to construct a suitable pier, partly covered, 1,000 feet long and 50 feet wide, with a T-head 240 by 50 feet, to enable not less than three vessels of large size to simultaneously use it. In addition to the above, it is proposed to erect on this site six large granite godowns of an aggregate storage capacity of 15,000 tons, affording with the storage capacity on the premises a total of about 22,000 tons.

The Chinese gunboats have left Macao, and the threatened trouble seems to be over. The Customs stations are to be established on the mainland of China, some five miles outside Macao, but the inhabitants are still on the qui vive, not on account of the mandarins, but for fear of an outbreak in the garrison. Governor Souza has issued an official notification, intimating in very clear terms that he will make an example of any one found disturbing the public peace. The cause of quarrel between the Chinese and the Macao Government was that the Kwantung officials sought to place a Custom-house on Portuguese territory; and collected a number of war vessels off the town. The Macao Government refused to have the Custom-house, and threatened to fire if the ships were not withdrawn.

The following is from the Overland Trade Report:—The attempt which has been made by the Chinese Customs at Shanghai to introduce a clause into the application for transit passes such as would have the effect of making it appear that the goods when in Chinese hands were subject to taxes in addition to those stipulated for by treaty has fortunately been frustrated for the time being; but the whole question has been referred to Peking for settlement. The protest made by the chairman of the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce is based upon this ground, and attention is called to the fact which is too frequently overlooked, that the terms of the Nanking Treaty were confirmed and renewed in the Tientsin Treaty, and that consequently there can be no question either as to the object or the nature of the stipulations agreed upon. It is possible even now that the main point will—as is too frequently the case with negotiations at Peking—be lost sight of in the discussion of a maze of theoretical subtleties and ingenious evasions. Still it may be fairly concluded that Mr. Wade will feel himself bound by the dictum of Sir Rutherford Alcock, and will, therefore, be likely to withstand the pretensions of the Chinese more successfully than he would were he not fortified by this fact.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates extend to the 12th August. On the 31st July the English mail of 30th June arrived, and on the 7th August the French mail came in with London letters to 7th July.

The following items are from the Straits Times:—

The Legislative Council has been mainly busy with the amendment of the Police law and the Penal code. His Excellency the Administrator has communicated with the Indian Government regarding the amendments made in the code in India, and has received some very valuable information from Mr. Fitzjames Stephen. The amendment of the Contagious Diseases Bill has been peremptorily stopped through a telegram from the Colonial Secretary; and it is believed that this order is owing to representations made at home by Sir Harry Ord, who, in support of his views, has ventured an assertion regarding the native character that will by no means enhance the public opinion of his knowledge on the subject.

The Chindras Gold Mining Company, having a sufficient number of shares taken up, is about to commence operations. The mines are about forty miles from Malacca.

The B.I.S.N. steamer Rangoon has been purchased by Messrs. Kim, Tian, and Co. for $40,000. She is intended to run between this and Bangkok. The same firm has also a new steamer of about 700 tons burden, building in the Clyde, for the same line.

PENANG.

The following items are from the Penang Argus:—

We understand that the census returns are nearly complete, and that they give a population of 133,064, divided as follows:—Georgetown and Harbour, 31,213; country districts, 30,376; Province Wellesley, 71,475; total, 133,064.

The third criminal sessions of the year were opened by Sir William Hackett on the 8th August. Some difficulty was experienced in collecting a sufficient number of gentlemen for the grand jury. His Lordship said the calendar was much heavier than that at Singapore, and had been so for some time—that Penang obtained pre-eminence in crimes far above the other settlements. In the south of Province Wellesley every Malay was either a robber, a murderer, or, at all events, a man ready to set the law at defiance, or if he did not do so himself, was willing to assist others in breaking it.

On dit that Mr. Dunman, the chief commissioner of police, Straits Settlements, has resigned his appointment, and that he will not come out again. Captain Speedy, who holds the acting appointment at Singapore, will, we have every reason to believe, obtain Mr. Dunman's place. We also hear that Mr. C. B. Waller, the deputy commissioner of police at Singapore, shortly goes to England on leave, and that Mr. G. G. Evans will probably have to return to Singapore. This constant shifting of officers from one settlement to another must be rather expensive and anything but likely to promote the interests of the service.

An attempt has been made to fire the growing crops and the works at the sugar estate at Golden Grove. Fire was set to the canes in the centre of two fields, and to one of the megass sheds. The latter was entirely destroyed, but, happily, the flames did not extend in the cane-fields. Much credit is due to Mr. Symons, the assistant manager, through whose active exertions the damage was limited to a small area.

The Rajah of Larote arrived as expected, and had an interview with his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor. He left on the following day, being accompanied, we hear, by Chief Inspector Magness, who has been deputed to point out certain criminals supposed to have lately taken refuge on the Rajah's territory to evade punishment for offences committed here some time ago.

Fancy and Dyed Cottons: Small sales; hardly any demand. Woollens and Worsteds: Gradually improving. Camlets: Scarlet Tls. 12.50 to 13 per piece. Long Ells: Strongly held for higher rates, but quotations almost nominal. Figures: Good assortments quoted Tls. 3.95. Grapes advanced to Tls. 60 per piece. Lead is being bartered against Tea, cash value Tls. 4.20 to 4.30. Quicksilver: A sale of 50 flasks reported at Tls. 67; inquiry still limited.

SHANGHAI.—The market for Cotton manufactures had been somewhat irregular, the prices of one or two staples having slightly receded, while others showed a marked advance. The improvements in the position of Woollen goods, had been well sustained throughout the fortnight, and rates in nearly every case had ruled in favour of sellers. A quiet but steady business had been done in Grey Shirtings. The current rates had been—Tls. 1.90 to 1.98 per piece for common to best chops 8½ lbs., Tls. 1.70 to 1.76 for 7 lbs.; Tls. 2.40 to 2.68 for 9.10 to 12 lbs. White Shirtings: Great quietness had characterised the market, the reported settlements being 5,000 pieces. Last quotations, however, had been maintained. T-Cloths: Less inquiry, and rates somewhat irregular. Drills had been taken freely by consumers at a much higher range of prices; Tls. 3.25 to 3.27 quoted for 16 lbs., to arrive; 15 lbs., on the spot, Tls. 3.19 to 3.20; inferior, Tls. 3.15 to 3.17. Dutch had participated in the advance, and best were quoted Tls. 3.20 per piece. Jeans: Fair business from first and second hands at gradually rising prices; good 8 lbs. English make quoted Tls. 2.45 per piece; best Dutch held for Tls. 2.60; Americans at Tls. 2.65. Sheetings: A small lot of English 14 to 15 lbs. placed at Tls. 3.80 per piece; American Cloth nominally worth Tls. 40. Fancy Cottons: inquiry had been to good extent at about last quoted prices. Woollens, generally, had improved value. Camlets in strong speculative inquiry, and heavy settlements at Tls. 12.75 to 14.00 for common to best quality and assortments. The market for Long Ells less active but firm. Scarlet C.P.H. placed Tls. 6.00, assorted at Tls. 5.65. Spanish Stripes and Medium Cloths in good demand at higher prices. Figured Orleans: Large business, both on the spot and to arrive; medium qualities found purchasers at Tls. 3.90 to 4.00 varying with assortment and shades of colour. Lastings of best quality asked for, and Tls. 11.75 per piece paid for best chops. Ordinary Tls. 10½ per piece. Metals: Nailrod Iron taken at Tls. 2.20 to 2.25, an advance of about 5 cand. per picul; Lead, Tls. 4.50; holders firm; stock held for Tls. 4.70 to 4.80. Coals firm; Cardiff, ex ship, Tls. 9.50.

FOOCHOW.—The following sales had been reported. T-Cloths, 500 pieces 7 lbs. at $2.10; 900 pieces 6 lbs. at $1.77½. Grey Shirtings, 700 pieces 8½ lbs. at $2.85. Lead, 250 pigs at 6.50 to $6.75. Quotations: 7 lbs. Grey Shirtings at $2.45 to 2.50.

HONG KONG.—The Chinese traders have been holding off after the heavy purchases of Cotton Goods reported by last mail, consequently but little business had been transacted in some of the principal staples, and prices were rather easier. Woollens have attracted much attention owing to reduced stocks, and prices had greatly improved. Cotton Yarn: Nos. 16/24s short in stock, and advanced $6, sales at $12½, low and medium quoted at $110 to 117; Nos. 28/32s in fair request at beginning of the fortnight at $120 to 125 for fine to finest, but latterly demand less active, lower qualities neglected; 38/42s transactions limited at $100 to 110 per bale. Grey Shirtings: Scarcely any sales effected, quotations were almost nominal, but indicated a reduction of 5c. T-Cloths also easier, a decline of 2½c. to 5c. quoted on last mail's rates; holders, however, were disinclined to submit to lower prices. White Shirtings: Remain without change in price, business on a very small scale. Grey Twills: Advance fully maintained, and a fair amount of business done; English, $3.67½ to 3.75 for 14 lbs., $4 to 4.10 for 15 lbs.; Jeans taken in small quantities at $2.85 per piece for 8 lbs. Dyed and Fancy Cottons: Chintzes taken at about previous prices; Dyed Brocades in better request at an improvement of about 5c.; Black Velveteens, 18 in., in good request at 18c. to 18½c.; and Black Velvets, 22 in., at 24c. Medium Cloths: Small parcels changed hands at prices varying according to quality. Spanish Stripes: Very active, and further advanced; HH quoted 72c. for Assorted, and 75c. for Scarlet; inferior qualities in proportion; "Double Eagle" chop sold at 80c. for Scarlet. Long Ells: Fair inquiry at an advance of 60c. on Scarlet, and $1.20 on Assorted. Camlets advanced very considerably in value, SS Scarlet, best quality, sold as high as $18; Assorted quoted $16 to 17 per piece. Metals: Nail Rod Iron firmer again, Nos. 1/6, $2.50; Round, Square, and Flat Bars, $2.48 per picul; Quicksilver in brisk demand at $84 to 87½; Yellow Metal Sheathing selling at $19.20 to 20.50 per picul; Lead extremely dull, and quotations nominal.

SINGAPORE.—39-inch Grey Shirtings: Demand for 8½ lbs. supplied, and there was very little enquiry; moderate sales at $2.45; 7 lbs. quiet at $2.07½ to $2.10; 6 lbs. very dull at $1.75 to $1.77½; 45-inch: moderate enquiry for 9 lbs. at about last quotation, $2.82½; 8 lbs. dull at $2.37½; other weights no demand. 32-inch T. Cloth: Enquiry almost confined to 6 lbs. and 7 lbs. at $1.62½ and $1.80 respectively; Grey Supers are quiet at $1.95 to $1.97½ for No. 1; Grey Madapolams: 2½ lbs. in moderate demand at $17; 3 lbs. without enquiry; 36-inch White Shirtings: Without change, less enquiry for finer qualities; 45-inch almost unsaleable. White Spots: Trifling sales at $2.45 for 14 and 15. Dyed Shirtings without improvement and quotations nominal. Woollen Goods: 32 lbs. Camlets in better demand at advanced prices; Scarlet quoted $16; Assorted $14 to $14½. Scarlet Long Ells of 12 lbs., enquired for; sales at $6.70 to $7.25; but the advance had checked business. 5 lbs. Scarlet Bombazetts, no enquiry and nominal at $2.95. Lustres and Lastings no demand. Grey Yarn: All counts in very limited enquiry, 40s $110 to $112, 30s $105 to $106½, 18-24s $90 to $95. A small sale of 18-24s Water Twist reported at $105. Turkey Red in moderate demand for 12 lbs. Glasgow dye at $135 to $137½, 10 lbs. quiet at $127½ to $130. No enquiry for German dye. Others dull of sale. Iron: An assortment of about 150 tons of Govan flat, round, and square placed at $2.50; Hoop, $3.80. Nailrods quiet, at $2.40 to $2.45. Swedish flat bar in moderate demand and worth $3.50 to $3.60. Lead very dull, quotations nominal.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—A steady demand had existed, and a large business had been done at higher prices; finest grades, having been most sought after, had realised extreme figures. Supplies had come in freely, and the quality is considered good. The Hong Kong left for San Francisco on the 18th July with 139,181 lbs. Tea, and the steamer Alaska, expected to sail on the 5th August, would take about 2,300 tons of Japan Tea. The ship Flying Spur was loading for New York.

HANKOW.—The following is Messrs. Drysdale, Ringer, and Co.'s Report, dated Hankow, 22nd July:—A steady business has continued here, and we have now to advise settlement of 17,316 chests, and 21,363 half-chests. In the corresponding fortnight of last year settlements amounted only to 3,860 chests. This increase is in great measure accounted for by the much larger quantity of Tea shown on our market this year. All the better parcels have been readily taken at full rates, the settlements of the last few days showing even a slight advance in price, although there is not the same quality of Tea offering. The Teamen are very firm, and rather than make any reduction have preferred shipping to Shanghai, the quantity thus forwarded being for the fortnight 25,131 chests, 9,029 half-chests. The settlements are all of second crop leaf, and the greater part have been at Tls. 18 to 19, a few better parcels costing up to Tls. 23. Shuntams and similar low class Teas have not been in favour and have mostly been forwarded to Shanghai for sale. The third crop leaf is expected in the course of the next week. We quote fair to good Oonfars and Oopacks Tls. 16 to 21. Shuntum packed, Tls. 11½ to 12. Settlements since 8th July:—3,464 chests 6,568 half-chests at 1½d. to 1¾d. per lb.; 11,303 chests 13,875 half-chests at 1¼d. to 1½d. per lb.; 2,549 chests 920 half-chests at 1¼d. to 1½d. per lb..

KIUKIANG.—About 15 chops Ningchow had been settled at Tls. 18.75 to 22; and twenty-five chops had gone forward to Shanghai on native account. In Greens there was nothing of interest to advise with regard to the new Moyunes, arrivals of which were looked for in about three weeks.

SHANGHAI.—Black: We learn from Messrs. Drysdale's Circular that a steady business has been transacted principally in good to fine second crops at Tls. 24 to 27 at gradually hardening rates till musters of some 70 chops of second crops were shown, when operators reduced their offers for fair to medium kinds; the finer chops were, however, somewhat eagerly competed for at from Tls. 25.5 to 27, and Teas of this class are still saleable at full rates. Towards the close a considerable business has been done in Shuntam-packed Teas at Tls. 16.25, equal 11½d., and in common to flavoury Hohows at Tls. 18 to 19.5, equal 1s. 1d. to 1s. 2½d. We consider them relatively dear. Teas of the first crop have all been taken and shipped. We have now had full opportunity to judge of the quality of the second crop; it is by general consent made superior to the growth of 1870, but we think that much of the strength and freshness now possessed by the Teas is owing to the fire which is fresher upon them now than then, when they did not reach us, owing to the flooded state of the up country districts, till a later date. Early in the fortnight when supplies were moderate, the tendency of prices was upwards, and a slight advance was established in good to medium grades; subsequently, arrivals being heavy, this improvement for sellers has been lost, and the tendency of the market is decidedly down wards, except for Teas for price and those with any quality, which we quote firm at previous rates. We make the range of price for second crops Tls. 2. to 3. higher than last year. Quotations (exchange at 6s. 1d., freight £3 10s. per ton):—Hohows, fair to medium, 1s. 1d. to 1s. 4d.; Oonam, common to fair, 11½d. to 1s. 2½d.; Oopacks, fair to medium, 1s. 3d. to 1s. 5½d.; do., good medium to fine, 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 8½d.; Oonfas, medium to good medium, 1s. 4½d. to 1s. 6½d.; Ningchows, medium to fine, second crop, 1s. 4d. to 1s. 6½d. Green: Operations for the fortnight have again been confined to Pingsueys, with the exception of one chop, rather common Fychow, settled at Tls. 38. One or two chops of Teenkais have come to hand, which are held for prices beyond the ideas of buyers. We quote common Hohchow Tls. 32 to 34. Pingsueys, ordinary mixed leaf, at Tls. 35 to 38, good to fine Tls. 40 to 55, at which rates they are much above prices current on the London market.

FOOCHOW.—Transactions in Congous had been on a more moderate scale, while other kinds business had been but trifling. Congou: Settlements from Tls. 14 to 16 had been of rather better value, but the lower grades of flavoury and medium kinds were unchanged. Teamen had readily met the demand without pressing sales. Current quotations (exchange 4s. 5d., freight £3):—Dust and siftings, 6d. to 8½d.; broken leaf to ordinary, 8½d. to 1¼d.; fair to good common, 11½d. to 1s. 1½d.; flavoury to medium, 1s. 2½d. to 1s. 7d. Souchongs: Although the stock continued to increase, extreme rates were still demanded. Small settlements at Tls. 17 to 31. Oolong: Musters of fine chops still kept back, awaiting the arrival of cargo grades to complete the assortment of lines usually offered in "chops," and it was still uncertain when they would be placed on the market. Settlements none. Scented Teas: Current quotations:—Common to fair, 1s. 4d. to 1s. 6d.; medium, 1s. 6½d. to 1s. 8½d.

AMOY.—Oolong: The business of the past fortnight had been on rather a small scale, and towards the close an easier feeling prevailed, especially for cargo grades, although there were very few Teas on offer. Many chops settled from muster packages a fortnight previous were not yet to hand. Quotations: Common to Fair, $20 to 24; Good to Superior, $27 to 30; Fine, $32 to 37. Congou: About 740 half-chests had been settled at $16 to 20, showing a slight decline. It was stated that the season's supply would not exceed 10,000 half-chests. Total settlements to date:—Ooolongs, 81,520 half chests and 5,470 boxes; Congou, 7,300 half chests: stocks, Ooolong, nil; Congou, 445 half chests. Departures for New York, July 20th, Ardennany with 400,774 lbs. Ooolong; August 1st, S.S. William Miller with 43,899 lbs. Congou and 644,414 lbs. Ooolong. Loading for New York, Leander and Lanercost, both under despatch.

CANTON.—During the early part of the fortnight there was very little animation in the market, but latterly the more moderate ideas of holders induced buyers to come forward, and rather a large business in Scented kinds had been the result. Scented Capers: Settlements had been made at a decline of Tls. 2, but prices had recovered nearly Tl. 1. Very common to fair, with much spurious intermixture, had been taken at Tls. 11 to 15½; clear true fair to medium realised Tls. 16 to 21. Export to date, 2,868,920 lbs., against 1,652,975 lbs. same time last year. Scented Orange Pekoes: No change in value; stock very trifling. Cantonment Greens: Gunpowders settled to the extent of 7,200 boxes, at about Tls. 2 decline. Imperial: 2,000 boxes purchased at Tls. 14 to 16 for a Continental order. Settlements from July 17 to 31:—Country Congous, nil; Canton District Congous, nil; Scented Orange Pekoes, 8,000 boxes, at Tls. 15 to 27; Scented Capers, 30,000 boxes, at Tls. 11 to 30; Canton Greens—Gunpowder, 7,200 boxes, at Tls. 17 to 30; Imperial, 2,000 boxes, at Tls. 14 to 16.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—The following is from Messrs. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular:—Immediately after the departure of last mail some spirited buying took place, with a great demand for Chops and all Silks with character, which resulted in an advance of Tls. 5 to 10 on the former and Tls. 25 on the latter, whilst on the common and medium descriptions the advance has been about Tls. 15 to 20. As the mail closes holders are trying to establish a further rise, but the advance in exchange, and the uncertainty as to the view the home market may take of such enormous shipments (viz. 18,000 to 19,000 bales) in one month has caused buyers to pause, the only operators now being those who are executing telegraphic orders, and who are paying any prices asked to obtain the particular descriptions of Silk they want. The following are a few of the prices paid:—Koo Fong Sing chop 3rd, 30s. 2d.; Chooching check chop 3rd, 30s. 2d.; Dragon chop, 29s. 8d. to 30s. 0d.; Donkey chop, 29s. 8d. to 30s. 0d.; Yakee, 29s. 8d. to 30s. Tae Ho Chang Ling, 29s. 8d. to 30s. 2d.; Blue Flag No. 3, 27s. 11d. to 28s. 2d.; Euke fung Elephant chop, 27s. 11d.; Kukee Chin Jan, 27s. 11d.; Red Peacock, 27s. 1d. to 27s. 4d.; Medium and Common Tsatlee, 26s. 7d. and 24s. 10d.; Fatmow Haineen, No. 2, 25s. 10d. to 26s. 1d. Ching Yuen Sing Tingchow Kaking, 28s. 5d.

CANTON.—During the early part of the fortnight buyers continued to hold off in the hope of establishing lower prices for the third crop, but the Silkmen remained firm, and the inquiry for Europe becoming very active, they were enabled to obtain the high range of prices for the third crop which they asked on its first arrival at market. As soon as a commencement was made very large settlements ensued at advancing prices, and nearly all the third crop ready for export has been secured. The market closes in an excited state. Settlements for Europe amount to fully 1,500 bales. For America a steady business has been doing, also at full rates, as prices for suitable descriptions have participated to some extent in the general advance. Quotations—Tsatlee, best selected, $550 to 560 per picul; Loong Konz, best selected, $560 to 575; Re-reeled Cumchook, best selected, $545 to 555; ditto, market No. 1, $535; Lacklow, best selected, $545 to 555.

CHINESE LABOUR IN AMERICA.

In view of the evidence of the success which has attended the employment of Chinese labour in the States, the Globe suggests its introduction here as a remedy against such strikes as are now agitating the labour market. Already, the Globe says, in this country we have had Germans, Belgians, Danes, and Norwegians imported to aid in repressing strikes, but these, when they have discovered the object for which they were brought, have either gone home again or sought employment elsewhere. Now, there is no such bond between Chinese workmen and any others; on the contrary, the untiring industry, the rigid frugality, and the wonderful power of imitation of the former render them competitors of whom even a people like the Germans might stand in wholesome dread. Sir William Armstrong and other large employers, we are told, are forming a fund "specially destined to provide for the introduction of foreign labour into England." We should not be at all surprised in these days of excessive competition, rapid locomotion, and Suez Canals, if, before very long, we saw John Chinaman and party hard at work over here.

It is nearly twelve months since we stated that it was intended to construct a special class of gunboats for service in China waters. We now learn that the necessary orders have been issued, and that the shipwrights at Chatham dockyard are now engaged in laying the keels of the four new composite gun-vessels Rifleman, Kestrel, Ready, and Frolic, which are ordered to be constructed and brought forward for launching with all despatch. Each vessel is being built on what is known as the composite principle, being composed of iron and wood, while they are constructed with flat midship sections, which will give them a light draught to enable them to ascend the rivers in China and to operate along the coast and in harbours. They are each to be armed with four heavy guns, two of which will be breech-loaders.

A curious report comes from Washington, that the Korean battle-flags, captured in the recent encounter, have been received at Washington, and that in several instances they are made gifts to personal friends, and are marked with the names of the captors. "Such a disposition of trophies captured in battle," says the New York Times, "is in direct violation of the course prescribed and observed during previous wars. If the Government could give away all the results of the attack on the Korean forts with the flags, no objection could be made to presenting them to any one willing to accept them. As it is, the duty of the Navy Department to preserve the flags is plain."

The Iron Duke, double screw iron vessel, armour-plated, 14 guns, flying the flag of Rear-Admiral Shadwell, C.B., naval Commander-in-Chief in China, sailed on Saturday last, the 16th inst., for China, via the Suez Canal. The following appointments have been made to the ship, in addition to those reported in our last issue:—Lieutenant Charles S. Donner; Sub-Lieutenant—G. H. Bruce.

An Ordination service was held last week at Lee Chapel, Blackheath at which Mr. Arnold Foster, B.A., of St. John's College, Cambridge, was set apart for the ministry in connection with the London Missionary Society. Mr. Foster will sail early in October, for Hankow, the station to which he has been appointed.

Staff-Commander William Hewlett, 1869, is appointed to the Princess Charlotte, vice Raymond, invalided. Lieutenant Christopher T. Francis, 1867, is appointed to the Rinaldo.

BREAKFAST—EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Each packet or tin is labelled—JAMES EPPS & CO., Homoeopathic Chemists, London. Epps's Cocoa is also prepared with condensed milk, and sold in tins, labelled Epps's Milky Cocoa.

THE AMERICANS IN KOREA.

WE learn from the American journals that at a meeting of the United States Cabinet it has been decided not to carry on the Korean war any further, unless it should be found hereafter possible to form an offensive alliance for that purpose with Great Britain and Germany. Our American contemporaries appear to perceive the fact that there is very little likelihood of England's forces being employed for any such purpose; they confess that they "can do nothing with the Koreans," and that it is "not very likely" that they will ever have an opportunity of uniting with any "European Power in thrashing that people." The result of Mr. Low's ill-judged expedition has therefore been to leave matters considerably worse than they found them. We learn from a correspondent that the retreat of Admiral RODGERS's squadron is not only regarded as a confession of defeat by the Koreans, but that it is being made political capital of by the anti-foreign party in China, and that it is regarded as likely to lead to a general demonstration against foreigners throughout the Empire. These accounts, as our readers will remember, precisely tally with the views we expressed when we learned that Admiral RODGERS had retreated without coming to any understanding with the Koreans. We can hardly blame the Koreans for believing that they have beaten the Americans, for that is exactly what is believed in England also, but we think the United States Government owe some explanation and amends to the European Powers for having idly tampered with a remote nation which, if they found it in an unsatisfactory state, they leave now considerably more firmly closed against foreigners than when they went to open it. It is most discouraging to find such an easily anticipated result the natural consequence of an ill-digested plan, and then to find that the prime movers of the undertaking withdraw under cover of the plea that they "will proceed no further with this business" without the assistance of those who flatly refused their aid when it was first proposed. Until the stigma of the Korean retreat is wiped out, there can be no doubt that the position of foreigners in the Far East must be more or less prejudiced by the recollection of it. The matter, therefore, cannot be allowed to remain in its present phase. The American SISYPHUS has rolled the stone to the top of the hill, and it has recoiled upon him. It behoves him, then, to use more nerve in his next attempt, for it will never do for him to change characters with his brother TANTALUS, and only show the world that he perceives what he would have, and has not the power to take.

We publish in another column a very exhaustive article from the New York Nation with reference to China affairs. Even those of our readers who may differ most from the writer's views must at least award him the praise of candour; and the publication of his present production will, therefore, be the more likely to dispel the fallacy too long indulged in England, that the policy of the United States towards China is a pacific policy. "China must be taught, in such a manner that the lesson cannot be forgotten, the advantages of 'preserving national faith.'" Such is the closing sentence of the paper before us, and our readers will be at no loss to interpret its meaning.

THE PIRATE-HUNT AT SALANGORE.

THE account of this dashing little affair, which appeared in our last issue, has been deservedly received with universal admiration of the gallantry displayed by Captain ROBINSON and the small force under his command. Placed in circumstances of remarkable difficulty, in a locality hardly known, and with a force divided and endangered (the ships being in constant risk of grounding, and the men sent ashore harassed from unexpected points, and unable to proceed too far from their vessels), Captain ROBINSON undoubtedly succeeded in teaching the natives a very severe lesson in an exceedingly short space of time, and with a loss, which, however deplorable, is numerically smaller than might have been anticipated. So far as navigation and fighting went, there can be no doubt that Captain ROBINSON fully vindicated the honour of the British flag, and the warmest thanks of the community are not only due to him, but readily accorded to him on that account. It is satisfactory also to read that no violence had been offered to the RAJAH at the time when Lieutenant MAUDE's party was attacked from ambush. At the same time it cannot be denied (and it is a fact that must not be overlooked) that though force had not been employed, it had been threatened—and that for an object which we confess we are not quite able to understand. The RAJAH, having declined to go on board the British ship at once, was told by Lieutenant MAUDE (we quote Captain ROBINSON's despatch) that "if he did not come willingly he must force him." Then, and not till then, the attack was made; and, while no one denies the gallantry with which it was repelled, it is only due to Captain ROBINSON to inform him that there are persons who ask why, when in intercourse with the RAJAH, Lieutenant MAUDE did not directly demand the surrender of the six pirates he was sent to apprehend; and why he should have insisted on the RAJAH coming on board, after shaking hands with him and conversing in a friendly manner. That the RAJAH should be brought on board by force certainly appears to be no part of the expedition, and it does not even seem to be likely in any way to tend to accomplish its object. The object was to demand the six pirates still at large; not to exasperate the natives by menacing their RAJAH with capture. We are sure Captain ROBINSON and Lieutenant MAUDE will be glad of the opportunity of accounting for this apparent anomaly, and of showing that their discretion was not less conspicuous than their courage. As the case is reported now, the guilty persons got clear off, and several, who were unconcerned in the dispute, were shot. This might, and no doubt did, amount to a physical victory; but it also looks rather like a moral failure. Sir BENSON MAXWELL's letter to The Times (which we have condensed in another column) discloses a state of things which we cannot afford to leave in suspense. We shall wait with anxiety for Lieutenant MAUDE's further explanation of the whole of the circumstances under which his interview with the RAJAH was conducted up to the moment when the first shot was fired.

PAPER-MAKING IN JAPAN.

WE are glad to learn that the very interesting Report on this subject, which appeared in our issue of last week, is already receiving the attention it deserves from paper manufacturers at home. Nothing less could be expected from the unquestionable and unbounded enterprise of British merchants the moment that a new channel for the employment of capital is opened before them. The high price of paper has now become the only one of the "taxes on knowledge" which remains unreformed. The last of these, properly so called, was removed, so far as regards Great Britain at least, by the reduction of the home postage on newspapers from a penny to a halfpenny; and the success of that experiment has been so remarkable that nothing but the proverbial slowness of the Post-office authorities can account for any delay in a similar sweeping reduction being made in the postal rates between England and her colonies. Our readers will remember that the price of paper lately rose so high that we were almost threatened with a paper famine, and that large sums were offered for the discovery of a new material from which this prime necessity of reasoning life could be manufactured. Thanks to the investigations of Consuls LOWDER and ANNESLEY, this great desideratum seems now in a fair way of being supplied by the cultivation of the Kaji plant in England (or, more probably, Ireland), and by the importation of the fibre from Japan. From what we have heard, also, we think it not unlikely that some of the processes of the manufacture described in Messrs. LOWDER and ANNESLEY's Report may form the basis of improvements which paper-makers at home will not be slow to study. The new Blue-book has excited much attention; and it explains one of those subjects which only require attention to ensure development.

It is announced that the last section of the Great Northern Telegraph (China and Japan Extension) Company's cables, from Nagasaki to Wladivostock, has been successfully completed. As soon as the repairs, which a short distance of the Russian land lines is now undergoing, are finished, the company's lines from Hong Kong, Shanghai, and Nagasaki to Europe will be opened to the public.

THE DESTRUCTION OF SALANGORE.

In a letter to The Times on the above subject Sir Benson Maxwell, late Chief Justice of the Straits, says:—

"Before the Malays are condemned and the destruction of their town is applauded, will you do me the favour and them the justice of allowing me to lay the facts before you as I gather them from recent Straits papers, as well as from the despatch of Captain G. Robinson, for they seem to deserve the attention of the public and of the Government? On the 14th of June a Chinese junk, with a crew of nine men, left Penang, carrying a number of passengers, and a cargo worth about £800. When she got out to sea some of the passengers took possession of her, and massacred every soul on board except three of the crew, with whose assistance they navigated her to Salangore. This town is on the western coast of the Malay Peninsula, about half-way between Singapore and Penang, and about twenty-four hours' steam from either of those settlements. At the instance of the owner, a Chinaman (but probably a natural-born or naturalised British subject), the Acting-Governor of the Straits Settlements, Colonel Anson, sent two officers and twenty men of the Straits Police, in the Colonial steamer Pluto, to Salangore, with a letter to the Sultan, requesting, apparently, the extradition of any of the malefactors who might be found in his territories, and the restoration of the captured cargo. The Malay Sultan does not appear to have been at Salangore when the police arrived; but his son, Rajah Musa, showed every readiness to comply with their demands. By his orders a junk, believed to be the missing one, and several Chinese houses were searched, and a party of his own men accompanied the Straits officers to make search further inland. These measures resulted in the capture of six of the criminals, and the recovery of some of the property. So far, it will hardly be disputed that the conduct of the Malays was irreproachable."

A seventh offender was, however, pointed out and arrested and then released. Sir Benson Maxwell proceeds:—

"Whether the Malay chief, in requiring the release of the Chinaman, was protecting an innocent man or screening a heinous offender does not appear; but let us assume that the latter was the character of his act. The Acting-Governor, on being apprised of what had happened, addressed a request to the commander of the Rinaldo 'to arrest the pirates who were still at large' in Salangore, and 'to take suitable measures for the punishment of the Malays who had resisted the colonial officers in their attempt to secure the pirates.' On July 4, accordingly, the Rinaldo, accompanied by the Pluto, anchored near the bar of the Salangore river, and three boats were despatched to the two banks of the river and the vessels in the anchorage, to search for and capture Rajah Mahmud and two others, Rajahs Mahady and Masahur. The latter was found near a stockade, and upon his refusing to go to the English vessels our sailors advanced up its steps. Mahmoud and his followers fled within it, and the officer in command of the boat's crew sent to his superior to ask if he might take it. The second boat's crew, meanwhile, under Lieutenant Maude, fell in with Rajah Mahady, and he also refused to accompany the English party to their ships. The officer then threatened to use force to compel him, whereupon he and his followers fled to the adjoining jungle, and fire was opened upon our men. The Pluto returned the fire with an Armstrong field-piece at 200 yards; and while we had one man killed and six wounded, the Malays lost, according to one of the newspapers, 'a hundred or two,' among whom, it is said, was Mahady. Our men withdrew to their ships, which then went out to sea."

"But now comes the most curious part of the story. The pirates being arrested and the Rajahs punished, it might have been expected to end here. But Tunkee dia Udin had, somehow, met Mr. Birch half-way between Singapore and Salangore, and had returned with him. Mr. Birch now required an answer to the letter which had so hugely delighted the Sultan; and as the Sultan, 'with the usual habit of all Orientals,' endeavoured 'to gain time,' Mr. Birch gave him twenty-four hours for reflection, intimating that 'any neglect to comply with this demand, or any unsatisfactory reply, would be attended by very serious consequences.' The demand, which had made the Sultan hesitate in the midst of his delight, appears to have been simply that he would 'renew' the powers of Tunkee dia Udin, and make him 'Governor of all his provinces.' After twenty-two hours the Sultan yielded so far as to make the appointment, 'but with a proviso that the Tunkee was to act in concert' with three rajahs. Mr. Birch, disliking the proviso, signalled to the Teazer to 'land again in force'; and he proceeded to 'explain' to the Sultan that 'the proviso was not likely to work well' and must be struck out, for he 'preferred the renewal of the full powers.' 'His Highness at once acquiesced,' of course, in Mr. Birch's argument. He further presented a pair of elephant's tusks for the Queen, and delivered to Mr. Birch 1,000 dollars' worth of tin, the property of Mahady. Mr. Birch then 'exhorted' Tunkee dia Udin 'to maintain good government and open the country,' and the Malay chief 'replied very suitably and well.' Having thus interfered in the internal affairs of Salangore, and obtained some of the property of the wicked Mahady, Mr. Birch magnanimously waived a claim for 'an indemnity,' and wrote the despatch from which I have taken the above facts."

"The Straits newspapers which relate the feat of arms of the Rinaldo express an earnest hope that the proceedings of their local authorities will be sanctioned at home; but I think that before it is ratified either by the Government or by the public satisfactory explanations should be forthcoming on some points."

The Chief Justice sums up thus impressively:—

"Unless, then, there be some facts hitherto unpublished which alter the character of this transaction, it would seem that because some inferior officers of Salangore interfered to prevent the extradition of a suspected criminal and the restoration of some stolen property, a Colonial Governor commissioned two vessels to invade the Malay territory and to punish those officers, without even calling on their Sovereign to punish them, although that Sovereign was at peace with us, and had shown, through his son, the most friendly disposition to comply with the demands which had been made on him; and because the men engaged in carrying out this unlawful order were resisted and fired upon, his town and forts were on subsequent days destroyed, a number of his subjects were killed, and he was himself compelled, by threats of further hostilities, to appoint to the administration of some province an officer nominated by the English Governor, escaping from the payment of an indemnity (was it for the work and labour done and materials used in destroying the place?) by immediate and unconditional acceptance of the terms dictated to him. Is such a transaction deserving of approval? I think not. Not only on account of the Sultan of Salangore and his subjects, but far more for our own fair fame, I trust that it will meet with nothing but condemnation in this country. Such executions are not glorious even when they are necessary; for what can Malay stockades and guns do against the ships and artillery of Europe? But when they are not necessary, when, on the contrary, they are unjust and wanton, they are exploits of which I abstain from saying more than that they should raise a blush of shame and indignation on every English face."

AMERICAN RELATIONS WITH CHINA.

(NEW YORK NATION.)

Two years ago it was supposed by many in America, and perhaps by some in Europe, that China was entering upon a new course of international action. The embassy sent out under Mr. Burlingame was taken to be an announcement by the highest authority that this empire, beside which the States of Europe are the creatures of a day, possessing a civilisation wonderful in its character, but hoary and decrepit with age, which had for centuries been taken as the type of formation and fixedness, was about to commence a new development of energy and greatness, under the guidance of the principles and practices which the modern international code inculcates and enforces. The expectations have failed. The hopes of Christendom—religious, political, and mercantile—have been disappointed; and the problem of the relations between the civilised world and China stands yet unsolved. Can it be that the rifle and the shell are the only solvents? In order to understand the exact conditions of this problem, and the nature of our relations with China, we must refer to the important provisions of existing treaties."

Prior to the year 1858 foreigners were rigorously confined to a few points upon the coast; intercourse with the natives, except in these small districts, was forbidden; official communications and negotiations were carried on through inferior officials, approach to the Emperor, and even to his higher ministers, being refused. There were a few occasions when these strict rules were waived or suspended, but they were temporary and exceptional, and did not change the general conduct and disposition of the Chinese Government. The great nations of Europe had long demanded that their representatives should reside at Peking, near the Court of the Emperor, and be admitted to his presence, and that they should transact their affairs with his privy council or immediate ministers. This demand had been steadily rejected. In 1857, upon the occurrence of some local outrage, Great Britain and France united their forces with an avowed and common design to bring the Chinese Government to terms. Their combined armies, after overcoming all opposition at the coast, penetrated the country until they reached Tientsin, ninety miles from Peking. The Russian minister and the American minister, Mr. Reed, accompanied this expedition, ready to obtain for their respective countries any advantage which might result from it, but taking no part as actors in the invasion. At Tientsin the army was met by commissioners from the Emperor, who negotiated a treaty with each of the Powers represented—Great Britain, France, Russia, and the United States. That concluded with the United States is known as the Treaty of Tientsin, and was signed June 18, 1858. Article I. pledges the good offices and help of the United States in bringing about the amicable settlement of disputes between China and other nations."

Articles IV.-X. relate to the official intercourse and communication between the representatives of the United States and the Chinese Government."

This intercourse is ordinarily to be carried on with the local governors; but the American Minister, upon matters of business, and not oftener than once in each year, may visit the capital, and there confer with members of the Privy Council. It is added, however, that if the representatives of other powers shall be permitted to reside at Peking, the American Minister shall be entitled to the same privilege. United States Consuls may be appointed for the ports which shall be open to commerce."

Articles XI.-XIII. promise protection to the persons and property of American citizens residing within the districts open to them."

Article XIV. makes seven ports free to foreign commerce and residents. Their number was increased to eleven by subsequent treaties with other Powers. Articles XV.-XXIII. prescribe minute regulations of commerce at these ports.

Article XXIX. is so important in its spirit that we quote it in full:—"The principles of the Christian religion, as professed by the Protestant and Roman Catholic Churches, are recognised as teaching men to do good, and to do to others as they would have men do to them. Hereafter, those who quietly profess and teach these doctrines shall not be harassed or persecuted on account of their faith. Any persons, whether citizens of the United States or Chinese converts, who, according to their tenets, shall peaceably teach and practise the principles of Christianity, shall in no way be interfered with or molested." Finally—"If any other right, privilege, or favour, connected with either navigation, or commerce, or political, or other intercourse, which is not given by this treaty shall be given to any other nation, or to the citizens of any other nation, it shall immediately enure to the benefit of the United States, and of American citizens." Treaties concluded at the same time, or soon thereafter, with Great Britain, France, and Russia opened four more ports to foreign trade and residents, declared the navigation of the Yang-tse-Kiang free to all nations, permitted foreigners to travel through the country, and conceded the most important point, that representatives of the Treaty Powers might reside near the Court at Peking.

The United States, of course, took the benefit of all these additional stipulations. It should be remembered that these concessions—and we shall see that China has granted no others—were made in the face of a victorious army of invasion, after all resistance had been overcome, and when the capital of the Emperor lay at the mercy and within the grasp of the British and French forces. Not one of them was due to a desire for more intimate and friendly relations, nor to any feeling or movement in harmony with the civilisation of Christendom.

In 1808, the Embassy, headed by Mr. Burlingame, arrived in the United States. We need not recall to our readers the enthusiasm with which it was received, nor the glowing professions and predictions which were made in its behalf. The American people and the chief of the Embassy seemed to have been carried away by a common excitement at least, in all of their public displays towards each other. Old China was now, under the auspices and guidance of the young Republic, about to renew its youth, to cast away the habits of thought and customs of centuries, and to us and to our peaceful policy was due the credit of this greatest political revolution of modern times. Such was the bright anticipations; but how meagre and empty the result! The Convention of July 4, 1868, which was entitled, "Additional Articles to the Treaty of 1858," did not grant a single new concession, or privilege, or favour to the United States or its citizens. Stripped of their unmeaning professions of good feeling, every clause recognised and protected and perpetuated the traditional policy of the Chinese Government. The eight additional Articles affirm the Emperor's dominion over the districts open to foreign residence, and his jurisdiction over persons and things therein; declare that all internal commerce, except as may have been expressly regulated by prior treaties, shall be subject to the discretion of the Imperial Government; permit Chinese consuls in American ports; provide that citizens of the United States in China, and Chinese subjects in America, shall have liberty of conscience, and shall not be persecuted; and place American citizens in respect to trade or residence upon the same footing as those of the most favoured nation. Article V., in set terms, recognises the right of man to change his home and allegiance, and acknowledges the advantages of free migration from one country to another for curiosity, trade, or permanent residence.

After this appropriate preamble, we might have anticipated that additional and greater privileges of commercial or other intercourse were to have been conferred. But no such thing was contemplated. This is only the preface to a clause prohibiting compulsory emigration. Chinese subjects are to enjoy the same privileges in the public educational institutions under the control of the United States as are granted to the subjects of the most favoured nation. The same favour is given to American citizens in China. There is something exquisitely ludicrous about this stipulation. We suppose it must refer to our West Point and Annapolis military and naval schools; but to what Chinese seminaries it can refer we are ignorant. Finally, the United States disclaims all right and intention of interfering with the domestic affairs of China, but should the Emperor determine to establish a system of railways and other internal improvements, and apply for engineers to aid in their construction, the United States promises to furnish them. Mr. Burlingame and his fellow-commissioners were received very quietly, and perhaps coldly, in England. Our newspapers, oddly enough, said it was because the people and Government were deeply chagrined at the triumph of American diplomacy. In due time, similar treaties were concluded with Great Britain and some others of the European Powers. If these conventions have any meaning at all, and are not mere idle words, their implied effect is to bind the great contracting Powers to treat with China diplomatically in the same manner in which all other States acknowledging the international law are treated—in other words, that there shall be no show of force, and à fortiori no resort to force, for the punishment of local outrages until negotiations with the central government have been tried and exhausted, and then force must mean and be open acknowledged war. We say this result is implied from the fact of the treaties themselves; it is nowhere expressly set forth, nor is there a positive stipulation creating any additional right or privilege.

In the meantime, during the years 1867, 1868 and 1869, local outrages upon foreigners were becoming more frequent and serious. They soon took the shape of a combined and widely extended assault upon Christianity, upon native converts, and especially upon the missionaries. Charges of the most terrible character against the religious teachers were put forth in an official form, and widely circulated. A book, purporting to be an exposure of Christianity, and filled with the most revolting falsehoods, was issued, evidently under the sanction of high authority, and sent out by thousands to inflame the ignorant zeal of the common people. We may remark, in passing, that the Chinese seem to be familiar with the trick, not unknown in some Western countries, of manufacturing a desired public opinion by the free use of Governmental appliances, and then of appearing to be driven into a certain line of policy by the overwhelming force of this same public opinion.

The movement which we have thus briefly described at length culminated in the massacre of Tientsin, which was openly abetted and promoted by the local officials, and at which all Christendom stood aghast. The immediate sufferers were principally under French protection, but all the resident Foreign Ministers at Peking supported the demands of the French representatives for redress. The Chinese Government prevaricated and delayed, but at last sentenced a few of the subordinate local officers to death, leaving those of high and responsible rank unpunished, and promised to pay a sum of money as indemnity.

Recent intelligence shows that affairs are approaching a crisis. The Imperial Government not only refuses to pay the promised indemnity, but has made a formal demand upon the foreign ambassadors, "That schools for the education of females be abolished; that the teaching to male subjects of the empire of all doctrines opposed to those of Confucius be forbidden; that missionaries shall be considered Chinese subjects; and that women shall not be permitted access to the Empire in that capacity."

The action is a carefully planned violation of a most important article of the Treaty of 1858—an article expressly reaffirmed in 1868. Coming as a sequel of the Tientsin Massacre, it is a studied insult not only to France, but to all the great treaty Powers. What is the duty of our own Government under these circumstances? The United States cannot in general be engaged in religious propaganda; but as we have twice stipulated for the toleration of Christianity, and the protection of Christian teachers and converts, we are estopped from denying the propriety of a further protection.

There are, however, reasons of state policy why the Government should act in a quick, decided, and peremptory manner. The repudiated stipulation is the key of the whole position. Its rejection is returned to the old system of absolute exclusion in all things; this is the first step, an experiment, perhaps, and if successful the others will surely and speedily follow. If we yield upon this point, the whole fabric of treaties raised with labour and at the cost of not a little blood, will fall like a house of cards. We do not urge actions simply in the interests of religious missions; we urge it in the interests of commerce and civilisation. There should be no weak hesitation in the use of force. Events of the past twelve years prove beyond a doubt that diplomatic negotiations will accomplish nothing. Neither America nor Europe can again be amused or deceived by another Burlingame embassy. The United States and the other great Powers should unite in a demand, accompanied by a sufficient display of force, that the Chinese Government shall recede from its present position, shall reaffirm the violated treaties, and shall give ample reparation for past and security against future outrages.

Unless this demand is complied with at once, China must be taught, in such a manner that the lesson cannot be forgotten, the advantages of preserving international faith.

BRITISH SHIPPING.

A Return has just been printed by order of the House of Commons showing the progress of British merchant shipping. In the year 1870 the gross tonnage of ships with cargo entered and cleared in the various ports of the United Kingdom for foreign trade amounted to 31,624,680. This was an increase of 1,220,996 tons over 1869, and it was nearly five times the tonnage of the year 1838, the number then being only 6,417,556. The proportions of arrivals and departures were as follows:—Total vessels entered, 14,910,742 tons; total cleared, 16,713,938 tons. Of the entire tonnage 22,243,039 were carried in British ships and 9,381,641 in foreign vessels. In addition, British ships with a tonnage of 2,829,141 and foreign ships with 2,186,361 were entered and cleared in ballast, making a gross total for the year 1870 of 36,640,182 tons. Of these 15,072,331 represented steam vessels engaged in foreign trade inwards and outwards, but not including coasting vessels. The tonnage of British steamships thus entered and cleared with cargoes and in ballast in foreign trade was 13,341,058. The next highest steam tonnage was the Hanse Towns, having 737,112; then follow France, with 251,985, and Holland, with 123,708. Other countries range far below these.

The new vessels added to the merchant navy of the United Kingdom in 1869 represented 402,918 tons, of which seven-eighths were vessels built at home, the remainder being constructed in the colonies. A tonnage of 33,805 was also built here for foreign countries; 2,354 of these being ships of war. Of the aggregate tonnage of the British Empire, 1,033,247 tons, or rather more than one-seventh of the whole, were in steam vessels. The trade with our colonies and with all British possessions by means of British ships was 5,260,551 tons in the year 1869; with the United States, 2,464,012 tons.

The foreign trade of Liverpool in 1869 represented a total of 6,545,764 tons, of which 5,420,057 were British, and 1,125,707 foreign ships. Of the gross amount 1,370,586 tons were for Europe, 938,723 for Asia, including Australia; 459,521 were for Africa, 2,947,683 for North America, 828,947 for Central and South America, and 304 for other places. Thus Liverpool had upwards of one-fifth of the entire foreign trade of the United Kingdom.

The number of British and foreign seamen serving in registered vessels of the United Kingdom employed in the home and foreign trade in 1869, exclusive of river steamers, was 195,490; of whom 20,158, or 11·4 per cent., were foreigners. Masters are not included in this return. The proportion of men to every 100 tons was 3·25 in sailing ships, and 4·92 in steam vessels. In 1854 the proportions were 4.17 and 7.47 respectively; showing that ships are now navigated with fewer hands than formerly, which is explained by the application of steam, and by the great increase of tonnage in the larger vessels.

Able seamen obtained the following rates of wages per month in 1870 from the port of Liverpool:—For voyages to the Mediterranean in sailing vessels 50s., in steamers 60s.; to North America, 65s. and 80s.; to South America, 50s. and 60s.; to the Coast of Africa, the East Indies, China, and Australia, 50s. and 55s.; the rates from the port of London varying slightly from these. For the relief of distressed seamen abroad the Board of Trade administered £37,059 in 1869-70. There were 163 investigations into wrecks and misconduct in 1870 under the Merchant Shipping Act, and seventy-five resulted in the cancelling or suspension of certificates.

During the year 1870, 5,428 lives were imperilled on the coasts of the United Kingdom, and of these 774 were lost. The number lost during ten years, so far as is known, was 8,705. Of the lifeboats subsidised from the Mercantile Marine Fund, 223 were under the control of the National Lifeboat Institution, and 33 under the control of private persons and boatmen. The 284 stations having rocket and mortar apparatus for saving life cost £10,280. It is to be hoped that with the construction of suitable harbours of refuge on the more exposed and dangerous portions of our coast, and with the development of our system of lifeboats, the wreck chart will show fewer dark blots, and the fearful loss of life and property will diminish.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Sept. 14.

The East India Budget for 1872 has been laid before the members of Parliament. The revenue is calculated to reach about 119 millions of guilders, and the expenditure at about 108½ millions, leaving a favourable balance of f.10,635,000. The past two years, the Minister states, have been very favourable; 1869 left a net profit of about 13 millions, and 1870 one of 17 millions. These figures are, however, only approximate. The financial administration in Java is not what it ought to be, and therefore the Minister asks a credit of f.50,000, to enable him to appoint some functionaries to go out and investigate the matter. It is fortunate that the Minister published the Budget so early, as, although the session will be closed next Friday, the members have the opportunity to consider the Budget, which can consequently be examined in the sections directly the new session is opened. The remarks appended to the Budget are very short, but I think that the Minister might have been more decisive and less speculative. For instance, a good deal is said about the desirability of separating the administrative and judicial departments, but no measure of reform on this head is to be introduced by Mr. van Bosse. The reorganisation of the system of imprisonment—another hobby-horse of the Colonial reformers—is also left unsettled, nor are the civil medical services or the department of public works to be reorganised, although the present administration is as bad as it can be. Indeed, the only important reform proposed is to increase the wages for planting coffee in the Preanger regency to f.13 per picul—the desideratum of the advanced Colonial party. A credit of f.60,000 above that of 1871 is required for the improvement and augmentation of the telegraphic functionaries, in anticipation of the extension of the telegraphic communication in Java with British India, Australia, China, and Japan. The question of the defence of Java is once more postponed because the bases of the system of defence are not yet fixed, and because the Minister is convinced that there is more need for improvement in the means of communication, especially for the extension of railways than for costly fortresses. Still I think the Minister ought to have remembered that a good deal of agitation prevails upon this question, that the means of defence are very bad, and that the inhabitants of the colony will not be content with the argument that at this moment there is no likelihood whatsoever of a hostile attack. Of course commerce requires better means of communication, but at the same time something could have been done for the defence of the colony if the Minister had given up his penchant for favourable balances. But he, as a financial man, is an admirateur of the golden calf. It is quite true the Minister is a Liberal, and he has, I am disposed to believe, the best intentions; he is convinced that reforms in Java are vitally necessary, but still he shrinks from their introduction, and continues to gather millions from the sweat and blood of the natives. The Minister values the produce of the land-rents at thirteen millions, and he states that the introduction of several taxes: viz., on spirits, on horses and carriages, the license tax, the stamp duty, is under consideration. No alterations of any importance are to be made in the quantities of colonial produce to be sold in the colony. This I regret; a liberal man such as Mr. van Bosse is, ought to have taken some steps towards the abolition of the rotten system of consignments. The measures taken to extend education in our East India Colonies are certainly most praiseworthy.

The directors of the Netherlands Trading Company have published a most important pamphlet, in which they state the reasons why the managers and commissaries think it desirable that the company should be maintained for another term—the third one—of twenty-five years, when the present contract expires in 1874. The shareholders will have to decide about this question during the present year. I have had already occasion to state that opinion is much divided on the matter, many among the public hold to the conviction that the Trading Company is a monopoly most hurtful to private trade, while others defend its existence. But the general opinion is that the Company could not continue business if it ceased to be the agent of the Government of Holland. This belief is a false one; as the pamphlet which lays before me proves most clearly. The managers, who have hitherto shown the utmost fear of publicity, now give a history of the last twenty years, illustrated, of course, by the necessary figures. From these I derive that the profits made by the Company during the last twenty-one years amounted to the capital sum of f.59,598,879.64, and that f.29,037,579.85½ of it were profits derived from Government consignments. Thus, from the Company's transactions as an agent of the State, only a profit of 4½ per cent. of the capital has been made. But the actual return is shown to have been 11 per cent., which proves that 6½ per cent. net was made by private undertakings of the Company. Under these circumstances the directors do not think that the shareholders will be disinclined to continue business, even if the Government should annul the system of selling East India produce in Holland. And that this will occur within a few years the directors are convinced. They, however, are quite certain that the shareholders will continue to receive good dividends from the private business of the Company. When the treaty with the State is revoked the Company will devote its capital to promoting agriculture in Java; the produce of the colony will be bought and consigned to Holland whilst cottons and other articles of Dutch industry will be imported in return; the commercial relations with Surinam will be enlarged, while trade with America and with China and Japan will be extended. You see that the directors have extensive plans, and, indeed, these are so encouraging, they are such remarkable signs of a new life, that it would be a pity if the monopolising treaty between the Government and the company is not annulled. This should lead to a healthier system of trade both in Holland and in Java.

I hear that Mr. Hasselman, M. P. for Tiel, will resign his seat. I am not aware of the reasons which have led him to take this step.

By telegraph we hear the news that the steamer Prins van Oranje has arrived, after a voyage of forty-one days and nine hours, at Batavia. Another steamer of the Nederland Company will start next month.

The liquidators of the Oost Indische Maatschappij van Lyffrenten advertise that in 1872 will be sold publicly all the rights which the company possesses in agricultural undertakings in Java. Information will be given by the proxies of the liquidators at Batavia, Messrs. F. Alting Mees and D. Jannette Walen.

At the Bourse a dull tone has prevailed for the Dutch Funds. For Spanish and Turkish Bonds there has been, however, a good speculative demand. Money is abundant, and the Bank rate of discount unaltered. Bubble lottery loans are still going on, and with such success that I wonder the Government does not interfere to stop this sort of swindling.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

A healthy tone prevails in our market for most leading articles of Produce, in which increased activity begins to develop itself, and the prospects of the fall trade remain upon the whole favourable. Transactions have been pretty expensive since my last, and prices have generally ruled in favour of sellers, with the exception of Tin, which has further declined.

COFFEE.—A fair demand continues to prevail, and the market is firm. The Trading Company's public sale for this month has been advertised to take place on the 20th inst., and will comprise about 129,700 bags Java, Padang, and Rio, stored in our different ports. The business done privately since my last comprises the following sales, viz.: 2,788 b. Java, ex Johanna Maria; 1,000 b. do., ex Prinses Amalia; 718 b. do., ex 'Gravenhage; 510 b. do., ex County of Elgin; 302 b. do., ex Neptunus; 995 b. do., ex Samhiiri; 292 b. do., ex Java Packet; 208 b. do., ex Nyverheid.

SUGAR.—In consequence of the comparatively moderate quantity declared for the ensuing public sale of Java for account of the Netherlands Trading Company, and of the small proportion of yellow and brown Sugar comprised in the same, the article has been rather more inquired after, which resulted in several sales of stored and floating shipments at f.½ below prices of the July sale. The assortment of the ensuing public sale for account of the Dutch Trading Company of 32,905 baskets Java, taking place here on the 19th inst., is composed as follows, to which I add the valuations of the Dutch standard, issued by the brokers on the occasion:—

Standard.	No.	3	...	Bkts.	...	Valuation.	Standard.	No.	12	...	Bkts.	...	Valuation.

TEA continues firm, with but limited transactions, 40¼ chests Java Hyson, Plantage Tarakansalak, bought in at the public auction on the 12th April, changed hands at a price that did not transpire. Public sales on private account are advertised to take place at Amsterdam on the 12th and 13th October, comprising aggregate 15,015¼, 966½, 932½, and 10¼ chests Java of various estates, and 1,071¼ and 2,636½ China Congou, mark Kalimaas.

COTTON.—Has continued in good demand, under the influence of the favourable tenor of the advices from Liverpool and America, and a fair amount of business has been doing at from 1c. to 1½c. higher.

INDIGO.—Small lots of Java of good quality changed hands at very full prices, but buyers generally keep backward in anticipation of the ensuing public sale for account of the Netherlands Trading Company.

Monetary and Commercial.

We understand that negotiations which have been for some time past going on between the boards of the various cable companies forming together the submarine lines between England, India, Australia, and China are favourably progressing, and that a measure involving the amalgamation of the several companies into one united corporation will shortly be proposed for the adoption of the shareholders of the respective companies.

Subjoined is an account of the quantities of the principal articles of imported merchandise subject to Customs duties remaining in the bonded warehouses of the United Kingdom on the 31st of Aug., 1871, compared with the quantities in warehouse on the 31st of Aug., 1869 and 1870:—

Cocoa, lbs. ...	8,137,708	7,098,073	8,458,361
Coffee, lbs. ...	57,647,597	61,270,264	79,659,962
Currants, cwts. ...	32,676	58,319	75,885
Raisins, cwts. ...	9,287	51,145	28,033
Rum, proof gallons ...	6,134,431	6,379,378	7,492,114
Brandy, proof gallons ...	7,946,423	9,253,634	12,740,897
Sugar, refined, cwts. ...	47,881	101,016	98,742
Sugar, unrefined, cwts. ...	2,441,411	3,345,701	3,053,012
Molasses, cwts. ...	322,073	308,408	283,772
Tea, lbs. ...	70,057,276	75,728,705	85,243,788
Tobacco, lbs. ...	40,553,247	42,926,325	67,956,602
Wine, gallons ...	13,742,454	14,005,898	14,436,254

These figures show that out of the twelve articles enumerated the stocks now held are in eight instances larger than those of the corresponding date of last year, the increase being 19 per cent. in cocoa, 30 per cent. in coffee, 29 per cent. in currants, 18 per cent. in rum, 37 per cent. in brandy, 13 per cent. in tea, 58 per cent. in tobacco, and 3 per cent. in wine.

The failure is reported of Messrs. Muir, Brown, and Co., calico printers, an old-established and respectable firm of Glasgow. Their liabilities, it is stated, amount to about £100,000. The firm of Messrs. Inglis, Anderson, and Co., of Manchester and Glasgow, has also suspended.

SILK.

There is no change to report in the market.

COFFEE.

The market has been steady during the week. Moderate supplies of Plantation have found a ready sale at rather higher rates; and prices generally are firm. The Native Ceylon placed upon offer has been for the most part bought in. The latest prices paid have been:—Plantation, small grey to coloury at 63s. to 67s., fine ordinary mixed grey 65s. to 65s. 6d., low middling grey and dull 63s. to 69s. 6d., bold grey 68s. 6d. to 74s., middling coloury 70s. to 75s., good middling to fine middling 75s. 6d. to 79s., bold 82s. to 85s., pea-berry 83s. to 85s.; 582 bags also sold, garblings 29s. 6d., chips 49s., triage, &c., 53s. to 60s. 6d. Native good ordinary 56s. to 56s. 6d., small 53s. 6d. to 54s., pea-berry 60s. 6d. to 62s. 6d., sea-damaged good ordinary 58s., bold 59s. 6d. to 60s. A parcel of 376 bags Manila, fine ordinary pale, sold at 60s. 6d. to 62s.

The Dutch Trading Company announce their next public sale to be held on the 20th inst., when 124,700 bags Java, &c., and 5,000 bags Rio will be offered.

SUGAR.

The market continues very dull; prices have a downward tendency, and sales are almost wholly suspended. The business at auction has comprised 350 bags good Ilo Ilo Manila (duty 4s.), sold at 24s. 3d.; of 687 baskets Penang date sort offered, 363 baskets common to middling sold at 22s. to 23s., the remainder, low pasty, being bought in at 21s. By private contract 6,500 bags Zebu unclayed have been sold at 22s. 6d., and 5,300 bags Taal unclayed at 20s. 6d.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—Ceylon is quoted £38 10s. to £39, with very little business doing.

CORR GOODS.—The supplies placed on offer, which have been extremely small, have gone off at firm rates. At public sale 33 bales Cochinn Yarn sold at £33 5s. to £41 15s.; also 34 tons, in dhollas—very common, £23 15s.; common to good common, £26 15s. to £28; medium, £30; good medium, £33 15s.; also 241 coils Cochinn Rope—2 to 3 inch at £28 15s., 3½ to 4½ inch at £26 5s. to £27 per ton.

HEMP.—The market for Manila is very firm, and business is checked by importers holding for higher rates than dealers are disposed to offer. A large supply has been offered at auction, amounting to 3,472 bales, but being held for some advance was chiefly bought in, good brown to fair roping at £45 to £49, good to superior £50 to £54 10s., only about 1,070 bales being sold at an advance of about 20s. per ton, brown at £42 to £42 10s., mixed to barely fair £43 to £47 5s., fair to fully fair roping £48 to £49, barely fair £47 5s., good to fine £50 to £52, fine white Quilot £65 to £65 10s., mostly damaged at £42 10s. to £43, better qualities £46 5s. to £50 5s. per ton. Privately about 150 bales fair and good fair roping have been sold at £48 to £49.

PEPPER.—Black: There is no change to report; Penang has been sold on the spot at 6½d.; Singapore on the spot, sound 6½d., damaged 6½d.; Penang now landing at 6 1-16d. and 6½d. cash. White: Singapore has been bought in at 10½d., sea damaged sold at 9½d. to 10d.; Penang bought in at 10½d. Privately Singapore has realised 9½d. cash.

RICE.—On the spot a somewhat more active business has been done at about last quoted rates, and for floating cargoes of soft grain extreme prices are required, which check sales. On the spot good white Bengal has been sold at 11s. 1½d., ordinary at 9s. 10½d. to 10s., Madras at 9s. 9d., old Rangoon at 9s., Siam at 8s. 9d. to 9s., floating cargoes have been sold as follows:—The Connemara, 1,700 tons Rangoon September sailing, at 10s. 3d. for the Continent. The Amy, 900 tons ditto also September, at 10s. 6d. for the Continent. The Bertha, 1,230 tons Neeransie Arracan arrived off coast, at 9s. 6d. for the Continent.

SHELLS.—The periodical sales were held on the 12th inst. Mother-o'-Pearl: The supply consisted chiefly of Bombay, which met a good demand, and were all sold at dearer rates, especially for bold sorts. Manila and other fine bold sorts brought advanced rates. Of 84 cases Manila offered, 60 cases sold—good bold, £8 17s. 6d. to £9 2s. 6d.; bold, partly small, at £8 10s.; of 34 cases Macassar, 10 cases good bold sold at £11 7s. 6d., the remainder being bought in at £10; 1 cask fine sold at £13 2s. 6d. Tortoise: A good demand prevailed, and a general advance was established; the total quantity offered, viz., 5,732 lbs., was nearly all sold; 5 cases (449 lbs.) Singapore sold at 14s. 6d., and 1 case (60 lbs.) Penang at 13s. 6d. Of East India Turtle, 1 case (168 lbs.) Singapore sold at 2s. 9d. Ear Shells: Of 271 boxes 36 cases 230 packages, and 35 tons loose Japan, about 10 tons sold, in boxes at £20, loose at £13 10s. per ton.

Tin.—There has been some fluctuation in the market, but at the close prices are steady at an advance upon those of last mail, the quotations being:—Straits on the spot £133; afloat, £132; Banca, £135 10s.; Billiton £132.

CASUALTIES.

Advices from Cape Town, dated Aug. 4, state that the Hendrik Ido Ambacht, Byl, from Batavia to Rotterdam, had put into Simon's Bay, July 31, having experienced bad weather, during which she had her deck swept, bulwarks carried away, and one man killed.

The Anna Digna, Swaneveld, from Batavia to Amsterdam, put into Simon's Bay, Aug. 1, with loss of bowsprit, foretopgallantmast, maintopsail, and bulwarks.

The Louisa, Lansdown, from Singapore to Boston, which put into Port Elizabeth, leaky, had repaired and was ready for sea. She had shipped about 200 tons of cargo, from Port Elizabeth, to replace that discharged.

The Alida (barque), of Bremen, Sammann, from Nagasaki to London, with tea, tobacco, &c., was towed into Algoa Bay, July 26, by the Cambrian (str.), which vessel fell in with her about eight miles west of Cape Recife. The Alida experienced a very heavy gale in lat. 35 S., lon. 24 E., during which her rudder-head was sprung, and the vessel rendered unmanageable. She had been surveyed, and part of her cargo would be discharged, to ascertain what damage had been sustained.

The Roska (barque), of Flensburg, Hasseneau, from Penang to London, with tobacco, sugar, tin, &c., put into Algoa Bay, July 26, having experienced very heavy weather from July 21 to July 23, during which she sprung a leak and made six inches water per hour; since her arrival at Algoa Bay she had made but very little water. A survey had been held, and she had been recommended to discharge part of her cargo for further examination.

A telegram received in Greenock Sept. 7 states that the Priam (ship), of Greenock, from Ilo Ilo to the Channel, with sugar, had put into Mauritius, leaky.

AND PILLS.—HEREDITARY DISEASES.

The tendency to particular maladies transmitted from parent to child exercises a wide influence in producing disease. Few are free from hereditary predispositions. Consumption, gout, and scrofulous disorders are from this cause ever present, and yearly rob us of our dearest treasures. Holloway's Ointment and Pills have the power of removing from the blood the morbid qualities in which lies the essence of all hereditary diseases, and not only do they cleanse the blood, but purify every living tissue throughout the frame, whether situated externally or internally. They are soothing, yet searching, and never can be wrongly used or do harm. Being free from noxious ingredients, the most delicate and timid may fearlessly employ them.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN. YOKOHAMA.

Dates from this port by the present (French) mail are to the 1st August, but by the extra Pacific mail steamer Alaska we have advices, via San Francisco, to the 4th August. The French mail of the 9th June arrived out on the 26th July, and the following English mail of the 16th June on the 31st July.

The news is unimportant. The Tamar arrived on the 28th July, with stores and reliefs. She was to sail on the 8th August for Hong Kong and Singapore with the 1st battalion of the 10th Regiment, which was recently relieved by a detachment of Royal Marine Light Infantry.

A school of languages has been established at Kioto, in which there are already two hundred pupils; an American is to be added to the tutorial staff for instruction in English.

The first locomotive for the railway has been landed, and is now in the shed erected for the purpose of receiving the engines.

NAGASAKI.

We have advices to the 29th July; the outward mail (P. and O.) of 2nd June arrived out on the 21st July, and the following French mail, with London dates to the 9th June, on the 27th July. We extract the following from the Nagasaki Express—

The condition trade is in at this port has for some time past been a question of very serious importance to those interested in it. This has now become a subject which not only requires their gravest consideration, but one which it is necessary to face without further delay, in order to prevent matters from becoming worse. Beyond having a trade in Coal and Tea, both of which articles are likely to cause a few firms to remain, Nagasaki has but little business of any other description worth speaking of, so that literally the port, year by year, continues on its downward course. That this state of things now exists is an incontestable fact, and one which is clearly proved by the daily appearance of this settlement. It is not difficult to trace the cause of the gradual decay. However liberal the views of a governor may be, this can easily be neutralised by his officials, who have it in their power to advise him to adopt a most illiberal policy towards foreigners. Nagasaki of late has been the hotbed for every description of commercial combination, from the Guilds down to the rice shops, which are engaged in squeezing the coolies upon the truck system. There can be little doubt that these societies, together with numerous other minor, but nevertheless vexatious, interferences with trade, account for much of the present depression. Unless speedy measures are taken to prevent it, there will be the means of almost, if not entirely, closing the port, as it is not to be supposed that firms will continue to remain here unless something is done to unfetter trade, and place it upon a more permanent and satisfactory basis than it is on at present. Instead of every facility being given to induce the country dealers from the neighbouring districts to visit this port for the purpose of trade, not only are obstacles placed in their way, but they are subject to indignities. The guard-houses erected last year, at every entrance to this settlement, were at the time said to be solely for our protection, but experience has shown that other motives of a more inimical character prompted those who ordered them to be built. These buildings are in direct opposition to the spirit of the treaty; are unworthy attempts to restore the old Desima system; made by a government professing liberal ideas, and are used to insult numerous respectable country officers, who would often visit this settlement, but refrain from doing so unless accompanied by a foreigner, as the guards in several instances have compelled men of much superior rank to themselves to lower their umbrellas and walk bareheaded past the guard-houses. The spirit the local authorities adopt with regard to trade is often vexatious in the extreme. Not a single muster package can be brought into this settlement for inspection until such time as the native owner has obtained permission from the Custom House authorities to bring it. This regulation, although undoubtedly an infringement of Article IX. of the convention made in 1866, has long existed and often affords the officials facilities to practice espionage. As many of these derive a certain amount of income from these monopolies they are expected to supply the information they obtain in this manner to their particular friends, who are thus placed in possession of the means of exercising coercion if it suits their purpose. It is not in the least surprising that the officials have recourse to bribery and corruption. They are to a certain extent compelled to resort to this in order to live, and keep up their respectable appearance, which it would be quite impossible to do on the miserable salaries they now receive. By establishing a better scale of pay, and forbidding them to mix themselves up, or give any aid, directly or indirectly, to institutions inimical to trade, would, we think, go a long way towards giving relief.

The intelligence received from Yokohama, announcing that the portion of Sagalien in the possession of the Japanese has been annexed by the Russians is significant. We imagine that this suggestive event will do much to change the views of the anti-foreign party, whose remedy for returning to their former exclusion is to rid the country of the traders belonging to every nation by cutting off their trade and compelling them to leave Japan. Instead of their continuing to entertain this desire, at least the enlightened portion of them will realise that their endeavours, if successful, will contribute to no small extent to giving their Muscovite friends a very favourable opportunity of exercising a paternal care over them at some future time.

The telegraphic communication to connect this port with Yedo is to be a submarine one, and will, when laid, be worked on account of the Japanese Government. We hear that orders have been very recently sent to England to manufacture the cable, and despatch it together with a competent staff of officials to work it.

The movement of troops in this part of Japan is now being actively pushed forward. We are told that this is owing to their being required to be located, in conformity with the instructions issued, at the time the Empire was divided, into military districts. The steamer Coila, which arrived here recently, had 400 men on board.

On the 24th July a fire occurred in one of the buildings inhabited by Chinese on lot 18, Oura; but it was quickly extinguished, before any great harm was done. The origin of the fire is supposed to be the work of incendiaries, and four natives of very doubtful character have been apprehended by the police on suspicion of being concerned in the crime.

NAGASAKI, 28th July, via SAN FRANCISCO.

In consequence of a large quantity of Tea going forward from both Yokohama and Shanghai the Pacific Mail S.S.C. despatch this month a second steamer to San Francisco, and the Oregonian, which leaves to-night with the through United States mail, enables me to send you a few lines. The interval since I last wrote, also via San Francisco, has been nearly a blank. The British steamer Africa, with the section of the Great Northern Submarine Cable, to be laid between this port and Vladivostock, arrived here yesterday morning from Hong Kong, bringing the French mail of the 9th June. The previous English mail of the 2nd June was received on the 21st inst. by the Pacific mail steamer Golden Age. The Russian corvette Almay left this harbour on the 21st inst. for the Russian ports in the North, and this is the only movement I have to record in the vessels of war. The Danish frigate Tordenskjold will leave, in company with the steamer Africa, to lay the cable, which the latter has on board. The Great Northern (steamer) was still at Woosung when the Oregonian left, but is hourly expected here.

The Takasima controversy still continues, but no one seems to know what is the object of the discussion beyond that some one appears to be very angry with the Nagasaki Express for stating "that an interval had occurred during which coals were not raised." A letter on the subject has appeared in the Nagasaki Gazette, giving the quantities raised since March, and as it may be interesting to your readers at home, I extract the figures, which are as follows:—March, 198 tons; April, 1,538 tons; May, 1,958 tons; June, 2,326 tons; Total, 6,023 tons.

Business is extremely dull. Exchange on London, and freights to London, both nominal. Nebus 400 per $100.

CHINA. —o— SHANGHAI.

Dates from this port reach to the 4th August; the P. and O. mail, with London advices to the 16th June, arrived out on the 28th July, four days early. The following items of news are from the North China Herald:—

A meeting of shareholders in the U. S. N. Company has been held. The accounts show a net profit on the year's working of Tls. 23,321, exclusive of bad debts. A bonus of 5 per cent., amounting to Tls. 6,000, will be returned to contributing shareholders. No dividend was declared, it being considered wise to hold over the balance against possible loss by the failure of the late agents. Debentures to the amount of Tls. 87,200 have been issued under the resolution passed at the previous meeting. It has not yet been found necessary to borrow the remaining Tls. 32,800.

The question of the amount of damage payable to the owners of the junk Sing-yung-ta by the owner of the s.s. Norna has been gone into at the Supreme Court before G. Jamieson, Esq., Messrs. J. Morris, and J. D. Thorburn. A number of Chinese witnesses were called to give evidence. It appeared there was no custom's receipt or ship's manifest. Ko-what, the owner, believed he had at Foochow a receipt for Tls. 4,500 for materials and wages expended in building the junk. Hong-che, supercargo, said there had been 460 baskets of ground-nut oil, 80 chew of green pease—a chew being equal to five piculs—and 175 chew of white pease. There was also over 70,000 copper cash on board, and clothes and other things belonging to the crew. The question of compensation for the man alleged to be drowned was remarked upon, and the Court expressed an opinion that anything awarded could only be payable to relatives of the deceased on their claiming in Court. The other supercargo, who kept the junk books, was called to prove the quantities in them, and gave the same statement of cargo as the previous witness, adding that there were ten packages of vermicelli. The question of cost and value was gone into, and defendant's counsel called evidence to reduce the amount claimed on this, as well as to prove, by the statement of the chief officer of the Norna, who had found when he examined the damage done that the upper plank broken was rotten, that the junk could not have been in the new and sound condition plaintiffs alleged. The Court has awarded the plaintiffs Tls. 10,500 out of the Tls. 11,100 claimed.

It is with the most sincere pleasure we learn that the term of office of the Shanghai Hsien has come to an end. He has handed over his seals of office to his successor Chen, late Hsien of Singyang, near Soochow. The Chinese have had to report that he was to be made Foo (Prefect) of Soongking; but we are glad to hear that it is now generally discredited, as this would still give him jurisdiction over Shanghai, which is in the Soongking prefecture. The insolent behaviour of the ex-magistrate at a certain inquest last year, and his general obstructiveness in all matters where foreigners have been concerned, are freshly remembered. We are surprised that the British Minister did not make the former case a reason for demanding his removal. He has done all he can to make the Mixed Court a failure, both by official interference, and by personal opposition to Chen-fuh-shen, the incumbent magistrate, who is generally respected by the Consular officials, as a well-disposed mandarin. And report says that he is not on the best terms either with the Taotuai, a fact which, if true, is to the latter's credit.

The gambling houses now openly existing at Nantow are a great scandal, and productive of much dishonesty. The Chinese used to remonstrate very vehemently and very reasonably against the gambling houses which, some years ago, used to exist in the Foreign Settlement. They complain, even now, of the frequent lotteries, which are supported mainly by Chinese, and which they also consider gambling, though in a modified and much less objectionable form. But what have they to say about the gambling houses now openly existing at Nantow, in their own most popular and busy suburb?

As the steamer Miaca was proceeding on her voyage to Amoy she ran into the barque Clara Babuyan, lying at anchor outside Woosung. The accident, we are informed, was caused by the order of the captain of the Miaca to port the helm being misunderstood, and the helm being starboarded. The damage on both sides is estimated at Tls. 3,000.

At Newchwang the rains have come unusually early this year throughout the north, and have continued till the farmers already cry enough. Temperature pleasant; politics quiet.

A Ningpo correspondent writes that, in consequence of the long continuance of dry weather, all the canals in the interior are dry, and that is chiefly the cause of the Fychow teas being so late this year. The small quantities that have arrived were conveyed through the canals in very small boats. Business dull; weather hot but fine, with a nice southerly breeze.

The total export of tea from Hankow has reached 39,858,515 lbs., exclusive of re-exports of 3,353,524 lbs.

We are glad to hear that the apprehensions felt in regard to the safety of the schooner Rolling Wave were unfounded. She has arrived safely at Tientsin, after a passage of twenty days from Higo.

A Peking correspondent says the marriage of the Emperor is now likely to be put off till next year, instead of taking place in the autumn, as was anticipated. Our own idea would be that the audience question is at the bottom of the delay; that the Emperor's councillors, knowing foreign nations are determined to claim the right of audience for their ministers, as soon as his Majesty assumes personally the reins of power, are putting off the evil day. But our correspondent suggests the Catherine de Medici character of the Empress, whom he thinks anxious to retain the regency, and keep the Emperor in tutelage as long as possible.

The Spanish Government appears to have concluded the contract to which our Manila correspondent referred a few weeks ago, for the conveyance of mails between that island and Singapore; as the Postmaster-General of Hong Kong notifies the dates of fortnightly despatches, beginning from the 18th July.

Extra steamers are to run this month and next from Japan to San Francisco. It is hoped these may be the forerunners of a regular fortnightly line.

HONG KONG.

Our advices by this mail extend to the 11th Aug.; the London mail of 30th June arrived out Aug. 7, per] P. and O. steamer Tanjore. The following summary of news is extracted from the China Mail and Daily Press:—

In the adjourned case of Kwok-a-sing v. Pauncefoot, Mr. Haylar appeared for the defendant, and showed cause against the rule for a new trial. He said his arguments would all turn upon one point, as to the "knowledge" of defendant in doing what he had done. The rule was obtained on four grounds: (1) that his lordship erroneously admitted evidence as to the defendant's knowledge that the offences were the same, it being admitted that he knew the acts to be the same; (2) that his lordship misdirected the jury by leaving to them the question of knowledge, that being, after the defendant's admission that he knew the facts, a question of law for the Court only; (3) that his lordship misdirected the jury by leaving to them the question whether the offences were the same, that being, after the defendant's admission that the acts were the same, a question of law for the Court only; (4) that the verdict was contrary to the evidence and the direction of the judge, and perverse. He (Mr. Haylar) should treat the first, second, and fourth points as one. In considering the case of an Attorney-General acting in his official capacity in contravention of the terms of a statute the first presumption would be in his favour. He would be protected by the maxim, Omnia presumuntur rite esse acta. The Attorney-General fulfilled quasi-judicial functions, and the presumption always was that judges and juries do nothing causelessly and maliciously. Now, if the Attorney-General had known the crimes to be the same, his would have been a malicious (i.e., legally malicious) act. The first presumption was, therefore, in favour of the Attorney-General, and it was for the plaintiff to show that that presumption was over-riden by another. Unless it were shown that it was a necessary presumption that he knew it, there was no ground for a new trial. The main question put to the jury was, Did the Attorney-General knowingly cause Kwok-a-sing to be imprisoned again for the same offence?

His lordship (Mr. Chief Justice Smale): I understood myself to put two things to the jury. Did he act knowingly? if not, I construe his knowledge into the same thing. They find no actual knowledge, but it should have followed that they should find on my direction that he still knew.—Mr. Francis replied, taking the third point, first, as Mr. Haylar had followed that course. As to its being founded on a misapprehension, he remarked that the question of the identity of the offences was left to the jury in the second question. Did he knowingly cause Kwok Ashing to be re-arrested for the same offence? That embraced both points—the knowledge and the identity of offence. Mr. Francis said his lordship should have withdrawn the sameness of the offence entirely from the jury. As to Mr. Haylar's argument, that the Attorney-General's was a constitutional act, that was the very question at issue. The plaintiff said it was thoroughly unconstitutional. On the fourth point Mr. Francis said he need hardly address his lordship, because the verdict was so clearly perverse, and in direct opposition to direction and evidence (including the judgment in the first case). And if perverse, the probable result would be that Attorneys-General would be encouraged to continue these acts, trusting to their immunity from penalty, to their distance from the central authority, and to their power of misrepresenting facts. His Lordship said he should take time to consider the question. He regretted very much that he had summed up on the same evening. It was contrary to his wishes, and it was certainly very injurious to him personally. He had never been himself since. It was very doubtful whether he should give his decision before the vacation.

In the report of the Indo-Chinese Sugar Company the directors state that they have found it quite impracticable to do more on the present occasion than place before the shareholders a detailed statement of the present cost of each factory, accompanied with such explanations as may be necessary, and to refer generally to the financial position of the company. The principal reasons for this are: first, that the cost of a large proportion of the machinery at each factory cannot at present be correctly ascertained, owing to the arbitration as to the amount to be paid for the same to Messrs. Wahee, Smith and Co., being still pending; and, secondly, that until this has been settled, and the erection of the machinery, plant, and buildings at both places are put in thorough working order, only approximative estimates can be given. The present paid up capital of the company amounts to $45,000, being $37.50 per share, and the directors estimate that the fourth call, due in December next, will be required to complete the cost of the present plant, which will then amount to $600,000. Up to the 30th of June the expenditure amounted to $477,991.08. The actual income of the company during the period over which this report extends, exclusive of capital, has been $18,051.69.

The expenses at the two factories amount to $49,486.49, but in this sum is included agents' commissions at Bangkok and Saigon, the wages of the entire engineering staff employed in erecting the machinery, and which must eventually be written off against the original cost of factory, as also stores and fuel to be used in the manufacture of the sugar for next season, together with the cost of cutting and transport of cane for the last season at both places, and which cannot be written off until the entire out-turn of last season's operations have been determined. The item, general charges, includes advances to employés, passages of same from England, and such charges as will eventually be written off against either of the factories. In the Laconchaisee estate account is included the cost of the crop of cane now maturing, and which will be ready for crushing next season. The estimated cost of completing the erection of the machinery at Laconchaisee is about $12,000.

At the meeting the report was adopted by eleven to four. Mr. Kresser, after severely criticising the management of the Company's business, proposed an amendment to the effect that the financial statement be not received until two months hence. The amendment was lost. Some very warm discussion arose, in which Mr. Kresser figured as the prominent speaker. At the close of the ordinary meeting, the extraordinary meeting was adjourned, as there were not a sufficient number of shares represented.

A severe thunderstorm has occurred, and the City Hall has been struck by lightning. A hole about 3 feet by 4 feet has been made in the roof of the theatre, and the metal ventilator has been likewise struck, the flash having continued its course to the main gas-pipe, and thence to the earth. The Gas Company has been communicated with as to whether any damage has been done to the meter. We also hear that the cable of the steamer Norna has been struck by lightning.

A new club has been opened, called the Victoria Club, which has for its location a neat little building erected on the site just opposite the Union Church. It has three billiard tables of the best kind, dining-room, drawing-room, card-room, and reading-room; and is one of the best ventilated and coolest places of the kind we have met with. Some forty or fifty gentlemen met at the opening supper.

We have received a communication from Amoy, in reference to the loss of the Loudoun Castle. We regret to say that it conveys no information as to the fate of the captain and ten men who were with him. The chief officer and twelve of the crew we have already reported as having been brought into Hong Kong from Amoy by the schooner Gaviola. Our correspondent, writing from Takow, says—"It is feared that the captain and crew with him have landed and are prisoners to savages. Several petty officials have sent down couriers, and Mr. Warren, of the Consular staff, with an escort, has started for the South from Pitan, but up to date we received no tidings. The Dutch schooner Singapore arrived here, and reports having passed the wreck, which was lying with her stern high and dry, and her bow well down in deep water. There would have been no chance of saving the vessel, as that part is quite deep, 100 fathoms close to, and rocky. I sent two boats, well manned, to see if they could save some of her gear and effects, but they have returned, having been chased away by pirates. I have also heard that she had lost her masts before going ashore; probably about the latter end of last month, say 25th to 28th, as Lieutenant Commander Hope of the Opossum reports a heavy blow at Takao about the latter date."

THE "SHAN SIN FAN" CASE.

When the Shan Sin Fan poisoning case came on the excitement in court was intense. A very large crowd had collected at the magistracy to hear the case tried. The space behind the railing which separates the court from the audience was filled to excess. A ladder happened to be placed in the room, and some two or three men had gone up the steps in order to witness the trial. The eastern avenue was also thronged with spectators, some of whom climbed up to the stone parapet; the compound and every place adjacent to the roads leading to the court were crowded to a very disagreeable degree. Some policemen, about a dozen, were told off to keep the crowd in order, with fixed bayonets. The assemblage, composed of people of both sexes, old and young, were very eager to get admission into the court-room.

From the scientific evidence of Dr. Dods, it was evident that there was no poison in what the defendant was charged with throwing into the basket of rice. Yet the Chinese were superstitious enough to believe that there must be something in the powder; otherwise, what was the object of throwing it into the rice. Others, again—the more intelligent and less superstitious,—believed that the man belonged to a sect, and that his intention was to create an excitement in the colony so as to bring on a disturbance of some kind, to the benefit of the society in facilitating their object of plunder or seditious movements.

The evidence was shortly this:—Wun Dwah, master of the Shew Loong opium shop, Bonham Strand Central, deposed:—At five p.m., the 5th inst., I sat at dinner with my shopmen, and the table was close to the street. I had finished my dinner and was sitting so as to face the street, my shopmen were between me and the door, and they were engaged in eating. The rice as usual was in a basket. I saw the defendant come into the shop in a stealthy manner and drop something into the basket. As soon as he did this, he went out. I sent my shopmen to bring him back. Defendant made no answer when I asked him what he put into the basket; he did not utter a word. A great crowd collected, and there was great excitement. Fearing the crowd would do him some injury, I brought him into the shop. The people cried out "bring him out here, let us kill him." A policeman was sent for and took the defendant away. A small packet was found on the defendant. It contained a light coloured powder, some small lumps of a light colour sort of cake, and some pieces of sugar candy.

This evidence was corroborated by his assistant.

Dr. Dods, Acting Colonial Surgeon, said:—I took some of the stuff for analysis, and for examination under the microscope. I found it to contain rice flour and a small quantity of sugar, which appeared to be perfectly harmless. I ate a portion of it myself. There was no trace of mineral poison, nor was there any other ingredient than what I have mentioned. This morning while in Court I found some powder in the basket of rice produced. It was a very small quantity; I tested the powder and found it to be of the same composition as what I had analysed at my house and at the Civil Hospital.

The defendant said:—I am a stonecutter of Cheong-lok. I went to Chui Mee, near Macao, to cut stones. I was there about one month. I am going back to Cheon-lok, but came here to get a boat. I arrived the day before yesterday in a passage boat. I do not know her name. I arrived at three o'clock in the afternoon. I stayed on board the night I arrived. Yesterday I was passing the complainant's shop; I stood at the door to look in for a few seconds and walked away, the shopman then followed me, brought me back to the shop, beat me, and took from me $3, one tael of silver, and 300 cash; they took away my purse. The small pouch of tobacco (produced) was fastened to my girdle. I bought a cake at Hong Kong and ate one half, the other half I wrapped up with a piece of paper and put into my purse. I bought the cake at a stall near the Canton Steamer's Wharf. I paid three cash for it at 11 a.m. I could recognise the seller if I saw him again. Some people in the stone shops in the Colony know me, and I can point them out. I have never been to Hong Kong before. I did not throw anything into the rice basket.

The magistrate asked the defendant how was it that some of the cake similar to that found on his person was in the basket, and remarked that the alleged Shan Sin Fan was perfectly harmless; it would not harm anybody if he took a whole picul of it. He (the magistrate) would eat it, and the doctor had tasted it. (When this was interpreted to the audience, there was a hum behind the bar.) The defendant still could not account how the stuff could get into the basket; he did not see the basket at all. He also bought some sugar candy—a tael for nine cash. He could point out the ship. He ate a portion of it and wrapped up the remainder with the portion of the cake.

The defendant was remanded for further evidence.

The China Mail says:—The agitation known as the "Shan-sin-fan excitement" may now be regarded as comparatively harmless, because the clever ruse has been effectually exposed; still there is much substance for reflection in the history and progress of this movement. The philosopher, as well as the politician, may find features not wanting in interest in the various effects brought about on the mind of the Chinese people; what characteristic traits of national character were developed by the action of these foolish rumours on the superstitious and suspicious mind of the semi-civilised Chinese, and how easy it is to affect the mind of ignorant people against something or somebody entirely strange to them. Of the bearing of this curious and thoroughly Chinese agitation upon foreign relations, both political and religious, sufficient has been said to justify us in recommending the consideration of the entire question to our British Minister at Peking, and in giving publicity to every scrap of information in reference to it.

An Amoy correspondent of the same journal writes:—"With the arrival of the Kwaoyung from Hong Kong, the first wave of the Shan-sin-fan excitement reached Amoy; all had been quiet before. But on the day the Kwaoyung arrived native newspapers from Canton, containing all the news about the Shan-sin-fan business, together with the proclamations issued by the Canton authorities, were passed from hand to hand. The report spread like wildfire, gathering strength and fulness as it pushed its way from the shops of Canton traders into every nook and corner of Amoy city and suburbs. The following day a proclamation was issued by the Haifung, which was worded exactly like the edicts of the Canton authorities, mentioning the rumours about Shan-sin-fan and pills, and ordering the people to arrest any one that should be found distributing the poison, but saying nothing to clear foreigners and native Christians of the scandalous insinuation of being the prime movers of the Shan-sin-fan poisoning scheme. At the request of the American Consul, Le Gendre, however, this insidious omission was made good in renewed proclamations, the tenour of which was suggested by the gallant general. But the appearance of the Hai-fung's first proclamation had but the effect of pouring oil into the fire. A perfect panic broke out among the natives. Several thousand persons, they said, had been killed by the mischievous powders and pills in Canton, and many hundreds were carried off by the same poison in Swatow and Foochow. In many quarters of Amoy the people dared not use the water from their own wells for fear that the water might have been poisoned. Of the pills it was said that they were about an inch long, of brown colour, and that if soaked in water they developed worms which upon the addition of a drop of pig's blood multiplied into millions as if by magic. Some of the pills, however, were examined by foreigners and found to be quite harmless, but of course natives would not believe that. For some days business came almost to a standstill. But the prompt arrest of some men, said to have been caught distributing those mysterious pills, allayed the excitement. The culprits were Canton men, and had been found stationed near Christian chapels! Had they been sent by orders of secret societies, to embroil the Chinese Government in difficulties with the hated foreigners? Is this secret distribution of Shan-sin-fan somehow like those mysterious cakes that were passed from place to place in India shortly before the outbreak of the mutiny? However it may be, the excitement is fast dying out.

BANGKOK.

Advices are to the 10th of August. The outward mail of the 30th of June was received on the 7th of August. The following items are from the Siam Advertiser:—

The rainfall in Bangkok has been moderate. The high tides turbid water and floating water plants indicate that the rainfall in other localities has swollen the sluggish streams, the marshes, low lands of the northern portions of the country. Paddy is not yet plentiful in the Bangkok market. There are at present but few foreign ships in port, and the Siamese ships that can possibly be sent to China, with a favourable monsoon for the annual outward and return trip, are hastening away. The paucity of foreign and Siamese ships now in port is having its effect upon the Paddy market, moderating the high prices which have been ruling.

Work on the new clock tower is suspended, on account of misgivings as to strength of its foundations.

Tunkoo Mohamed Arafin is now in Bangkok. It is possible that this prince's visit to our city, at this time, may reflect some light on the character of the Sultan of Tringanu, and the nature of the relation that Malayan State sustains to the kingdom of Siam. The Prince is a native of Bencoolen, Sumatra, and a son of the Sultan of that place, which is subject to the Netherlands East India Government. The Sultan of Bencoolen and the Sultan of Tringanu are relatives. This relationship was doubtless the reason that inclined the Sultan of Tringanu to empower Tunkoo Mohamed Arafin to act as his envoy, and be the bearer of a despatch and presents to Queen Victoria, and to the Prince of Wales.

Through the courtesy of the Siamese Government T. G. Knox, Esq., H.B.M.'s Consul-General, and E. B. Gould, Esq., one of the assistants of B.M.'s Consulate-General, have had the use of a Siamese steam yacht, the Northern Siam Enjoying, for a two weeks' cruise along the western coast of the Gulf of Siam. It is well known that the Siamese and Malayan portions of the Peninsula of Malaya abound with valuable gold, tin, and other mines. The two prominent places visited by the excursionists were Kalantan and Singora.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates from this port are to the 19th August; the London mail (P. and O.) of the 14th July arrived out on the 15th August. We are indebted to the Singapore Daily Times for the following items of news:—

The last Government Gazette contains the Census report for the Settlement of Singapore, taken on the 2nd April last. From this return, which we fear is much below the mark, the entire population of the island is 97,131, of which 922 are Europeans (exclusive of military), 54,572 Chinese, 10,250 Malays, 1,634 Boyanese, 1,992 Bugis, 3,239 Javanese, 9,297 Klings, 2,164 Eurasians, and the balance of varied nationality, including Abyssinians, Africans, Arabs, Bengalees and other Indians, Burmese, Cochin Chinese, Dyaks, Japanese, Armenians, Jews, Manilamen, Parsees, Persians, Siamese, and Singhalese. Of the European resident population there are 623 males and 299 females, of which 522 males and 203 females are adults, 101 boys, and 96 girls. Of the 54,572 Chinese there are 47,104 males to 7,468 females: there are 43,678 men, 5,200 women, 3,426 boys, and 2,268 girls; the return of the female population is, we think, below the actual number. In the Malay population the males and females are nearly equal; the figures are—men 6,448, women

5,709, boys 3,593, girls 3,500. There are 6,723 men, Madrasees, against 1,101 women,—about 6 to 1,—and 941 boys against 532 girls.

It speaks well for the industry of the population that of a total of 97,131, of which nearly 93,000 are Chinese and natives, only 5,200 should be found without profession, and of these 13 are lunatics, 1,397 are prisoners, and 1,635 prostitutes and brothel keepers. The abstract of classification is as follows:—Professional class, 4,237; Domestic class, 32,709; Commercial class, 10,117; Agricultural class, 7,296; Industrial class, 37,572; Indefinite class, 5,200; Total 97,131.

We regret to learn the death at Penang of Mr. C. Owen, late Senior Magistrate and Commissioner of the Court of Requests here. Mr. Owen left this for Penang a fortnight ago on temporary leave.

We learn that the Honourable C. B. Plunket has received the definite appointment of Commissioner of Police of the Straits Settlements, vice Mr. Dunman retired. Captain Speedy returns to Penang as Commissioner of Police there, and Captain Dunlop, now at Penang, proceeds home on sick leave. Mr. W. E. Maxwell will come down from Malacca to take Mr. Plunket's Magisterial duties, and Mr. Cousins will, in the meantime, do the late Mr. Owen's work in the Court of Requests—continuing to hold the Postmastership at the same time. Mr. Walter D. Moore, Chief Clerk in the Police Court here, is to go to Penang as Acting Chief Clerk to the Lieutenant-Governor. Deputy-Inspector Cooper, recently in charge of the C police station, has been transferred to Penang, and Inspector Towers will come to Singapore.

A correspondent hears with "horror and distress" that Captain Orde has been appointed at home to take the Honourable Mr. Plunket's berth as Police Magistrate; and adds, that the unfortunate notoriety that officer has achieved in each of the Settlements prove him to be utterly unsuited to the position, and of that nobody can be better aware than his brother the Governor.

The number of larcenies, robberies, and assaults that are daily occurring calls for more energetic action on the part of the police. The great want of the force just now is to obtain suitable officers. The matter is engaging the attention of the Government, and a Bill has been introduced in Council for the purpose of placing the police force on a new footing. We fear, however, that as it stands this Bill will not be likely to have the desired effect. It appears to us very loosely worded, and places a great deal of arbitrary power with the Inspector General and the Chief Police Officers of the Settlement, without giving the subordinates any redress for the abuses of that power towards themselves.

The Municipal Commissioners met on the 6th of July, when a letter was read from the Assistant Colonial Secretary, informing the Commissioners, in reply to their letter of 28th ultimo, in which they requested that the subject of bringing water into the town might be brought to the early notice of the Legislature, that he was desired to say that the Secretary of State had been asked to authorise a vote for the purpose of being laid before the Legislative Council, and that no time would be lost in doing so should his Lordship grant the authority.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—There had been but little change in values of manufactured goods. Grey Shirtings had continued in good request, but the demand for Cotton Yarn had slightly fallen off. Transactions in other kinds of fabrics had been of a moderate nature. Metals, &c., remained as before. Quotations:—Cotton Goods: G. E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., $2.15 to 2.20 per piece; 8½ to 8½ lbs., $2.50 to 2.55; 9 to 9½ lbs., $2.80 to 2.90. G. E. White Shirtings, 56 to 60 reed, $2.65 to 2.85; 64 to 72 reed, $2.90 to 3.05. T-Cloths, 6 to 7 lbs., $1.55 to 1.75. Brocades and Spots, White, —; Dyed, —. Chintz, Assorted, $2 to 2.50. Handkerchiefs, $0.55 to 1 per dozen. Turkey Red Shirtings, $2.60 to 2.70 per piece; Chintz, $2 to 2.50. Taffachelass, double welt, $2.85 to 3.10; single, $2.40 to 2.70. Velvets, Black, $7 to 8.50; Assorted, —. Cotton Yarn, Nos. 16 to 24, $39 to 39.25; Nos. 28 to 32, $42 to 42.50; Nos. 38 to 42, $39 to 39.50. Woollens and Mixtures: Alpaca, 42 yards, $7 to 7.75. Camlets S. and BBB, $13.50 to 14.50; SS, $12 to 13; SSS, $9 to 10. Cloth, Medium and Broad, $0.80 to 1.60 per yard; Lastings, $12 to 13.50 per piece; Long Ells, Assorted, $6.50 to 7; Orleans and Lustres, Plain, $3.75 to 4.25; F-gured, $4 to 4.50. Lead, $5.25 to 5.70 per picul; Tin Plates, 2.40 to 3 per box; Iron, Nail Rod, $2.50 to 3.05; Bars, $2.40 to 2.80; Hoop, $3 to 3.20.

SHANGHAI.—The market for plain Cottons had been extremely quiet during the week and prices of nearly all kinds had declined. Grey Shirtings were enquired for as the market closed, at Tls. 1.87 to 1.90 per piece for common chop 8½ lbs.; but with the exception of speculators there were few sellers. White Shirtings had not been asked for. A slight demand for common 6 to 7 lbs. makes in T-Cloths had prevailed, but the rates offered showed a decline of nearly 5 cents. per piece, and hence, with a greatly reduced stock, few holders cared to close with the offers. Drills: American makes were easier in value, but in English or Dutch there was no noticeable change. Only a small business in Drills had taken place. Jeans were in less demand and lower. Fancy Cotton Goods showed no alteration. Woollens: Camlets, Long Ells and Figured Orleans were still sought after and had commanded fully last quotations. Scarlet CPH Long Ells were worth over Tls. 6.00 per piece. Small quantities of Spanish Stripes and Crape Lustres had changed hands at last mail's rates, and sales of Crape Lastings had been effected at Tls. 6.50 per piece. The transactions had not been extensive. Metals: Nailrod Iron; the week's business amounted to 8,100 bundles at Tls. 2.18 to 2.30, the former price having been paid for a parcel containing some sea water damaged. The market had advanced 5 cents. and holders were very firm. Lead: A few parcels of L.B. had changed hands at Tls. 4.45 and 4.50. The majority of holders declined to sell at these rates. Coals: The receipts had been unimportant, and market remained firm. Sales had been—Newcastle N.S.W. to arrive at Tls. 8.25, Japan Tls 6.25, and Formosa Tls. 5.75 per ton from ship. The market has become quite bare of English, American, and Australian Coals, and rates for these kinds especially were much firmer.

FOOCHOW.—The following sales had been effected during the week: 500 pieces 7 lbs. T-Cloths, at $2.10; 1,000 pieces 8½ lbs.; Grey Shirtings, at $2.81; 2,000 pigs Lead, at $6.50 to 7 per picul. Closing quotations: T-Cloths, 6 lbs., $1.80 to 1.85; 7 lbs., $2.15 to 2.40; Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., $2.45 to 2.50; 8½ lbs., $2.80 to 2.85.

SAIGON.—There had been some activity at slightly better prices for T-Cloth and White Irishes. 8½ lbs. Grey Shirtings had changed hands at $2.52½ to 2.55. Quotations were:—Grey Shirting 8½ lbs., $2.55 per piece, 7 lbs., $2.25; T-Cloth 6 lbs., $1.65; 5 lbs., $1.40; 4½ lb., $1.30; 4 lb., $1.15; White Irishes, $1.72.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—After the departure of the last American Mail there was a decided weakness in the market, and some large purchases were made at lower prices; this caused native dealers to raise their pretensions, and for a few days their demands were much higher, but they were liged to again reduce them, and at the close for this mail there was a tendency to a still further reduction in prices for all except finest and choice leaf. Settlements amounted to nearly 6,000 piculs of most grades, but the larger portion consists of good medium and fine; supplies had been on a fair scale; stocks are somewhat reduced. The last American Mail steamer took 135,136 lbs. for San Francisco, and 394,877 lbs. for New York. The Flying Spur had her cargo fully engaged, and the fiery Cross, 683 tons, had been laid on the berth for New York. Quotations: Medium, $33.00 to 36.00 per picul; Good Medium, $38.00 to 41.00; Fine, $42.00 to 46.00; Finest, $47.00 to 50.00; Choice, $52.00 upwards.

SHANGHAI.—Black: During the week a brisk business has been transacted, settlements and shipments amounting to 20,000 chests, and stock left 45,000 chests. Prices had been declining, and teamen were anxious sellers. Settlements had been made at Tls. 20 to 21 for which Tls. 22 to 23 would have been given a week previously. There were many reports afloat as to the tenor of London telegrams respecting new Teas. The market for new Green Teas from the Teenkai district had been opened by the purchase of two chops at the extrema price of Tls. 50; one of these chops was bought at Tls. 42, and was a better Tea. Several chops of Fychow had been taken at full rates, and a few Pingsueys at prices fully up to those previously paid. Settlements:—Pinguey 1,350 half-chests; stock 7,200 half-chests; Fychows and Teenkais 4,800 half-chests; stock 11,000 half-chests.

FOOCHOW.—Since the arrival of the London mail of the 16th June a considerable business has been done. Congou: The best Teas on the market, say from Tls. 17 to 22½ had been most in request at prices during the early part of the week slightly in favour of buyers, but which had since fully recovered. All other kinds up to good common showed a decline of from five mace to a tael. Settlements for the week 22,582 chests at Tls. 4 to 22½. Arrivals, 35,200 chests. The following were the current quotations:—The cost at which Teas lay down in London, calculated at an exchange of 4s. 5d., and freight £3 per ton. Dust and siftings, 6d. to 8½d.; Broken leaf to ordinary, 8½d. to 11d.; Fair to good common, 11½d. to 1s. 0½d.; Flavoury to medium, 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 7d. Souchongs: A fair business had been done at about previous rates, the demand being chiefly for the commoner kinds for the American market. Settlements 4,074 chests at Tls. 15 to 34. Arrivals, 3,500 chests. Current quotations:—Common, 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 2½d.; medium to fine, 1s. 3½d. to 1s. 9d.; fine to finest, 1s. 9½d. to 2s. 2½d. Oolong: Scarcely any business done, as the bulk of the Teas in stock were still kept off the market. Settlements for the week 351 half-chests at Tls. 22½ to 26. Arrivals during the week 10,380 half-chests. Current quotations (at exchange 4s. 5d., and freight at £2 10s. per ton of 40 cubic feet:—Common to fair cargo, 30c. to 34c. gold in bond in New York; good cargo, 37c. to 39½c., do.; superior to fine, 40½c. to 47½c., do.; fine to finest (nominal), 49c., do. Scented Teas showed a decline of Tl. 1 to 1½ for common to medium kinds. Settlements 7,726 chests at Tls. 19 to 23 for Capor, and Tls. 20 to 28 for Scented Orange Pekoe. Current quotations:—Common to fair, 1s. 4d. to 1s. 5½d.; medium, 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 7d. Flowery Pekoe: Settlements during the week had been 382 chests at Tls. 42 to 45.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—After the departure of the English Mail of the 25th July business for some days was quite restricted, owing to the paucity of arrivals; but supplies had since been on a somewhat better scale, and as buyers have shown a great amount of eagerness to purchase, every parcel on arrival had been immediately settled at daily advancing rates, and prices showed an advance of fully $100 per picul on last quotations. Settlements were estimated at about 650 bales, consisting chiefly of Hanks. Quotations:—Hanks: Mybush and Sinchu, Medium, 25s 9d. to 27s. 6d.; Inferior, 22s. to 25s.; Coshu Medium and Inferior 22s. to 25s. 9d.

SHANGHAI.—The market had been quiet; the settlements had amounted to about 800 bales since the departure of the English mail. The prices were weaker, say about Tls. 19. Total export to date amounted to 22,700 bales, and the total settlements to 23,500 bales. The stock was estimated to be 7,000 to 8,000 bales. Good Silks were becoming scarce, and late arrivals were rather inferior, mixed, no doubt, with second crop Silks.

COCHIN CHINA PRODUCE.

SAIGON.—Messrs. Kaltenbach, Engler, and Co.'s Report is as follows:—Rice: Our supposition that the article would follow a downward tendency has been realised to a greater extent than we expected. Weaker reports received from China per Messageries Maritimes steamer Tigre caused already a decline of a few cents at the end of last month. On the 1st inst. the submarine cable between Hong Kong and our port was opened to the public; since then daily reports of declining prices reached us by wire from the former port, and brought our rates successively down to $1.57½ for round, and $1.53 for long grain, at which rates the last few contracts have been passed. Of late the Hong Kong market has been steadily but quiet, and the same was the case here. Chinese are not hurrying their shipments, but continue to buy pretty liberally, knowing that a further decline would certainly prevent the Anamites to bring their produce to market for some time to come. Thus our prices have been well maintained during the past week, and we quote to-day round grain $1.58 equal to 6s. 6d. f. o. b. and $1.53 equal to 6s. 4d. f. o. b. for Vinlong. Paddy is worth from $1.05 to 1.10. Fish: Ikan Spat and Black Siam are wanting entirely; Cambodia, No. 1, is in great favour with exporters for Amoy and Swatow and as high prices as $6 per picul have been paid. Hides: There is only a limited demand at $8 Buffalo, and $11.25 for Cowhides. Horns cannot be obtained at a cheaper rate than $8.50 per picul. Black Pepper: Owing to high quotations in Hong Kong, Chinese are now paying the same rate for Cambodian Pepper, which can be obtained for produce of the French colony, say $12 to 12.50 per picul. Cocoa-nut Oil has slightly declined to $7.50.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MEDICAL OFFICERS IN THE CHINA SQUADRON.—The Army and Navy Gazette says:—A late Lord of the Admiralty was so indifferent to the presence of a medical officer on board his ship that he has been heard to declare that he would, if he had his own choice, prefer to be without one. The story of H.M.S. Rinaldo's extraordinary doings in the Straits of Malacca it might possibly induce him to alter his opinion. Here we had a British man-of-war crippled in her action simply because she is without a surgeon to attend to the wounded. This is indeed a strange state of matters; but here is the explanation. The proper complement of medical officers for the Rinaldo was sent out in H.M.S. Donegal, but on the arrival of this last-named ship at Hong-Kong Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Kellet took upon himself to appoint the Rinaldo's assistant-surgeon to the Naval Hospital, in consequence of the sickness of the regular officer of the establishment. This act of the commander-in-chief was never reported to the Admiralty; hence the Rinaldo's crew came under the charge of one medical officer only; and at the time the vessel was engaged with the Malays unfortunately this officer had also fallen ill. We understand that the moment this fact came to the knowledge of the authorities at Whitehall they ordered two assistant-surgeons off to the East by the overland route. [The last sentence of our contemporary's remarks applies to Assistant-Surgeons Bain and Low, who proceeded by the mail of the 8th inst. to Singapore.—Ed. L. & C. T.]

With reference to the death of Staff-Surgeon Newton, R.N., at Yokohama, the United Service Gazette says:—The naval medical establishments in China and Japan have experienced a loss which will not readily be replaced. It was under the auspices and management of this officer that those great aids to humanity the Lock Hospitals in those countries were established in connection with both services, and which we hope will long remain as practical monuments to his memory. The universal regret felt both by the European and native communities at Yokohama testify to the value of his professional worth, and to the esteem in which he was held for his many amiable and social qualities.

THE DESTRUCTION OF SALANGORE.

A VERY lengthy letter has appeared in The Times, in reply to Sir BENSON MAXWELL's recent note on this subject. It is bare justice to the writer, who signs himself "A SINGAPOREAN," to say that he has acquitted himself most creditably as an advocate in the present case. He has left no point untouched which could possibly lend force to his defence of Colonel ANSON and Commander ROBINSON. It is, therefore, with the more regret, as well as with increased confidence, that we feel compelled to characterise "A SINGAPOREAN'S" letter as merely an ingenious piece of special pleading. The writer takes by turns every argument that can be brought to bear on the subject, from the provocation of the Malays to what he calls the "spirited conduct" of the British officers, and the "expediency" of preserving the "face of England from being blackened and her name 'stinking in the eyes and nostrils of Chinese and Malays' by the repudiation of the conduct" of the commanders of the expedition. We should have been far more gratified if the writer's train of reasoning had been based on the broad principles of right and wrong instead of being partly dependent on the exercise of mere force without justification, and partly bolstered up by the pretext of the necessity of keeping England from "stinking" in the nostrils of semi-savages in consequence of the apprehension that our Government may refuse to back up one injury by defending another. We do not wish to decide hastily, and we still hope that Captain ROBINSON may be able to afford a satisfactory explanation of his conduct. But, failing that, and assuming that "A SINGAPOREAN'S" letter exhausts all the arguments that can be urged in his defence, we cannot but think that Sir BENSON MAXWELL has clearly established his case, and that the destruction of Salangore and the menaces offered to the Rajah are deplorable circumstances, not only because they resulted in the sacrifice of life, but because they can hardly fail to embitter the feelings of the Malays against themselves, and to weaken their faith in the discretion and firmness of Her MAJESTY's representatives.

LITERATURE.

The Ninth Annual Report of the Peking Hospital, in connection with the London Missionary Society, is a little book which reflects the highest credit on the perseverance and discrimination of Dr. Dudgeon. We learn without surprise that the wide-spread uneasiness among all classes, caused by the sad events at Tientsin in June, has, as a matter of course, affected the attendance at this Hospital during the whole of the latter half of the year. All forms of Christian work in the north of China have been more or less interrupted during the same period. The capital, although distant only eighty miles from the scene of the appalling catastrophe alluded to, has probably suffered less disturbance on that account than some other less important and more remote places. The whole attendance has been about one-third less than that of last year. That of the first half of the year was in advance of that of the previous year. As soon as intelligence of the massacre reached Peking the well-to-do in-patients, who supported themselves, left at once, without giving notice; those who were maintained at the hospital expense were either unable or, what is more likely, were strongly disinclined to leave. On the fair-days, in the east part of both cities, for nine days of each month large numbers of new patients came dropping in at the dispensary and chapel, making the occasion of their being at the fairs, or in this portion of the city, an excellent opportunity for attending to their ailments or hearing somewhat of Christianity. The country patients ceased altogether. On the 23rd of June the effect was patent, but by the 25th it was very marked, and from an average of from fifty to seventy patients daily, the attendance suddenly fell to fifteen, and even three, on some days, although the average numbered about fifteen. Shortly afterwards there was a reaction caused by the publication of some placards by grateful patients who avowed their obligations to Dr. Dudgeon and his staff. In the midst of a time of so much anxiety as the past year it is satisfactory to observe that the income of the hospital kept pace with the expenditure; though we hope Dr. Dudgeon's humane exertions will be better supported this year, believing, as we do, that the benefit he confers on his patients by curing them of their disorders is not greater than that which he renders to their intellect by removing prejudice and superstition, and causing them to cease to regard foreigners with odium.

The new number of the Phoenix opens with a very interesting paper, in which Mr. J. Edkins explains some curious points of similarity between the Welsh and the Chinese languages. The editor contributes articles on Tartary and Burmah; and Mr. Carroll continues his excellent translation of the "Cure for Jealousy." We hope, however, that this "cure" will not be very long delayed. The tale has now been gradually unfolding itself for so many months that a good many readers are anxious to come at the point of it. We hope, therefore, that the translator will not insist on completing his "cure of jealousy" in such homœopathic doses as he has lately administered.

M. Stanislas Julien has published a spirited pamphlet in reply to an unknown critic who has assailed his recent work on Chinese Syntax in some unimportant particulars. We have so recently expressed our high opinion of the result of M. Julien's labours that it is unnecessary for us to say more than that we think he might have acted more wisely if he had left his anonymous opponent unnoticed.

THE LOSS OF THE MEGÆRA.

We have received the following despatches from the Admiralty for publication:—

Commander Robinson to the Secretary to the Admiralty.

"Her Majesty's Ship Rinaldo, Batavia, Aug. 10.

"Sir,—I have the honour herewith to forward for their Lordships' information the report of Acting Lieutenant Jones, of the loss of Her Majesty's ship Megæra, at St. Paul's Island.

"2. On my arrival at Batavia on the morning of the 8th inst. I found the clipper ship Oberon, with auxiliary steam power, had been chartered by the British Consul, and that the extra supply of provisions, which I had telegraphed to be ready for this ship to take to St. Paul's, had been put on board the Oberon.

"3. Under these circumstances I telegraphed to the Commodore at Hong Kong to know whether the Rinaldo should proceed to St. Paul's, and received the following reply:—'Rinaldo not to proceed to St. Paul's. Malacca left Hong Kong yesterday.'

"4. On the 9th inst., at 2 p.m., I received a note from the Consul, and upon going to his office found your telegram requiring the Rinaldo to bring Captain Thrupp and witnesses from St. Paul's to Singapore. Having the positive orders from Commodore Shortt not to go to St. Paul's, on reading it I deemed it advisable to telegraph to Commodore Shortt to know whether the Rinaldo was to go, and received the following answer at 45 minutes past noon this day:—'Rinaldo to proceed immediately to St. Paul's, and execute orders of Admiralty.'

"I start instantly, and have the honour, &c.,

"GEORGE ROBINSON Commander.

"Batavia, Aug. 7.

"Sir,—I have the honour to report to you that Her Majesty's ship Megæra was run on shore on St. Paul's Island on Monday, June 19, in a sinking state, and that all hands are saved and landed, with provisions and stores.

"The circumstances under which the Megæra was run on shore are as follows:—On June 8, on the passage from the Cape to Sydney, a leak was reported, but was for several days kept under by hand-pumps and baling. On or about the 14th of June the leak became more serious, and the water gained on the pumps. Steam was then used, and by the aid of the main steam pumps the water was kept in check.

"It was determined to steer for St. Paul's Island in order to examine the ship, where she arrived and anchored on Saturday, June 17. A survey was then held, and a diver sent down to examine the leak. A hole was discovered worn through the centre of a plate, about 12ft. abaft the mainmast and about 8ft. from the keel port side, besides other serious injuries in the immediate vicinity of the leak.

"On Sunday morning, June 18 the report of survey was sent in. It was considered unsafe to leave the anchorage. Provisions and stores were then landed. On Monday forenoon, June 19, weather being very stormy, and being unable to keep the ship in position, having carried away and lost three anchors since first anchoring, and being unable to carry on the work of landing provisions on account of the stormy weather, it was determined to beach the ship. At about 1 p.m. the ship was run full speed on the bar, and remained there. She soon afterwards filled up to the main deck aft at high water. The work of landing provisions and saving cargo was then continued, and a portion of the men and officers landed in charge of the same. The ship was not entirely abandoned for about ten or twelve days after she was beached. I was ordered by Captain Thrupp to hold myself in readiness to intercept any passing vessel, and communicate intelligence to the senior naval officer at any port at which I should arrive. I left the island on Sunday, the 16th of July, in the Dutch vessel Aurora, Capt. Fisser, owners Goedkoop and Co., Amsterdam, and arrived at Sourabaya on the 2nd of August, when I communicated with the senior naval officer in China and Consul at Batavia.

"Up to the time I left the island about 80 tons of cargo for Sydney had been saved, and divers were still employed recovering it. Men and officers were living under canvas, and all are well. They had provisions to last, on half allowance, till the beginning of November, with the exception of bread, flour, tea, and sugar, of which they were very short, men being on 4oz. of bread per day.

"Water was obtained from summit of the hill during rainy seasons, but could not be depended upon. It is considered impossible to render the ship fit for further service.

"I arrived at Batavia this day, August 7, and proceeded to St. Paul's by English merchant steamer Oberon, Captain Burgoyne, chartered by Acting Consul, with necessary provisions for men.

"Captain Thrupp's letter reporting the loss of the ship was accidentally left out of the bag containing other despatches, but will be forwarded to England by the ship Oberon.—I have the honour, &c.,

LEWIS T. JONES,

"Acting Lieutenant, H.M.S. Megæra."

"British Consulate, Batavia, Aug. 14, 1871.

"Sir,—On the 7th inst. I had the honour to send the Board of Admiralty the following telegram:—'In terms of your telegram I have chartered the British steamer Oberon for St. Paul's with provisions, and Lieutenant Jones sails Wednesday morning daylight. Speed, 10, perhaps 14 knots. Capacity 1,022 tons. The Rinaldo expected Wednesday;' and on the 9th inst. I received your reply as follows:—

'Approve Oberon being chartered. Inform Captain Thrupp, if this reaches you in time, that crews of the Blanche and Rosario are to be sent to Sydney in Malacca, which is to bring relieved crews to Aden, unless already chartered for England. Captain Thrupp to return to Singapore in Rinaldo with witnesses required for court-martial, and come thence with them to England in ordinary steamer. Acknowledge this;' from which I am pleased to notice that my arrangements have met with the approval of their Lordships.

"The Oberon is a fine steamer of 1,022 tons register, and will probably make the voyage to St. Paul's under favourable circumstances at an average speed of 10 knots an hour. She sailed for St. Paul's at daylight on Wednesday morning, and is expected to reach her destination in less than a fortnight.

"The peremptory nature of your telegram left no other course open to me than to charter at once, if any suitable vessel was obtainable, and the only choice I had was between the Oberon and a steamer of the Netherlands Indian Steam Navigation Company. I fixed on the former, as it was eminently qualified to perform satisfactorily the service required. At the same time I regret that the Board did not leave me any discretionary powers, especially as it was known that Lieutenant Jones was on the way up from Sourabaya, and could inform me precisely as to urgency in the matter. Had this been done I most certainly should not have considered myself justified in incurring the above great expenditure, as Lieutenant Jones was of opinion that the few days elapsing between the arrivals of the Oberon and Rinaldo at St. Paul's would not in any way have affected the condition of the officers and men of the Megæra.

"I supplied by the Oberon all the provisions that Lieutenant Jones thought necessary, consisting of biscuit, flour, sugar, yams, onions, and pumpkins; while the captain of the Oberon agreed to supply at the island tea, beef, and pork should the paymaster of the Megæra require them.

"Lieutenant Jones writes you all particulars regarding the loss of the Megæra, and the condition of the men on the island. Captain Thrupp's letter reporting the disaster was unfortunately not in the bag when Lieutenant Jones hurriedly left the island; but it will go forward in the Oberon, which is bound to London direct.

"The Rinaldo arrived on Tuesday, the 8th inst., and, in terms of your telegram of the 8th inst., proceeded on the 10th at midday to St. Paul's with further provisions, and to convey to Singapore Captain Thrupp and witnesses for the court-martial. I regret that your telegram reached me too late to inform Lieutenant Jones of this; and a telegram I despatched to Anjer also most unfortunately arrived there an hour after the Oberon had passed.

"I telegraphed you on the 10th inst.:—'Oberon' had already left before your telegram was received. Rinaldo starts for St. Paul's this forenoon,' which I hope reached you intelligibly.

"(Here follows enumeration of accounts and vouchers forwarded.)

"W. T. FRASER, Her Britannic Majesty's Acting Consul."

OPENING OF THE MONT CENIS TUNNEL.

Sunday, the 17th inst., witnessed the formal opening of one of the greatest engineering enterprises of modern times, the Mont Cenis tunnel through the Alps. We are indebted to the correspondent of the Daily News for the following account of the ceremony.

At half-past six in the morning the first train, carrying the Commission appointed to proceed to Modane, there to meet the French Commission, left the station of Turin. The train consisted of about twenty carriages. Among the company were Signor Visconti Venosta; Signor Devincenzi, the Minister of Public Works; Signor Sella; Signor Castagnola, the Minister of Agriculture; the President of the Chamber of Deputies, a large number of senators and deputies, and the mayors of the principal Italian cities. All along the line and at the intermediate stations crowds of peasants from the neighbouring villages, with bands playing the Royal March, saluted the train. At half-past ten precisely the train entered the tunnel at Bardonnecchia amidst enthusiastic cheering. The tunnel was traversed in twenty-one minutes precisely. All the carriages kept the windows open, there being no smoke at all. The temperature was twenty-three centigrade. The train arrived at Modane at eleven, and there found M. Lefranc, M. de Lesseps, and the members of the French Commission. At the station the Ministers entered into conversation. The French Minister and Chevalier Nigra then got into the Royal carriages. The engines were decorated with Italian and French flags, and the train left Modane at half past twelve, re-entered the tunnel at forty minutes past twelve, and left it at twenty-five minutes past one.

Subsequently a banquet was given at Bardonnecchia to celebrate the event of the day, and nearly 1,400 guests accepted invitations. The banquet took place in a pavilion, 200 metres long, which was elegantly decorated with flags and other ornaments. Signor Visconti Venosta proposed as a toast "France and her Government," and the illustrious persons who had come from all parts of Europe to celebrate the great victory obtained by science. He ended by exclaiming, "Long live France!" at which there was great cheering. M. Lefranc, the French Minister, in reply, expressed his regret at being alone to answer, in the name of France, "Long live Italy." He was sure that the whole of France would sincerely respond. Alluding to the arrival of M. de Rémusat, he said that on the morrow another member of the Cabinet would repeat the words, and give to them a more political significance. The success of the work was due in the first degree to God, who inspired men with the thoughts out of which such undertakings sprang. To the King of Italy, to Count Cavour, and to the men by whose skill, perseverance, and energy the work had been carried out, high praise must be given. France and Italy could now join hands. They were united by the bonds of peace and humanity. He admitted that France had committed many errors. It was now time to work for the good of all mankind. The Minister ended his speech, amid loud cheers, with the words, "Long live united Italy and France." Signor De Vincenzi, the Minister of Public Works, then proposed "The health of M. de Lesseps and Signor Grattoni," connecting their names with the two great works, the Suez Canal and the Tunnel of Mont Cenis. The Swiss Minister saluted free Italy in the name of free Switzerland, and pointed out that the honour of the great work was due to the Latin race. Signor Sella gave as a toast, "The memory of Cavour and all those who had co-operated in the great work of the tunnel." A director of the Victor Emmanuel Railway Company then presented gold medals from the Italian and French Governments to Signor Grattoni, the engineer, who, with much emotion, returned thanks in his own name and that of his colleagues.

The first return train left Bardonnecchia for Turin at six P.M. At all the stations along the line the country people, with lighted torches, cheered lustily, bands playing and flags waving. On the Italian and French ministers arriving at the station at Turin they were loudly cheered by the immense crowds which had collected. Both the railway station and the city were splendidly illuminated. One enormous street was designed to represent the tunnel, having an entrance constructed of the same dimensions as that at Bardonnecchia, and there was a representative of Italy and France shaking hands before the tunnel.

After her banquet to celebrate the event was given on the 18th inst., when the municipality of Turin entertained an assemblage of more than five hundred guests, of whom the larger half were foreigners. The Syndic, speaking in the name of the city, thanked the guests who had accepted the invitations of the municipality to celebrate the opening of the great tunnel. M. de Rémusat, in responding to the toast, expressed his admiration for the Italian people, who had completed so immense a work. In the name of his own country, which has struggled so nobly for liberty, he drank to the health of the Italian nation, who appear to be on all occasions determined to defend their independence and liberty. Signor Visconti Venosta expressed his delight that this new work united Italy more closely with France, and through France with the whole civilised world. His proposal of the health of M. Thiers and the French Government was received with loud cheers. Signor Venosta added that the friendship of the two nations will assure the triumph of art and the general prosperity of both. Signor Biancheri, the President of the Chamber of Deputies, gave as a toast "The City of Turin," and several other speeches were delivered before the festivities concluded.

In view of the successful completion and inauguration of this great work it may be of interest to recall a few facts in connection with the design and execution of the undertaking. The project of constructing a tunnel under the Alps was one of the favourite designs of the eminent Italian statesman, the late Count Cavour. The date of the commencement of the tunnel was the 15th of August, 1857. The two points at which it was determined to commence the tunnel were two wretched little Alpine villages, Bardonnecchia and Fourneaux, the former on the Italian, the latter on the French side of Mont Fréjus, the tunnel being pierced for a distance of 12,236 metres under the above-named mountain, and not, as common report would have it, beneath Mont Cenis. These two villages were of the smallest size and most miserable character, and offered no accommodation whatever to the many hundred workmen employed on either side of the mountain. Bardonnecchia, on the Piedmontese side, is a village which in 1857, when the works commenced, contained about 1,000 souls. The houses in it were really little better than huts, being mostly occupied by shepherds, who were absent with their flocks on the mountain during the summer months; consequently, not only were there no conveniences for the establishment of the works, the accommodation of the engineers and workmen, &c., but the means of transporting even food were wanting. At Fourneaux things were even worse for men, there being an ordinary population of only 400 inhabitants; there was not a single shop in which food could be bought by the men engaged on the engineering works. Consequently, they were obliged to establish themselves at Modane, where they could obtain tolerable accommodation, but which was a mile and a-half from their work.

The first problem to be solved, says Mr. Francis Kossuth, one of the Royal Commissioners of Italian Railways, in his report on the Tunnel, was threefold:—1st. To fix across the mountain several points which would all be contained in the vertical plane drawn through the axis of the tunnel. 2nd. To obtain the exact length between the openings. 3rd. To know the precise difference of level between the two extremities of the tunnel, so as to obtain the proper gradients. In order to execute this programme a series of observations were established on all the favourable points, and an elaborate trigonometrical survey of the district was undertaken. All the observations were repeated never less than ten times, the greater part twenty, and the most important as many as sixty times. The preliminary measurements gave a distance of 13,861·5 yards between the two temporary openings. We say temporary openings, because, although the tunnel is itself constructed in a perfectly straight line from Fourneaux and Bardonnecchia, passengers will not pass through the original straight tunnel but will be conveyed through a branch line which joins the main line a short distance from Fourneaux. The nature of the ground was such as to necessitate the definite and permanent tunnel being taken through the mountain in a curve, but even the unprofessional reader will see that a straight line was indispensable, in order to secure not only accuracy of direction, but also a through draught of air through the whole length of the tunnel. The tunnel, although its axis was straight, was not constructed on a dead level for two reasons. First, it was considered necessary to have a slope outwards, in order that any water in the tunnel might easily drain itself away. And, secondly, by having the two lines so drawn that they must ultimately cross each other, it was evident that the chances of meeting were reduced to a positive certainty. The gradients were: From the Bardonnecchia (Italian) end, 4,408·50 feet above the level of the sea, 1 in 2,000 (·0005 per metre) for a distance of 20,897·33 feet. From the Fourneaux entrance (French side), 3,945 feet above the sea, the rising gradient was 1 in 48·4782 (·023 per metre) for 20,587 feet. Elevation above sea level at Bardonnecchia, 4,408·50 feet. Elevation above sea level at Fourneaux, 3,945·00 feet. This was the calculation on paper; the actual result differs wonderfully little, the error being partly owing to discrepancies discovered whilst the final line of the tunnel was being traced, as well from mistakes in the precise levels of the starting points. The absolute figures give a mean level for the highest point of 4,891·888 feet. The greatest height of the mass of the Alps over the tunnel is 5,307 feet.

After giving these figures it may be of interest to present the reader with the account given by an eye-witness, M. Génési, of the meeting of the workmen last winter in the depths of the earth, more than 5,000 feet beneath the summit of Mont Fréjus. "On the 9th of November, 1870," says M. Génési, "I was on my regular round of inspection as usual, when I fancied I heard through the rocks the noise of the explosion of the mines on the Bardonnecchia side. I sent a despatch to discover if the hours agreed. They did, and then there could be no longer any doubt that we were nearing the goal. Each following day the explosions were to be heard more and more distinctly. At the beginning of December we heard quite clearly the blows of the perforators against the rocks. Then we vaguely heard the sound of voices. But were we going to meet at the same level and in the same axis? For three days and three nights engineers, foremen, and heads of gangs never left the tunnel. The engineers Borelli and Boni directed the works on the Bardonnecchia side, M. Copello on that of Fourneaux. We could not eat or sleep; every one was in a state of fever. At length, on the morning of the 26th of December, the rock fell in near the roof. The breach was made, and we could see each other and shake hands. The same evening the hole was clear—the last obstacle—and the mountain was pierced, our work was done. What a rejoicing we had! In spite of the war, the cheers of all scientific Europe came to find us in the entrails of our mountain when the happy termination of our enterprise became known. The two axes met exactly; there was barely half a yard error. The level on our side was only sixty centimetres (less than three-quarters of a yard) too high. But after thirteen years of continual work, who could even hope for so perfect a result? We placed at the point of junction an inscription on a marble tablet, commemorative of the happy event."

The method of boring used in the Mont Cenis Tunnel has been so often described already that a very short account of it will suffice. At starting, we should remind the reader that it is a mistake to fancy that the tunnel has been bored on a new principle. This is not so; the great work has been accomplished by means of blasting as it has been used in mining operations for centuries. But it is in the use of air as a motive power for the perforating tools that the novelty of the operations consist. Air was compressed to six atmospheres by means of hydraulic pressure obtained from the mountain streams in the neighbourhood of the tunnel. The piercing instrument was a steel drill driven by a piston, worked itself by compressed air from a movable press. The compressed air was conveyed in a cast iron tube of 7·84 inches inside diameter, and thirty-nine inches thick. It is made in lengths of from six to eight feet. Safety valves were placed in this tube and under the pressure became more than six atmospheres; air escaped, and was conveyed by other tubes to the scene of operations in the middle of the mountain, and supplied the workmen with fresh air. The quantity of water consumed was 35·317 cubic feet per second, there being a fall of 144 feet. The method of operation in order to pierce the rock was as follows:—Seven drills pierced a series of holes in the rock. These holes were about a yard in depth, an inch to three inches in diameter, only the smaller ones were filled with powder, the larger were simply made in order to diminish the resistance of the stone. These seventy holes took from five to seven hours to perforate, according to the nature of the rock. When the holes had been made they were dried thoroughly by means of blasts of compressed air, and then charged. The mines were successively exploded, beginning with those in the centre of the vault. Then the fragments were cleared away in trucks. In the twenty-four hours the progress varied from two yards to two yards and a half.

There will be two lines of rail in the tunnel. The vault itself will be six metres high and eight metres wide. The tunnel will be walled in along its whole length, and the lime rock will be nowhere exposed. The thickness of the internal masonry forming the tube is from half a yard to a yard and more, according to circumstances. On the French side the masonry cost on the average 1,300 francs the square metre, on the Italian side only 1,000 francs. The tunnel is wonderfully dry in comparison with many smaller works. There is only one subterranean spring of any importance in it and a water-course, or rather a little aqueduct, has been constructed beneath the permanent way, in order to carry off any water which might drain into the tunnel.

Much has been said about the heat in the tunnel. All accounts agree that it is not excessive, and a recent French visitor to the tunnel gives the following figures:—At the entrance, 54 degs. Fahrenheit; at the telegraph station inside, 76 degs. Fahrenheit; the average temperature being about 66 degs. Fahrenheit.

THE IMPORTATION OF CHINESE LABOUR INTO ENGLAND.

It is with very great concern that we observe that the arbitrary conduct of the engineers and others as exhibited in the present alarming strikes in various parts of the country, and secretly fomented by the revolutionary doctrines of the extreme party of which Messrs. ODGER and BRADLAUGH are the leaders, appears to have disturbed the judgment of some of the great employers of labour. We only hope that the rumour may not be well founded, and we lose no time in entering our protest against the proposed movement; but we can gather from the article in the Globe, which we quoted in our last issue, nothing less than that "the success which has attended the employment of Chinese labour in the United States suggests its introduction here, as a remedy against such strikes as are now agitating the labour market." We are told further on that "Sir WILLIAM ARMSTRONG and other large employers are forming a fund specially destined to provide for the introduction of foreign labour into England," and that "John Chinaman" may be expected, before very long, to be found "hard at work over here." We are totally unable to find terms strong enough to denounce a movement like this, supposing for a moment that it can be in contemplation. If it should ever take shape, Sir WILLIAM ARMSTRONG's artillery will have been turned against his countrymen with a vengeance; but he will find, and the country will find, that he has brought such an artillery of public opinion to bear upon him and his following as must either defeat their tactics at the outset, or else (after a struggle which could not be unattended with bloodshed) conduct us back to a system of Protection as stern as that prevailing in China, and so undo all the benefits which for twenty-five years we have owed to the self-sacrificing policy of the great Sir ROBERT PEEL. We admit that we write warmly—we should be ashamed of ourselves if we did not feel deeply on such a subject—but it is no time to mince matters when we see a journal which circulates chiefly among the English clergy, and has besides a political influence, especially among the classes most ignorant of trade, gravely advocating a line of conduct which, we feel persuaded, can only end in one of two consequences if it is ever begun. The alternatives which we see ahead of the proposed introduction of Chinese labour into England are these—either a return to protectionism in its most bigoted form, or else a revolution. Of course, as we are not very likely suddenly to belie our national character, the probabilities are strongly in favour of a return to Protection—a condition of things which it is utterly impossible to contemplate without perceiving in it the prostration of England for the time during which it might last. We hope that Sir WILLIAM ARMSTRONG will lose no time in contradicting the report that he is engaged in any such scheme as is suggested in the Globe. If any project of the kind is really in existence, the promoters must be as thoroughly ignorant of the Chinese character as of the temper of the English working man. Assuming, for the sake of argument—unreasonable as the position is—that large numbers of Chinese were imported successfully to undersell our countrymen in the labour-market; granting that the police and military were able to suppress the riots that must inevitably ensue; it is inconceivable that English manufacturers can shut their eyes to the fact that English ratepayers would at once unite to remedy the enormous increase of Poor-rates which would certainly follow, and also that English tradesmen would resist, as one man, the introduction of a horde of savages who could not consume a tenth part of the goods their present customers take of them. Other inevitable consequences of such a movement are too evident to require more than passing notice. The ill-usage which the Chinese workmen would be certain to encounter here would lead to gross misrepresentation among their countrymen, and therefore to increased hatred towards ourselves. And even if we pass by all the other objections which suggest themselves, and assume that the Chinese were naturalised here, and that our factories and railways were worked by them, do Sir WILLIAM ARMSTRONG and the Globe know so little of the Chinese character as to think that they would not be the first to "strike" when they thought they could get anything by it? Whether Chinese workmen "strike" when at home, or no, is beside the question. We are now speaking of the Chinese in a foreign country, and our own experience tells us that Chinese workmen have struck for an advance of pay to three times its previous rate, and that without a moment's notice, in India. We need not say that we have no sympathy with the present strikes, nor in fact with any strikes as a means of gaining an increase of wages, or a shortening of time. They are merely got up by a parcel of lazy demagogues, who would rather talk treasonable nonsense than work for their bread. But there are some remedies which are worse than the disorders they are expected to cure. And of all such politico-economical nostrums that have ever been suggested, the importation of Chinese labour to hold our own in check seems to us to be the most suicidal and scandalous.

THE MONT CENIS TUNNEL.

THE most important event of the week has been undoubtedly the passage of the first train through the Mont Cenis Tunnel, of the opening of which we give a report in another column. The space of forty minutes was occupied in the transit from the Italian to the French terminus—a distance of eight miles—the journey this way being down an incline. It took fifty-five minutes to bring the return train through its "uphill work," when the tunnel was found to be completely clear of vapour and steam, a circumstance attributable to the current of air which the difference of temperature at either end causes to circulate through the entire route. The Mont Cenis Tunnel and the Suez Canal now, therefore, supplement one another. Each brings the other so much nearer to England, to China, or to India. The fourteen years of labour that have been spent on this great work cannot be grudged, even by those who have devoted the last years of their lives to its accomplishment. But while we congratulate our countrymen on the immense benefits which are conferred on the English-speaking races by the Suez Canal and the Mont Cenis Tunnel, it would be unfair to conceal the fact that these two greatest triumphs of engineering skill in modern times have been conceived and executed by the Latin races. It is our turn to do something next; and if our friends in Ceylon will take the lead with the Paumotu Channel, though their achievement will be slight as to difficulty in proportion with the gigantic enterprises completed by France and Italy, it will at least give good earnest of our sympathy with the progress of the age, and our reluctance to allow "the old country" to be "tailed off" in the race of improvement.

EVERYTHING that the Rev. Mr. WILLIAMSON publishes must command the respectful attention of all who have, like him, the interests of China at heart. Even those who differ with him must acknowledge that he is the most chivalrous of opponents. We, who, as our readers know, have a strong sympathy with the movement to which Mr. WILLIAMSON has devoted his life, feel that we need do no more, while drawing attention to the letter of his which we publish to-day, than commend one sentence in it to the grave consideration of our Government. Mr. WILLIAMSON says, "Speak of admitting China into the comity of nations—by all means; but do not grant them all the rights and privileges of civilised nations, and allow them to ignore all the consequent "responsibilities which devolve upon such Powers." In these few words the exact condition of our relations with China is made clear, and the proper course to be adopted distinctly sketched out. And, if it is a missionary who has been the first to enunciate a doctrine so valuable, even those who are most opposed to missionary enterprise will admit that he has rendered good service to his country.

The change which has recently been introduced into the currency of Ceylon has rendered it desirable that Sir HERCULES ROBINSON, the present Governor, should remain some time longer in the colony in order to carry out the reform. Lord KIMBERLEY has therefore conveyed to Sir HERCULES a request from the Lords of the Treasury to this effect, and the departure of Mr. W. H. GREGORY, the Governor-nominate, will be deferred until some time next year.

OUR POSITION IN CHINA.

(To the Editor of The London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—I may say that I, in a great measure, sympathise with the recent efforts of the Chinese Government, to check the advances of foreigners, or rid themselves of them altogether. They have suffered terribly at our hands, and still have no small reason to complain. But they know not what they are doing. They are like a blind giant struggling with the inevitable—eager to protect his own, but knowing neither the cause of the evil nor the cure—the strength of his antagonists nor his own weakness. I also thoroughly appreciate the motives of Her Majesty's Government in their desire to treat the Chinese with justice and forbearance, but I am afraid they may go too far in this direction. Conciliatory measures and forbearance imply intelligence to apprehend our motives, and, above all, some disposition to honourable friendship, otherwise conciliatory measures may be folly. But while the masses of the people are ready for unfettered intercourse, the bulk of the literati and the mandarins are not so, and have misconstrued all the recent utterances of well-meaning men, and the policy of the late Lord Clarendon. I therefore think in their own interests as well as ours that the reins must still be held with a strong and steady hand.

I have been more than ever amazed at some of the objections lately urged against missionary operations. A certain most influential man has said: "Commerce is our sole object in China." I had thought such Vandalism had vanished for ever, or existed only in the brain of a certain well-known Chinese diplomatist. I am ashamed to find it turning up again. The truth is, commerce by itself is a deciviliser, and most emphatically so between civilised and semi-civilised or barbarous peoples. It has been tremendously so in China: witness the opium traffic, the coolie traffic, and a hundred other things. And is the object of Great Britain in China to be solely confined to this? Is a sordid materialism to rule the day? Does man owe no other duties to his fellow man? And is a short-sighted regard for trade to control all our intercourse with such countries? The idea is utterly intolerable, and I feel certain will be rejected with scorn by the best portion of the British nation.

The London Examiner has also been lately discoursing on China, and among other things it affirms that Protestant missionaries have done no good, but mischief in that country. I shall not speak of our work, but refer those interested to certainly an impartial witness, viz., the Westminster Review for April, 1871, for information on this point. The writer in the Examiner speaks as if it were injustice to introduce Christianity into China. But is it to be a crime to teach men knowledge? And is this the outcome of our advanced civilisation. Toleration is a grand principle, but to introduce it as an argument against carrying enlightenment into heathen darkness is toleration gone mad. The more I have thought over Mr. Miall's lucubration the more inexplicable it appears, especially as the production of a religious Nonconformist. He has stood before the world for years as a standard bearer of religious liberty, and yet he comes forth as the virtual advocate of the most exclusive and intolerant of all governments, and maintains the right of that oligarchy to prescribe the faith, and tyrannise over 360,000,000 of our fellow-men. He tells us that "the toleration clause is a mistake," to be rectified with all speed and care! What! This from the Nonconformist? Alas! for human consistency. Not to speak of salvation, are we to consent to the exclusion of that name which is above every name—the very centre of human history—the unconscious desire of all nations—the spring of everything pure, noble, and progressive—the only guarantee of peace, security, and prosperity—that name which is the very backbone, and heart, and brain, the all and all of our country. The light of the world, the life of man, the only hope of sinners, the joy of humanity? Or take a lower position. Shall a Christian people solemnly agree to exclude that which alone can give strength to character, earnestness of purpose, width of view, elevation of conception, purity, truth, and honour to man? Shall we, in the face of the world, plant a stigma upon that which arouses philanthropy, awakens every faculty of the mind, gives a finer eye to the painter, a deeper soul to the musician, higher impulses to the man of science, refinement to the literateur, nobler tastes to the people, and strength and vigour to all enterprise? "Blessings abound where'er He reigns." Who shall step forward to do this? Shame on the man who even breathes such a proposal. The Treaty has been made already, who shall take the responsibility of tearing it in pieces? Who shall dare, even in this sense, to come between God and China?

But Mr. Miall goes even further. He does not seem to know the terms of the treaty, and shrinks from the very thought of any protection being granted to converts. He pretends to think that Lord Elgin could never be so far left to himself. As a dissenter I protest against such statements being supposed to be part of voluntarism. I know well the evil of throwing any worldly encouragement to become Christians before heathen men. But there is nothing of this in the matter. It is simply agreed that "converts shall have liberty to profess and practise Christianity without being liable to fines, imprisonment, or molestation;" and in a country like China, or anywhere, is there anything wrong in this? There are about 6,000 converts at present in China, besides several millions of Roman Catholics; and if the demands of the Chinese Government, just made, be complied with, they and their families will certainly be exposed to all sorts and degrees of persecution. God in his providence has given Christian nations power and authority, and a footing in China; are we to stand coolly aside and see women and children dragged out of their homes, tortured, and it may be butchered, all because they have seen the evils of idolatry and sin, and embraced our Lord as their Lord and Master? Is there any sense in this, or merit in this, or scripture for this? Is it not the narrow conceit of men who ride a hobby to death? Many among the converts have made great social sacrifices in professing Christianity; they know what is before them if their own rulers had their wishes; and they are now looking with an anxious eye to the action of our Government. Is a Christian nation to allow a heathen people to violate their treaty, and in order to stamp out the only promising element in their Empire, and to destroy the seed of the only forces that are good, and pure, and elevating in that country. Did Cromwell do wrong in throwing his shield over the Waldenses; and did any mischief come of that interference?

The Chinese believe they would be doing right were they to exterminate Christianity; we know they would be doing grievous wrong to themselves and all concerned. And just as we would prevent a ferocious lunatic from falling upon a crowd of children, so would we interpose and demand that the Chinese officials be not allowed to make a prey of Christians. And we are inclined to think only lunatics would blame us. The specious reasoning against which we have been arguing is the most dangerous of all sentimentalism. It is a mercy to feel sure that it is mere sentimental trash, and cannot but be repudiated by all thinking and practical men. We have never sought, and never shall seek, to come between Chinese law and evil doers. What we dread is the lawlessness of the rulers, exercised on isolated and defenceless men and women.

Speak of admitting China into the comity of nations—by all means; but do not grant them all the rights and privileges of civilised nations, and allow them to ignore all the consequent responsibilities which devolve upon such Powers.

Mr. Miall also impliedly advises missionaries not to assert their rights as British subjects. Is this the last expression of the highest development of "Spiritual Christianity?" For our part we are content to do as Paul did. The argument here is most miserable, especially when we look at the history of the writer. Does the highest Christianity consist in being in Great Britain the most persistent and clamorous agitator for supposed rights; and in China, precluded from following the example of Him who said: "If I have spoken evil, bear witness of the evil; but if not, why smitest thou me?" We are taunted with seeking to spread Christianity with the sword. There is great confusion of thought in those who parade this objection. They do not distinguish between nations and individual Christian men. For my own part, and I believe I speak the sentiments of every missionary in the field, I am disposed to go to China (treaty or no treaty), and humbly to seek, at all risks, to carry out the command of our Saviour in simple dependence upon His gracious promises. I have never called for gun-boats. But ought my fellow Christians, who compose the British nation, to expose us to the tender mercies of wicked and brutal men? Our consuls of themselves have interfered, and they have done right. I believe that nations have duties towards each of their subjects. "Other climes require what other climes produce." And the expressed and obvious design of Providence is, that the various peoples of this world should mingle with one another, and help each other on, that design being consummated by His will being done on earth even as it is done in heaven. I therefore think that the European and American nations are clearly justified, both by reason and Scripture, in insisting that this vast country shall open its doors to the outside world, and in binding the Chinese by treaties to such engagements. But I believe that it would be utterly unworthy of us and suicidal if these Christian nations did not make provision for the introduction and peaceful extension of that to which they are indebted for all their prosperity. Treaty stipulations in favour of Christianity are therefore defensible on every ground; and just as it would never do to allow a merchant, so long as he acted in accordance with the several clauses of the treaty, to be hampered or butchered at the caprice of ignorant mandarins, so it would be most pernicious to permit the self-denying representatives of our faith, science, and literature to be unprotected in their noble calling in the midst of a heathen people. This is all we claim; and I trust the injustice of upbraiding us with seeking the power of the sword will be apparent to all.

There is another class of objectors to whom we may refer. They are represented by Wallace, the author of a work on the Malay Archipelago, who contrasts the happiness of these islanders and their immunity from crime with the inhabitants of Great Britain. What a miserable spectacle! Here is a man amongst the very foremost in science and knowledge looking complacently on savages! What a silent confession is here! What a conscious absence of all knowledge of any means to elevate man! What black despair, and what a comment on the resources of science! Truly extremes meet. High cultivation and civilisation have their evils, often great and deplorable; but, bad as the evils are, who but the dreamiest of men would not say, "Rather fifty years in Europe than a cycle in Cathay"! But, unfortunately for our objectors, "the happiness of the people," the joy of idolatry, the bliss of Arcadian simplicity, cannot be pleaded for China. Paul describes their character in the first chapter of Romans. They "not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them." They emphatically need some remedy; and does true philosophy declare that we are not to be allowed to try God's own remedy?—I am, Sir, &c., ALEXANDER WILLIAMSON.

Indiana, United States, Sept. 3rd, 1871.

THE NEW CHIEF JUSTICE OF THE STRAITS.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR.—I read with considerable interest that portion of your article in your issue of the 11th inst. referring to a letter addressed to the Standard and signed "Kling." I believe there is a strong opinion existing that "Kling" should have been better acquainted with the rules of propriety in public letter writing, and somewhat informed of the regulations of the colonial service before venturing to ask the questions put in his letter.

The reason Sir Benson Maxwell resigned his post of Chief Justice of the Straits Settlements is because he applied for and obtained his pension; and it must be shown that Sir William Hackett desired the promotion, which would have removed him from the Judgeship of Penang, before it can be assumed that he has been overlooked.

I now come to that portion of the letter which inquires "Why the Colonial Secretary has appointed a Roman Catholic barrister, without practice and experience, and utterly unknown at Westminster Hall, to fill the important post vacated by Sir Benson Maxwell, to which a salary of £2,500 per annum is attached?" Of the extreme bad taste and intolerance exhibited therein, no one with proper feelings can possibly entertain a doubt, and it is much to be regretted that any one could have been found in the Temple giving expression to such an uncalled-for attack upon the newly-appointed Chief Justice of the Straits Settlements as that which was published in the Standard.

The castigation inflicted by you upon the "Kling" was well merited, and, it is to be hoped, will teach that writer to be more guarded and charitable in future.

As to the present Chief Justice being "without experience," all I can say is, that I, on the contrary, have learnt that Mr. Sidgreaves is a gentleman of considerable experience generally, and especially qualified in those branches of the law which he will be called upon to administer in the colony to which he has been appointed; that he is much liked and respected by the members of the circuit to which he belonged, and for the selection and appointment of such a gentleman Lord Kimberley is entitled to the thanks of the colonists of the Straits Settlements.

For the information of "Kling," I may add that Mr. Sidgreaves was of the Northern Circuit, Deputy Judge in the Liverpool County Court, and Deputy Stipendiary Magistrate at Birkenhead. —I remain, yours faithfully, F. H. G. Temple, Sept. 19th.

INACCURATE MARKET REPORTS.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR.—By the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce Circular to hand this morning, under the heading of Black Tea, I notice second crop Congous of this season's growth are quoted 4 Taels over last year's rates, which with Freight and Exchange causes them to lay down 20 per cent. over home value. Now as this statement varies so widely from private views generally, it appears to me that it should be received with the utmost caution. I therefore take the liberty of calling your attention to the discrepancy, to prevent any wrong impression obtaining credence, and also in the hopes that a document which is now so largely circulated may, through your instrumentality, be influenced to obtain its information through more than one source, and to avoid expressing individual opinions and interests.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant, Sept. 19th.

MERCATOR.

Monetary and Commercial.

The tenders for £400,000 in bills on India were received at the Bank of England, when the amounts allotted were to Calcutta £355,000, and to Bombay £45,000. The minimum price was fixed as before at 1s. 10½d on all the Presidencies, and tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 11½d. will receive in full, and on Bombay at 1s. 11d. about 33 per cent. These results show a further increase in the demand for means of remittance to the East.

Some surprise is being expressed at the delay in the issue of the intended loan for the reconstruction of the Suez Canal Company, and a correspondent suggests that the reason is that the weekly traffic returns have recently shown a vast improvement. It is pointed out that in August last sixty ships were reported through, against forty-two in the corresponding month of 1870; and the comparative receipts were nearly double, being in the first case £990,000, and in the second £502,000.

A petition for liquidation, by arrangement or composition, has been filed by Mr. Charles Wm. Ryder, describing himself as a merchant, trading at Liverpool as James Ryder and Son, at Manchester as J. O. Ryder and Co., at Batavia as Ryder and Co., and at Pernambuco as James Ryder and Co. £350,000 are the estimated liabilities, of which a large portion lies in Manchester. The firm is of more than thirty years' standing.

The suspension is also announced of Messrs. Keep, Parsons, and Co., in the Australian and Indian trade, a firm of about twenty years' date and of fair standing, with liabilities estimated at £120,000. The amount of acceptances immediately falling due, and for which funds are wanting, being large, it is apprehended the liquidation may prove unfavourable.

Messrs. James Anderson and Co., of Glasgow, printing cloth manufacturers, have issued circulars calling a meeting of their creditors. The firm, which is understood to be involved with that of Messrs. Muir, Brown and Co., was established about thirty years ago.

A general meeting of the proprietors of the Oriental Bank Corporation will be held on the 19th October, to declare an interim dividend for the half-year ended 30th June last.

EXPORT OF COTTON GOODS TO THE FAR EAST.

The following is a summary of Mr. Sam Mendel's Tables for the present month, containing details of the quantities of Cotton Manufactures and Yarn shipped from the ports of London, Liverpool, Southampton, and the Clyde, to Hong Kong, Shanghai, Japan, Singapore, Batavia, Manila, and Ceylon, during the month and twelve months ended 16th Sept., 1871, compared with the corresponding periods of the two preceding years:—

HONG KONG AND WHAMPOA.

PLAIN COTTONS.—Export for the month ended 16th Sept., 1871, 8,318,601 yards; for the twelve months, 114,927,716 yards; for the twelve months, 1870, 56,010,103 yards; for the twelve months 1869, 43,937,083 yards. Increase for 1871 against 1870, 58,917,613 yards.

COLOURED COTTONS.—Export for the month ended 16th Sept., 1871, 327,681 yards; for the twelve months, 13,232,215 yards; for the twelve months, 1870, 5,205,014 yards; for the twelve months, 1869, 1,435,335 yards. Increase for 1871 against 1870, 7,818,201 yards.

PRINTED COTTONS.—Export for the month ended 16th Sept., 1871, 775,573 yards; for the twelve months, 2,647,731 yards; for the twelve months 1870, 1,987,823 yards; for the twelve months, 1869, 1,230,485 yards. Increase for 1871 against 1870, 709,908 yards.

COTTON YARN.—Export for the month ended 16th Sept., 1871, 1,205,472 lbs.; for the twelve months, 10,846,793 lbs.; for the twelve months 1870, 8,797,440 lbs.; for the twelve months 1869, 4,580,282 lbs. Increase for 1871 against 1870, 2,049,353 lbs.

SHANGHAI.

TEA.

Since the date of our last report the improvement in the market has continued, notwithstanding enormous supplies offered (of red leaf alone equal to 70,000 chests). Fine and finest Congou has been sold at full rates, Kaisows commanding chief notice, the chop Cheang Mow selling at 2s. 4½d. and Cheang-Kee at 2s. 6d. per lb. Export trade continues very limited. Public sales took place on the 18th, 19th, and 20th, comprising 13,279 packages, making for the fortnight a total of 24,733 packages, nearly the whole being sold without reserve.

BLACK.—Old Season's Red Leaf: The stock is chiefly below the value of 10½d. per lb., and has commanded no attention; of New full supplies have been received, and some large transactions have taken place at 1s. 2d. to 1s. 4d. for brisk burnt Kaisow kinds and Sayune; medium quality Kaisow at 1s. 7d. to 1s. 10d., fine at 1s. 11d. to 2s. 1d., finest at 2s. 2d. to 2s. 4d., and extra quality at 2s. 5d. up to 2s. 7d. per lb. Pakhling: Sales of half-chests of medium at 1s. 6d. to 1s. 8d. per lb.; in boxes no change, as few transactions have taken place. Tayshan Leaf: An improved demand has set in the past few days, leading to more business, at 1s. 1d. to 1s. 2½d. for fair to brisk burnt kinds, 1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d. per lb. for strong malty burnt. Black Leaf: Old season's shows no change; the new, of common quality, Shantam district, has been slow of sale at 10½d. to 11½d. per lb.; of good to medium at 1s. 1d. to 1s. 4d. there is a scarcity; at 1s. 5d. to 1s. 7d. for good medium Pekoe flavoured kinds a better demand has ruled the past few days. Oonfa: Strong true Teas have sold at 1s. 9d. to 1s. 11d. per lb.; finest quality, shows no change, quotations closing at 2s. to 2s. 3d. per lb.; extra fine, as high as 2s. 11d. per lb. has been paid for small parcel. Souchong: Arrivals of New have been limited, the few sold of fine realised 1s. 2d. to 2s., and finest 2s. 2d. per lb. Oolong: There has been a demand for export to New York of the black leaf Formosa kinds, and fine and finest quality sells at 2s. 1d. to 2s. 4d. per lb.; the trade have bought the yellow leaf, many parcels being strong and brisk burnt, at 1s. 11d. to 2s. 2d. per lb., medium at 1s. 6d. to 1s. 8d. per lb. Flowery Pekoe: We hear of no sales. Scented Tea: Canton Orange Pekoe: The large supply of Foochow has interfered with this class, but imports being on a small scale, fair prices have ruled, say for long wiry leaf, 1s. 4d. to 1s. 6d. for good medium to fine, 1s. 7d. to 2s. for fine and finest, strong scented. Short leaf kinds, good common to fair 1s. to 1s. 2d. per lb. Caper: There was speculation for a few days, but it ceased when the Clan-Alpine arrived with 500,000 lbs.; prices, on the whole, are a shade higher, good medium showing 1d. per lb. advance. Foochow Scented Orange Pekoe: We estimate supplies at fully 15,000 boxes, all of fine and finest quality; this quantity proved too much, and prices for parcels wanting in scent have given way, 2d. per lb., quotations closing at 1s. 7½d. to 2s. per lb. Caper has come forward in larger quantity than usual, and sold at 1s. 7d. to 1s. 11d. per lb.

GREEN: Further arrivals of Ping Suey kinds have chiefly been sold at public auction without reserve, at fully former prices, quality considered. Other kinds show no alteration, common grades still selling at low prices. Canton kinds of Gunpowder have been sold at fair prices.

SILK.

There is no change to report in the market since the date of our last report; the prices of China Silk continue as nearly as possible the same, and are firm, with a fair daily business doing. Canton Silk is hardly so current, much of the recent arrivals of market Taitles having proved inferior in quality, and in consequence difficult of sale at 16s.; good and fine parcels still continue to command full rates, and are readily taken; Loong Kongs are flatter, the quantity beginning to increase and the quality decidedly falling off. Japan and Bengals are both neglected still, the latter being most difficult of sale, owing to the refusal of the mill hands to work this Silk, while Chinas are so abundant. In Japan, ordinary Mybash can only be forced to sale, and then at most irregular prices.

The deliveries of all Silks but Bengal are very good, being from 1st to 20th inst.—China, 2,315 bales; Canton, 846 b.; Japan, 565 b.; Bengal, 205 b.; total, 3,931 b.

The Salut Public of Lyons gives the following as the situation of the Silk trade during the past week:—"Business has been more active lately; prices were stationary for a fortnight, with a steady current of transactions, but last week a decided improvement occurred, with increased activity and a marked rise. That augmentation is from two to three francs, and turns especially upon thrown silks, and the wrought goods of France and Italy. Certain raw material, hitherto more neglected, has shared in the movement; as to the arrivals from the East, they have been unable, on account of their situation, to participate in the benefit. As regards China, quantities of goods have reached London, and the stock there is larger than of former years; 12,000 bales more than in 1869. That merchandise, which, as is known, had enjoyed marked favour during the war, and which had been respected by the general decline, has at length experienced the effects of the last yield, which, without being very brilliant in China, is considered satisfactory. Quite different is the history of Japanese goods. Consumption has neglected them for more than a year; they could only be accepted at sensibly lower rates. As the yield has been equally good in Japan, and an exportation is counted on of 20,000 bales instead of the ordinary average of 12,000, no astonishment can be excited if they do not follow the ascending movement. As to that increase, considering the large stock of silk on hand, it is somewhat unaccountable. It certainly cannot be the fear of running short of raw material which has caused it, neither is it the irresistible impulse of a demand for tissues. In fact, at this moment the only one in request is plain colours, and for that the looms are insufficient. Blacks, which represent two-thirds of the production here, remain still neglected, and until they shall again be taken into favour the situation cannot be considered as absolutely good. Certain secondary branches of our manufacture, such as velvets, handkerchiefs, small articles of fashion, &c., all in great demand at this moment, have accelerated the rise. St. Etienne is also fully occupied, and cannot execute all the orders it receives. Thus, in fine, a decided activity is apparent, but not sufficiently universal to fully justify the rapid rise in quotations."

COFFEE.

There has been little or no change in the market for Ceylon during the past week, and the favourable result of the Dutch Trading Company's sale has not effected any improvement beyond that reported in our last issue. A considerable supply of Plantation has been placed on offer, and taken off at about the prices last quoted, while Native, which has been in somewhat short supply, has realised slightly advanced rates. The latest prices paid have been Plantation, triage 50s. 6d. to 60s. 6d., small grey 62s. 6d. to 63s. 6d., low middling grey to dull 66s. 6d. to 69s., bold ditto 70s. to 73s. 6d., small coloury 65s. to 66s., middling 70s. 6d. to 75s., bold 80s. to 81s. 6d., pea-berry 82s. 6d. to 84s. 6d., Native bold 61s., small 52s. 6d., good ordinary 58s. 6d., pea-berry 60s. Privately about 2,000 bags good and fine ordinary Native Ceylon have been sold at 58s. 6d. to 59s. Transactions in other East India have been limited to 256 bags Singapore, good bold pale and brownish at 65s. to 68s., and 272 bags good bold pale Manila sold at 62s. to 62s. 6d. per cwt., 769 bags Indian sort being bought in at 60s. 6d. to 61s.

The landings for the week show a decrease of 1,460 tons compared to the large quantity at this time last year, whilst the total deliveries are 700 tons less, the deficiency in the stock being increased by these movements to 1,250 tons. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 117,731 cwt., against 204,591 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1870; Native 17,960 cwt., against 10,728 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is 5,811 cwt. Plantation, against 2,402 cwt., and 1,225 cwt. Native, against 3,136 cwt. The quantity of Coffee landed in the thirty-seven weeks ended Sept. 16, 1871, was, of Ceylon, 30,413 tons, against 27,379 tons during the corresponding period of 1870; of all descriptions, 55,780 tons, against 47,388 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 8,043 tons, against 7,509 tons; of all descriptions, 14,559 tons, against 13,367 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 23,404 tons, against 20,700 tons; of all descriptions, 42,621 tons, against 33,181 tons. The stock on Sept. 16 was, of Ceylon, 12,571 tons, against 13,034 tons; of all descriptions, 23,809 tons, against 25,059 tons.

The Dutch Trading Company's public sale held in Rotterdam on the 20th inst. went off with fair spirit, and 124,700 bags Java offered were all sold, prices being generally 1 to 1½ cents above the valuations, good ordinary selling at 37 to 38 cents. The following is the result:—

No.	1	...	Bags.	...	Valued at.	...	Result.

SUGAR.

The market has continued to exhibit extreme dullness, and although holders have submitted to a decline of 6d. per cwt., and in some instances to a further slight reduction in the prices current last mail, there is still a disinclination to purchase, and transactions have been very limited in extent. In auction 3,296 bags Penang were all sold—midding to good soft yellow (duty 4s. 9d.), 30s. to 31s. 6d.; low soft yellow and grey, 29s. to 29s. 6d.; middling syrupy brown (duty 4s.) at 26s.; chiefly common brown at 24s. to 24s. 6d., a few 23s. 6d.; 171 casks Java syrups from Capetown sold at 22s.; of 4,550 mats Java syrups from Rotterdam 450 mats sold at 22s. 6d.; privately 5,000 bags Taal unclayed Manila have been sold at 21s. 3d.

The landings for the week, consisting almost wholly of British West India, are 1,600 tons less than at the same time last year, but as the deliveries are fully 1,300 tons less, the deficiency in the stock is not materially altered. Stock, Sept. 9, 73,030 tons, against 102,842 tons. Sept. 16, 72,257 tons, against 102,360 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the thirty-seven weeks ended Sept. 16, 1871, was, of Penang, 974 tons, against 2,277 tons in the corresponding period of 1870; of Manila, Java and China, 16,399 tons, against 15,173 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 2,952 tons, against 1,617 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 22,942 tons, against 19,091 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 184 tons, against 95 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 1,005 tons, against 1,947 tons. The stock on Sept. 16 was, of Penang, 814 tons, against 2,895 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 20,186 tons, against 29,925 tons.

CAMPOR.—Holders have in most instances been firm, and about 700 cases China have changed hands at 70s. per cwt. for good, new import, landing weights, and a small quantity at 72s. 6d. re-weights. In Japan, which is scarce, we have no change to report; the market is quiet at the close.

CHINA GRASS.—Unaltered.

CHINA ROOT.—Market very quiet; business only to retail extent; stocks small.

CORR GOODS.—A large supply of Yarn has been brought to auction, which attracted a much better competition than of late, and although prices were very irregular, a general advance of £1 to £2 was established, the whole being disposed of. The quantity of Fibre, which was also rather large, brought previous rates. 2,490 bales Cochinchina Yarn were all sold at and after the sale, a few lots common to good common £27 10s. to £29 15s., low middling mixed and foxy £30 5s. to £32 5s., middling £33 to £35, good middling to good at £36 to £40, including about 1,000 bales at £39, fine £43 5s., fair to good pale roping yarn £27 15s. to £29 5s., low coarse £22 5s. to £23 5s., 34 tons in dholls sold—very common to common £25 10s. to £28 15s., medium £30 to £31 10s.; 62 bales Ceylon bought in at £33; of 85 tons ditto in dholls one-half sold at quite £2 advance, very common coarse to fair common £26 to £28 10s., good common to medium £29 15s. to £32, good medium to fine £35 5s. to £41 10s. Of Fibre 1,604 ballots (5 tons) Ceylon chiefly sold at £21, brush £32. 257 coils (3½ tons) Cochinchina Rope sold, from 1½ to 2½ inch together at £30 5s. 2½ to 3½ inch at £26 to £26 5s., and 242 coils from Akyab 2½ to 32-inch at £25 per ton.

COCOA NUT OIL continues in only limited request at £38 to £39 per ton for Ceylon. At public sale 238 casks Ceylon were bought in at £38 10s. to £39; and of 100 casks Penang offered, 30 casks sold at £39.

COLOMBO ROOT.—Market firm, with advancing tendency.

COPRA.—Steady; no Penang in the market.

CUBERS.—Unchanged in value and position; 132 bags at auction sold at 24s. 6d. to 25s. per cwt. for good, a little stalky and greyish.

CUTCH.—There is scarcely any enquiry, and all parcels at auction, comprising 1,500 and 486 bags Calcutta, have been bought in at 22s. and 20s. per cwt. Privately 400 boxes GW mark have been sold at 21s. 3d. per cwt.

DRAGON'S-BLOOD.—Steady, 25 cases lump offered at public sale and sold at £5 2s. 6d. and £5 per cwt. for fair, a little dull, and 5 cases Reed retired.

EBONY.—No transactions to report; fine figured wood is still scarce, and would command extreme rates.

GALLS.—Steady, but quiet; 200 boxes China were brought to the hammer, and rather more than one-fourth sold at 49s. 6d. to 50s. per cwt. for fair smooth; 7 cases Japan were retired. Subsequently further offers of 100 cases China were sold at 50s.

GAMBIER.—The market is decidedly firmer, and higher prices have been paid. On the spot by private contract 100 tons block have been sold at 16s. 3d. to 16s. 6d. per cwt.; for arrival, 450 tons at 16s. to 16s. 3d. per cwt. At auction 182 bales block were bought in at 16s. 6d., and 300 mats fine free Cubes realised 21s. 6d. per cwt.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Sumatra 2nds are cheaper, 3rds steady; of 193 cases offered at auction half was sold at £7 7s. 6d. to £8 5s. per cwt. for good middling to fair 2nds, and 70s. to 77s. 6d. for 3rds. Of 3 cases Siam 1 sold at £18 17s. 6d. Manila Copal steady, but very little inquiry apparent, while the stock is large; of 624 cases hard offered only about one-sixth sold—medium and bold partly scraped rather mixed 37s. to 37s. 6d. Damar very quiet; of 344 cases offered a few only sold—good at 63s. 6d. per cwt. Gamboge: Large public sales, amounting to 120 cases, were held, and about half sold at about an average decline of 25s. per cwt., prices realised being for fine clean pipe £14; fine part slightly run and blocky £13 2s. 6d. to £13 12s. 6d.; fair, mixed with a little dark and blocky £11 to £11 2s. 6d.; very run, soft and blocky £9 5s. to £9 10s.

GUTTA-PERCHA.—Market steady, but very quiet for the common kinds. A fair business has been done privately in good genuine on full terms, prices unreported. At auction, of 1,131 packages offered, a fair proportion sold, good genuine 2s. 6½d. to 2s. 7½d.; good re-boiled 1s. 8½d. to 1s. 9½d.; middling 1s. 5d.; white, middling to fair 1s. to 1s. 3d.

HEMP.—The market for Manila is still very firm and prices tend upwards; a large proportion of the offers in public sale have been held for high rates and bought in. At auction on the 21st 1,815 bales Manila were chiefly bought in, roping at £48 10s. up to £53 for Sorsagon; 450 bales sold at and after the sale, sound very fine Boluzan (8 bales), at £54; good, £53; good to fine roping, £50 10s. to £51; brown, £44 5s. to £46 5s.; and damaged at £38 for third class roping up to £52 10s. for first class Sorsagon. Privately some 2,000 bales have been sold at an advance of nearly £1 per ton, viz.:—Fine white Quilot, £65 to £65 10s.; fair to fine roping, £48 to £52; brown to fair, rather mixed, £42 to £47 5s.

HIDES.—At the fortnightly sales held 21st inst. East India Kips were in less active demand than at the previous sale, but good quality being scarce brought previous prices to a slight advance for heavy weights, whilst ordinary and inferior sold without alteration in prices. Buffalo were in moderate demand without alteration in value. 4,633 Singapore and Penang Ox and Cow sold, light and small, 9½d. to 11d.; heavy, 9½d. to 10½d., at 9½d. to 9½d.; extra, 12½ to 15½ lbs., at 8½d. to 9½d.; thirds, 7½ to 8½ lbs., at 6½d. to 7½d.; Calf, 2½ lbs. at 10d. 302 Ceylon sold, extra heavy, 9½ lbs. at 5½d.; fourths, 5½ lbs. at 4½d. Buffalo: of 5,159 Singapore and Penang 2,516 sold, light, 14½ to 15½ lbs., at 6½d. to 6½d.; best heavy, 27½ to 32½ lbs., at 5½d. to 5½d.; seconds, 33½ to 35½ lbs., at 4½d. to 4½d.; thirds, 26½ lbs., at 3½d.

HORNS.—Firm, and rather dearer: 8 tons Siam at public sale brought 42s. 6d. to 45s. per cwt. for Horns averaging 956 to 576 to the ton.

INDIA-RUBBER.—Good kinds are scarce, common neglected; 52 baskets Singapore and 27 baskets Java at auction were retired.

JAPAN WAX.—The market continued very firm, and £5 per cwt. has been paid privately for fine saucers; at auction an offer of 50 boxes was bought in at £5 15s.

ISINGLASS.—The auctions have embraced 118 packages Penang, of which two-thirds sold at 2s. to 3s. 7d. per lb. for ordinary small to fine bright clean pipe; common and wormy 1s. to 1s. 10d.; fair to fine leaf 3s. 3d. to 4s. 1d.; cake 6d. to 1s. 4d.

MUSK.—Market very steady, and 23 caddies sold at auction on strictly previous terms; fair and good even well-shaped selected pods, slightly damp, at 33s. to 33s. 6d.; fair rough, partly bally, a little damp, 18s.; pickings, 23s. 6d. to 24s.; fine grain brought as high as 58s. 6d.; 12 packages Nepal pod retired.

OILS.—Anised: Improved; recently about 20 cases have been sold at 9s. 9d., at which figure there are further sellers. Afloat small parcels are offering at 9s. 6d. Cassia has been in steady request, but not active, and of 50 cases at auction barely half were sold at 4s. 3d., with two or three lots at 4s. 4d.; the rest held for higher rates. Nutmeg: Rather better, but little doing. Cinnamon: Very scarce, and wanted. Citronelle: Steady; fair trade at 1½d. per oz.; 86 cases at auction sold at 1½d. for good, and retail trade since at 1½d. Lemon Grass: Steady; and of 105 cases offered about half sold at 2½d. per oz. for good.

PLUMBAGO.—Market steady: at auction 956 barrels mostly sold—lump, fair to good bright, 22s. 6d. to 26s.; small, 20s.; chips, middling to good, 14s. to 15s. 6d.; dust, middling to very bright, 7s. 6d. to 9s. 6d.

PEPPER.—Black has been uninterruptedly in request at advancing figures; Singapore has sold at auction, middling greyish to fine 6½d. to 6½d., Penang at 6½d. to 6½d.; at these figures the market closes firm. Afloat, about 150 tons have been sold: Singapore about July shipment 6-16d., and September, via Suez Canal at the same figure; Penang, July shipment, 5½d. to 6d.; 389 bags Siam sold at 6½d. White: Great activity has prevailed. Some 1,500 bags Singapore have been sold up to 10½d., with one lot at 11d.

RICE.—The improvement noticed in our last report has become more decided, and prices, except for white descriptions, which remain dull of sale, are fully 6d. above the late lowest point; the public sales include Ballam at 10s. 3d., Madras at 10s. 3d., and middling to good middling white Bengal at 10s. 4½d. to 11s. Privately on the spot the sales comprise white Bengal, middling to good, at 10s. to 11s. 6d., Ballam at 10s. to 10s. 3d., Madras at 9s. 7½d. to 9s. 9d., and Rangoon (damaged) at 9s. 9d. for first class. Three arrived cargoes have been sold for London as follows:—The Ellen Goudy, 1,300 tons Necranie at 9s. 11½d., ex quay. The Waterloo, 1,700 tons Necranie at 10s. 3d. landed. The Southern Queen, 1,050 tons Bassein at 10s. 1½d., ex quay. And two floating cargoes—The Langstone, 1,030 tons Necransie at 10s., Continental terms or ex ship London, and the Maria Rickmers, 850 tons Rangoon, May sailing, at 10s. 3d., for the Continent.

RATTANS.—Steady at last quoted rates.

RHUBARB.—A large quantity of good China brought to auction has tended slightly to reduce prices. Of 323 chests offered, about half sold, fine bold selected bright 4s. 1d. to 4s. 10d.; well trimmed root, small to bold, three-fourths pinky, rest greyish, 2s. 6d. to 2s. 9d.;
rather smaller and paler 2s. to 2s. 3d.; dull coated fair fracture 1s. 8d.; common high dried at 4½d. to 5d.

SAGO.—Market dull, and the turn easier. Of 2,530 bags offered at public sale, a large proportion sold, middling large at 16s. 9d.; middling to good small pearl 14s. 6d. to 15s. 6d., with a few lots at 16s.
Some business has been done privately in large on fair terms. Flour is more enquired for, especially affloat, and 15s. offered for good, but at sale 1,770 bags Singapore were retired.

SAPANWOOD is in improved request, especially the better kinds, which are scarce and difficult of access. 25 tons Manila and 20 tons Siam at auction retired; Ceylon is firm, with much more inquiry; some five parcels are on the market, but extravagant prices are demanded; 37 tons at auction were retired.

SHELLS.—No business done since the periodical sales reported in our last issue.

SOY.—In fair demand, at previously ruling rates.

STAB ANISEEDS have been in request, with small private transactions at £6 7s. 6d.; a new arrival of 26 cases sold at auction at £6 7s. 6d. to £6 10s. per cwt. for good.

STICKLAC.—Market steady, at auction of 530 cases Siam offered, one-third sold; good fair at 72s. 6d.

SPOICES.—Cinnamon: Since the large public sales reported upon in our issue of the 4th inst., a small trade has been transacted at a shade over the sale prices; Chips continue steady, but only a moderate business is doing. Cassia Lignea: Market quiet; little doing; holders few, and asking high figures; floating parcels offering. Vera very quiet, and little done; 61 bales Singapore at auction retired. In Buds shortly subsequent to our last, about 250 cases were sold at £7 per cwt., since which small transactions have been made at a shade higher figure. Nutmegs are again a shade dearer, 100 cases have changed hands privately, and at auction the bulk of 132 cases was placed—67's 3s. 10d.; 70's to 72's 3s. 5d.; 78's 3s. 4d.; 110's to 81's 3s. to 3s. 1½d., &c. It is singular that now there is scarcely any difference between Nuts averaging 85's to 110's to the lb. Mace continues very scarce, and extravagant prices are obtainable; 43 cases at auction mostly old—ordinary to good red 3s. 10d. to 4s. 7d. Cloves:
Penang are chiefly held by one firm; 3 cases at auction brought 1s. 6½d. per lb. for fair bright. Amboyna very dull, and of 72 cases and 4 casks offered, only a few were sold at 6½d. to 6¾d. per lb. for very fair small bright.

TOBACCO, &c.—At auction on 21st inst. 1,247 bales Japan sold at 8d. to 10½d., one lot scraps 5½d., the chief part of 516 bales sea damaged 3½d. to 9½d. scraps 1½d., and 887 bales country damaged 3d. to 9½d., inferior and scraps 1d. to 2½d.; 9 cases Manila Cheroots offered, and bought in at 6s. 9d.

TAPIOCA is very dull, and little done during the fortnight. Auctions have comprehended 2,328 bags Singapore, a very few only sold, fine white at 2½d. to 2¾d.; 1,817 bags Penang, about 600 bags damaged sold at 1½d. to 2d. for first class, being cheap. Pearl steady; of 387 packages, about half sold, good medium 20s. 6d. per cwt. Flour steady; a fair trade done privately at 1½d. per lb. None in auction.
Stock large.

TIN.—On the 20th inst. about 300 tons Straits were offered for sale by tender, and realised from £130 10s. to £131. Business has since been done at £132 10s. and £133, the market closing firm at the latter

TURMERIC.—Nothing doing in China.

VERMILION.—No supply; prices very firm.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

During the week the market has continued inactive, and the tendency of prices has been slightly in favour of buyers. Producers have shown some anxiety to make sales, but the concessions offered have not been sufficient to tempt buyers.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.—SEPT. 6.

—O—

TEA.

Messrs. Beebe's Circular is as follows:—A better demand has prevailed for most descriptions of Tea; old Greens are in request for immediate distribution, at some improvement in prices of medium and cargo grades. Good medium to fine old crop Japans also meet with fair inquiry, but at unchanged prices. Most of the new, ex America (received at this port), have been placed at 65c. to 72c. for medium to good medium, 77c. to 82c. for fine to finest, and 87c. to 95c. for choice to choicest. Buyers find it very difficult to resell at a profit on these figures, and the further large shipments, now near at hand, are therefore not likely to meet a ready market, except at a decline. Holders of Oolong show considerable firmness in view of the high opening rates for the new crop. Prices are, however, without improvement.

The following are the current quotations (in gold, duty 15c. paid);
—Greens (Moyune, Teenki, and Fychow): Gunpowder, first quality, 100c. to 110c.; second, 73c. to 80c.; Imperial, first, 85c. to 90c.;
second, 67c. to 73c.; Young Hyson, first, 87c. to 95c.; second, 70c.
to 78c.; Hyson, first, 70c. to 75c.; second, 55c. to 60c.; Hyson Skin, 28c. to 37c.; Poochow Oolongs, common and good, 39c. to 46c.; superior and fine, 53c. to 70c.; finest, 75c. to 100c.; Amoy Oolongs, common and good, 38c. to 46c.; superior and fine, 50c. to 60c.;
finest, 62c. to 65c.; Souchong and Congou, common and good, 27c. to 38c.; superior and fine, 43c. to 58c.; finest, 60c. to 85c.; Japans (old crop), common, 35c. to 40c.; medium, 43c. to 45c.; good medium,
48c. to 50c.; fine and finest, 55c. to 65c.; choice, 70c. to 75c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to Aug. 18, 1871, were as follows:—Greens, 15,394,784 lbs.; Japans, 10,824,513 lbs.; Souchongs, 2,499,273 lbs.; Oolongs, 11,432,706 lbs.; other sorts, 379,706 lbs.; total, 40,530,982 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 16,748,661 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 57,279,643 lbs. as the total supply. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to Aug. 18, 3,799,131 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 34,763,814 lbs., there remains a total of 18,716,698 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from July 18 to Aug. 18 amounted to 1,997,027 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 3,603,476 lbs.; and the exports to 248,970 lbs.

COFFEE.—The market for Brazil is very strong, in consequence of a reported deficiency in the crop, coupled with low stocks on hand; holders quote a considerable advance in prices, and decline to transact business at any lower range; in fact, the bulk of the stock is entirely withheld from the market. The business in East India during the fortnight has consisted wholly of sales from second hands, the stock in first hands having been exhausted in supplying the recent sudden increase in the demand; prices rule firm at the late advance, and show a tendency towards a further rise, the closing rates being 18½c.
to 19c. for pale Singapore, 20c. to 20½c. for brown do., 22c. for pale Java, 22c. to 22½c. for medium brown, 22½c. to 23c. for brown, and 24c. for extreme brown—all gold.

CORDAGE.—There is a steady demand at the following quotations:—Manila Cordage, sizes above 12-thread, 20½c.; do., 6-thread and 9-thread (¼ in. and 5-16 in. in diam.), 21½c.; do., 12-thread (¾ in. in diam.), 21c.; do. Hay Rope, 21c.; Manila Cordage, Bolt Rope Yarns, 22½c.; do., 6-thread and 9-thread, 23½c.; Tarred Manila, 20c.; Fine Tarred Manila Lath Yarn, 21½c.

CAMPOR.—China is quoted 19c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $2.10; Cassia, 80c. gold (in bond).

FIRE CRACKERS.—Market without alteration.

GUNNY CLOTH.—The demand has been very light, and prices have declined to 15½c. to 16c. for Native, 18c. for Borneo, and 18c. to 18½c. for Domestic.

HEMP.—Manila is firmly held at 13c. to 13½c. gold, but the demand at the moment is light, recent purchases having given manufacturers a fair supply, and most of that arriving comes for their account by purchase or otherwise. We have therefore no transactions to report. The cargo per Annesley, 3,518 bales, was sold previous to arrival.

INDIGO.—Manila is in fair demand at $1 to $1.20.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $8 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is 40c. to $1 currency (duty free).

RICE.—The market for Carolina is firm, owing to the stock being light. Rangoon is in fairly active request at the prices lately current, and we note sales of 4,000 bags at $6.75 to $7 currency, and 1,500 bags in bond at $3.12½ to $3.25 gold.

SUGAR.—An active demand has sprung up both from refiners and the trade, and an advance of one-eighth of a cent has been established on refining and most other grades, the market closing with a buoyant feeling, materially assisted by a corresponding improvement in the refined article. The only sale of East India to record is 3,541 bags Manila ex Annesley (before arrival), at 8½c.

SPICES.—These articles being often largely dealt in on speculation have become particularly sensitive to reports of short supply, damage to crops, &c. Since our last, Cassia, Nutmegs and Pepper have particularly attracted the attention of operators. Cassia has been unusually depressed for a long time past, and prices had fallen below the cost of importation, in the face of light shipments and good prospects for an active Fall trade. But a speculative demand has now taken up all the visible supply, say 5,000 piculs (about 150,000 mats), including 3,000 piculs per Golden Fleece. The price is now advanced to 35 cents gold, duty paid, and 25 in bond. The result of the annual sale of the Netherlands Trading Co., at Amsterdam 30th August, has resulted in considerable parcels of Nutmegs changing hands at very full prices—including 335 cases per President von Ryckervorsal, and re-sales of 392 cases. We quote 97½ to 100 cents for all qualities. Pepper has also gone off freely, though exactly to what extent we are not advised; prices, however, have been advanced to 17½ cents for Singapore, and 16½ for Sumatra. White Pepper has realised 30 cents, an advance of 3 cents. At the close the market has naturally relapsed into a quieter state, but while we have no sales of cargoes or invoices to report, we notice quite an active jobbing trade at advanced figures, viz., Cassia, in mats and cases, 35c.; in bond, 25c.; Mace $1.45 to $1.50; Nutmegs, 97½c. to 100c.; Sumatra and Singapore Pepper, 16½c. to 17c.; in bond, 11½c. to 12½c.; White Pepper, 30c.; Cloves 11c.; in bond, 6c., all gold.

TIN.—The market is very strong, though the transactions have been small; quotations are, Straits, 36½ cents; Banca, 40½ to 41 cents, gold, the latter description being very scarce.

CASUALTIES.

Advices from Cape Town, dated Aug. 10, state that 617 bags coffee and 496 bales tobacco, ex Hendrik Ido Ambacht, Byl, from Batavia to Rotterdam, which vessel put into Simon's Bay, July 31, with damage, were advertised to be sold at Simon's Bay by auction.

Advices from Port Elizabeth, dated July 28, state that 150 bales of tobacco and 500 bags rye meal, part of the cargo of the Thomas Nickerson, from Cronstait to the River Amoor, which vessel was towed into Port Elizabeth derelict, July 17, by the Natal (str.), were sold at auction 26, no tenders having been received for a projected loan on bottomry. The Thomas Nickerson had shipped a fresh crew, and would shortly proceed on her voyage.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The following steamers passed the Suez Canal between 14th and 19th Sept.:—

Hector, Liverpool to Singapore, China, &c.; Odessa, London to Colombo, &c.; Lord of the Isles, London to Singapore, China, &c.; Killarney, Liverpool to Colombo, &c.; Rydal Hall, Liverpool to Colombo; Elgin, China, Singapore, &c.; to London; and the Ajax, China, Singapore, &c., to London.

A screw steamer of 650 tons has been launched from the yard of Messrs. C. M. Palmer and Co. (Limited), on the Tyne, for the King of Burmah. The vessel measures 215 feet long by 26½ feet in breadth and 17 feet in depth. Her engines are 120 horse power nominal, are on the compound surface condensing principle, and are fitted with every appliance to secure high rate of speed with economy of fuel. The design of the hull shows excellent lines, and the internal fittings will be of a character suited to the passenger trade of the eastern climate. The vessel was named the Teeka yeen Byan, and her appearance in the water was much admired.

ART, PICTORIAL AND INDUSTRIAL. In Illustrated Magazine.

THIS Publication was commenced on July 1st, 1870, in the belief that an ample field existed for a high class monthly magazine devoted to Art; and already the result has fulfilled this expectation. 'ART' is produced in a form eminently adapted to the drawing-room table. It is handsomely printed on fine paper, in super-royal quarto, and each Number contains four or more Full-page Helotype Illustrations, being reproductions of Ancient and Modern Pictures, Engravings, Designs, Sculpture, and objects of Industrial or Decorative Art.

Among the contributors to 'ART' are Messrs. BLANCHARD JERROLD, CHARLES BURTON, J. CORDY JEAFFRESON, G. W. REID, HYDE CLARKE, GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA, W. R. RALSTON, JOHN FORBES ROBERTSON, HENRY BLACKBURN, G. W. YAPP, JOHN PIGGOT, JUN., E. OLLIER, &c., &c.

MONTHLY, PRICE HALF-A-CROWN.

PORT OF AMOY.

SHIPOWNERS, AGENTS, and COMMANDERS are informed that the Dock Company's establishments at the above port afford every facility, at moderate charges, for REPAIRING and SPARRING VESSELS, cleaning and painting iron ships and steamers.

Their large Granite Dock has 286 feet length on the blocks, and at average spring tides can receive vessels of 16 to 17 feet draught. It has a caisson-gate and a powerful centrifugal steam pump, and an engineer's workshop fitted with lathes and tools, driven by steam; iron and brass foundries, boiler-makers' shop, a large smithy and carpenters and boat-builders' sheds. All superintended by resident Europeans.

Their two smaller GRANITE DOCKS can receive, at spring tides, vessels drawing 12 feet.

Spars, timber, and other Dockyard material kept in stock.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS
AND OINTMENT give health to the sick at very little cost of cash, time, or trouble. Purifying and renovating properties are the characteristics of these admirable vegetable remedies. The poor sufferer, well nigh worn out by lengthened disease, may still be strengthened and restored by the tonic influence of these remedies. In dyspepsia, loss of appetite, flatulence, and liver complaints, while the Pills are taken, the Ointment should be rubbed over the digestive organs. In heart and chest complaints it should be rubbed on the back and chest as assiduously as salt is rubbed into meat. By steadily persevering with this treatment, the blood is purged of all impurities, and the whole animal system thoroughly regulated.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN. YOKOHAMA.

The present mail brings dates from this port to Aug. 8. The following items are from the Japan Mail :—

A meeting of the Chamber of Commerce has been held to consider the revision of the Treaties which is to take place in 1872. Mr. Van der Tak, having been voted into the chair, said there were many matters to be revised, among others, the revision of the tariff, the regulation of the import and export trades, the Custom House and a foreign Inspectorate of Customs, a system of drawbacks, permission for foreigners to visit the interior, especially the silk and tea producing districts, permission for foreign ships to carry on a coasting trade, the mines and the currency question, &c., &c. He had now to lay before the meeting a resolution proposed by Mr. Geisenheimer, seconded by Mr. Grigor and, after some discussion, carried, viz. :—That the Chamber shall appoint a standing committee, consisting of seven members, whom it shall instruct to consider, embody, and lay before it at some date hereafter to be fixed, but not later than the end of the present year, such views and suggestions as it may appear important or desirable to bring under the notice of the foreign representatives in connection with the revision of the treaties, which is to be made in 1872. This committee to meet at least once a month, and to be further instructed publicly to invite members or non-members of this Chamber to offer in writing any suggestions they may be prompted to make on matters connected with this subject, and to deliberate and report on all such communications. Mr. Mollison proposed, and Mr. Melhuish seconded, that Messrs. Hooper, Geisenheimer, Hurlburt, Russell, Greeven, Wilkin, and Smith should form the committee. Mr. Johnston proposed, and Mr. Robinson seconded, a proposition to elect the committee by ballot. Carried by a majority of eight. The result of the ballot was the election of the same members as suggested by Mr. Mollison, and as there was a possibility of some of the members not being able to serve, the committee were then authorised to complete their number.

Two British subjects have been charged by the Japanese authorities with going beyond the Treaty limits. They were bound over to respect the limit in future.

A circus troupe, which started from Turkey, travelled through Asia and reached Shanghai, has arrived at this port, and will give several performances.

A farewell ball was given to the officers of the 1st-10th Regiment at the Y. U. Club, and although the heat prevented many from testifying to their good wishes to the 10th Regiment by their presence, a large number of the residents presented themselves in the ball-room.

A native woman administered poison to three foreigners living near the swamp, and they being apparently dead, she secured their valuables and decamped. Medical assistance was called in, and the three foreigners were restored, but the girl has not been heard of.

Some Chinese have been sent to Kioto, to instruct the tea-firers there in the art of firing tea for the European market, and to show them how to build tea-firing furnaces. The new method began on the 28th June, and a large number of girls and boys are daily employed in the business. Three departments in the south of Yamashiro province are devoting themselves to this manufacture.

Twenty-seven young Japanese left by the last American steamer for the purpose of visiting and studying in Europe and America.

LATER ADVICES VIA SAN FRANCISCO.

The Pacific mail steamer China arrived at San Francisco on the 12th ult., with dates from Yokohama to the 22nd August. The following is the summary of the news brought by the steamer as telegraphed to the New York journals:—

Minister Low, United States Envoy to China, is in this city. The object of his visit is unknown, but it is supposed it has some reference to the Korean complications. The course pursued by the United States towards Korea is generally condemned here by foreigners, and Americans themselves concede the attack upon the forts to be a most disastrous affair, commenced without duly weighing the consequences or considering either the peculiarities of Korean character or whether the objects of the expedition could not be better attained by other methods. Minister Low is particularly reticent on the subject, and doubtless feels that his mission has proved a failure.

Commissioners of China and Japan are preparing a "treaty between these two countries. All the foreign Ministers except the American have been called home to consult with their Governments concerning the treaties concluded with China and Japan by European and American nations.

Minister Delong recently compelled the British Charge d'Affairs at Yokohama to apologise for insulting remarks concerning Americans in general and himself in particular. He also compelled the English editor of the Japan Mail to publish an abject apology for publishing the scurrilous document purporting to have been issued from the American Consulate.

The ratifications of the treaty between Japan and Hawaii, negotiated through Mr. Delong, the American Minister, have been exchanged.

The flagship Colorado arrived here on the 20th inst. She is [to go into dock for repairs, which are greatly needed.

An American having been imprisoned without cause, the Japanese authorities, on the demand of Consul Sheppard, released him, made an apology, and dismissed the officer who made the arrest.

Great changes are making in the government of Japan. Satsuma is getting the upper hand slowly.

Teas are active, with a downward tendency. Silk and silk-worms' eggs are in great demand.

Exchange on England, four months, 4s. 5½d.

CHINA.

—O— SHANGHAI.

Dates from this port reach to the 12th August; no mail had been received since that of the 16th June, but the P. and O. steamer with that of 30th June was expected on the day the mail left. The following summary of the intelligence is from the North China Herald:—

At last the dry weather has been broken. The strong southerly monsoon which has been blowing for the last fortnight increased to a heavy gale and frequent showers have since fallen. Rain was very badly wanted in the country, and energetic prayers have been offered up for it; in the neighbourhood of Loonghwa, processions two miles long had been perambulating the country daily. In the Chekeang province the water in the canals was becoming salt, which threatens the rice crop.

There has been a terrible frequency of accidents to life on the river lately, which we cannot help thinking is largely due to the carelessness of those who are most upon it, and in whom a familiarity with its dangers leads to the inevitable contempt. It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that the loss of European life in the Wongpoo has this summer been greater than by all the other risks of residence put together.

The Municipal Council report progress in the erection of an iron bridge over the Hongkew Creek; a temporary bridge has been thrown across it in the meantime. We wish they would put up another at the Soochow creek; Tls. 200 or Tls. 300 would be well spent in breaking through the bugbear of that monopoly. There have been only twenty-three burials during the half-year, and three of these were deaths by drowning. The Szechuen and Hoopoh road sewers have been completed. Inquiry has been made at home in regard to water works. Extensions have been effected in the Ningpo, Canton, Hong Kong, and Taiwan roads.

At a meeting of subscribers to the Shanghai Library the report and accounts were passed, the latter showing a balance due to the treasurer for the period to the close of 1870 of Tls. 2506, to which must be added liabilities amounting to Tls. 48451, in all Tls. 50957, against a sum of Tls. 1500 on fixed deposit with the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Company. The position of the library is slightly worse than at the end of 1868, when the accounts were last made up.

The Lao-ke-chong nuisance has been brought up before the Mixed Court, and it was decided, as a temporary measure at least, that the houses should be required to close at midnight.

From Tientsin we hear that Mr. Wade, immediately after receiving a telegram of his appointment as British Minister at Peking, went down to Tientsin, and departed, per H.M.S. Leven to join Mrs. Wade at Chefoo.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company announce the following rates of passage in future between Shanghai and Japan:—To Nagasaki $30, return $55; to Hioigo $55, return $100; to Yokohama $80, return $140.

We understand that the Chinese contemplate erecting a powder manufactory on the French road to Sikaway, near Overweg's bungalow. They are pressing the villagers to sell about thirty mow of rice-land directly opposite the bungalow, at the rate of $35 a mow. But the owners are very loth to do so, both because the price is inadequate and because they fear the factory. On the latter score at least they have good reason; and we think the Foreign Consuls should echo their remonstrance.

The Trustees of the North-China Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society have at length taken possession of the site for their house, and commenced their building operations. The building as now contracted for will face the upper Yuen-Ming-Yuen Road, and is situated close to the Peking Road. It has been designed by Mr. Kingsmill.

It is reported that Mr. Wade has lately discovered a new merit in a certain member of the Legation Staff—that he is almost better acquainted with Court etiquette than the mandarins themselves! We are tempted to quote Wingrove Cooke's idea on this subject. The Tartar General of Canton is taken prisoner and brought in. "Knowing himself to be personally safe, he swells and tries to look majestic. He believes he has to do with men more superstitiously obsequious to Chinese rank than the coolies of Canton, so he tries to awe them by his presence. Perhaps he is right. There is too much of this nonsense. The interpreters catch the mania of mandarin worship from their teachers and their Chinese books; and our leaders—predisposed by the truly English deference for high sounding titles—catch the infectious folly from the interpreters." So Wingrove Cooke's estimate of a man who studied Chinese etiquette was rather in the inverse ratio to Mr. Wade's: and the public incline to agree with Wingrove Cooke. If we are civilised people, our own forms and ceremonies should be enough for us, and good enough for the Chinese in our intercourse with them.

A mail robbery has occurred on board the Kiangse, during her trip up from Ningpo. It appears the Chinese mail is carried in charge of a native agent, in a box which is deposited in the opium room. A Chinese passenger managed, by thrusting his hand between some wooden bars, to reach the box and wrench it open, the lock being only a common Chinese one. The thief and an accomplice then abstracted a number of letters before they were discovered, one containing a Chinese bank order for over Tls. 1,000, and another being a parcel of $60. All the letters except these two were recovered, and the thieves handed over to the police on arrival here. They have been identified as frequent passengers by the Ningpo steamer.

The Emperor of China has conferred a title and decoration on Sir Jung Bahadur, Prime Minister of Nepaul, for his services to the British during the Mutiny in India. China, it will be remembered, claims suzerainty over Nepaul. Sir Jung, however, seems hardly to be sufficiently grateful for the honour, as it is said he has availed himself of the return to Lassa of the Chinese Ambassador to intimate to the Thibetan authorities that he is aware of military preparations still going on in Thibet, and to demand an explanation of their object, "unless they wish it to be understood that they are directed against Nepaul, in which case the Durbar would know how to act."

The death is reported of Mr. Woolfe, a tidewaiter in the Customs service, who fell overboard from the yacht Fairy, and was drowned.

AMOY.

AMOY, Aug. 10.

You will, of course, ere this have heard of the commotions in Canton, arising from the report that foreigners had been engaged in distributing poisonous pills for the destruction of the Chinese. You will not be surprised to hear that these rumours are ascending up the coast with the most astounding rapidity. The very steamer that brought the news from the south seemed to have brought also Chinese who at once affirmed the report, with, of course, many a gross exaggeration. The people were at once excited. The foreigners had in their employ, so rumour stated, a number of reckless characters, who, under the plea of benevolence, were distributing medicines that were to bring on diseases that none but the foreigner could cure. All who took them would therefore be brought under the control of the foreigner, and the upshot would be they would have to become Christians. Two of the mandarins put out proclamations warning the people from taking the pills, and notifying to all that had already swallowed them to repair to their official residence, as they were provided with antidotes that would be given away gratis. The strangest fact about all this is that there actually are pills being distributed, but by whom none can tell; I have seen them myself, and therefore can vouch for the fact. The panic is spreading away into the country. In Chang-chow, thirty-five miles from here westward, the whole place is inundated with placards accusing the foreigner of the vilest intentions. In Chin-chew, fifty miles northward, a fearful epidemic in the way of placards is at this moment raging. There the accusations are stronger and viler than have yet been met with in any other locality; and so the rumours will spread till they have gone over the whole Empire. The signs of the times here are very ominous. The mandarins are taxing the people to an almost unendurable extent. Trade is long ago paralysed, great numbers can hardly live so thoroughly impoverished as they. They would hail a row with the greatest delight, as they might have a chance of being relieved by the result. If the foreigner can be made the means of this so much the better. It requires no special prophetic powers to assert that unless vigorous precautions are taken some great tragedy will before long be enacted in China, to arouse the rulers of the West from their fatal confidence in the sincerity of the Chinese Government. I perceive that the "French Circular" is being favourably received at home, because it is supposed to be aiming solely at the Roman Catholics. This is a grand mistake. If that Circular is agreed to, it will before very long very effectually restrict all missionary work in the Treaty Ports. The present excitement about the pills has shown that the people have no more special love for the Protestant than the Catholic missionaries. Notwithstanding the plausibility of the Circular it is a thoroughly dangerous and dishonest one. People at home fancy that when the Chinese Government say a thing they mean it. They have yet to learn that truth is a thing practically ignored throughout the length and breadth of this Empire. Lying is looked upon rather in the light of an accomplishment, and he who succeeds in best deceiving his fellow is considered the greatest genius. Looked at from this light, how can the Circular be considered otherwise than a most insidious attempt to prepare the way for the final ejection of every foreigner from the country?

HONG KONG.

We have advices from this port to the 17th August; no outward mail had been received since that of 30th June; but the French mail of 7th July was due on the day the mail left. The following items of news are from the China Mail :—

At Swatow it would appear that a sort of political purifying process is going on. A military commissioner is just now travelling through district after district of the Chao-chao-foo department, armed with full powers to apprehend, try and execute stray robbers, thieves and other disturbers of the peace. The Imperial tax collectors are also busy—too much so, in fact, for the tastes of the people; and all the district magistrates are raking up all arrears of litigation, to obtain money for the Imperial exchequer, and a little for themselves. It is confidently stated that the population is getting more and more dissatisfied with their heavy and ever-increasing burden of taxation.

At Amoy the receipt of Chinese broadsides or leaflets from Canton had partially informed the natives there of the official proclamations in Kwantung and Kwangsi concerning the chimera called the Shan-sin-fan. Promptly enough, it would seem, appeared a proclamation issued by the Hai-fung, warning the people against "idle and mischievous rumours spread against foreigners," and exhorting the people to keep quiet, &c. Our advices from the coast tend to strengthen the impression that the excitement recently raised by the mythical "powder of the genii" meant something else than a mere set against foreigners. It is said that, in Amoy, no ill-feeling whatever exists against foreigners or native Christians, but that there is a wide-spread and decided animosity against the native Government on account of heavy taxation. The people grumble that they have to pay heavily for the Governor-General's ship-building whims, while at the same time they are freely drawn upon for the benefit of the Imperial exchequer. In the coast ports there appears to reign a profound calm, which would even justify the notoriously pacific telegrams forwarded by Mr. Thomas Francis Wade from Peking.

We hear that there is great excitement in Tungoon, and with the object of overawing the people the Viceroy at Canton has despatched 2,000 soldiers to that place. The advent of the braves is said to be connected with the punishment of the rioters who have recently pulled down the chapel there at the outbreak of the Shan-Sin-Fan excitement. Knowing the turbulent character of the Tungkoonites, and the resistance with which any requisition to demand the surrender of the ringleaders in the riot for punishment would be met, his Excellency has deemed it necessary to send a large force to inspire the people with fear, while the commander thinks demonstrative measures are calculated to lead to an immediate outbreak. Therefore, in order to give full moral effect to the presence of a large army, and at the same time to avoid rousing the turbulent blood of the Tungkoonites, he judiciously, on the arrival of the army, prohibited them from landing, and proceeded himself without delay to the residence of the district magistrate, with whom he had a consultation. After his departure the latter immediately summoned the elders to a meeting in the Town Council-hall. The elders had been all under the impression that the object of the summons by the mandarin was to call upon them to deliver up the rioters, but to their surprise the magistrate only told them to return home to collect the volunteers that were under them, and be prepared to come out with them at an emergency. By this stratagem the number of the disaffected would be reduced, and the rising of the rest could be repelled with the forces at hand and the co-operation of the volunteers.

The "Shan-sin-fan" excitement has brought ruin to many petty hawkers, especially in Tungkoon, where the people are more superstitious, in addition to their other bad qualities. There had been a cessation of business there, the shops dealing in edibles were all closed, and hawkers of confectionery and sweet-meats were pelted and driven away from the villages. The identification of the foreigners with the pills has brought about the cancellation of some contracts for the supply of foreign rice or American flour. That the Tungkoon people are the most superstitious and most unruly of all the people in the Province is beyond question, and the mandarins are ever afraid to resort to extreme measures with them. In spite of the proclamations calling on them not to exact summary justice from those who are suspected of administering the alleged poisonous powder, they still carry on a kind of lynch law on all those who are suspected, by means of drowning or beating to death. When a person is once suspected, there is very little chance for him. While on the subject of the Shan-sin-fan, we may mention that advices from Amoy state that the excitement there has worn off considerably, and there has been no riot in connection therewith, although experienced men appear to have made up their minds to serious disturbances before long—on, we presume, anti-mandarin grounds.

We are indebted to Captain Low, of the N. B. Palmer, lately arrived from New York, for some information relating to the trade winds of the season, of much interest to navigators between China and the Atlantic ports. The South-East trades, so long looked upon as important aids to ocean-voyaging vessels, have this year totally failed to maintain their accustomed character. After leaving the line on the Atlantic side in June last, Captain Low experienced a succession of winds from East to North in the latitudes hitherto looked upon as the natural locality of a prevailing south easterly wind. On this side of the Cape the absence of the regular trade wind was still more striking. After turning North for Anjer, in about 18 deg. S., the first wind experienced was from E.N.E., drawing round to North, whence for two or three days it blew a perfect gale. A westerly wind then replaced that expected from the eastward, so that from 18 deg. to 4 deg. S. no vestige of the heretofore regular "trade wind" was experienced. It may be mentioned that the past four months have been unusually prolific in lunar phenomena of a nature held by navigators, whatever scientists may say to the contrary, to materially affect the weather. Thus the moon has been twice in perigee, and upon the latter occasion—the 29th ult.—it was immediately followed by a full moon. Captain Low expressed his conviction on the voyage that very heavy weather would be experienced, on or about that date, in the China sea, and singularly enough the Loudoun Castle was lost on the date specified during heavy weather such as that predicted.

A few hours before the departure of the P. M. S. S. Co.'s China, for San Francisco, a large number of Chinamen who had been booked and received on board as "free passengers," took "French leave" under circumstances which have been detailed to us as follows. It appears that an anonymous letter was found sticking to the door of an influential Chinese merchant, which, on being opened, was found to contain an appeal purporting to have come from certain passengers alleged to have been kidnapped and detained on board the American mail steamer against their will, and praying for rescue from their sealed doom. In this letter the name of a coolie-broker, together with his address, was given. The Chinese merchant in question took the mysterious letter to the Registrar-General, and asked his advice as to the best mode to be adopted under the circumstances. While they were discussing the matter, and while a policeman was on his way to bring the coolie-broker to the Registrar-General for the purpose of inquiry, the broker came rushing to the policemen, saying that some forty or fifty men were plundering and ransacking his house in Wing On street. It seems that an American gentleman has arrived from Louisiana with the object of introducing Chinese labour into that State, and for that purpose he has engaged a Chinese coolie-broker to get him a supply of coolies, offering him a commission of $5 for each coolie he procures, besides paying the travelling expenses of the coolie, and of the sub-agent who goes into the interior to get his supply of human cargo. The cost of importing coolies into Hong Kong, including the commission of $5, is on an average about $10 a head. Apart from this expenditure they are fed and quartered in the colony until the departure of any vessel conveying them away. It seems that some 270 of these coolies have been collected from time to time, and they were brought before the emigration officer, before whom they expressed their free will to emigrate to America, and accordingly they were conveyed on board and passages taken for them by the American gentleman. Before embarkation, however, the coolies were promised that they should have an advance of wages at eight o'clock next morning. When that hour arrived no advance was forthcoming; they were then told that they would be paid at ten o'clock, or so soon as the banks were open. The men becoming, however, impatient and dissatisfied, believed that they had been duped, and that there was no intention of paying them the advance, but that the story of the banks not opening was merely an excuse. Some forty or fifty of them, therefore, left the steamer and proceeded to the coolie broker's shop, and made a disturbance, charging the man with being a kidnapper, and finally tearing down and smashing everything in the shop. The remainder of the 270 men followed the example of the others and left the vessel. The loss entailed on the broker by the sudden flight of his game was stated at $600 or $700, and it was rumoured that two of the coolies had met with a watery grave by jumping overboard.

The half-yearly meeting of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation was held on the 14th August, the Hon. R. Rowett in the chair. The report states that the net profits, including $22,554 33 brought forward from last account, after paying all charges and deducting interest paid and due, and making full provision for all bad and doubtful debts, amount to $388,401.39, of which after deducting rebate on bills not yet due and remuneration to directors, there remains for appropriation $371,331.04. From this sum the directors recommended the distribution of a dividend of $7.50 per share on the paid up shares, and of $4.50 per share on the new shares, being equivalent to six per cent. for the half year; this will absorb $240,000, and of the balance, the directors propose carrying $100,000 to the reserve fund (thus raising it to $900,000) and $31,331 to the credit of new profit and loss account. The report was unanimously adopted, and Messrs. W. Lemann and G. F. Weller appointed directors, in the place of Messrs. H. B. Lemann and G. F. Heard, who have left the Colony.

The ordinary half-yearly meeting of the Hong-Kong and Whampoa Dock Company took place on the 15th August, Hon. W. Keswick in the chair. The report and accounts were passed and are upon the whole satisfactory. $46,461 have been written off for depreciation on value of property, but notwithstanding this and the competition existing in other directions, the accounts show a net profit for the half-year of $50,298. A dividend for the half-year of 2½ per cent. was declared, and $18,347 written off for depreciation in the Kowloon Dock, marine engines, &c.

This month has been most distinctly a very rainy month, to judge from the half that has already passed. Already, during fifteen days no less than 18.91 inches have fallen, or 1.26 per day; and if we add this to the 52.05 inches which fell during the previous seven months, we have a total for the seven months and a-half of 70.96 inches. So far as we have gone, the season 1871 seems likely to prove itself one of the wettest for many a year. It may be interesting to know that in 1870 the total amount of rain that fell was 56.07 inches, while in 1869 the total was a little more than last year, viz., 63.71 inches. News has arrived to the effect that the floods at Tientsin have been unusually serious, that the crops have been destroyed, and that the loss of life has been very great.

In the Supreme Court Chief Justice Smale has delivered judgment in the case of the collision between the steamship Volga and the ship Lanercost. His Lordship said: The replies of the assessors to the questions put to them are very clear. I have in this case relied very much on the assessors, and seeing no reason whatever to differ from their decision, I adopt it as the decision of this Court. In these circumstances I think the decree of this Court must be that each party pay its own costs, and that they pay the fees to the assessors in equal moieties. Refer it to the Registrar and merchants to assess the damage incurred by the Lanercost by reason of the collision, and let the owners of the Volga pay one-half thereof to the owners of the Lanercost.

JAVA.

BATAVIA.

The following items of intelligence are from the New Batavia Handelsblad :—

The chief of the office here of the British Indian and Australian Company has left for Banyuwangie to take measures for the laying of the cable to Australia, looked for about the middle of November next. The materials for the Batavia-Parapattan Railroad, the first section of the line to Buitenzorg, has arrived here, and the finishing touches to this section are being vigorously given, so that it might be speedily put in working order. We daily hear the locomotives whistling and hissing. The Easterly monsoon has been very favourable for the sugar manufacturers, the weather having been very dry for some time, and cooling showers very seldom falling. The Dutch Government have appointed commissions for the three chief towns of Java (Batavia, Samarang and Sourabaya), to make enquiries what can be done to improve their sanitary condition. Pirates have shown themselves in the waters near Banka; in various places all the means disposable have been made use of to lay hold of them.

In the latest official report on the Western division of Borneo (for May) it is stated that the resident on receiving information from Sintang that a certain Ngoembang had brought together Dyaks to make a great raid into Sarawak territory, left with the military commander of the district for Pulu Madjang to examine the district where, as rumour would have it, Ngoembang was. The danger of a raid on a large scale has been thereby in all probability averted. Vigorous efforts are now making to get hold of Ngoembang, who keeps in concealment; this is perhaps the only means of preventing the design of the expedition planned by him from being carried out by smaller raiding parties.

The latest news from Banda confirms the report concerning a bad crop. It seems that the plantations have suffered much from continuous rains and violent hurricanes, so that the outturn of the new crop may be estimated at little more than the half of that of the former year.

The Java Bode states that some Chinese traders intend to form a society in which they can discuss their commercial affairs and business transactions, so as to produce more confidence in them amongst the European merchants.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates extend to the 20th August; the outward mail of July 21st was received on the 19th August. The following items are from the Straits Times, which appears in very improved form, and apparently printed from a new font of type :—

The Legislative Council met on the 14th and 16th inst., but the meetings were mainly occupied in discussing the Indian Penal Code, which is again being adapted to this colony. The Colonial Secretary is at present at Malacca, engaged with other officials in making inquiry into the system of land tenure there. Considerable difficulty has been experienced by the Government in dealing with the Crown lands in Malacca, owing to a custom which has prevailed there for centuries; this is, that the settler clears the land, and so long as he cultivates it, pays one-tenth of the produce to the Government. The difficulty of collecting the tenths made the local Government seek to compel the settlers to take out leases for their lands, but this they would not do, and the penalty of distraint inflicted by the Government having been declared illegal by the Supreme Court, it has become necessary to adopt some other course to secure the Government against the loss of its legitimate revenue; hence the appointment of this committee.

It is satisfactory to learn that the lighthouse on the North Sands in Malacca Straits is at last not only decided upon, but that a contract for its erection has been already entered into. Probably our home readers were aware of this before it was known here, the contract having been made in England through the Colonial-office. This lighthouse will be of great importance to the navigation of the Straits, and is more urgently needed now that the greater part of the carrying traffic is done by steamers, and the inefficiency of the present lightships, which was bad enough for sailing ships, has become a serious subject of complaint. The propriety of erecting a lighthouse on Acheen Head, or one of the islands close to, is being frequently urged upon the Netherlands Indian Government, and it is probable that our Dutch friends will establish one there at no very distant date. This, with the North Sands lighthouse, will make the lighting of the Straits complete.

Very heavy weather has prevailed in the China Sea during this month. On the 9th inst. a typhoon swept along the Formosa Channel, and a number of disasters are reported. By the China papers we learn of the loss of the Loudoun Castle, from Foochow for Manila, in ballast; and a telegram has been received announcing the loss of the Westward Ho, of this port, from Shanghai for Formosa, and the drowning of the master; the same telegram says that the Othello had also been lost; the Anna (we presume the North German barque of that name) was ashore in a dangerous position, and that the Lucknow had sustained serious damage. Probably when full particulars arrive the list of disasters will be much longer. In addition to these a telegram has been received here of the loss on the Burmah coast of the barque Kim Eng Seng, Captain Jackson, from Mauritius for Rangoon, to load for Singapore.

At the meeting of the Tanjong Pagar Dock Company the report was unanimously carried, and a dividend declared at the rate of nine per cent. per annum on preference shares, and of five per cent. per annum on ordinary shares. After some discussion on the relative advantages of raising money for the wharf extension and improvements by the issue of debentures, or, as decided on at last ordinary general meeting, by preference shares, it was proposed by H. Buchanan, Esq., seconded by S. Short, Esq.: That the Directors be requested to discontinue the issue of preference shares, and that any money absolutely requisite be raised by a further issue of debentures on the best terms possible. Carried.

The chairman then read a proposal from the principal preference shareholders, dated May 12, intending to do away with the restrictions to the payment of more than five per cent. per annum to original shareholders as contained in clause 3 of the preference share certificate, on condition that nine per cent. instead of seven per cent. as at present should be paid to the preference shareholders before any dividend be paid on the original shares. After some discussion, it was proposed by the Hon. J. J. Greenshields, and seconded by Joaquim d'Almeida, Esq.: "That the proposal to guarantee the preference shareholders nine per cent., under the conditions contained in the document dated May 12, be adopted." To this an amendment was put by Septimus Short, Esq., seconded by W. Mulholland, Esq.: "That the question of guaranteeing the preference shareholders nine per cent. be postponed for at least twelve months, when the matter can be again brought forward." The amendment was carried. After an explanation of the nature of the services afforded the company by Messrs. Mactaggart, Tidman and Co., their London agents, it was proposed by Jasper Young, Esq., seconded by the Hon. W. Adamson, and carried unanimously :—"That the sum of two thousand five hundred dollars be voted to Messrs. Mactaggart, Tidman and Co., the London agents of the company, payable in three half-yearly instalments, to remunerate them for their unwearied zeal in the interests of the company since its foundation, and for which they have received no adequate compensation."

CEYLON.

COLOMBO, Sept. 2, 1871.

The Currency Question of the Colombo Docks or Harbour and the Paumbem Passage at present divide public attention. The alteration of our monetary system, from pounds, shillings, and pence, to rupees and cents has been decreed to take place on January 1 next; after which date any other currency will be illegal. The opposition to this change comes chiefly from the merchants, who fear or fancy all sorts of complications and difficulties will arise in their computations, and it is said they have asked the banks to continue keeping their accounts in pounds, shillings, and pence. Whether the change was necessary or not opposition is idle now, and the merchants would do well to assist and facilitate rather than impede the introduction of a system which has been decided upon and must be carried out—a system which is simplicity itself, and which once fairly introduced will be easier and more satisfactory in calculation than either the pounds, shillings, and pence of England, the rupees, annas, and pies of India, the Spanish or Mexican dollar, the Dutch rix dollar, or any other non-decimal currency—a system, too, which the great Empire of India is now about to adopt, and to which all the countries of Europe which have not already introduced it are tending. Not only will the decimal system soon be general in monetary matters, but it must soon become applicable to weights and measures. And when that becomes law among all civilised countries, how simple will be all transactions, commercial and otherwise, of nations and peoples with each other. As regards Ceylon, all this opposition is sheer moonshine, for the system is to be changed only in name. A rupee will still be value for two shillings in all engagements previously made by the Government with their servants or with others, while after the 1st January, 1872, rupees and cents will be the only legal tenders.

The Marine Engineer, Mr. Townshend, has been round the island, with the Governor, in the new colonial steamer Serindib. He has inspected the Paumbem Passage, and we learn has expressed himself favourably as to the feasibility of making a channel for ships of all size making the voyage to India. The docks for Colombo are now engaging his attention, and should he arrive at a favourable opinion as to these also the next point he will have to decide will be the cost of both works, and if this be found to be within our compass, the island will have made a gain instead of a loss by Mr. Robertson having given it the go-bye. Accounts of Mr. Townshend's antecedents point to him as the right man in the right place—a man who has not only great engineering ability, but great experience in such works as he has come here to inspect, and whose report may be considered entirely reliable. The Harbour question he has not yet entered upon the consideration of. Nor will he be likely to do so till he has fully considered the scheme of Docks. Gas supply for Colombo is now soon to be a fact, and that capital will be all a-blaze with gas by the middle of September. Water for Colombo, Candy, and Galle is a question now agitating the Municipal Councils of these three principal stations; and the probability is that each will soon be in possession of a full supply of that inestimable treasure, pure water.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

HANKOW.—A moderate business had been done in manufactured goods since last English mail; Shirts were dull and lower, but other cottons had improved in value, and all woollens had advanced considerably. Grey Shirtings: A dull dragging market throughout the fortnight, and prices had declined about 5 candareens per piece. Quotations: Tls. 1.70 to 1.75 for 7 lbs., Tls. 1.87 to 1.95 for 8½ lbs., and Tls. 2.44 to 2.60 for 9½ lbs., with little inquiry. White Shirtings: Quotations nominal. T-Cloths: Fine goods of all weights in fair demand, and rather firmer; ordinary makes, unchanged, common wanted. Drills: Few in hand, and with a healthy country demand, prices had advanced fully a mace per piece, closing strong at Tls. 3.20 to 3.25 for English, and Tls. 3.10 to 3.20 for Dutch goods. Jeans: Demand temporarily subsided. Fancy and Dyed Cottons: little done at last quotations, importers being inclined to ask higher rates. Woollens and Worseds: Camlets; quotations a tael per piece higher, but natives hardly realised such a rapid advance, and they were not going into consumption at these rates; Lastings, common about 5 mace higher; Long Ells, owing to speculative demand in Shanghai, quotations had advanced, and holders were firm, except for Scarlet; prices were purely nominal; Spanish Stripes saleable at 56 to 61 cents per yard. Orleans and Lustres: Figures sold up to Tls. 4.20 per piece, being an advance of about half a tael. Prices weak at the close. Sales of Crapes reported at Tls. 3.90 to 4.00, but lower offers made. Metals: Lead advanced about 4 mace per picul, caused by speculative demand. Quicksilver: Steady at Tls. 67.00 per picul.

SHANGHAI.—Great quietness had prevailed in the market. The news from the North had been of a very discouraging nature, while that from the River Ports, although reporting a fair business, had advised drooping prices for some of the principal staples. Grey Shirtings: Re-sales by speculators still formed the chief portion of the business, and under the pressure to sell, a concession to buyers of 3 to 4 cand. per piece had been established. As the market closed dealers evinced more disposition to purchase common to good ordinary chops at from Tls. 1.84 to 1.87 per piece for 8½ lbs. makes, and Tls. 1.67 to 1.70 per piece for 7 lbs. The finest qualities were in less favour, and no interest whatever had lately been taken in the heavy cloths. White Shirtings: Transactions had been of a retail character, at a slight decline. T-Cloths: Very little had been done, and quotations, which, however, were purely nominal, showed a drop of fully 3 candareens per piece. A resale of best chop dollar 7 lbs. had established the rate for that cloth at Tls. 1.66; common 7 lbs. had been asked for, but the rates offered, viz. Tls. 1.37 to 1.44 per piece, had led to few settlements. Drills had been in fair inquiry, but at lower figures; sales of good English 15 lbs. at Tls. 3.17½, but it was doubtful whether Tls. 3.15 could be got at the close; sea damaged American sold by public auction, and found ready buyers at Tls. 3.19 to 3.23. Jeans: Demand subsided, and best English quoted Tls. 2.40 per piece; finest Dutch placed at Tls. 2.50 per piece; American light in stock and without change. Sheetings: In good request, and small lots placed at former prices. Fancy Cottons: Only a limited trade had been done; Gentian Shirtings, Tls. 2.40 to 2.55; Velvets and Velvetens had found buyers to small extent at rather better rates; Dyed Brocades in more demand at former quotations. Woollens: The business had been small; Long Ells saleable at about last quotations, but some resales reported at figures indicating a slightly weaker tone; Figured Orleans firm, but difficult of sale; Spanish Stripes and Fine Cloths could be bought at lower prices. Lastings of good assortment saleable at last quotations; Crapes Lustres: Difficulty is experienced in getting clearance of former settlements, a sure sign that the large business reported a short time ago was the result of speculative demand; Crapes Lastings had changed hands at about Tls. 6.50 per piece. Metals: Iron Nail Rod taken at Tls. 2.05 for large sizes, and Tls. 2.25 to 2.40 for fair to good assortments; market firmer for desirable parcels, as will be seen from our quotations; Lead firmly held for higher rates; holders asked Tls. 4.60 to 4.70; a few sales of L B at Tls. 4.59.

HONG KONG.—Cotton Yarn: The demand had been very slack, dealers being in no hurry to buy, while advices from England indicated a tendency towards lower rather than higher prices. Nos. 16/24's quoted firm at $108 to 123 for common to best qualities, which continued in small available supply, so that settlements had been chiefly "to arrive." Nos. 28/32 without change either in demand or prices, and were quoted at $115 to 125 per bale for ordinary to best; very few sales had taken place. Nos. 38/42 equally neglected, at $125 to 130 per bale. Grey Shirtings: Reduction in price of 5 cents quoted a fortnight since had been fairly established, but no further decline had occurred. Towards the close a fair quantity had found buyers at $2.15 to 2.20 for 7 lb., and $2.42½ to 2.50 for 8½ lb. White Shirtings almost entirely out of demand, prices unchanged. T-Cloths: Ordinary qualities again in request, particularly 6 lbs., which were readily saleable at $1.55 to 1.60; stock of these very limited at present. 7 lbs. taken up to $1.85 per piece, but less readily. Mexicans out of favour, and quotations quite nominal at $1.70 to 1.80 for 6 lbs., and $2.00 to 2.15 for 7 lbs. 8 lbs. 36 inch goods also neglected. Grey Twills less active, sales very trifling at previous quotations. Dyed and Fancy Cottons: No particular change. Chintzes, Turkey Red Cambrics, and Velvets found buyers to a small extent. Damasks, Brocades, and Spots neglected. Medium Cloths of continental make taken in small quantities at previous rates. Spanish Stripes quieter, recent advance in value maintained. Long Ells firm at the advance quoted for last mail. Camlets very quiet, quotations nominal. Lastings unchanged, sales on a very moderate scale. Metals: Nail Rod Iron Nos. 1/6 sold at prices varying from $2.27½ to 2.43 per picul, according to quality and assortment. Round, Square, and Flat Bars placed at $2.40 in fair quantities. Hoop neglected. Tin-Plates: Moderate inquiry at $5.70. Quicksilver: Considerable sales at $85½ to 86 per picul. Yellow Metal Sheathing firmer at $20 to 20½ per picul for Muntz quality. Lead is quoted a shade better, L B. worth $5.55 to 5.60 per picul.

SINGAPORE.—We take the following from Messrs. Boustead's Circular:—Manchester Goods: Shortly after departure of last mail there was a fair enquiry for some of our principal staples, which was met by importers at about last rates, but the demand having been supplied, the market is again very dull; 30-inch Grey Shirtings placed to a fair extent at $2.42½, but now dull and lower offers made; 7 lbs. quiet at $2.07½ to 2.10; 6 lbs. dull at $1.75 to 1.77½; 45-inch Grey Shirtings: A moderate demand for 9 lbs. at $2.82½; 8 lbs. very dull and nominal at $2.35 to 2.37½; other weights without any enquiry; 36-inch White Shirtings without change in prices, demand confined to fine qualities of favourite makes; medium and low very dull; 45-inch White Shirtings without improvement, quotations nominal at $3.45 for 64-reed; 36-inch White Spots: Limited enquiry for 14 to 15 at $2.42½ to 2.45; 45-inch White Cambrics: Good demand for 15/16s price advanced to $28, with very few in first hands; medium and low unsaleable except at low prices; White Madapollams: Without inquiry, and nominal at $19 for 14 x 10. 32-inch Grey T-Cloths: 6 lb. out of stock, and in request at $1.62½; 7 lb. in demand at $1.80, 5 lb. in limited inquiry at $1.80; light weights dull—4 lb., $1 to 1.02½; 4½ lb., $1.10 to 1.12½. 32-inch Grey Madapollams: 2½ lb. in demand at $17, very few in stock; 3 lb. dull, small transactions at $18. 32-inch Turkey Red Cambrics: No demand, quotations unchanged and nominal; 2½ lb., $2 to 2.02½; 3 lb., $2.25. Turkey Red Mulls: Without inquiry; 1½ lb. quoted $28. Grey Yarn: All counts very dull, and values are unchanged. Coloured Yarns: Some inquiry for 12 lb.; Glasgow dye, Turkey Red, of favourite marks, at $135 to 137½; 10 lb. in limited request at $127½ to 130; and other colours very dull—Imperial Red, $69 to 70; Dark Green, $78 to 80. Woollens: Some demand for 32 lb. Camlets; advance asked by holders had stopped business; Scarlet quoted $16, and Assorted $15 to 15½. Scarlet Long Ells 12 lb. wanted, but no buyers at $7½, at which they are held; light weights dull—8 lb. $4½ to 5, and 9 lb. $5.50 to 5.60. Scarlet Bombazettes, 5 lb., in no inquiry. Lastings without demand. Metals.—Iron: Flat Bar, a small inquiry at about last rates; other kinds are in little demand. Yellow Metal in moderate request at $19½ to 21, according to weight. Copper Sheathing difficult of sale at $23½. Zinc Sheathing in small request at about late rates. Lead very dull; small sales at $5½.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

HANKOW.—Messrs. Drysdale, Ringer, and Co. report as follows:—The business of the past fortnight has been on a limited scale, the large export having greatly checked buyers, while the quality of Tea offered has steadily fallen off. Settlements are 6,837 chests 5,560 half-chests, against 2,834 chests during the corresponding period last year. The advance in prices mentioned in our last was maintained until receipt of news from Shanghai, advising a considerable rise in freights and a very quiet market, when some slight concession was made by teamen. The transactions of the last day or two, however, considering the character of the Tea settled, show this advantage to have been lost, and if anything point to a further advance. The second crop leaf is now pretty well all to hand, latest arrivals being either largely mixed with or entirely third crop Tea. As yet only few musters have been shown, but these, if a fair standard, would, we think, make the Teas better than last year's. Natives themselves report unfavourably of the crop as a whole, owing to want of rain. Shipments to Shanghai on native account are again heavy, for the fortnight 39,570 packages, against 39,000 last year; and our total export shows no reduction in the large increase over that of the previous season. The quotation for Shuntam Tea is nominally Tls. 11½; Flavoury Oopacks, Tls. 16½ to 18. Settlements from 22nd July to date are—5,381 chests 4,965 half-chests, at 1s. 3d. to 1s. 5d. per lb.; 1,456 chests 595 half-chests, at 11½d. to 1s. 1½d. Total shipments to Shanghai for sale on native account, 149,695 packages, against 170,000 packages last year.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs. Drysdale, Ringer, and Co.'s Report is as follows:—Black Teas: During the early part of the fortnight under notice a steady business was done in fair to medium Oonfaas and Oopacks at Tls. 22 to 24, and in Ningchows at Tls. 24 to 27 for the best of the second crops, but little attention being given to common kinds. On the 4th instant we received telegraphic advices of the opening of the London market for new Teas at most unsatisfactory rates, which caused most of our buyers to retire from the market, and but little was done for a day or two, rates showing a decline of about one tael. Since, confidence has been restored, and there has been a good demand for fair to medium grades at prices which show an advance from the lowest point. Some musters of the third crop have been shown; they are well made, and appear to be up to average, although not favourably reported upon by teamen, who think the weather was too dry to produce Teas of keeping quality. Prices.—Early settlements were made at declining rates till a fall of about one tael was established, at which business continued to be done till receipt of the telegrams referred to above, when for a day or two a further decline of one tael was submitted to by Teamen on all kinds, excepting Shuntams and common Hohows. There has since been more doing and some recovery in price; the market closes with holders firm for rates about one tael under those quoted in our last. The bulk of the business has been done in Teas costing Tls. 21 to 24. A few Shuntams have been settled at Tls. 15, which establishes a lower quotation. Settlements from July 28 to date:—Settlements, 32,361 chests and 21,558 half-chests; stock, 46,545 chests, against 96,310 chests last year. Quotations (exchange at 6s. 1d. per tael and freight £3 per ton):—Hohows, common to fair, 1s. to 1s. 2½d.; Oonams, common to fair, 11d. to 1s. 1½d.; Oopacks, common to fair, 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 4d.; do., medium to good medium, 1s. 4½d. to 1s. 5½d.; Oonfas, common to medium, 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 4½d.; Ningchows, fair to medium, second crop, 1s. 1d. to 1s. 3½d.; do., medium to fine do., 1s. 4d. to 1s. 6½d. Green Teas: The high prices which have ruled since the opening of the market have been fully maintained. Pingsueys have ranged from Tls. 48 to 59.5; there are but few fine ones left. Fychows and Teenkai at Tls. 34.5 to 50. These are now arriving freely, and with larger supplies we look for lower rates. Some old Teas have been sold at Tls. 16 to 21.

FOOCHOW.—Business for the week has been curtailed owing to the scarcity of tonnage for London. Congou: The principal settlements had consisted of good common to medium ranging from Tls. 14 to 22; inferior to common kinds remained comparatively neglected; prices for all kinds were quoted as before; settlements during the week, 17,959 chests; arrivals, 20,850 chests. Souchongs: Settlements during the week, 1,081 chests at fully previous rates; arrivals, 1,500 chests. Current quotations:—Common, 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 2½d.; medium to fine, 1s. 3½d. to 1s. 9d.; fine to finest, 1s. 9½d. to 2s. 2½d. Oolongs: No business reported. Scented Teas showed a further decline of half a tael; settlements, 4,000 boxes at Tls. 18 to 21 for caper, and Tls. 21 to 22 for Scented Orange Pekoe. Current quotations:—Common to fair, 1s. 4d. to 1s. 5½d. Flowery Pekoe: Settlements, 134 chests at Tls. 40 to 42.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs. Skeggs and Co. report as follows:—During the early part of the fortnight very little business was done, except for the French mail, buyers generally believing that as the stock accumulated dealers would be less exorbitant in their ideas, and that we should see lower prices; this, however, has not proved to be the case, as silkmongers generally have been very firm, and for chop Silks will not take less than 30s. 9d. We hear that for a few bales of Koo-fong-sing No. 3 as much as 31s. 6d. was paid for the American market—in fact, all good Silks are held for proportionately high rates, and it is with great difficulty that any Tsatlees can now be found to lay down under 26s. 1d. Re-reels have been freely taken, and for some choice parcels exorbitant rates paid. Settlements amount to about 3,700 bales, and the stock is about 7,000 or 8,000 bales. The following are a few of the prices paid:—Koo-fong-sing, chop 3rd, 31s. 6d.; Yakee, 30s. 3d.; Blue Flag, No. 3, 28s. 5d.; Euko fung Elephant chop, 27s. 11d.; Kukee Chin Jan, 27s. 11d.; Red Peacock, 27s. 1d. to 27s. 4d.; medium and common Tsatlee, 26s. 7d. to 24s. 10d.; Fatmow Haineen, No. 2, 26s. 7d.; Ching Yuen Sing Tinghow Kahing, 28s. 8d.; Re-reeled Hainin, 30s. 3d. to 33s. 10d.; Re-reeled Tsatlee, 29s. 9d. to 32s. 9d.; Long Reel Taysam, 21s.

JAVA AND STRAITS PRODUCE.

BATAVIA.—Arrack: f.95 per leaguer, sales. Cloves: f.30 per picul, saleable. Coffee: f.34 to f.34.25, few transactions, higher rates demanded. Cubebs: f.15 per picul, offered at quotation. Gutta Percha: f.70 to f.150 per picul, in demand. Gum Dammar: f.36 per picul, sales. Hides: Cow, f.35 to f.40; Buffalo, f.24 to f.28 per lb., very scarce. India Rubber: f.100 to f.115 per picul, scarce. Indigo: First quality wanted, nominal. Mace: f.265 to f.270 per picul, in demand at quotation. Nutmegs: f.170 to f.190 per picul, sales. Pepper: Black f.28.50 per picul, scarce. Rice: Table, no stocks; first quality Batavia, f.150 to f.160 per coyang, scarce; second quality, f.130 to f.140 per coyang, small stocks; cargo, f.100 to f.120 per coyang, small stocks. Rattans: Borneo, f.13 to f.13.50 per picul; Padang, f.8 to f.10 per picul, scarce. Sapan Wood: Manila, no stocks; Java, f.2 to f.3 per picul. Sugar: Jacatra, f.16, nominal; on the coast, f.16.50, no transactions, in less request. Tin: Billiton, an auction of 7,800 piculs advertised for Oct. 6.

SINGAPORE.—Tin: After departure of last English mail about 500 piculs were placed at $34½; but, owing to less favourable advices from England and China, the price had since declined, about 1,300 piculs having been sold at $34½ down to $33½; 600 piculs in stock, for which $33½ was offered, holders asking more. Gambier: Contracts to a considerable extent at $2.90 to 2.92½; dealers refused to sell under $2.95. Black Pepper coming slowly to market; small purchases at $11 per picul; White worth $17.40 per picul—small sales. Pearl Sago contracted for at $2.95 for small grain, and at $3.15 for large grain. Tapioca in good demand at $3.87½ to 4 per picul; sales of inferior quality, $3.75. Coffee: 650 piculs Bontyne at market held for $14½; no Bally offering. Buffalo Hides: Best descriptions worth $10½ per picul. Cow Hides: None offering. India-rubber scarce, and worth $44 per picul. Borneo Rubber: Sales at $37 to 37½ per picul. Gutta-percha higher: 200 piculs, first quality, sold at $75. Gum Dammar: Sales reported of 250 piculs Batavia, at $13½. Nutmegs: Sales of 80 piculs, at $73 to 75.

OPENING UP OF THE YANGTZE RIVER.

The Associated Chambers of Commerce held their annual meeting at Plymouth last week, when the Chairman, Mr. Sampson Lloyd, of Birmingham, reviewed the state of commercial legislation, commented on the want of attention given to the subject in the last two sessions, and urged that greater efforts should be brought to bear upon the Government. A resolution was agreed to denouncing the present mode of levying income-tax on trades and professions, and seeking for a committee of the House of Commons to inquire into the subject.

Mr. Behrens, of Bradford, brought forward a motion having for its object the facilitating trade with China, by inducing the Government on the next revision of the treaty to secure for English merchants access to the heart of the country by the Yangtze River, which is navigable for 1,100 miles. This would avoid the passing of goods through the hands of mandarins, who would exact enormous tolls and obstruct traffic. This concession might be obtained from China by giving up two or three smaller existing coast ports. The effect of this would be to quadruple the exports of the manufacturers of the north of England to China. Mr. Haigh, of Huddersfield, in an elaborate geographical resumé of various proposed routes, strongly supported this motion, pointing out the great importance of opening up to our fabrics the markets of China, although he would not do this at the cost of a single life or one blow. Mr. T. R. Ormerod, of Huddersfield, followed in a similar strain. Unless we obtained new outlets for our merchandise—and China was not only practically inexhaustible, but was almost the only outlet left—many looms and much of our producing power must be idle before long. He would impress on our Government and all Governments that no gunboats should be stationed at any ports which may be opened, the moral effect of which on the natives is most injurious. Captain Spry, who had made this subject a matter of study for many years, being in the room, was requested to address the meeting, although not a member of the Chamber, and gave an historical statement, instancing many impediments thrown in the way by the Indian and Home Governments. The resolution was carried unanimously.

RAILWAY COMMUNICATION WITH INDIA.

The question of railway communication with India, after passing through a great deal of desultory controversy, is now apparently entering into the phase which will precede either its execution or its abandonment for another series of years. For some time past a committee of the House of Commons have been inquiring into the practicability of the Euphrates Valley route, and a great deal of valuable evidence has been obtained, among the gentlemen examined being Sir Henry Rawlinson, Colonel Chesney, and Sir John Maxwell. We regret to find that some little romance has been imported into the question, and it would be as well at once to put aside all enthusiastic hopes to revive the dry bones of ancient monarchies, or to make of Cansaan again a land "flowing with milk and honey," as not worth a thought. The question, however, is assuming a very practical shape, and, to judge from the interest excited by the topic, will soon be brought to some practical result. It is very evident that in so large a work—or rather in an experiment on so vast a scale—advantage must be taken of existing means, and, looked at in this manner, the difficulties in its way are greatly reduced. If the Roumanian and Roumelian lines already projected could be carried out we should be at once in communication with Constantinople, so that the only question to deal with would be the junction of the European and Indian lines. Asia Minor would present many engineering difficulties, but none such as the skill of the present day would not overcome. The financial part of the question would probably be soon set at rest if only the political obstacles in the way could be overcome; but herein lies the great objection to the scheme. Such a line must necessarily depend upon local traffic for its success, and the prospect of commercial success is the only inducement to carry it out.

But where is the money to come from? It is proposed that each country should construct that portion of the line passing through its territory, and that a joint guarantee should be given in respect of interest. The burden of such a guarantee, however, would fall chiefly upon England, as that of the Turkish Government, to judge from recent experiences, is absolutely worthless. After all, the question of railway communication with India is rather of an Imperial than a commercial character. Even if carried out, it could, by reason of the difference in freight, have no influence upon the transport of merchandise, except such valuable commodities as bullion, silk, &c. Trade would certainly be benefited by the readier means of effecting sales offered by the quick transit of samples; but the consideration is whether the gain is worth the outlay. For England to assume a protectorate over so lengthy a line might lead to political complications of no ordinary character, and the tendency and desire of the nation is to limit its responsibilities in this respect. We should, indeed, be glad to see the Euphrates Valley scheme carried out, but we should deprecate any hasty execution of a gigantic enterprise which would involve England politically. It is, or should be, a maxim in commercial affairs that they should be entirely independent of politics and political considerations, and we trust this will be the case with the question at issue. The construction of the Euphrates Valley line would create a considerable trade in that district, and would ultimately lead to the extension of railway enterprise in Asia Minor, thus reclaiming those fruitful parts to civilisation. Events move rapidly now-a-days, and we believe that the opening up of the Euphrates Valley would be followed very soon by similar works between the Bosphorus and India, which would ultimately give us direct communication with our dependency in the East.

STORNOWAY.—Stornoway, which lies to the northward of the Skye group, and is generally considered too far north for the ordinary tourist, has its China associations dear to all old residents of that country. When Mr. James Matheson (now Sir James) returned from China in 1842 he purchased the island of Lewis, of which Stornoway is the port, and built a handsome castle, with extensive grounds, farm premises, &c. The interests of the town have also had ample attention; the population, consisting of seafaring and fishermen, has much increased, and the roads and regularity of the streets are much superior to most other towns of a similar sort; indeed, the main road is equal to Hyde-park. Sir James has just added another boon to the inhabitants—viz., the establishment of a regular daily mail, by means of a steamer he has put on, to run over to Ullapool, on the mainland (about three hours' steaming), which is in connection with the railway system. Stornoway is not forgotten by natives who have settled in China. There is now erecting a substantial schoolroom from funds left by Mr. Nicholson, an engineer in Shanghai, who was blown up in a boiler explosion on board a small steamer there some few years since. Sir James Matheson has given the ground, and endowed it with the sum of £35 per annum towards the salary of a schoolmaster. The first tea clipper built by Messrs. Jardine, Matheson, and Co., and commanded by Captain Robertson, was named the Stornoway. Visitors to the place will find themselves well cared for at the Lewis Hotel, facing the river, which is kept by Mr. Clark, who has had some ten years' experience in Shanghai and Foochow.

[[The Pacific mail steamer China, which arrived at San Francisco on the 12th ult., brought one package of musk, twenty-two of merchandise, 670 of silk and 19,147 of tea, for New York; 1,718 of tea for Chicago, and 3,403 of tea for Boston.

CHUNG HOW and suite have left London for the United States, en route to China.

The amount of bullion per the P. and O. Company's steamer Poonah, which left Southampton on the 30th inst., was—in gold, to Alexandria, £47,000; to Galle, £350; to Bombay, £100; to Madras, £11,038; to Singapore, £1,504—in silver, to Hong Kong, £4,770; to Shanghai, £10,590; total in gold, £59,992; in silver, £15,360.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Each packet or tin is labelled—JAMES EPPS & CO., HOMEOPATHIC CHEMISTS, LONDON. Epps's Cocoa is also prepared with condensed milk, and old in tins, labelled Epps's Milky Cocoa.

LONDON: MONDAY, OCT. 2, 1871.

A ROYAL COMMISSION FOR CHINA.

THE residents in Hong Kong have embarked in a proposal in which they will have the hearty sympathy of all their intelligent brethren in the United Kingdom. They have held a meeting, at which it was resolved to request the Government to send out a Royal Commission to inquire into the position of our countrymen and other foreigners in China. The insecurity of life and property there has become unendurable. The dangers of foreigners are increased, and their defences decreased in equal ratio. Whether or no their representation of the difficulties under which they labour will receive the gracious attention of Earl GRANVILLE or Lord ENFIELD is beside the question. If we may judge from the example set by the Duke of ARGYLL and Mr. GRANT DUFF in curtly refusing the Special Commission demanded for the investigation of the affairs of India by a mass meeting lately held in Calcutta, we must say that, under our present Government, the chance of any representations of our countrymen abroad receiving due attention, or being set in their right light, is small indeed. Mystery seems to be the order of the day with Mr. GLADSTONE'S Cabinet. Either Mr. WADE has for a long time been dumb in the midst of most exciting events which have occurred around him, or else his communications have been suppressed. Why should this be? Our Minister at Peking either knows nothing, or says nothing, or is allowed to have nothing published of what he says, concerning our relations with the Government at whose capital he represents Her MAJESTY. In the meantime difficulties of every kind accumulate in every one of our Eastern dependencies, clearly as the consequence of the gagging system adopted by our Colonial-office, and accepted by a certain number of complaisant Ministers, who will assuredly find a stern day of reckoning come at last when they are compelled to give an account of their stewardship. The policy of Ministers like these is not only injurious, but suicidal. The secrets they attempt to keep are such as can never be kept effectually. They are certain to burst out and speak for themselves at a time when the misrule they have concealed can be least easily rectified, and the neglect or oppression that have caused them have become intolerable. Turn which way we will in the East, there is cause for anxiety. Look at India, where Lord MAYO has drained the exchequer and choked the prisons, in spite of the remonstrances of the public and the press. The Royal Commission to inquire into the affairs of this most misgoverned country, though temperately moved for by Professor FAWCETT, after he had been for nearly a session engaged in the useless task of trying to glean any real information about India from the evidence taken by the Committee here, was superciliously negatived by the Indian Secretary. At that very time this official knew perfectly well that discontent in India was becoming every day more and more widespread and threatening. But he refused the Commission, and the consequence is that one of the Judges, who was concerned in the unjustifiable imprisonment of hundreds of Lord MAYO'S captives, has been assassinated on the steps of the High Court—at a time when not a single member of the Absentee Government was in his place in the Capital of British India. The execution of the Wahabee murderer, which is both necessary and certain, will merely embitter the revenge of a large sect groaning under the imprisonment which Mr. FAWCETT'S proposed Commission would have definitely pronounced legal or illegal—if it had not been refused. Here then are almost the elements of a new mutiny growing out of the refusal of such a Commission as our Hong Kong friends request. And their request is backed up by many circumstances which prove its reasonableness, and, indeed, its necessity. Sooner or later it must come. Turn to Korea, and we find the effect of the retreat of the American expedition to be exultation on the part of the natives, and a general anticipation of a demonstration against foreigners throughout the length and breadth of China. Turn to Japan, and we find Nagasaki, one of our most promising settlements, steadily declining by reason of the machinations of the anti-foreign party. Turn to Cochin China, and we find it gravely proposed to introduce into the Legislative Assembly a measure to abandon the French settlement of Saigon. In the face of an accumulation of facts like these, and we could add many more, is it not obvious that, unless some vigorous steps are taken to ascertain and determine the real conditions of our relations with China, our hold upon the Far East will be endangered to such a degree that nothing but a war can reassert it? While affairs are in this state, while dangers are thickening round Hong Kong, the force employed for the protection of our countrymen there is gradually being weakened and reduced. It needs but a little perseverance in the path lately opened to leave the foreign community almost helpless—except in so far as they may be able to help themselves. In this emergency they ask, with justice, for a Royal Commission. Such a request could not at any time during the past year have been refused by any Government that had the extension of religion, trade, and progress at heart. But the example of the refusal of the Royal Commission to India proves that there is little chance of the request of the comparatively small community of Hong Kong being granted, unless it is vigorously backed up by those interested in China at home. One of the members for Brighton set a noble example in the case of the Indian Commission; will his colleague take a similar course with the proposed Commission in China?

THE DESTRUCTION OF SALANGORE.

SIR BENSON MAXWELL has published an exhaustive rejoinder to "SINGAPOREAN'S" reply to the learned Judge's first letter in The Times. We still wish not to decide hastily, and hope that Capt. ROBINSON may be able to afford a satisfactory explanation of his conduct. But we must own that this hope becomes very slight in view of Sir BENSON MAXWELL'S reply to "SINGAPOREAN," which seems to us to establish the fact that the destruction of Salangore and the menaces offered to the Rajah are deplorable circumstances, not only because they resulted in the sacrifice of life, but because they can hardly fail to embitter the feelings of the Malays against foreigners, and to weaken their faith in the discretion and firmness of Her MAJESTY'S representatives. Sir BENSON writes as cogently as summarily. He says, "Without pottering over 'SINGAPOREAN'S' method of stating facts, I will take them even as he would have them; and they amount briefly to this:—A demand was made by one 'State on another for the extradition of a criminal refugee; the man is arrested and delivered up, but he is rescued by the lawless or insurgent subjects of the surrendering State, and the officers of the demanding State are insulted, threatened, and fired at. The latter Power, without complaining of the wrong done or demanding of the ruler the punishment of its guilty subjects, instantly despatches a man-of-war to arrest, on its ally's territory, both the rescuers and the rescued; and this force, because it meets resistance in executing these measures, burns down the town in which the culprits have shut themselves up, and which they hold in defiance of their Sovereign's authority. And further (a little circumstance which 'SINGAPOREAN' has overlooked), the invader finishes off by requiring the Sovereign of the invaded territory to appoint the nominee of the former his Maire du Palais. Now, call that Sovereign the Queen of England, call the soil British soil, and call the man-of-war American, and I should be glad to know in what temper public opinion in England would listen to Jonathan's protestations that he had 'never intended to make war' on Great Britain, but 'only to arrest on her territory criminals and their accessories after the fact, a piratical, rebellious, and insolent crew; that he had 'intended to settle the matter amicably,' and would have done so if he had not been resisted; and that, as to the Maire du Palais, it was an admirable institution, which would 'work well' in 'opening up the country.'"

"Quid rides? Mutato nomine, de te fabula narratur."

This is strong writing, but not a whit stronger than the occasion requires. Every right-minded Englishman must respect the patriotic enthusiasm with which Sir BENSON MAXWELL concludes thus:—"I have no enthusiastic affection for Malays, but I have a strong love for my own country; and it is because I wish to see England honoured and loved that I have called attention to a transaction which, in the present state of our information, seems calculated to bring upon us only hatred and contempt."

The St. Gothard Railway, with a tunnel about the length of that of the Mont Cenis, will, it appears, very soon be commenced. The capital necessary for the tunnel is about 60,000,000f., and for the lines to join the Italian and the Swiss Railway about 125,000,000f. Subsidies to the extent of 85,000,000f. have been voted by Germany, Italy, and Switzerland, and the remaining 100 millions will be taken by a syndicate, 65,000,000f. in bonds, bearing 5 per cent. interest, and 35,000,000f. in shares. It is estimated that at least seven to eight years will be required for the entire completion of the work.

Another meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Muir, Brown, and Co., calico printers, of Glasgow, was held on the 26th inst. The liabilities of the firm amount to £165,000, and the assets to somewhat over £55,900. The committee appointed at the last meeting reported that the valuation had been fairly made, and unanimously recommended the acceptance of an offer on the part of the firm of 6s. in the pound, payable by instalments in six, eight, twelve and fifteen months, with a further contingent payment of 8d. in the pound at the end of two years, should the firm then be able to pay it.

At a meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Inglis, Anderson, and Co., held at Manchester, it was resolved to accept a composition of 7s. in the pound, subject to the payments being guaranteed.

The half-yearly meeting of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank took place at Hong Kong on the 14th August, Hon. R. Rowett in the chair. The profits for the half year, after making full provision for all bad or doubtful debts, amounted to $388,331.04; and after deducting rebate on undue bills, remuneration to directors, &c., $371,331.04 remained for appropriation. A dividend at the rate of $7.50 per share for the half year was declared, thus leaving $100,000 to be passed to reserve fund, which is now raised to $900,000. The report and accounts will be found in our advertising columns.

It is understood that the dividend to be announced by the Oriental Bank Corporation for the half-year ended the 30th of June last will be 6 per cent.

The duplicate section of the Falmouth, Gibraltar, and Malta Telegraph Cable is expected to be complete in a few days.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

—o—

TEA.

The market has been quiet but steady, during the week the prices paid both at public sale and privately having shown little or no change from last quoted rates. On the 22nd inst. at auction 1,070 packages China offered without reserve sold at previous rates for Congou, but rather easier prices for common qualities of Green.

On the 26th ult. 2,583 packages China were offered, consisting chiefly of old season's, and 2,000 packages were sold without reserve; 1,300 packages old Foochow Congou sold at 9½d. to 11½d., good 1s. 7d.; 570 packages new season's Congou offered at a reserved price were withdrawn; 524 packages old Souchong sold at 1s. 2½d. to 1s. 3d. per lb.

On the 27th another public sale was held, when 3,864 packages passed, of which only 1,000 packages were new season's, which brought steady rates; the remainder consisted of small and undesirable parcels, partly in second hands, which were mostly sold at about the previous value; 1,500 packages old Congou sold, siftings 3d., common to good common red leaf 9½d. to 10½d., medium 1s. 21d. to 1s. 2½d.; 471 packages new season's Oolong sold at 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 6d., 100 packages new Souchong at 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 0¾d., and 400 boxes new scented Orange Pekoe at 1s. 8½d. to 1s. 8¾d. per lb.

On the 28th ult. 642 packages China were offered and sold without reserve; 374 chests good medium new black-leaf Congou sold at 1s. 6½d. to 1s. 6¾d., being steady; 268 half-chests medium to fine Hyson sold firmly, at 1s. 7d. to 2s. 0½d.

SILK.

The market is unaltered.

COFFEE.

The market has exhibited a buoyant feeling, and a good supply of Plantation Ceylon, of which the auctions have chiefly consisted, has been actively competed for and extreme prices were realised. Native Ceylon has also brought higher rates. The latest prices paid have been Plantation, triage and ordinary 54s. 6d. to 62s. 6d., small grey to colour 63s. to 68s., low middling 67s. 6d. to 70s., bold gray and dull 71s. to 75s., middling colour 70s. 6d. to 75s. 6d., good middling to fine middling 76s. to 82s., good bold colour 83s. to 86s., pea-berry 83s. to 84s. 6d. Native rather small French kind at 59s., fine ordinary ditto at 60s. 6d. to 61s. Of 1,085 bags Manila offered 230 bags good ordinary palish (Indian sort) sold at 60s., the remainder good and fine pale being bought in at 62s. to 64s.; 135 bags Bonthyne Singapore were bought in at 65s.; 144 bags mixed Singapore sold with all faults at 52s. 6d. to 53s. 6d.

The landings for the week are again 900 tons less than the large amount in 1871, and as the total deliveries are only 460 tons less, the stocks show a larger deficiency of 1,670 tons. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 117,731 cwt., against 204,591 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1870; Native 17,960 cwt., against 10,723 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is 5,811 cwt. Plantation, against 2,402 cwt., and 1,225 cwt. Native, against 3,138 cwt. The quantity of Coffee landed in the thirty-eight weeks ended Sept. 23, 1871, was, of Ceylon, 31,598 tons, against 28,842 tons during the corresponding period of 1870; of all descriptions, 57,412 tons, against 49,893 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 8,297 tons, against 7,720 tons; of all descriptions, 14,589 tons, against 13,781 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 24,079 tons, against 21,429 tons; of all descriptions, 43,657 tons, against 34,691 tons. The stock on Sept. 23 was, of Ceylon, 12,827 tons, against 13,557 tons; of all descriptions, 23,975 tons, against 25,640 tons.

SUGAR.

A somewhat better demand has been apparent during the past week, and a fair business has been done at fully previous rates. Penang: At auction 8,205 bags, chiefly of fresh import, per Naomi, met a moderate demand, and 4,200 bags sold at previous rates, middling to good middling soft brown (duty 4s.) at 25s. 6d. to 26s., fine brown, 28s., middling soft yellow 29s. to 29s. 6d., fine soft yellow and colour (duty 5s. 8d.) at 33s. to 34s., the remainder bought in, good to fine brown (duty 4s. 9d.) at 27s. to 28s., grey and yellow 29s. to 29s. 6d., fine colour 34s. to 35s. 6d. Privately about 1,000 bags good to fine colour (duty 5s. 3d.), ex this auction, have been sold at 34s. to 35s.; also 350 baskets low pasty (duty 4s.) at 20s. Manila: Privately 4,000 bags Taal unclayed of old import have been sold at 20s. 9d., and 5,000 bags do. more recent import at 21s. 3d. At auction 4,000 bags Taal unclayed Manila have been sold at 21s. 3d., and 8,000 bags clayed (duty 4s.) at 23s. to 26s. Java: At public sale 4,200 bags syrups of indirect import were bought in at 22s. 6d.; privately 450 bags Java syrups ex last week's auction have been sold at 22s. 6d.

As compared with the large deliveries at the corresponding period last year, those in the present show a decrease of 1,600 tons, the landings being also less by 700 tons, and the deficiency in the stock reduced to 29,200 tons. Stock, Sept. 16. 72,258 tons, against 102,366 tons; Sept. 23, 72,817 tons, against 102,029 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the thirty-eight weeks ended Sept. 23, 1871, was, of Penang, 1,312 tons, against 2,277 tons in the corresponding period of 1870; of Manila, Java and China, 17,094 tons, against 15,173 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 2,996 tons, against 1,677 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 23,773 tons, against 19,536 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 184 tons, against 95 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 1,065 tons, against 2,031 tons. The stock on Sept. 23 was, of Penang, 1,108 tons, against 2,835 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 20,051 tons, against 29,396 tons.

CORR GOODS.—At the public sales a fair supply of Yarn was offered, but the greater part was held for extreme rates and bought in, only a small portion finding buyers at firm prices for all qualities. The supply of Fibre was large, and was partly taken off at steady rates. Of Yarn, 291 bales good and fine Ceylon were all withdrawn, 11 tons sold, common, £27 to £28 15s.; medium, £30 10s. to £33; good to fine, £36 to £41 15s. Of Fibre, 2,376 ballots (10 tons) Ceylon withdrawn; 136 coils Ceylon Rope sold, 2 to 4 inch at £22 to £23 10s. per ton.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—Ceylon continues quiet at £38 10s. per ton.

HEMP.—The market for Manila continues firm with an upward tendency; at auction of 1,218 bales offered the sound portion was held firmly and bought in, fair to good fair £49 to £50, fine to superior £54 to £56, of the damaged portion about 520 bales sold at very full rates, good fair roping first class £43 10s. to £49, brown £42 10s., fourth to second at £41 to £49 15s.; privately 500 bales, mark BB&Co., have been sold at £50.

PEPPER.—An active demand has prevailed, and large sales have been effected at firm rates on the spot. Singapore has sold at 6½d. cash to 6½d. with prompt; Penang at 6½d. to 6 7/16d., chiefly the latter price, landing at 6½d.; November delivery Penang or Singapore at 6½d. White is also in good demand, and sales of Singapore have been effected at 11d. at auction and privately.

RICE.—Both hard and soft grain sorts meet a steady demand, and firm prices are obtainable. There has been more demand for good white Bengal, and sales have been effected at 11s. to 11s. 7½d. Ballam has been sold at 10s. 1½d. to 10s. 3d., Madras at 9s. 9d. (ex quay), and Necransie at 10s. 3d.; for arrival, Madras at 10s. (ex quay), 600 tons Rangoon being part of the cargo per Asiatic at 10s. 9d. (ex quay) Liverpool, the floating cargo per Lochiel consisting of 770 tons Rangoon and Bassein siftings at 8s. 9d. ex ship; the Louis de Geer 1,030 tons Rangoon at 10s. 4½d., for the Continent; the John Bunyan 1,580 tons Necransie at 9s. 10½d., for the Continent; the Allerton 1,150 tons Necransie at 9s. 9d., for the Continent; the Conway Castle 1,270 tons Necransie Arracan, arrived off coast at 9s. 10½d. E. contract, for the Continent; the Princess of Wales 750 tons ditto April sailing at 9s. 10½d., for the Continent; the Hermit 1,200 tons Necransie late May sailing at 10s., Continent; the Fear Not 520 tons Bassein April sailing at 10s. 3d., ex quay London.

TIN.—Throughout the week buyers of Straits have been found at £133, and important lots have changed hands. Telegrams from Rotterdam advise that the 83,300 slabs Banca, offered at the Dutch Trading Company's sale on 28th ult., realised the average price of 73½ guilders, equal to about £137 laid down in London. The Billiton was sold at 78½ guilders. Business in Straits has since been done at £134, at which the market closes firm. It is understood that the greater part of the sale Tin has fallen into strong hands.

ARTICLES OF EXPORT.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

The tone of the market has continued dull, and buyers have shown little disposition to place orders. Producers, on the other hand, have evinced no undue pressure to effect sales, so that the business done has been extremely limited. At the close less depression is apparent, and buyers seem disposed to resume operations at 1½d. per piece under the annexed quotations for Shirtings.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.—SEPT. 16.

TEA.

There is an active demand for new season's Green Teas, but the trade do not purchase freely at the advanced rates quoted by holders. The supply of old is nearly exhausted, and new is only in moderate stock, which enable holders to maintain full prices. Oolong have been in improved demand, and prices are a trifle firmer. Japan has been rather quiet, and with a liberal supply prices are a little irregular. Evidences are abundant that the Tea trade of the United States will be largely conducted through San Francisco. The cargo brought to San Francisco on the 1st inst. by the Alaska is one of the largest ever received at that port, consisting of 54,665 packages, destined as follows:—For San Francisco 9,457 packages, New York 33,747, Boston 6,971, Chicago 4,487, and St. Louis 3.

COFFEE.—Holders of Brazil remain very firm, deeming the situation a strong one, and offering their gradually reducing stocks sparingly, a still higher range of prices being confidently looked for. Dealers purchase cautiously, and only as their immediate wants demand. The market for other descriptions, though generally quiet, is firm, with a fair demand for home use and moderate offerings on the part of holders. The sales are 821 mats Java, per President von Ryckevorsel; 4,532 do., in lots, per Cyclone; 225 bags Manila and 424 Ceylon at the prices quoted in our last issue: also 8,000 mats Java, to arrive per John von Hall, due in December next, on terms not transpired.

CORDAGE.—Market unchanged.

CAMPOR.—China is quoted 19c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $2.10; Cassia, 80c. gold (in bond).

FIRE CRACKERS.—In good demand, and firm at $3 to $3.15, according to quality. Sales have been made of 1,400 boxes here, and 2,000 do. to arrive, per Surprise, on private terms.

GUNNY CLOTH remains inactive and nominal, at 17½c. to 18c. for Borneo, cash.

HEMP.—Owing to the receipt of telegrams from Manila advising an advance there to $10 per picul, the market has shown increased firmness, and the rate has advanced to 13½c. gold, some holders asking more. The sales are 1,000 bales, per John Temperley, to arrive at Boston; and 1,200, per Caernarvon Castle, to arrive at New York; both at 13½c. gold.

INDIGO.—Manila continues in fair demand at $1 to $1.20.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $3 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is 40c. to $1 currency (duty free).

RANGOON.—There is a steady fair demand for Rangoon, and prices, with diminishing stocks, are sustained, but Carolina is weaker in view of the near approach of the new crop—of which some 30 tons have so far been received—and 20 sold at $9.50 to $10. The sales of Rangoon have been 2,600 bags at $6.75 to $7 currency, and 1,200 bags in bond $3.12½ to $3.25 gold.

SPICES.—There has been a continued good demand for home use, the market generally being quite firm, while some descriptions are again higher, as will be seen by our revised quotations. We notice the sale of 6,400 mats Cassia, per Surprise, before arrival, on terms we did not learn. Telegrams from China, stating that Cassia had advanced nearly $1 per picul, viz., to $21 per picul, and the loss of the Cingola in the China Sea, supposed to have on board 3,000 piculs of the new crop, tends to strengthen the market, which is firm at the late advance, to 36 cents. duty paid, and 26 gold in bond. In a jobbing way we notice Cassia, in lots, at 36 cents. Pepper, at 16½ for Sumatra, and 17½ for Singapore; and No. 1 Nutmegs, 97½ to 100, all gold.

SUGAR.—The raw market continues quite sluggish, the demand being almost entirely confined to the immediate necessities of refiners, who being fairly supplied enter the market cautiously, and purchase only to a moderate extent in view of daily needs. The receipts are now light, but as the business is small, stocks remain quite uniform. We have no sales of East India to report.

TRX.—The market has been active, the sales reaching 5,350 pigs Straits, here and to arrive, part at 36½c. to 36½c. gold; the market closing strong at 36½c. for Straits, 35c. for English, and 40½c. for Banca.

CASUALTIES.

The Priam, Jamieson, from Ilo Ilo to London, put into Mauritius, leaky, Aug. 17, having experienced a strong S.E. gale on the 8th, 22 S., 73 E., during which she laboured and strained heavily, had everything movable washed off the decks, and bulwarks carried away; she would have to discharge for repairs.

The Lockett, Tesseyman, from Colombo to London, with coffee and spices, put into Mauritius, Aug. 17, with a strong list, the cargo in the between-decks having settled over to starboard; after taking about 60 tons ballast at the outer anchorage and trimming her upper cargo, she proceeded on 23rd for her destination.

The Nimroud, Lowther, from Manila to New York, which put into Mauritius July 27, was being re-metalled in dry dock.

Advices from Capetown, dated Aug. 19, received at Amsterdam, Sept. 25, state that 820 bags of damaged coffee, ex Anna Digna, Zwaneveld, from Batavia to Amsterdam, which vessel put into Simon's Bay Aug. 1, with damage, had been sold, and that other damaged goods from the same vessel would be sold.

TWELFTH REPORT

Of the Court of Directors to the ORDINARY HALF-YEARLY GENERAL MEETING of Shareholders, held at the CITY HALL, HONG KONG, on MONDAY, the 14th August, 1871.

TO THE PROPRIETORS OF THE HONG KONG AND SHANGHAI BANKING CORPORATION.

GENTLEMEN,

The Directors have now to submit to you a General Statement of the affairs of the Corporation, and Balance Sheet for the half-year ending on 30th June last.

The net profits for that period, including $22,554.33 brought forward from last account, after paying all charges and deducting interest paid and due, and making full provision for all bad and doubtful debts, amount to $388,401.39, of which, after deducting Rebate on Bills not yet due, and remuneration to Directors, there remains for appropriation $371,331.04.

From this sum the Directors recommend the distribution of a Dividend of $7.50 per share on the Paid-up Shares, and of $4.50 per share on the New Shares, being equivalent to Six per Cent. for the half-year; this will absorb $240,000, and of the balance the Directors propose carrying $100,000 to the Reserve Fund (thus raising it to $900,000), and $31,331.04 to the credit of New Profit and Loss Account.

The Directors are glad to state that the amount set aside at the end of last half-year proved amply sufficient for purposes contemplated, and that they are now quite satisfied with the position of the Bank's Securities.

The Directors consider that the result of the past half-year's working is very satisfactory, and congratulate the Shareholders on the continued prosperity of the Corporation.

CALLS.

The fourth call of $25 per Share on the New Shares, due on the 1st July, has been promptly met on 19,417 Shares out of 20,000; the balance outstanding is due mostly on Shares held by Proprietors absent from the Colony, from whom the necessary remittances are shortly expected to come in.

DIRECTORS.

Messrs. H. B. LEMANN and G. F. HEARD resigned their seats at the Board on their departure from the Colony, and Messrs. Wm. LEMANN and G. F. WELLER have been elected in their stead.

CHIEF MANAGEMENT.

The Directors have confirmed Mr. JAMES GREIG as Chief Manager.

R. ROWETT, Chairman.

AND PILLS.—HEREDITARY DISEASES.
The tendency to particular maladies transmitted from parent to child exercises a wide influence in producing disease. Few are free from hereditary predispositions. Consumption, gout, and scrofulous disorders are from this cause ever present, and yearly rob us of our dearest treasures. Holloway's Ointment and Pills have the power of removing from the blood the morbid qualities in which lies the essence of all hereditary diseases, and not only do they cleanse the blood, but purify every living tissue throughout the frame, whether situated externally or internally. They are soothing, yet searching, and never can be wrongly used or do harm. Being free from noxious ingredients, the most delicate and timid may fearlessly employ them.

ART, PICTORIAL AND INDUSTRIAL.
An Illustrated Magazine.

THIS Publication was commenced on July 1st, 1870, in the belief that an ample field existed for a high class monthly magazine devoted to Art; and already the result has fulfilled this expectation. 'ART' is produced in a form eminently adapted to the drawing-room table. It is handsomely printed on fine paper, in super-royal quarto, and each Number contains four or more Full-page Heliotype Illustrations, being reproductions of Ancient and Modern Pictures, Engravings, Designs, Sculpture, and objects of Industrial or Decorative Art.

Among the contributors to 'ART' are Messrs. BLANCHARD JERROLD, CHARLES BURTON, J. CORDY JEAFFRESON, G. W. REID, HYDE CLARKE, GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA, W. R. RALSTON, JOHN FORBES ROBERTSON, HENRY BLACKBURN, G. W. YAPP, JOHN PIGGOT, Jun., E. OLLIER, &c., &c.

TANJONG PAGAR DOCK COMPANY

VICTORIA DOCK, SINGAPORE.

This Company's Granite DRY DOCK, 450 feet in length, 65 feet width of entrance, and 20 feet depth of water on the sill, was OPENED on the 17th October, 1868. In the high tides of the North-East Monsoon there is a foot to eighteen inches more water.

In connection with the Dock is a complete range of workshops, fitted with steam machinery, driving all descriptions of engineers' tools required in the construction and repair of vessels and machinery, and a foundry for iron and brass castings.

The Company's extensive Wharves and Godowns for receiving and storing cargo immediately adjoin the Dock.

Having an efficient European staff in each department, the Company is in a position to guarantee the best workmanship, executed with every possible despatch, as well as low rates of charges.

These advantages, and the great facilities which the proximity of the Dock to the town offers for the transport of materials, &c., enable this Company to adopt a very low scale of charges for ships' work of all classes.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN. YOKOHAMA.

We have advices from this port to the 22nd August; the London mail of June 30th arrived out August 16th, and London telegrams to the 9th August were to hand. The following items of news are from the Japan Mail :—

The chief event has been a change in the Japanese Ministry, which commenced on the 11th August with the following dismissals :—Okubo (Clan Satsuma), Kido (Choshu), Okuma (Hizen), Sasaki (Tosa), Saito (Tosa), all Councillors of State; Nakayama, Minister of Religion; Konoye, Vice Minister; Fukuha, Third Minister; Oki Mimpei, Vice Minister of the Interior; Inoye, Third Minister of Finance; Arisugawa no Miya, Minister of War; Yamagata, Third Minister of War; Shishido, Third Minister of the Judicial Board; Madenokoji, Minister of the Household; Karasumaru, Vice Minister of the Household; Kujo, Head of the Censorate. The following appointments were subsequently made, and from the list it will be seen that many of the dismissals are but nominal :—Kido, re-appointed Councillor of State; Saigo Kichinosuke, appointed do.; Sanjo, Prime Minister and Minister of Religion; Fukuha, to his former office; Okubo, Minister of Finance; Okuma, Vice-Minister of Finance; Madenokoji, Vice-Minister of the Household; Inoye, Vice-Minister of the Interior, removed from Finance; Yamagata, reappointed Vice-Minister of War; Goto Shojiro, created President of the Kobusho or Board of Works. It will be seen from this that no important changes have been made beyond the appointment to a high position among the Councillors of State of Saigo Kichinosuke. The influence enjoyed by this noble is chiefly owing to his reputation as a soldier and his acceptability to the military section of the nation. Now that a national army is being formed by contributions of contingents from the various Domains (or Daimiates as they were formerly called) the assistance of such a man will be valuable. He could hardly have been ignored at so important a juncture, and his experience in military matters will be of service to the State in organising the new national force. Kido retains his place, nor could his presence from the Board of Councillors have been dispensed with. Perhaps no man in Japan has shown more foresight, determination and apprehension of the necessities of the State than he. Sanjo retains his place as Prime Minister, and undertakes the duties of Minister of Religion as well. His calm judgment, and firm but placid manner, have given him great influence, although he is yet, comparatively speaking, a young man, and it is satisfactory to know that the Mikado retains his services. Goto Shojiro, it is to be hoped, will accept the post offered him, as he is admirably qualified for it. His name should be well known to foreigners, as he it was who rode by the side of Sir Harry Parkes at the time when the attempt was made on the British Minister's life at Kioto, in March, 1868, and who cut down one of the intending assassins, a service which the English Government recognised by presenting him with a sword, as a mark of gratitude and respect for his chivalrous conduct on the occasion. He was subsequently Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs at Osaka, under the Prince of Uwajima, and Governor of Osaka when he quitted that post. He was also associated with Komats (since dead) and Kido, in the first ministry formed by the Mikado after his assumption of the executive power, on the abolition of the Shogunate.

On the 8th August the soldiers and officers of the 1st-10th Regiment, numbering in all 1,022 persons, marched down from the barracks, and embarked on board the Tamar, which vessel sailed the same day for Hong Kong, where one wing, under Colonel Norman, will be stationed; the other, under Major Lucas, going to Singapore. By an unfortunate mistake the regiment was detained three-quarters of an hour on parade in a hot sun previous to embarking, and five cases of sunstroke occurred, three of which resulted fatally, the victims being Sergeants Healey and Stacey, and a private of the regiment. Before the departure of the troops Colonel Norman was summoned at the English Court on a charge of illegally arresting Mr. Gardiner, a civilian clerk in the storekeeper's department of the regiment. His Lordship dismissed the case, and Mr. Gardiner has appealed to the General in command in Hong Kong.

M. Soubrane, the chef de police, has been seriously wounded. It appears that, acting on an order of the Admiral, he went down into the Japanese town to arrest some sailors from the Alma. He was accompanied by two Japanese policemen, and was proceeding to arrest one of the delinquents, named Laborde, when the latter seized one of the swords worn by the Japanese, and wounded M. Soubrane and the two native policemen. At first it was expected that M. Soubrane would die from loss of blood, but although likely to recover, he has received injuries which will probably compel his retirement from active service. M. Soubrane was one of the many gentlemen who rise from the ranks in the French army to become officers, and his prospects of advancement were second to none.

The effect of the notification of the Japanese Government, having for its object the substitution of properly constructed lighthouses for the wood fires which are now shown along the coast, has been that numerous applications are being made to the Government for lights, beacons and buoys. These are now under consideration, and while most of them will only be of use to native craft—being at entrances to harbours and in bays that foreign vessels never think of approaching—some will be on head-lands that are constantly passed, and will be of great assistance.

The new organ for the church has been placed in position and tuned. It has been discovered, however, that its size and power are out of all proportion to the church. It is a giant in a closet, Gulliver at Lilliput, the Great Eastern in the Thames, the genii in the copper vessel, Pegasus in the pound. If its full power is put out, the empire will resound with it, the church walls will come down like those of Jericho at the sound of the trumpets, the roof will go off into space, the pulpit and its reverend occupant will have to be grappelled down to the south transept wall. Christianity will at one blast be diffused throughout Japan, and the congregation will have to ride at single anchor, with a prayer-book in one hand and the other clinging to the shelf on which it ordinarily reposes.

In response to an application from the Japanese Government, a notification has been issued from the British Legation to regulate the use of fire-arms. The principal provisions are as follow:—Any person who wilfully, and without reasonable cause, discharges any fire-arm, shall, upon conviction before any British Consular or other Court, be liable to imprisonment not exceeding one month, with or without a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars without imprisonment. If any person shall intrude upon any enclosed land kept by the Japanese Government, or any temple, sanctuary, place of worship or burial, in search of or pursuit of any game, whether beast or bird, such person shall be liable to the same punishment.

Three policemen, with whom Mr. Goble was recently charged with interfering, have been dismissed the force for arresting Mr. Goble and putting him in irons for twenty-four hours. An apology was made to the U. S. Consul by the Governor of Kanagawa for the injury which had thus been done to an American citizen, and we understand that Mr. Goble has expressed his willingness to accept this as a reparation for the wrong done to him.

On the 14th August Mr. De Long, the American Minister, was received by the Mikado and presented his credentials as Hawaiian Minister. Subsequently Mr. De Long signed a treaty between Hawaii and Japan.

An auction dispute, Coch v. Bourne and Co., has been heard before Mr. Russell Robertson. It appeared that the plaintiff had bought five cases of curagoa at auction for $6.50 a case, which turned out very inferior. Mr. Winstanley, on behalf of the defendants, said that the curagoa was sold as per muster, and that he did not warrant it good curagoa, as was subsequently maintained by the plaintiff. The case was dismissed. In a similar case, brought on another sale of curagoa to a Japanese, the judgment was reserved.

Racing in the settlement appears likely to receive a very favourable impetus at the coming autumn meeting. Several China griffins have arrived, and will add considerably to the excitement, especially should any worthy competitor be found to Southern Cross or Garry Owen. We also hear that the well-known China ponies Chanticleer and Uhlan have put in an appearance, while another Shanghai pony, Fiddle-de-dee, is at Kobe and may take part at the next meeting. With such an addition to the Yokohama studs we may look forward to a meeting full of interest and fraught with uncertainty as to the probable winners.

A new Racket Court has been inaugurated by a match between the settlement and the marines. Messrs. Wallace and Mollison represented the former, and Messrs. Snow and Wright the latter. The match was the best three out of five games, and after being two games all, the marines won by 15 to 8.

There has been much talk of an outbreak of rinderpest at Yedo, and the Government has consulted a board of native doctors on the subject. The idea that there are any traces of disease among the cattle is, we believe, wholly erroneous.

Mr. Otto Seyd still remains in custody at the English gaol. The preliminary arrangements for his trial are being made, and the case will shortly be heard.

Mr. Eusden, H.B.M. Consul at Hakodate is to be relieved by Mr. Troup, at present Vice-Consul at Nee-e-gata.

The U. S. S. Colorado ran on the rocks while coming through Shiminosiki Straits, and will be repaired at Yokoska.

The rates of Exchange had been firm. An extensive business in private paper has been done, and quotations close—on London, 4 months' sight, Bank 4s. 5½d., 6 months' sight, 4s. 6d.; Credit, 4 months' sight, 4s. 6½d., 6 months' sight, 4s. 6½d. to 4s. 6½d. On Shanghai, sight, Bank, Tls. 74½ per 100 Mexican dollars. On Hong Kong, sight, Bank, 2½ per cent. discount; Private, nominal per cent. discount. Itchibus, 318 per 100 Mexican dollars.

HIOGO AND OSAKA.

Our advices from these ports extend to the 17th August; the P. and O. mail of June 16 arrived out on the 7th August, and the Pacific mail, with New York dates 21st June, on the 28th July; telegraphic advices from London had been received to the 9th August. We extract the following items of intelligence from the Hiogo News:—

Although the local authorities have done little, so far, to repair the damage done by the late storm, we are pleased to notice that they have replaced the bridges over the drain which runs between the settlement and the native town. We also notice that the Municipal Council have replaced the lamps which were broken and uprooted by the storm, and that, with the exception of the Bund, which is almost in the same state it was on the morning after the typhoon, the settlement has returned to its wonted state of tidiness and order. No steps have, however, been taken towards rebuilding the washed-down Bund wall. A stranger visiting the port would not unnaturally imagine that the typhoon which occasioned so much damage must have visited us within a few hours, so little appears to have been even commenced by the native authorities towards reinstating the place in something like order. The placing of a proper protection in front of the many valuable properties immediately facing the sea would strike almost everyone as being a matter requiring the very earliest attention, and yet little or nothing has been done. We have heard it assigned as a reason that coolie labour is scarce, but if this is the only cause of delay, labour could easily be imported from adjacent coast ports. We suppose that in the course of time the wrecks which lie about the bay will get cleared away. Steps are being taken to rid the harbour of the Hiogo, which was sunk so long ago as last October. We also notice that Messrs. Board and Co. have got to work on the wreck of the Pride of the Thames. The wreck of the steamer Rising Sun, as she now lies on the Kobe beach, has been sold by auction for 450 Mexican dollars. The sum which has been subscribed for the relief of foreigners who were sufferers by the late inundation amounts to $975. This proved to be too small a sum to do more than relieve the immediate wants of those who had lost almost their "all," and had families depending upon them. About $800 have been expended in this way.

The Chamber of Commerce have compiled the statistics of trade for the six months ending June 30, 1871. Compared with the corresponding half year in 1870, it shows a great falling off both in the imports and exports, the former being less, and the latter rather more than half only of their value in the previous year. Taking in the first place the imports, we find the most glaring discrepancies in Cotton Yarn, Peas and Rice. In Cotton Yarn the falling off amounts to $299,648, in Peas to $200,174, and in Rice to $1,870,900. There is also a decrease in the imports of Sugar ($84,038), Bean Oil ($144,606), Safflower ($118,863), Cloth ($31,941), Cotton ($145,642), Arms ($107,429), making $3,003,241. To set against these figures we find an increase in Grey Shirtings ($29,432), Velvets ($37,105), Lustres, &c. ($19,893), Merinos ($39,789), Dyes ($22,626), Sundries ($233,645), altogether $382,490. Turning to the exports, we find the principal decrease in Silk ($651,625), Camphor ($60,195), Cuttlefish ($63,571), Copper ($174,188), Cattle ($52,100), together $1,081,699; while the only increase of any consequence is in Tea, amounting to $193,256. But even this does not give a correct idea of the amount of increase, as we find, on comparing the season just closed with the season 1869-70, that the shipments have been 4,909,791 lbs. in the former, as against 2,787,634 lbs. in the latter. This is very satisfactory; and we may hope also, as France gradually settles her internal affairs, that the Silk trade will revive.

We are happy to see that the native Government is bestirring itself to abate a nuisance which has troubled the settlement for some time. A notification just issued states that obstructions which have hitherto been tolerated in the streets must be removed. Shops built over the side drains are to be taken away, and nothing projecting beyond the eaves of the houses, whether signboards or lamps, will be permitted. No doors are to project beyond the front drain, nor is anything to be put out beyond that line to dry. When the houses are cleaned in winter things are not to be put in the street; and the streets in front of the shops are to be kept sufficiently high in the centre to allow of everything draining off readily. The streets are even to be widened a little.

Three lots of ground, situated on the Foreign Concession at Osaka, have been sold at public auction. Lot 18, containing 355 tsubos, was knocked down to Messrs. Bonger Bros. for $453; lot 19, containing 258½ tsubos, to Messrs. A. Real and Co., for $401; and lot 22, containing 258½ tsubos, to Messrs. E. and U. Grosclaude, for $450.

A new local trading steamer, the Faust, has, on one of her earliest trips, come to grief on an anchor in the Osaka river. When close by the landing-place she struck, and had she not been fitted with water-tight compartments would have sunk. The repairs will not take long, and she will soon be in running order again. During the time the vessel was disabled the Chinese who were on board made a raid on the possessions of the European officers, to which they had temporary access. They broke open the chests they were in charge of, and secreted some $80 or $90. When they saw their roguery was discovered they jumped overboard and decamped.

The steam-boat traffic between Osaka and Yedo appears to be increasing considerably; every three or four days a steamer leaves for the Northern capital, laden with goods and passengers.

A sub-agency of the Oriental Bank Corporation has been opened at Osaka, which will doubtless be a great convenience to the community of that settlement.

The works of the Kobe-Osaka Railway are in active progress, and it is expected that the line will be completed by April next year.

Rates of Exchange had advanced fully 1 per cent., and were quoted: Bank, six months' sight, 4s. 6d. to 4s. 6½d.; Credits and Documents, 4s. 6½d. Mexican dollars receded to Rios 97½ to 97½, in consequence of the fall in Yokohama, closing at 97½ to 98½. Kinsatz are scarce, and may be quoted at ½ to 1 per cent. premium.

NAGASAKI.

Dates from this port extend to the 14th August; the outward mail of the 16th June was received on the 5th August. We are indebted to the Nagasaki Express for the following summary of the news:—

Several of the residents here have recently paid a visit to the Simabara sulphur baths. From the particulars given it will be seen that the authorities are now granting extended privileges to visitors, who, instead of being cooped up and rendered miserable, are enabled, if accompanied by a guide, to make excursions into the surrounding country, which cannot fail to afford them pleasure, if it does not absolutely benefit them. We left here about four p.m. on the 12th ultimo, and finally reached, at twelve o'clock noon, the village of Unjen, which was our head-quarters during our stay at the "Vichy of Japan." The entire distance of about thirty-five miles might have been performed in much less time than it occupied us to do it, but we did not care to exert ourselves much. This place is situated at an elevation of about two thousand feet above the level of the sea, and is consequently some considerable distance up the mountain of Unjen, from which it derives its name. From its great height a series of splendid views of the scenery is obtained; the effect of which, especially at daybreak, is enough to make an invalid almost forget the infirmities which induced him to undertake his journey thither; while to the dyspeptic visitor the journey alone is nearly sufficient to restore the natural functions of the disorganised system. From this place we made daily excursions to spots of interest in the neighbourhood, without any restrictions being placed upon our movements, beyond being compelled to take a guide with us; but this was rather advantageous to us than otherwise, as it enabled us to see more than we should have done had we rambled about alone. The country for a mile on each side of Unjen evidently rests on a crater. The ground is quite hot; it sounds hollow, and loud rumbling noises at intervals proceed from the lower regions. Here hundreds of hot springs are to be seen issuing forth, and several of those natural curiosities, the Geysers, we witnessed for the first time. The chief one, which appears like a boiling lake, is in a constant state of activity, and throws up immense volumes of water, and would attract thousands of persons to see it if nearer home. It is from this principal one that the baths are filled, and in order to reduce the temperature to a bearable point the water has first to run by a circuitous channel before it can be used. The mountain is held in similar respect to Fusi-yama, and the natives at certain intervals make pilgrimages to the temple situated on the top, which foreigners are not permitted to visit. During our stay not a single act of rudeness was exhibited towards us; everywhere we were received with the politeness which forms the distinguished national characteristic amongst the Japanese.

The question of re-establishing the Municipal Council of this port has at last taken a definite form, and we may expect to hear that a meeting of land renters will be called at an early date, in order to give them the opportunity of expressing their views on the subject. That this community should naturally desire to take charge of their own municipal affairs is only to be expected; the wonder to us is that the Consuls have performed these duties so long without calling upon a portion of the residents to bear a share of the burden.

We learn that the authorities contemplate pulling down the building at Megasaki, known as the chief Custom-house. It is to be removed to Yedo-machi, and there to be erected on the site now occupied by the Government school—and will, when completed, be used as the official residence of the Governor of Nagasaki, who will receive visits there from the Consuls and naval officers.

A Yanagawa official has been apprehended here by the native authorities, and placed in prison on the charge of forgery. The document, which purports to be drawn by and to bear the stamp of the Prince, was given to a firm in Desima in payment of piece goods previously sold by them to the prisoner on credit. The amount of his liabilities is believed to be large, but a portion of the goods, amounting in value to about $5,000, for which the forged document was given in payment, have been discovered in the possession of a native banker, who held them as security for the money he had advanced on them. These goods have been taken charge of and removed to the Custom-house by the police officers.

A well known merchant here named Yamamoto, who was formerly a Yakonin of Hiogo, committed suicide a few days since, by drowning himself in the bay near to Diko-ku-machi. The deceased was known to be in pecuniary difficulties for some time past, and had been engaged in most extraordinary endeavours to free himself from them, but his endeavours only involved him deeper. So recently as a week before he paid a visit to several of the foreign hongos in this settlement, and seemed to be very anxious to negotiate a loan or to obtain goods on credit, but anxiety to do business created suspicion. It is reported that he was indebted to a few foreigners, but the natives will be the principal sufferers, some of whom will be considerable losers.

In our recent notice of the telegraphic communication to be laid for the Japanese Government between this port and Yedo, we erroneously stated that it is to be submarine. This was the original intention, but has been changed, and the wire ordered from England will be carried overland.

NAGASAKI, 14th August, via SAN FRANCISCO

Since my last, on the 28th ultimo, also sent via San Francisco, the English mail of the 16th June has been received here. The interval has been unusually dull, and the only vessel of war we have seen is the American corvette Alaska, which arrived from Chefoo on the 12th instant.

My present budget of news is miserable in the extreme. The Nagasaki Express gives an account of a trip to the "Simabara sulphur baths." The fact of so little restriction being put on visitors' movements in this district looks as if the natives were getting less exclusive—the only fear to be apprehended is that fickleness will cause them to suddenly change their minds and prohibit foreigners from going there. There is not the least doubt that the waters if bottled under proper medical inspection would be a source of considerable profit to the Japanese.

I could have sent you a long letter on the laying of the Submarine Cable, but it would be stale news by the time it reached you—so I must content myself by saying that the cheap rate fixed for messages will certainly cause it to be used ten times as much as it would have been had the rate been $4 without reduction. Already we have begun to regard the Cable as an absolute necessity, and have set to work considering the advantages to be derived from it. It was opened on Saturday—at least the section between this and Shanghai—when numerous messages more or less jocular were sent and received.

The only other subject I have to touch upon is the Takasima controversy, which people here are getting very tired of. From what I can learn, the Nagasaki Express gives a piece of news, which was about two or three months old at the time it was made public, and had been, no doubt, bottled up by the anti-publicity party, who had prevented it from becoming known. Instead of correcting it by writing to that paper, the Nagasaki Gazette was requested to deny its truth in toto, and this appears to have set the Express off, and, after much wordy fighting, the Gazette makes several admissions which considerably qualifies its denial. The controversy has gone back to a report which appeared respecting the meeting of Messrs. Glover and Co.'s creditors, but as the sole stock in trade of those who wish to prove that it is incorrect consists of quibbles, they are not succeeding very well, besides which it is no secret here that endeavours have been made to get the royalty reduced. Here is confirmation of what I wrote you some time ago on the subject.

The following are the quantities of coal exported up to July, which statistics I copy from the Nagasaki Gazette:—

	Takasima. Tons.	Karatz and other kinds. Tons.	Total. Tons.
January ...	2,870	10,154	13,024
February ...	865	4,834	5,699
March ...	2,142	4,680	6,722
April ...	1,382	8,436	9,818
May ...	2,954	6,562	9,516
June ...	2,111	5,248	7,359
July ...	2,596	5,465	8,061
	14,920	45,279	60,199

Several of the vessels of war now at Chefoo are expected here shortly; the American schooner Clara, late G. C. Love, left this for Chefoo, with coals for H.B.M.S. Ocean, on the 31st ult. The North German barque Engelbert has taken the berth for London.

Exchange on London, 4s. 7d. nominal; buyers are asking 4s. 7½d. to 4s. 8d.; at the former rate one only is offering. Nebus, 400 to 405 per $100; these coins are exceedingly scarce, and very difficult to obtain, owing, it is supposed, to their having been withdrawn from circulation, in anticipation of the issue of the new coins.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—The chief feature of the market had been an active demand for 8½ lbs. Grey Shirtings, in which a large business had been transacted at improved rates. Cotton Yarn had been in moderate request at about last quotations, while other descriptions of manufactured goods had met with fair inquiry. Metals, &c., are without change. Quotations:—GE Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., $2.20 to 2.22½ per piece; 8½ to 8½ lbs., $2.60 to 2.65; 9 to 9½ lbs., $2.80 to 2.90. GE White Shirtings, 56 to 60-reed, $2.65 to 2.85; 64 to 72-reed, $2.90 to 3.05. T-Cloths, 6 to 7 lbs., $1.55 to 1.75. Chintz, Assorted, $2 to 2.50. Handkerchiefs, $0.55 to 1 per dozen. Turkey Red Shirtings, $2.60 to 2.70 per piece; Chintz, $2 to 2.50. Taffachelass, double weft, $2.85 to 3.10; single, $2.40 to 2.70. Velvets, Black, $7 to 8.50; Cotton Yarn, Nos. 16 to 24, $39 to 39.25; Nos. 28 to 32, $42 to 42.50; Nos. 38 to 42, $39 to 39.50. Woollens and Mixtures: Alpaca, 42 yards, $7 to 7.75. Camlets S and BBB, $13.50 to 14.50; SS., $12 to 13; SSS., $9 to 10. Cloth, Medium and Broad, $0.80 to 1.60 per yard; Lastings, $12 to 13.50 per piece; Long Ells, Assorted, $6.50 to 7; Orleans and Lustres, Plain, $3.75 to 4.25; Figured, $4 to 4.50.

HIOGO AND OSAKA.—A small advance had been established in the value of most Cotton Goods. Woollens generally were also in better inquiry, owing to the approach of Autumn. Stocks of all goods continued low. Cotton Yarn: The demand was still confined to Nos. 28-32, of which counts a fair quantity was placed early in the month. Prices closed with some firmness. Grey Shirtings: A somewhat larger business than usual had been done in 8½ lbs., and in consequence of an advance in the value of native currency, recent sales had resulted well; at closing, the market was weaker, but stocks were low and holders firm. Black Velvets were saleable at quotations. Turkey Reds had attracted more attention. Victoria Lawns continued in fair demand. Camlets: Prices were somewhat higher, but the consumption was extremely limited. Figured Lustres had been in better demand. Black Lustres were saleable at improved quotations. Mousselines de Laine had been dealt in to a fair extent at about former rates. Lead had been placed at a slight decline. Nail-rod Iron of small sizes was wanted. The following were the current quotations. Cotton Yarn: Nos. 16 to 24, per bale, $118.00 to 120.00; 28 to 32, $130.00 to 134.00; 38 to 42, $120.00. GE Grey Shirtings: 7 lbs., 38 yards 39in., $2.25 to 2.30; 8½ to 8½ lbs., $2.55 to 2.60; 9 lbs., 44in., $2.90 to 2.95. GE White Shirtings: 56 to 60-reed, 40 yards 36in., $2.40 to 2.45; 64 to 72-reed $2.55 to 2.70; T-Cloths, 6 to 7 lbs., $1.75 to 2.00; Drills, Dutch, 40 yards, $3.50; Handkerchiefs, Assorted, per doz. $0.62 to 0.75; Brocades and Spots, White, per piece, $2.50 to 2.75; do. Dyed, $2.90 to 3.10; Chintz, Assorted, 24 yards 30in., $1.62 to 2.25; do. Turkey Red, $2.50 to 2.62; Turkey Red Cambrics, 3 lbs., $2.50 to 2.62; Velvets, Black $7.50; Victoria Lawns, $1.10; Taffachelass, Double Warp, 12 yards 43in., $2.50 to 2.67; do. Single, $2.20 to 2.50. Camlets, SS, Scarlet, $15.50; do. Black, $11.00 to 11.25; do. Assorted, $12.00 to 13.50; Lastings, Black, 30 yards 31in., $11.50; Crape Lastings, $6.50 to 7.00; Lustres and Orleans, Figured, 30 yards, $4.50 to 5.00; Orleans, Plain, 42 yards 31in., $6.50 to 8.00; Alpacas, 30 yards 31in., —; Camlet Cord, 30 yards 31in., $5.00 to 5.50; Mousselines de Laine, 30 to 31 in, Plain, per yard, $0.21 to 0.22; do. 44 to 45in., $0.30 to 0.32; do. 30 to 31in., Figured $0.35 to 0.45; Cloth, Black, 56in., $1.10 to 1.50; Long Ells, Assorted, 12 lbs., per piece, $5.50 to 5.62; Blankets, per lb., $0.30 to 0.37½; Metals and Sundries: Iron, Bars, per picul, $3.00; do. Nail Rod, $3.20 to 3.25; do. Hoop, $2.62 to 3.00; Lead, $6.00.

NAGASAKI.—Messrs. Gribble and Co. report as follows:—Manufactures: Grey Shirtings, 8½ lbs., $2.65 to 2.70 per piece; Dyed Shirtings, Indigo, $3.12; Gentian, $3.06 per piece; Victoria Lawns, 12 yds. 42in., $1.07 per piece; Camlets, SS White, Scarlet and Purple, $15; Gentian and Green, $13; Black, $12 per piece. Plain Lustres, 30 yds. 32in.: Black, $5.75 per piece. Metals: Arrivals during the month of Nail Rods have satisfied immediate wants, and prices are now 25 cents per picul lower, say $3.25 per picul; Steel in kegs, $5 per picul; Pig Iron, $1.25 per picul.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—A large business had continued to be done, and settlements consisting of most grades amounted to about 8,000 piculs. Prices had continued to decline, and native dealers still showing anxiety to realise, a further reduction was looked for except for choice leaf, which maintained its former value; the quality had not improved, and supplies having been about on a par with settlements, stocks remained unchanged. The Flying Spur and Fiery Cross were still loading; the Inverary was ready to sail with 324,440 lbs. for New York, and the Gaucha and Narworth Castle were loading for San Francisco. The Alaska took 793,613 lbs. for New York, and 137,033 lbs. for San Francisco, and the present American mail steamer was fully engaged. Quotations: medium, $27 to 30 per picul; good medium, $31 to 33; fine, $35 to 40; finest, $41 to 47; choice, $60 and upwards.

HIOGO AND OSAKA.—Business had been on a large scale, settlements for the month being returned at 7,100 piculs. Prices showed but little change on last quotations; the high rate and scarcity of native currency had for the moment stopped business. Arrivals were coming forward very freely; stocks were estimated at 3,000 piculs of new leaf.

NAGASAKI.—Common and medium Teas had arrived freely, but so far no fine Teas had come upon the market. Settlements had only been upon a moderate scale, and purchasers generally declined paying the prices asked. The demand for Teas suitable for coloured kinds was almost nil, and prices of this description must experience a considerable fall. Quotations:—Medium $16 to 18; medium to fine $19 to 23 per picul fine, none.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—The market had been very active, and a considerable amount of business had been done; settlements may be estimated at about 1,100 bales; prices were firm at previous quotations. Silk Worms' Eggs: Total arrivals to date were 280,000 cards, of which about 40,000 had changed hands; prices for best Sinchu and Oshu Annuals were quoted at $2 to $2½ per card.

HIOGO AND OSAKA.—Supplies had been brought forward freely during the month, and settlements had been made to the extent of 150 bales of 80 catties, a large proportion of which was old Silk. Prices paid had been irregular, but at steadily increasing rates. Dealers seemed indisposed to bring forward new Silk to any extent, except at still higher prices, reporting a considerable advance in the interior. The few parcels of new Silk which had appeared shewed evident signs of carelessness in the reeling, most of them being mixed and cased.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.—SEPT. 23.

TEA.

The following is from Messrs. Beebe's report:—Since the date of our last report a good business has been done in most descriptions of Tea. Included in the sales from first hands are 36,000 packages Green (about 20,000 of which are new crop Pingauy's), 18,200 half-chests Japan (5,000 of the new crop), 17,800 half-chests Oolong (4,000 of the new crop), and 2,900 half-chests Congou and Souchong (nearly all new). At the close, very few old crop Greens remain unsold. Our revised quotations show a decided improvement in medium and cargo kinds, while the higher grades are substantially without change. In old crop Japans of good medium grade an advance of one to two cents has been realised. For new the market is unsettled and weak, and quotations at the moment are nearly nominal. Oolongs show no quotable change in values. The few new crop goods thus far received have brought very full prices, but with more liberal supplies (now near at hand) a less satisfactory outcome may reasonably be looked for.

The following are the current quotations (in gold, duty 15c. paid):—Greens (Moyune, Teenki, and Fychow, old crop): Gunpowder, first quality, 103c. to 110c.; second, 78c. to 82c.; Imperial, first, 88c. to 90c.; second, 70c. to 75c.; Young Hyson, first, 88c. to 95c.; second, 75c. to 80c.; Hyson, first, 75c. to 80c.; second, 60c. to 65c.; Hyson Skin, 31c. to 40c.; Foochow Oolongs (old crop), common and good, 39c. to 46c.; superior and fine, 53c. to 65c.; finest, 70c. to 90c.; Amoy Oolongs (old crop), common and good, 38c. to 46c.; superior and fine, 50c. to 60c.; finest, 63c. to 65c.; Souchong and Congou (old and new crop), common and good, 27c. to 38c.; superior and fine, 43c. to 55c.; finest, 60c. to 75c.; Japans (new crop), common, nominal; medium, 53c. to 60c.; good medium, 63c. to 66c.; fine and finest, 70c. to 78c.; choice, 82c. to 85c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to Sept. 18, 1871, were as follows:—Greens, 15,751,103 lbs.; Japans, 11,589,359 lbs.; Souchongs, 2,572,804 lbs.; Oolongs, 11,547,818 lbs.; other sorts, 379,706 lbs.; total, 41,840,790 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 16,748,661 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 58,589,451 lbs. as the total supply. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to Sept. 18, 4,161,708 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 37,856,581 lbs., there remains a total of 16,571,162 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from Aug. 18 to Sept. 18 amounted to 1,309,803 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 3,092,767 lbs.; and the exports to 362,577 lbs.

SILK.

The following report upon the condition of the market is from Mr. O'Donoghue's Circular:—At the date of last circular appearances indicated considerable activity in the Raw Silk Market and a slight advance in prices. Since then, however, business has been limited to demands for actual consumption. Quotations have been fairly maintained for very fine grades of Re-reels. Of the latter there is a scarcity, and this, with the high price of gold, and the desire of the manufacturers to await fresh arrivals, tend in a great measure to check operations. Re-reeled Tsatiee and Hainin are in fair request at current rates. Usual real Tsatiees and Taysaams are in fair stock, with a moderate demand for best grades of Taysaam. Re-reeled Cantons, extra fine qualities, continue very scarce, and meet with ready sales at quotations. Inferior grades are in full stock, and slow of sale.

Prices current for China and Japan Raw Silks (currency prices six months' terms):—Tsatiee, No. 1, $9.1-4; No. 2, $8.75 to 9; No. 3, $8.1-4 to 8.1-2. Taysaam, No. 1, $7.75 to 8; No. 2 to 3, $7.3-8 to 7.5-8. Canton, re-reeled, good, $6.50 to 6.75; fair, $6.1-4 to 6.3-8; coarse, $5.7-5 to 5.7-8. Tsatiee, re-reeled, best, $8.1-2; fair and medium, $8 to 8.1-4. Haineen, re-reeled, best, $8.1-2 to 8.3-4; fair, $8.1-4 to 8.3-8. Canton, re-reeled, extra fine, $7 to 7.1-8. Japans: Maibash, Koshio, and Atchezan, no stock; Sodai, good, $8.50; Oshio, good, $8.50; Tamba, fair, $7.50 nominal.

Imports: In August, 1,234 packages, $659,758, gold value; corresponding month last year, 270 packages, $156,908 gold value.

COFFEE.—The quietude recently characterising the market for Brazil no longer obtains, the whole aspect of the market having been changed by a large demand which sprung up from the Trade and on speculation. There is considerable activity at a further advance of one-quarter of a cent in gold for all grades except prime cargoes, which, though very firm, did not improve with the others. The market closes buoyantly at the enhanced valuations, holders being as confident as ever, and buyers showing more readiness to meet their views than for some time past. The stock of Java has been increased by the arrival of an unsold cargo of 12,476 mats, but in a wholesale way there is nothing to report beyond the resale of 7,324 mats, ex Juno, on private terms. We notice, in a jobbing way, sales from second hands at 18½c. to 19c. for pale Singapore, 20c. to 20½c. for Brown ditto, 21½c. to 22c. for pale Java, 22c. to 22½c. for medium Brown, 22½c. to 23c. for Brown, and 24c. for extreme Brown, all gold.

CORDAGE.—Prices have advanced, and quotations now rule as follows:—Manila cordage, sizes above 12-thread, 21c.; do. 8-thread and 9-thread (½ in. and 5-16 in. diam.), 22c.; do. 12-thread (½ in. diam.), 21½c.; Manila hay rope, 21½c.; Manila cordage, bolt rope yarns, 23c.; do. 6-thread and 9-thread, 24c.; tarred Manila, 20½c.; fine tarred Manila lath yarn, 22c.

CAMPOR.—China is quoted 15c. gold (in bond), the stock is heavy. ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $2.85; Cassia, $2 gold (duty paid).

FIRE CRACKERS.—Market without alteration.

GUNNY CLOTH remains inactive; we quote nominally Native 15½c. to 15¾c., Borneo 17½c., cash.

HEMP.—The market for Manila is still very quiet, but continues firm, at the advance noted in our last report, the current quotation being still 13½c. gold. The sales have been 1,000 bales, ex Surprise, at 13½c. gold, 60 days prompt, ex ship; also 1,000 bales, per Imperatrice, and 200 bales, per John Temperley, to arrive at Boston, at 13½c. gold.

INDIGO.—Manila continues in fair demand at $1 to $1.20.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $3.50 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is 50c. to 60c. currency (duty free).

RICE.—The market exhibits a quieter tone, but prices show no alteration; sales are reported of 2,200 bags Rangoon at $6.75 to 7 currency, and 200 bags in bond at $3.20 gold.

SUGAR.—The market is dull, and prices are somewhat weaker. There are no sales of East India to report.

SPICES.—There is little doing in a wholesale way, stocks being for the most part concentrated in few hands, and run off in a jobbing way, as wanted by consumers. Prices of all kinds are firm, with an upward tendency in some descriptions. We notice the sale of Batavia Cassia at 34c.; Pepper at 16½c. for Sumatra, and 17½c. for Singapore. Nutmegs, 96½c. to 97½c. for casks, and $1 for Penang; and Mace, in lots, $1.45 to 1.50, all gold.

TIN.—The market is unaltered, a fair business having been done in Straits at the quotation given in our last report.

BOARD OF TRADE RETURNS.

The Board of Trade returns for the month and nine months ended the 30th September show in all departments of trade increased activity. As regards the exports of British and Irish produce during the month the totals were £19,913,186, against £17,090,823 in 1870, and £16,365,725 in 1869, while for the nine months they were £163,590,392, against £148,734,191 in 1870, and £142,707,536 in 1869. The principal increase is shown in coals and coke, cotton yarn, cotton manufactures, haberdashery and millinery, hardware and cutlery, iron and unwrought steel, linen manufactures, and woollen and worsted manufactures. With regard to imports, the declared value for the month was £25,133,452, against £25,908,308 in 1870, and £26,766,924 in 1869, while for the nine months the totals showed £239,893,908, against £214,138,847 in 1870, and £201,076,025 in 1869.

The following is an extract from these Returns of those figures which relate to our Export trade with China and other countries in the Far East :—

THE unreliable nature of the summaries of the news by the Pacific mails telegraphed to the American press has on several occasions been commented upon in our columns. The present mail affords another example. Among the items of news published in our last issue appeared a paragraph derived from the source alluded to, stating that the British charge d'affaires at Yokohama and the editor of the Japan Mail had been compelled to apologise to the American Minister for having uttered and published some insulting remarks concerning Americans generally and Mr. De Long in particular. We find on receipt of our advices that not the slightest foundation exists for this statement. It is high time that some restraint should be placed upon the lively imagination of the compiler of the China and Japan intelligence for the American press.

The appointment of Mr. THOMAS SIDGREAVES to the Chief Justiceship of the Straits Settlements, to which we recently alluded, has been gazetted.

THE OPENING UP OF THE UPPER YANGTZE.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—In your report of the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce it is not quite clear where the resolution on the Yangtze ends and the remarks of the speaker begin. I am happy to see, by a perusal of the resolution itself, that the idea of giving up two or three of the coast ports is no part of the resolution, but solely a proposal by the speaker. This is just what one would have expected from so intelligent a body as the Associated Chambers. The idea of giving up some of the smaller coast ports was fully examined and discussed recently by our Government and the China merchants, and was rejected as unsuitable. Besides other reasons, it is well to remember that with such a Government as the Chinese it is an exceedingly dangerous thing to record from a position once taken. The giving up of any port once opened would be trumpeted all over the Empire as a great victory over the barbarians, while the opening of a new port is known little, except in its immediate neighbourhood. Such a triumph, as excluding the foreigners from a position once occupied, would revive the courage of the anti-foreign party. The grass growing in the deserted hongs would be viewed as the omen and earnest of the good time coming when no foreign flag would anywhere profane the Celestial Empire. It is also to be remembered that it takes long before the capabilities of a port are developed. Chinkiang was once given up, or nearly so, and is now flourishing. Even Foochow seemed for some years to be almost useless, and the list might easily be increased. Nor will it do to forget the great value even of the smaller coast ports as means of developing the carrying trade and as harbours of refuge, and as places to which shipwrecked men can easily be brought from the intervening parts of the coast. For these and many other reasons it is to be hoped that the Treaty Powers will never withdraw from any of the ports now open to trade.—I remain, &c.,

A SIXTEEN YEARS' RESIDENT IN CHINA.

THE HONG KONG MEETING AND THE CRITICAL STATE OF MATTERS IN CHINA.

(To the Editor of The London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—Allow me to suggest that your comment on the Hong Kong meeting is scarcely warranted by the terms of the telegram. To my mind it would seem that the whole subject of the meeting was the state of the Hong Kong police force and the notorious insecurity of life and property in that colony. Of course I should be delighted if your view proves correct; for no doubt the present attitude of the Chinese Government is full of danger to all foreign interests in China. My latest advices from Amoy confirm your accounts of the excitement about the pills, with some incidental items which tend all the more to show the connection of the governing classes with the matter. e.g.:—1. The first proclamation endorsed the poisonous nature of the pills, and carefully avoided anything exculpating the foreigners, a well-known Chinese mode of indicating that the reports about foreigners were true. 2. The second proclamation was issued only after a strong representation by the American Consul, but yet it is a very half-and-half document, and was only posted in two or three places. 3. The excitement is spreading in the country round Amoy, especially in the Foo cities, which are full of these vile placards, as yet uncontradicted by the authorities. From Swatow the news is very similar. Such are just the means used by Oriental rulers for bringing about terrible events and then shaking off responsibility.—I remain, &c.,

A TRUE FRIEND OF CHINA.

THE SHAN SIN FAN QUESTION.

The Rev. J. Chalmers, writing from Canton under date August 3rd, answers, on his own account, the question lately propounded by the Nonconformist when commenting on the letter of the Rev. Griffith John. This question, as our readers may remember, was, "Do you wish the British Government to insist upon upholding Protestant missions in foreign lands by forcible intervention?"

Mr. Chalmers says, "Walking about here in Canton in the midst of the grand excitement created by 'Shan-sin-fan,' it is perhaps difficult to realise the full force of the abstract principle involved in the Nonconformist's question. Difference of religion is one of the many causes of Chinese hostility to foreigners. The minds of Chinese patriots are filled with dread, because they think, not without reason, that our intention is to convert the people to our religion, to our politics, to our philosophy, to our science and civilisation, and finally to draw them into the 'comity of nations,' or rather to bring them into a position of subordination to ourselves.

"Not being 'rogues,' but in general more or less of 'enthusiasts' (the alternative offered us by an English nobleman is perfectly just), we, missionaries, naturally have an intense desire for the propagation of Christianity in China. Force in some shape or another has been employed in order to secure that we and other foreigners may be here at all, and force in some shape or another has to be applied from time to time to enable us to remain here. But for the 'gun-boat' we evidently could not remain. But for the 'gun-boat' we could not put into circulation a single bible or tract. But for the 'gun-boat' every genuine convert to Christianity would have to hide himself away or be killed. In desiring forcible intervention, therefore, we only desire a continuation of what we have had more or less all along.

"It is not true that the whole people of China, or any great proportion of them, are opposed to our work, or wish to have the country rid of us. It was generally said, and it seemed highly probable about the 20th of last month, that seventy or eighty per cent. of the population of Canton city believed that the 'Shan-sin-fan' was a poisonous drug put into circulation by foreigners, especially by missionaries. The hostility and suspicion manifested by these seventy or eighty per cent. of the people for a week or ten days were natural enough, but are no index of their permanent state of feeling towards us.

"It is the duty of the Chinese authorities to control and punish the outbreaks of the rabble, and in general they are perfectly able to do so. Whenever they make the excuse that they cannot control them, it is because some of the officials themselves, or the gentry, are secretly backing them up. We therefore feel in such cases, not only that we ourselves and our converts are suffering gross injustice, but that the mass of the people, say seventy or eighty per cent., are, for the sake of undoing us, liable to be terrified and provoked to violence by the machinations of a few, these few including some of the highest in the land, officials perhaps, whom no body has the inclination or the power to control or punish, unless the powerful and enlightened Christian nations do it. For any one of these nations to enforce the good behaviour of those 'gentry,' would be an easy, inexpensive and bloodless undertaking compared with any European, or American war, and the benefits and blessings accruing from it to hundreds of millions would be beyond all estimation. Do I wish it? I cannot but say, yes. May the day be far off when the British public shall move the Government to withdraw its protection from the China mission by relaxing the stipulations of Lord Elgin's Treaty!"

NAVAL AND MILITARY.

The following letter, referring to the services of the 75th Regiment, appears in The Times, with the signature of "Pater":—"Some few years since the 75th Regiment of Foot was ordered to Hong Kong; a very rapid run of promotion followed, many officers not caring in these piping times of peace to face the pestilential perils of 'the white man's grave.' The above-named regiment is now en route to the fever-stricken isle of Mauritius. On Saturday last the Globe states, in substance, that in consequence of the rapid promotion in the 75th Regiment, by the new selection scheme officers whose advance has been slow in other corps will be placed in this as vacancies occur, in order to equalise length of service in the respective ranks. Now, Sir, I will ask you if it is just thus to deprive officers of the advantageous position they have gained by braving the risks of climate—men who have stood on the brink of the grave, and been face to face with a monument raised to the memory of 539 men, women, and children of the 59th Regiment, who in a very short period of service fell victims to fever, and whose remains are now in the Happy Valley?"

By last mail we have advices that Her Majesty's gunboat Leven, in entering the harbour of Chefoo, struck on the rock known as the Bluff, on the island at the mouth of the harbour, and still remains there. The Leven is a screw gun-vessel, mounting three guns, 300 tons, and 80-horse power. She is commanded by Lieutenant Albert W. Wish, and the following officers are also attached to her:—Navigating Sub-Lieutenant Charles R. Clark, Assistant-Surgeon F. J. A. Waring, Engineers A. Lawton and W. G. M. McQuire; First-class Assistant Engineer J. F. Lewis, Second-class gunner J. J. Richardson (acting). The Leven was built in 1856, and sailed from England May 4, 1857, for the East India and China station. She has successively visited Labuan, Hong Kong, Sarawak, Shanghai, Swatow, Hankow, Chingkiang, Foochow, Ningpo, &c.

From a telegram received at the Admiralty from Galle, which it left on the 1st inst., it appears that the crew of Her Majesty's ship Megara are at length quite safe. The words telegraphed are:—"All saved in Malacca. No stores embarked. Storms. [Rinaldo blown off. Caught mail in Australia." The despatch is signed "Captain Thripp." From this it may be concluded that the Malacca, after having embarked the stranded crew at St. Paul's Island, reached King George's Sound, en route to Sydney, in time to enable Captain Thripp to take passage home in the mail steamer, and he will probably arrive at Southampton early in November.

The screw-steamer Cheops has been taken up by the Government for the conveyance of reinforcements of Royal Artillery, Royal Engineers, and troops of the line, to Singapore and Hong Kong. A detachment of the 1st battalion of the 10th Regiment has arrived from Dublin, to be in readiness to embark on board the Cheops at Gravesend, with the other troops.

Captain Sherard Osborn, R.N., C.B., who has been appointed to the command of the armour-clad ship Hercules, will leave England by the packet of the 9th instant to join this vessel.

H.M.S. Iron Duke, with the flag of Rear-Admiral C. T. A. Shadwell, C.B., arrived at Gibraltar, all well, on the 28th ult., en route for China, via the Suez Canal.

The San Francisco News Letter says:—"A letter from Rangoon states that great amusement has been created in Burmah by the news of the reception given in England to the so-called 'Burmese noblemen.' There is no such thing as a Burmese nobleman, no hereditary rank save that of the King's family, which is large enough of itself to make a respectable order of nobility. His Majesty has from forty to fifty wives and a family that would form a goodly House of Peers. Many of the officials, says the writer, are raised from the lowest rank; and often in a moment, at that Sovereign's caprice, are reduced to it again. The father of one of the so-called noblemen is said to be at this moment engaged in day labour. Of course neither father nor son is any the worse for that; the fun is in calling your visitors noblemen.

The China clipper Titania, owned by Messrs. Shaw, Maxton, and Co., London, has made the passage from Anjer to London, round the Cape, in sixty-six days. The famed Aberdeen clipper Thermopylae passed Anjer six days before the Titania, and arrived in London on the 5th inst. Several other fast vessels left from ten to twenty days before the Titania, and have not arrived yet.

On the 5th inst. the marriage was celebrated at Christ's Church, Marylebone, of Wallis James Harding, barrister-at-law of the Middle Temple, with the Honourable Mrs. Savile, widow of the Honourable Charles Stuart Savile, fourth daughter of the third Earl of Mexborough. The bridegroom, after the honeymoon, proceeds to India, to practice at the Calcutta Bar.

JUSTICE IN THE FAR EAST.

IN a recent article we had much pleasure in expressing the feelings, which we shared with every one with whom we had conversed who had given attention to the subject, of respect for the conduct of Mr. Chief Justice SMALE in refusing to condemn KWOK-A-SING for a crime which was certainly in morals, and, as we are assured, in law also, no crime at all. The crime was all on the other side. KWOK-A-SING was inveigled or kidnapped on board a coolie ship at Macao, destined he knew not where, doomed he knew not to what. He, with his partners in slavery, rose against that part of the outscum of European prodigality which commanded and manned his floating gaol. He and his co-mates captured the ship, but only to set themselves free, though not without bloodshed, for the skipper was killed—a risk which we should think persons who embark in his profession regard as indirectly increasing its profits, and which we regard as very directly contributing to the profit of the world. KWOK-A-SING was twice released by Mr. Justice SMALE, on the ground that no man who merely sought to recover his liberty, when he had been unjustly deprived of it, could be held answerable for any casualty that might occur in his attempting to regain it. Why, the very principle of justice lies at the root of this proposition. In this country we are justified in shooting down the burglar who enters our house for the mere sake of stealing our plate; with what show of justice, then, can any man be punished in a British dependency for shooting down a tyrant who has confiscated his life, his prospects, his all? Mr. Justice SMALE twice dismissed this man for these incontrovertible reasons in opposition to the pertinacious and imperious dictation of the Governor and the Crown prosecutors. We respected him for the act, and at the time we noticed it we contrasted Mr. SMALE's independence, and respect for the great responsibilities of his office, with the supple complaisance of the Indian Bench to the Indian Government, which was not only shameful in itself but has led to the deplorable consequences which we believe sooner or later, and in some way or other, always attend "the judge who smites contrary to the law." How great, then, is our disappointment, to say nothing of our surprise, to observe by the last mail that Mr. SMALE has begun to falter in his opinion, and to hint at a change in it, in the most extraordinary terms that we ever knew employed by an English judge! He said he was very sorry that he had given judgment on the same day that the trial took place, and that he had "never been himself" since. "Himself" must be a very disadvantageous quality in a judge, if it means that he does not know his own mind two months together. But, if he thinks he has made a mistake, why does not Mr. SMALE speak more plainly? He does not say he was right, and he does not say he was wrong. All he says is that he has not been "himself" since the trial, and that he will probably not be able to give judgment finally till next term—when we presume he expects, like RICHARD, to be "himself again." But, with all respect to Mr. SMALE, whose highmindedness and honour we have no desire to call in question, this sort of reconsideration is neither calculated to increase the respect of prisoners for British justice, nor is it fair towards human nature "at large." If a judge is to change his mind one way, he is certainly liable to, and justified in, changing it the other; and, supposing that Mr. SMALE's first impressions had been unfavourable to the abused creature under notice, KWOK-A-SING would assuredly have been hanged—and then we think Mr. SMALE might indeed have avowed with truth that "he had not been himself since the trial." The fact is, as we are assured by a high legal authority, that a man once judicially released after a trial can never be constitutionally imprisoned again on the same charge. A case at present and for a long time past agitating the public mind at home (into the merits of which we cannot enter here) will forcibly illustrate this part of our argument. But, as our legal friend tells us, "all law is supposed to be founded on morals"—and so, no doubt, it is. It is, in fact, the very epitome of ethics. But, to be of the vast service that it is to the world, it must be prompt as well as right. A Criminal ELDON would not be tolerated in any Court in England. A man who cannot resolve and remain resolute is not fit for a judicial Bench. If he be wrong, on principle we respect his honour. If he makes many mistakes he will confess himself unfit for, or unable to bear, the responsibility of his office. In any case, it will be granted that want of presence of mind on the Judicial Bench is the one great evil which no society could endure. We do hope that Mr. SMALE will extricate himself from the dilemma in which we are sorry to see he has placed himself. But the fact remains that KWOK-A-SING has been imprisoned for an alleged offence of which he has been acquitted, and that he is now held liable to be punished for an alleged crime by the same judge who pronounced it to be no crime at all. Quis custodiet custodes? The day will be an evil one for England and her dependencies when British Judges are compelled to bow to public opinion, or yield to "political necessity." It is a day which we believe will never come; but if it should, English justice must be fain to confess, in Mr. SMALE's phraseology, that it is "not itself" indeed.

EUROPEAN EXAMPLE IN CHINA.

AT a meeting convened under the auspices of the United Kingdom Temperance Alliance, at which Mr. CHARLES REED presided, on the 2nd inst., the Chairman took occasion to make some remarks which should not be permitted to pass without notice. The hon. member for Hackney is too well known as an earnest philanthropist and reformer for any utterances of his to be supposed for a moment to have no influence, not only on the minds of his hearers, but also on the public mind. On this occasion we think that Mr. REED, in his anxiety to promote one object, lost sight of another, and drifted from an imaginary Scylla upon a real Charybdis. He said that a "distinguished traveller had told him that in Japan, in China, in Circassia, and other countries which he had visited, the great bane of society was intemperance; and that that intemperance was in a great measure due to the connection of those countries with the British nation." Now, a more monstrous proposition than this was never advanced. So far from England being the cause of intemperance in any of the places named, we say that our missionaries, our merchants, and indeed every class above the rabble, are the real exemplars of temperance in the East, and almost the only instances to be found there. Mr. REED must know, upon reflection, that alcohol was not only known in all parts of the East for ages before we have any record of its existence here, but that the Oriental slaves of either of the "Seven sisters of sleep" habitually intoxicate themselves, whether by the fumes or the distillation of maddening drugs, on a kind of "principle." He must know that a Chinese does not blush to be told that he takes opium, or a Hindoo that he consumes hemp. These people defend their practices on the positivist principle of condensing the greatest amount of enjoyment into the shortest number of hours—in our own vulgar terms, "a short life and a merry one." We, in common with all thoughtful persons, deplore the existence of intemperance among a large section of the lower orders of our countrymen; but we protest against Mr. REED, or any one, charging us as a nation with corrupting the Chinese, the Japanese, or Indians. He might say with equal reason that because a few bigamists have betaken themselves to Bengal, they have seduced the Brahmins into polygamy, or because some fraudulent grocers may have run away to Canton, they have taught the Chinese how to make the Maloo Mixture. We wish to see intemperance put down, and a strong hand exercised in the formation of new laws to regulate the issue of licences in our own country; but we cannot be content to stand by and see that country held up to contempt for being the cause of vices which flourished in all their rankness for countless ages before England started on the race of civilisation, which she now so nobly heads.

The railway section between St. Michel and Modane being completed, it is expected that through service between France and Italy, via the Mont Cenis Tunnel, will be established from the 16th inst.

Monetary and Commercial.

The tenders for £400,000 in bills on India were received on the 3rd inst. at the Bank of England, when the amounts allotted were—to Calcutta, £326,600; to Bombay, £70,000; and to Madras, £3,400. The minimum price was fixed, as before, at 1s. 10½d. on all the Presidencies, and tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 11½d. will receive about 66 per cent., and on Bombay at that price in full. These results show a further increase in the demand for means of remittance to the East.

The half-yearly meeting of the proprietors of the Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London, and China will be held on the 17th inst. A dividend of 3 per cent. for the six months has been declared, payable on and after the 14th inst. The half-yearly statement of accounts to 30th June shows a net profit of £43,047 2s. 7d. The dividend of 3 per cent. will absorb £22,500, leaving a balance of £20,547 2s. 7d. carried forward to next account. The directors state that the continued adverse state of Eastern exchanges during the whole of the half-year has again seriously affected the profitable working of the Bank; but under these unfavourable circumstances it is hoped the result may be considered not unsatisfactory.

An extraordinary meeting of the Singapore Gas Company (Limited) will be held on the 24th inst., to declare a dividend.

The duplicate line of the Falmouth, Gibraltar, and Malta Telegraph Company has been completed, and both lines are in working order.

With reference to the proposed amalgamation of the various telegraph lines communicating between this country and the East, the following letter, signed "P. C.," has appeared in the Financier :—

With reference to the proposed amalgamation of the various telegraph companies from Falmouth to Australia and China, there is one point of great importance, tending to put such amalgamation entirely out of the question, and to which it is desirable the attention of the shareholders should now be drawn. Few men of business, if any, will now express a doubt that, before many years pass over us, a railway to India will have become an accomplished fact. What will be the effect upon the price of a telegram to India? At home it is about to be 6d., and the probability is you can then telegraph along the line of railway for about as many shillings as, to India, you now pay pounds. What, then, becomes of the "British-Indian Telegraph Company," also of the "Falmouth" and "Anglo-Mediterranean," as far as concerns their share in the Indian business? The day of telegraphing to India by cable will become as obsolete as the passenger traffic round the Cape of Good Hope. But what will be the effect upon the lines beyond India? Precisely the contrary. By cheapening the present excessive cost to and from the Madras terminus of the Singapore Extension, you infinitely improve the prospects of that line, the China, and the Australian; and yet these companies are now invited to amalgamate with a doomed system. I venture to think the shareholders of these lines will object, and with perfect reason, to do anything of the sort.

At a meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Keep, Parsons, and Co., in the Indian and Australian trade, the balance-sheet showed liabilities to the extent of £152,063, against assets estimated to be worth £122,013. The assets comprise stock in Sydney, including goods in transitu, amounting to £54,073. It was resolved to accept a composition of 12s. in the pound, payable in instalments extending over twenty-one months, the last instalment of 2s. to be secured.

A meeting of the creditors of Mr. Charles William Ryder, merchant, of Liverpool, Manchester, Batavia, and Pernambuco, has been held at Liverpool. The balance-sheet showed that there was owing to unsecured and part-secured creditors £87,000; on bills discounted, £140,400. The available assets were estimated to produce about 2s. in the pound. Considerable sympathy was expressed for Mr. Ryder, and after a long discussion it was resolved to wind up under inspection.

BULLION AND SPECIE.

SILVER.—Owing to large supplies the price has declined, and may now be quoted as 5s. 0½d. to 5s. 0¼d. per oz. standard. The demand is chiefly for Holland, and there is not yet any inquiry for the East. The West India steamer has brought about £100,000, and we have also received about £50,000 from New York. The Poonah has taken £15,300 to China.

MEXICAN DOLLARS.—There are about £250,000 in value of this coin now on the market. There is a good demand for the old coinage for China, but the new can only be sold at its relative value, compared to Bar Silver, and will, therefore, now be lower in price. Quotations :—old coinage, 5s. 0½d., new, 4s. 10½d.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

—o—

TEA.

There has been a very steady demand during the interval, but business has not been extensive, on account of the absence of fresh supplies, the only arrival being the Titania, from Foochow. Prices have ruled very firmly for all but the lower descriptions of Tea, which continue very heavy of sale at rather lower rates. The stock in the United Kingdom on the 30th ultimo was estimated at 76,950,000 lbs., against 73,700,000 lbs., and the quantity afloat at 30,429,310 lbs., against 32,737,790 lbs. last year.

Red-leaf Congous: Siftings are only saleable in moderate quantity at the low rates current. Broken-leaf kinds show no alteration. Fair to good common have been firmly supported at from 10½d. to 11½d. per lb., but sales have not been large. Fair to good Kaisows have sold from 1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d. per lb., being fully former prices. Fine to finest have also been taken at firm prices, say from 1s. 11d. to 2s. 6d. Pak Lin kinds remain steady, there being some demand for export for really fine quality. Black-leaf kinds: Low qualities sold at a reduction of about ½d. per lb. at yesterday's auctions. Fair to good common of old import have been neglected; those of this season have been sold to some extent, the later sales showing a rise of ½d. per lb., the quotations being 11d. to 1s. per lb. Fair kinds have been in request, and, in the absence of further arrivals, have sold rather higher. Good, from 1s. 5d. to 1s. 9d. per lb., show a further recovery of ½d. to 1d. per lb. Fine to finest remain firm at fully previous prices. Amoy kinds: Low descriptions are almost unsealable; fair quality has been sold from 9½d. to 10d. per lb., being steady prices. New-make Canton kinds: Some of fair quality have been sold at 1s. 2d. per lb., showing ½d. per lb. advance. Good to fine have been enquired for. Souchongs: Some parcels finest have been sold from 2s. 6d. to 2s. 7d. per lb.; good to fine show no alteration. Oolongs: Some good Ko-Kew kinds sold at public auction from 1s. 5½d.

to 1s. 6d. Fine black-leaf kinds are still in request. Further sales of Flowery Pekoes have been made at high prices for fine quality. Scented Teas: Canton Capers have been sold at rather easier prices. Foochow kinds have sold at the decline last quoted; Canton Orange Pekoes remain dull of sale at former prices. Foochow kinds have sold in limited quantity at the recent decline. Uncoloured Japans show no change. Green Teas: There have been no fresh arrivals, and prices show no change, the demand being moderate for common to fair quality, and good for fine to finest. Canton Gunpowders, sold at public sale, for common kinds, from 8d. to 8½d., fair quality at 11d. per lb.

The following is from Messrs. Shepard, Harrison and Rehden's Circular:—In the absence of supplies, the Titania's Teas being only partly on offer, a good opportunity has occurred to merchants for disposing of old imports, and during the past week several thousand chests of old season's have been offered; little business, however, has resulted, owing to the low offers; but new leaf has been in good demand at a recovery of 1½d. to 2d. per lb. from the lowest point, and prospects point to a steady market for some time, as supplies will not be excessive, and the consumption of good Tea continues on a large scale. There has been more inquiry for export to the Continent, and a few transactions have taken place in good medium black-leaf, at 1s. 6d. to 1s. 8d. per lb. Deliveries read highly satisfactory, and stand thus:—

SILK.

The interval has been one of good steady business, prices fluctuating very little, and slightly hardening at the close, the market being very firm at quotations. China Silk still commands the most attention, and good qualities of both Tsatlee and Taysam sell readily; the later arrivals, however, show a marked falling off in quality, as compared with previous imports. Canton Silks finds many buyers, owing to its comparative cheapness, but the consumption, large as it is, does not keep pace with the arrivals, and thus the market seems always fully supplied; prices of ordinary market Tsatlees are slightly easier during the month, but fine qualities still command high rates. In Japan Silk there is a small business doing at rather better prices, but it seems marvellous that the low rates ruling for this Silk do not tempt manufacturers to buy more freely. Bengal Silk is still almost a dead letter, a small business has been doing during the last few days in filatures, at easier rates, but medium and common sorts are quite neglected: the stocks of this Silk are becoming very heavy. Consumption continues large, the deliveries of all but Bengal being very good.

According to Messrs. Arles Dufour and Co., of Lyons, the market of that city, during the past few weeks, under the influence of a well supported demand for nearly all branches of manufacture, except plain black Silks, and a good inquiry for abroad, coupled with the peaceful settlement of political questions at home, has been fairly active. The still moderate quotations for European sorts have continued to cause a marked preference for them, and a further advance of f.3 to f.6 has been established. The first arrivals of new Silk from China, although welcomed on a bare market, were not taken so eagerly as might have been expected, and prices have slightly declined.

COFFEE.

The market is somewhat quieter than at the date of our last report, the quantity of Ceylon placed on offer at the public sales during the week having been limited. The demand has been fully equal to the supply, and all offers have been taken off at last week's currency. Privately a good demand prevails, more especially of Native Ceylon; of which about 700 bags have been sold—bold at 61s. to 61s. 6d.; also 900 bags pale Manila, of recent auctions, at 62s.

The landings for the week are considerably less than those in the corresponding week last year, viz., 2,130 tons, which, together with an increase of 320 tons in the total deliveries, enlarges the previous deficiency in the stocks to 4,200 tons. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 117,731 cwt., against 204,591 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1870; Native 17,960 cwt., against 10,728 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is 5,811 cwt. Plantation, against 2,402 cwt., and 1,225 cwt. Native, against 3,136 cwt. The quantity of Coffee landed in the thirty-nine weeks ended Sept. 30, 1871, was, of Ceylon, 31,824 tons, against 30,651 tons during the corresponding period of 1870; of all descriptions, 53,626 tons, against 53,242 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 8,524 tons, against 7,948 tons; of all descriptions, 15,018 tons, against 14,230 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 24,695 tons, against 22,009 tons; of all descriptions, 44,937 tons, against 35,623 tons. The stock on Sept. 30 was, of Ceylon, 12,210 tons, against 14,558 tons; of all descriptions, 23,480 tons, against 27,608 tons.

SUGAR.

A considerable improvement is noticeable in the market, and a good demand has been shown, especially for Manila, resulting in extensive sales at prices showing an advance of 6d. upon the late lowest range, and of 3d. upon last week's rates. The following are the particulars of the sales. Penang: In auction of 8,511 bags offered, about 2,500 bags sold, middling to good soft colour (duty 5s. 3d.) at 33s. to 34s., washed at 30s. to 31s. 6d. Manila: At public sale 26,000 bags good clayed (duty 4s.), have been sold at 26s. to 26s. 6d.; 9,400 bags Zebu at 22s.; 4,000 bags Taal at 22s.; also afloat the cargo per Hengiat 28,000 bags Ilo Ilo unclayed at 23s. landed terms, and the cargo per Pactolus 22,000 bags (about 700 tons) Ilo Ilo unclayed arrived off coast at 23s. 3d. landed terms for London.

The deliveries for the week, although larger than in the preceding, are still quite 700 tons less than in the same week last year, but as the landings are 1,760 tons less, the deficiency in the stock is again slightly increased, being 30,200 tons. Stock, Sept. 23, 72,817 tons, against 102,029 tons; Sept. 30, 69,521 tons, against 99,767 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the thirty-nine weeks ended Sept. 30, 1871, was, of Penang, 1,312 tons, against 2,277 tons in the corresponding period of 1870; of Manila, Java and China, 17,134 tons, against 15,183 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 3,046 tons, against 1,689 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 24,543 tons, against 20,177 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 192 tons, against 96 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 1,060 tons, against 2,259 tons. The stock on Sept. 30 was, of Penang, 1,050 tons, against 2,822 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 19,321 tons, against 28,537 tons.

CAMPOR.—The market has been steady, but quiet; about 600 cases China have changed hands at 70s. per cwt. for good new import re-weights, and 67s. 6d. landing weights. In Japan, which is scarce, there is no change to report.

CHINA ROOT.—Very quiet; stocks small; few transactions.

COIR GOODS.—At the last public sales the offers of Yarn were of moderate extent, and the greater part was disposed of at full rates. A good quantity of fibre offered also brought firm prices. Of 321 bales fine Ceylon Yarn 220 bales sold, fine £45 to £50, superior well made £56; 26 tons in dholls. sold, common £26 10s., low medium to medium £30 to £33 10s., good medium to good £34 to £35 15s.; 19 tons Cochiti sold, common £25 15s. to £28 10s., good common £28 5s. to £29, low medium £29 10s.; 636 bales Cochiti fibre all sold, middling £26 10s., chiefly low middling mixed at £23 10s., 975 ballots (3 tons) Ceylon were bought in at £30.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—At public sale of 546 casks Ceylon offered 105 casks sold at easier rates, viz., 12 pipes brown Ceylon at £35 15s.; 30 puncheons ordinary to good, £36 10s. to 37s. 15s.; and 63 hogsheds very fine, £39 15s.; yellow to fine, £38 5s. to £39 5s.; inferior, £36 15s.; for arrival 200 tons have been sold at £38. Privately Ceylon in pipes is obtainable at £38, in hogsheds at £38 10s.

COLOMBO ROOT.—Market firm; stock withheld from sale.

COPRA.—No Penang in the market.

CUBEBS.—Market unaltered; 158 bags at auction sold at 23s. to 26s. per cwt. for fair greyish to good.

CUTCH.—There has been more disposition apparent to buy, but it has not resulted as yet in much business being done, the sales being confined to 66 tons 170 bags Pegu, part Fish mark at 19s. 3d., part broken at 19s., and about 2,000 boxes fine at 21s. 6d. to 22s. per cwt.

DRAGON'S-BLOOD.—No transactions since our report of the 25th ult.

EBONY.—Very fine figured Ceylon would command extreme rates, on account of continued scarcity; 17 tons at auction retired.

GALLS.—A fair amount of business has been done in China at 50s. to 52s. 6d., showing a slight advance, and at the close holders are demanding a still higher figure. No business to report in Japan.

GAMBER.—The better demand reported in our last has been maintained, and prices have further advanced 3d. to 6d. per cwt. On the spot 100 bales pressed Cubes have been sold at 18s., and about 600 bales block at 16s. 9d. to 17s. per cwt. For arrival, 600 tons at 16s. 7½d. per cwt. ex ship.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Sumatra 2nds and 3rds are steady; of 222 cases offered, three-fourths sold at £7 10s. to £8 12s. 6d. per cwt. for good middling to fair 2nds; and 72s. 6d. to 80s. 3rds. 10 cases Siam sold at £14 10s. to £25 5s. for hard dark block to fine free. Manila Copal steady; 1,073 cases offered, and nearly all retired; sales for this day. Damar very quiet; of 120 cases offered about three-fourths sold at 63s. to 64s. for fine bold pale. Gamboge steady; a good portion of 30 cases offered found buyers at £11 to £14 5s. per cwt. ordinary to very good.

GUTTA-PERCHA.—Market very quiet, for the common kinds; auctions have embraced 3,474 packages and 6 tons, only a small proportion of which was sold; middling to fair genuine 1s. 7½d. to 2s. 0½d. per lb.; white, 1s. 2½d. to 1s. 5½d.; reboiled, 1s. 2½d. to 1s. 2¾d.

HEMP.—The market for Manila has continued very firm, and a rising tendency is still manifested; private transactions have embraced about 4,000 bales; Sorsagon, £50; fair to good roping, £49 to £52 per ton; superior brown, £44 10s. to £45. In auction, the bulk of 3,000 bales offered, was bought in at £49 for roping, up to £55 10s. for Sorsagon, a quantity damaged being sold at £48 15s. fourth to first quality.

HORNS.—Siam Buffalo firm and higher; no offers at the sales.

HIDES.—At the fortnightly sales held on the 5th a large quantity of East India kips was brought forward, and about three-fourths sold without any material alteration in prices. Buffalo were in limited demand, and partly sold at late rates. Of 5,249 Penang Ox and Cow offerred, 4,570 sold. Light 7 lb. at 10d. to 11½d., heavy 8½ to 9½ lb. at 9½d. to 9½d., extra 13½ to 14½ lb. at 9d. to 9½d., small and calf 9½d. to 10½d., thirds 6½ to 6½ lb. at 6½d. to 7½d., fourths 7½ to 7½ lb. at 5½d. to 6d. Of 7,477 Singapore and Penang Buffalo offered, 3,787 sold, light 13 to 15 lb. at 6½d. to 7½d., heavy 25 to 35½ lb. at 4½d. to 5½d. Of 1,951 Batavian 691 sold, 26½ lb. at 8d. to 8½d.

INDIA-RUBBER.—Good kinds are scarce, common neglected; 29 baskets Java at auction retired; of 50 bags Assam, about half sold at 1s. 3½d. to 1s. 4½d. per lb.; 60 cases Borneo sold at 1s. 8½d., and 184 baskets retired.

ISINGLASS.—Public sales have embraced 213 packages Penang, chiefly sold at and after the sales at fully the previous value, viz.: leaf, ordinary to fine 2s. 2d. to 3s. 9d.; tongue, common to fine 1s. 6d. to 3s. 4d.; purse, low to fine 8d. to 1s. 10d.; 16 cases Singapore were placed:—good to fine bold bright, clean pipe 3s. 9d. to 3s. 10d.; dark 2s. 1d. to 2s. 4d.

JAPAN WAX.—The market continues very firm, with fair trade doing in good, but part greasy at 97s. 6d. per cwt. At auction, 8 boxes were retired. Stock very small.

MUSK.—Continues very steady, and of 66 caddies at auction about two-thirds sold—fair and good even well-shaped selected pods, slightly damp, at 32s. to 33s. 6d.; good rough and part bally, 17s. to 21s.; very rough and bally and part false packed, 14s. 6d. to 15s. 6d. 13 tins grain, half sold at 56s. to 57s. per oz. for fine.

OILS.—Aniseed again higher, and business done up to 10s. 3d. per lb.; 8 cases sold at auction at 9s. 8d. to 9s. 9d. Cassia has been rather quiet, but firm prices are maintained; 16 cases at auction retired. Nutmeg firm and scarce, with more inquiry; 4 cases at sale bought in. Cinnamon very scarce, and wanted. Citronelle steady; fair trade at 1½d. per oz.; 132 cases at auction sold at 1½d. for good, with a few lots at 1½d. Lemon Grass steady, and 45 cases offered sold at 2½d. to 3d. per oz. for good.

PLUMBAGO.—Market steady: at auction 1,046 barrels partly sold—lump fair bright 22s. 6d. to 24s.; middling 17s. to 19s.; chips middling to good 13s. to 15s. 6d.; dust middling to fair 6s. to 8s.

PEPPER.—Black has continued to advance, and public sales have embraced 189 bags Singapore, 1,924 bags Penang and 226 bags Batavia, nearly all sold, together with about 5,000 bags Singapore, and 7,000 bags Penang privately, closing spot prices being for the former 7½d., and the latter 6½d. to 6½d. for fair quality. Afloat some 400 tons chiefly Penang at 6d. to 6½d., according to position, distant Singapore 6½d. White has also moved in an upward direction, and about 1,000 bags have changed hands up to 11½d. per lb. for fair Singapore. The market closes firm.

RHUBARB.—About previous value was obtained at the last public sales, when 150 cases China were offered and three-fourths sold.

RATTANS.—Market firm; 8,321 bundles Singapore sold at auction at 5s. 5d. to 5s. 9d. per 100 canes for good.

RICE.—The market on the spot has shown little or no alteration during the week, but an increased inquiry having been manifested for floating cargoes, the prices paid for these have slightly advanced. On the spot white Bengal has realised 12s. 3d., fine white 12s. 6d., good white 11s. 9d., ex quay fair to good Madras 10s. 3d. to 10s. 4½d., old Rangoon 9s. 4½d., and new Necransie 10s. ex quay; for arrival middling white Bengal has been sold at 10s. to 10s. 3d. ex quay, yellow at 9s. 9d. to 10s. ex quay, Madras at 10s. to 10s. 4½d. ex quay. The following floating cargoes have been sold:—The Royal Tar, 950 tons Bassein, arrived off coast, at 10s. 1½d. continental terms. The Australia, 960 tons Rangoon, July sailing, at 10s. 7½d. for the continent. The Eulalia, 740 tons Necransie, at 10s. 3d. for the continent. The Coringa, 1,140 tons Moulmein, arrived off the coast, at 10s. 5½d. for the continent. The Springfield, 1,420 tons Necransie, is reported sold at 10s. ex ship London. The Belle, 370 tons Rangoon, at 10s. 10½d. for the continent.

SPICES.—Cassia Lignea quieter, and little doing; holders few, and asking high figures. Vera very quiet. In Buds there is no change, but holders are very firm. Cloves: Penang are still chiefly held in one hand. More inquiry is apparent, and high figures are demanded. Amboyua very dull, especially for the ordinary kinds, of which the supply is more than ample: 12 casks sold, fine at 10½d. to 10½d. per lb., and 80 bags inferior and sea-damaged at 3½d. to 3½d. Nutmegs are again the turn higher; private trade restricted in consequence. At sale 85 cases were offered, and mostly sold: 64's to 66's at 4s. 1d. to 3s. 9d. per lb.; 70's to 90's 3s. 6d. to 3s. 1d.; 108's to 115's 3s. to 2s. 11d. Mace maintains its value, and 27 packages sold at auction at 4s. 4d. to 4s. 6d. per lb. fair palish and reddish.

SAGO.—Steady, but very little done, and at sale only a small proportion of 978 bags offered found buyers at 16s. per cwt. for fine small. Flour: Very firm, and a large trade done afloat up to 15s. 7½d. per cwt. On the spot transactions are limited.

SAPANWOOD.—Manila and Siam: Superior quality is still scarce, and in request; there are no transactions to report. Ceylon: Firm, with inquiry. Some fine lots are on the market, but extravagant prices are demanded; a few tons offered at auction, and retired.

SHELLS.—Without transactions; periodical sales fixed for the 10th inst.

SOY.—In fair demand, and prices advancing.

STAR ANISEEDS.—No supply; offers would meet with ready sale.

STICK LAC.—Market continues steady for all good qualities of Siam; none offered, and private trade nominal.

TAPIOCA steady; at auction 657 bags Singapore were offered, and about half sold at 2d. to 2½d. per lb. for large white flakey to fine white even; and 186 bags Pearl Bullets retired.

TIN.—The market has continued to exhibit an advancing tendency, and quotations close as follows:—Straits, on the spot, £135 to £136; afloat, £136; Banca, £139. Messrs. French and Smith state that if the deliveries continue as large during the remainder of the year as hitherto, and arrivals are not greater, the long predicted Tin famine may be really near—at any rate we cannot but anticipate the present rates will be fully maintained for some little time. Stock in London 1st inst. 970 tons.

ARTICLES OF EXPORT.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

Since the 29th ult. prices have had a hardening tendency, in sympathy with the firmness in the Liverpool Cotton Market. The business transacted has, however, been very limited, as buyers are not inclined to follow the advance, but up to the close of the market producers have held steadily for the annexed quotations. At the prices accepted last week a fair amount of business is offered, and declined.

METALS.

IRON.—Welsh: Rails, £6 15s. to £7 5s.; Bars, £6 5s. to £7. Staffordshire Best: Bars, £8 15s. to £9 10s.; Nail Rods, £8 12s. 6d. to £9 5s.; Hoops, £9 15s. to £10 5s.; Sheets, £10 15s. to £11; Scotch, Pig No. 1, £3 2s. to £3 12s. 6d.; Swedes, Bars, Hammered, £9 17s. 6d. to £10 10s., Swedes, Steel in kegs, ½ and ¾ in., £14 to £14 15s.

YELLOW METAL.—Sheets, 4 by 4 ft., 6½d. to 7d.; Sheathing and Rods, 6½d. to 7½d. per lb.

TIN.—English Refined, £142. Tin Plates: Charcoal I C, per box, 29s. to 33s. 6d.; Coke, 26s. to 27s.

LEAD.—W.B., £20 5s.; do., other brands, £18 to £18 2s. 6d.; Spanish, soft, ex ship, £17 10s.; Sheet, £18 10s. to £19; Shot,

SPELTEN.—Silesian, £18 5s. to £18 10s.; English, smelted from ores, £18 10s.

The following is from Messrs. French and Smith's Circular:—The increased value of money has had no effect in the Metal Market, the large demand of late having been for consumption, and, in some cases, notably in Iron and Tin, prices have advanced in spite of a dearer Money Market. Iron: Orders for all sorts, Pig and Manufactured, are in excess of the producing power. Manufactured Iron is very firm at an advance in all of £1 per ton, and there is unprecedented difficulty in obtaining deliveries. Copper: In spite of the more favourable statistical position of this metal the market has been heavy. The demand for home consumption is large, and the Continent is taking considerable quantities; but our existing stocks are more than sufficient to meet this demand, and while speculation continues so languid, we do not look for any important rise. Tinplates: The demand continues very large, and makers have difficulty in giving quick delivery. Prices are very firm. Lead continues steady, with a good demand, but with little variation in price. Spelter firm. The alterations during the past month have been unimportant. Quicksilver is quoted £10 10s. per bottle.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

In Bilious Disorders, Sick Headache, Indigestion, and affections of the nerves, these famous Pills, so highly appreciated in all quarters of the world, are regarded as a perfect remedy. They purify the blood, regulate the secretions, give tone to the stomach, restore the appetite, and renovate the system. After a course of these Pills, the once emaciated and feeble patient is so changed that his friends are both wonder-struck and delighted. These cheap preservatives of life and health are a blessing to mankind. It would be hardly possible to overstate the good that they have effected in diseases which, through maltreatment or neglect, had gained such a mastery over the frame that their eradication seemed perfectly hopeless.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN. YOKOHAMA.

Our advices from the Japan ports bear the same dates as those received by Pacific Mail, and published in our last issue.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

Dates extend to the 25th August. The English mail of 30th June arrived out on the 14th, and the following French mail of 7th July on the 22nd August. The following items are from the North China Herald of 25th August:—

There has been a missionary disturbance at a village near Ningpo. In the course of a procession praying for rain, a native Christian preacher thought fit to hold forth against idolatry, and, it is said, struck the idol. The people thought the time inopportune, and beat him. The magistrate ordered 400 blows a-piece, to the preacher for insulting the religion of the country and being thereby instrumental in getting up a row—to the others for making a row. Our correspondent's letter gives some details, for the accuracy of which, however, he cannot strictly vouch, as they are derived from a Chinese source. Dr. Parker, it will be seen, denies the truth of the statement that the preacher struck the idol. It is, of course, difficult to ascertain the exact truth in these Chinese rows; and the question is one of credibility. Our informant assured us that he had made careful inquiry, and believed his version to be true. We shall probably hear more anon.

We hear that the Taoutai has withdrawn the prohibition against Portuguese subjects taking out permits at the Customs to land opium.

The Peking Gazette contains a rather amusing memorial from Tseng-kwo-Fan, regarding the appointment of a magistrate to Pao-shan. We have always heard the Chinese speak of this office as a rich sinecure. The Pao-shan district is purely agricultural; there is very little to do in it, and the yield of land-tax is said to be enormous, leaving a fine margin for the magistrate. Great stress is laid upon the fact of Woosung being in his district; but we do not see very clearly what he has to do with the steamers which pass in and out of the Wangpoo. He might perhaps do something, if he would, to make the junks anchor in better order.

Newchwang is enjoying delightful weather, so cool that some distinguished visitors who have run over from Chefoo only wish they could send for their families and remain longer. Next year our correspondent suggests excursion steamers weekly between Newchwang and Shanghai. Thus far the rains have not been excessive and the crops are promising, but the news from Tientsin of the want and suffering there, can but exact sympathy and uncertainty for this province until the wet season has passed. At Kaichow, twenty miles south, there has been a flood, which caused great loss of property, and a large number of lives. The foreign community have subscribed liberally for those who are thus destitute. The Russian gunboat Gornostay and French Scorpion have visited us, and now we have the American gun vessel Palos, to remain until November. Business in imports has greatly improved, while produce has advanced in value, owing to an unusual demand from Swatow, Hong Kong, and Japan.

There is nothing startling at Chefoo, and life there would be very dull but for the number of visitors and health-seekers from Shanghai and other places who have honoured it with their presence. Mr. Wade, with Mrs. Wade and family, left on the 10th inst., in H.M.S. Ocean, for Tientsin. On hoisting his flag as Minister Mr. Wade received the customary salutes from the men-of-war in the harbour. The Ocean has returned from her trip to Taku with Mr. Wade, and succeeded, we hear, in running down a large Amoy trading junk on her return passage. The crew of the junk, forty hands, were saved. H.M.'s Minister is unfortunate; the Leven ran ashore in bringing him down. Some people will think he had better travel by ordinary steamers. He left Tientsin in boat, en route for Peking, on the evening of the 15th August.

By the Customs statistics of trade at Shanghai for the second quarter of 1871, looking first at Cotton Goods, we find the enormous import of 3,210,694 pieces Grey Shirtings, against 954,153 last year; and 1,161,354 pieces T-Cloths, against 637,637. The import of Drills has risen from 58,000 to 100,000, and that of Chintzes fallen from 109,000 to 15,000. There has been a considerable decrease, too, in Velvets, Velveteens, and Dimities. The aggregate import of Woollens is 13,000 pieces less than in the corresponding quarter of 1870. Spanish Stripes and Lastings show each an increase of 5,000 pieces; Crape Lastings, Long Ells, and Lustres, each a falling off.

We take the following extracts from a letter on the overland journey to China through Siberia in the Shanghai Courier. The writer says:—

Robber hordes in large bodies infest the caravan roads of Mongolia. They are from Thibet or its neighbourhood, and of the tribe of Kirghis. The Russian merchants have stopped shipping, or rather transporting, their teas to Kiachta; 2,000 Chinese troops have been sent on to quell this insurrection, and the Russians in the north have sent troops to the number of 800, principally artillery, for the protection of Urga. At this Russian protection the Kirghis are very much annoyed, as it was their purpose to rifle and plunder the place. As a consequence of this state of things the traveller has great difficulty in obtaining Mongols, and if obtained (there are very few here just now) they want to go at least 100 miles to the eastward of the direct route, on purpose to avoid the Kirghis banditti. Taking all things into consideration, it would be anything but pleasant to be taken by them and thought to be a Russian subject.

On the road from Tientsin we saw in a Joss-house (a large one with a pagoda in its grounds and close to Peking) a very considerable quantity of poppy seed stored for future culture in this neighbourhood. In the neighbourhood of Shuen-wha-foo we saw large fields of the poppy under cultivation, much of it in bloom with white flower, but principally with pod containing seed. Several men were employed in scraping with a piece of iron the pod or bulb containing the seed into a small pot held in his other hand. This scraping process goes on every morning. I thought the opium was not allowed to be grown in China; here in one place it is right under the walls of a large city; in another close to their metropolis, and, if I mistake not, within Imperial ground.

The Peking Gazette of the 19th July mentions the arrival in the Hupeh province of an embassy from Cochin China, on its way to Peking. Of course it brings "tribute"—among which figure three elephants; but one of these died at Wuchang, either from fatigue or from the care of the "elephant doctor." It would be interesting to know how these animals are taken through China. If they are marched, and the roads are anything like they are in this province, their death from fatigue is not surprising.

As an example of the heavy weather that has lately occurred on the coast, we call attention to the reports of the ships Daylight, Esmeralda, Vesta, and Canton, which have had to put back. The British barque Kedron, which sailed for New York on August 16th, tea laden, had also to put back to Woosung, with loss of sails, &c.

The new church of the American Presbyterian mission at Tung-Chow has been successfully and quietly opened. Large crowds assembled on the occasion, but were perfectly quiet and orderly.

We are glad to learn that the new light-ship has arrived safely at Newchwang, and is in working order.

The Evening Express has ceased to exist. Uncertain whether it may not at some future time be resuscitated, it requests that its farewell may not be considered final.

The ship Victoria Nyanza was detained eight days at Woosung for want of water to cross the bar. Evidently the necessity for dredging has not been obviated by the new soundings.

The Hong Kong, steamer, from London, has brought out the plates of a steamer made at the yard of Messrs. A. and J. Inglis, Glasgow, to be put up in Shanghai on behalf of the Shanghai Steam Navigation Company. The engines from one of the old steamers are to be fitted in her. Some iron cargo boats also went out for the company.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

The news of Mr. Wade's appointment as Minister to Peking, which was received by telegraph about a fortnight ago, has neither surprised nor gratified the foreign residents in China, and has excited, as might be imagined, a certain amount of adverse comment in the press. While every one gives Mr. Wade credit for commanding ability and unflinching rectitude of purpose, his confirmation is regretted on the grounds of his well-known partiality for the existing state of affairs in China; his lukewarmness in the support of British mercantile requirements; and, perhaps above all, his singular pliancy in the hands of the "astute Irishman," as it is the fashion now to term Mr. Hart, the hidden diplomatist of the Tsung-li Yamen. This gentleman was well known to be trembling lest the appointment of Sir Harry Parkes as Minister in China should supervene—to his own inevitable destruction as a power behind the scenes—and it has been noticed that the supporters of the Hart system in China have been repeating of late, with redoubled fervour, the old parrot-cry that "the Chinese Government would never consent to receive Sir Harry Parkes at Peking." This cry has possibly served its originators in good stead. Meanwhile people are comforting themselves with the hope that Mr. Wade, "now he is Minister," may be able to inspire his own Government with more just ideas than have hitherto prevailed among them with reference to their Chinese policy.

The Americans are much dissatisfied on finding by the last mail news that comparatively little interest was awakened among their countrymen at home by the receipt of the Korean intelligence. Although a strong flavour of burlesque has attended the expedition from the first—commencing with Mr. Jenkins's piratical raid upon the golden coffin, down through Consul General Seward's turgid despatches, and ending with the retreat of Admiral Rodger's squadron re infecta—the Americans in China have managed to get up a high degree of enthusiasm over the victories achieved and the "strongholds" captured, and would not be persuaded a couple of months ago that a force of at least twenty thousand valiant Californians would not be instantly despatched to annihilate the Korean defences before the year is out. Reflection has since convinced the majority of Mr. Low's subjects that nothing is less likely than any further action on a large scale by the Americans acting singly, and people are beginning to say that it is, after all, something to rejoice in that civilisation will probably be spared the disgrace of seeing Korea overrun (as would have been the case had the Americans been successful) by a horde of desperadoes, plunderers, and land-sharks, such as swarm in the United States. There is great hope, however, of a joint expedition, seriously planned and decently conducted, on the part of the maritime Powers who are chiefly concerned. It is no secret that Mr. Seward, the Consul General at this port, to whose representations in the first place the notion of a Korean expedition is due, feels himself placed in a very awkward position by the failure of his prognostications of an easy success, and it is rumoured that he is preparing a justification of the course he took at the outset and subsequently, which is likely to provoke recriminations in still higher quarters. Meanwhile it has recently transpired that the Korean Government have addressed the Chinese reiterating their firm determination to resist inflexibly all attempts at the conclusion of a treaty, while guaranteeing spontaneously humane treatment to any shipwrecked mariners who may come among them. This is a very clever proceeding, but is not likely to avail the obstinate Conservatives as a valid excuse much longer.

The news from North China is very gloomy, owing to the widespread devastation caused by the floods between Peking and Tientsin, rendering probably one-third of the population homeless, and cutting off all hope of recovering the autumn harvest of grain. A great part of the city of Tientsin is under water, and the foreign settlement at Tsze-chu-Sin is in a most forlorn state. The mudhouses, of which the villages that line the Peiho consist, are in many cases almost wholly washed away, and the country is flooded on either bank for many miles. With so vast a population deprived of shelter and means of subsistence there is but one prospect in China, viz., an outbreak of brigandage, and this may be looked for on a large scale during the coming winter.

AMOY, AUGUST 28, 1871.

Since writing to you by last mail a good deal of the mystery that surrounded the question of the so-called distribution of poisonous pills has been cleared up. I mentioned to you the astounding rapidity with which the rumours had been circulated throughout this region, and also that there was unquestionably a very large distribution of pills going on both in town and country. The perplexing question was, how were these rumours set afloat; and who were the distributors of the pills? Everybody had his own version of the matter; but no theory was yet found that could give a satisfactory explanation. Some foreigners who seemed more wise than the rest affirmed that the whole arose out of the plots of certain secret societies that have their ramifications spread throughout the South; but this theory, like the rest, has had to be abandoned, because the logic of facts is directly opposed to it. Events that have transpired since [my last letter have convinced me of one fact, viz., that the mandarins are at the bottom of the whole, and that they alone are responsible for all the excitement that is at present agitating this whole region. You will remember that the "French Circular," amongst other ominous statements, has the following:—"In fact if this policy is the only one on which one can rely (to settle) the differences between Christians and non-Christians, it will become more precarious in proportion to the necessity there will be to recur to it oftener, and the disorders like Tientsin will be repeated more terribly each time." To my mind the key to the present disturbances is to be found in the above quotation. It is evident there is a plot on the part of those in authority to prove this part of the circular, and to produce a state of feeling which may in the end result in a tragedy more fearful than that of Tientsin. A few facts concisely put will give you the history of the case, and at the same time my reasons for believing the authorities implicated:—

1. When the news reached Amoy of the disturbances in Canton, arising out of the reported spread of poisonous pills there, the people in this place manifested, in the first instance, very little feeling on the subject; very few, I believe, beyond those connected with foreigners, knew anything about it. A day or two after, two of the mandarins put out proclamations stating that they had heard from Canton respecting these pills, and warning the people against a class of men who, under the guise of benevolence, had come up to Amoy for the very purpose of distributing them here. They also informed the people that should they have been deceived into taking any of these poisonous medicines they had antidotes which they were prepared to give to all that applied. All at once an intense excitement burst throughout the town—placards were freely posted in all the prominent thoroughfares, describing the pill and referring to the proclamations as their authority. The fear and anxiety of the people may be better imagined than described.

2. The rumours spread like lightning from Amoy to Chin-Chow, a large prefectural city fifty miles north of this. Placards of the most offensive character, in which it was stated distinctly that the foreigners were the prime movers in all this atrocious scheme for the wholesale destruction of the people, and of course that the Christians were the allies and agents in the distribution of the pills. One of these placards, contrary to the usual practice, was actually printed, and the name and residence of the publisher ostentatiously affixed. The man belongs to a well-known firm in the city. Notwithstanding all the rumours and agitation that filled the entire city, the authorities remained passive, and took no steps to restrain the issue of these libellous placards.

3. The rumours spread also to Chang-chow, another large prefectural city, thirty-five miles west of Amoy. I myself got there whilst the excitement arising from the receipt of the Amoy news was at its height. Again the foreigners and the Christians were accused of being the authors of the troubles. In the course of ten days all the excitement had cooled down, and there was every prospect that the subject was about to be entirely dropped. At this juncture the district magistrate of the city puts out a proclamation stating that he had received a letter from one of the mandarins in Amoy on the subject of these poisonous medicines. He warns the people against the bad men that are spreading them abroad, and tells them to strictly guard their wells, as the most infamous designs are afloat to injure and destroy the people living within his district. Of course the excitement at once rose to fever heat. In two days after this another proclamation is put out by him, saying that he has seized a man who is one of a party of four who have come to the city for the special purpose of distributing their poisons. This man has confessed that he got his medicines from foreigners in Macao, with express orders to poison the wells throughout the whole country; that he and the other three had done so, and would have proceeded throughout the Empire, had they not been seized by the authorities. A few days after this the mandarin issues a proclamation stating what all the city knows by this time, that he has had the criminal executed, and offers a reward to any person or persons that will seize and bring before him the other three. Again, two days after this a military mandarin of the third rank issues a proclamation in obedience to the orders of his immediate superior. In this the whole confession of the man beheaded is given. The man in that states by whom he was employed—gives an account of the medicines given him for distribution, and adds a variety of statements which seem highly absurd and ludicrous to a foreigner, but which are intensely believed in by the Chinese, and which were considered of a sufficiently grave character to warrant his execution. One of the proclamations above mentioned advises the people to clean out their wells—to build walls round them, and to have a wooden covering made so that they may be locked and kept safe from the designs of these evil men.

4. Amid all the excitement, and throughout this epidemic of placards, in which the foreigners are freely charged with the most abominable schemes for the destruction of life, not a single step, so far as I can ascertain, has been taken by the authorities to refute or repress the slanders that have been circulated far and wide. It is not until the authorities have been appealed to by the English and American Consuls, to whom the inflammatory proclamations have been shown, that they make any movement to lead the public feeling into a right direction.

You will observe from the above that the public agitation has been, I may say, originated, and certainly stimulated, by those in power. Had those remained simply quiet we should have had no excitement worth mentioning. The mandarins have taken the lead throughout. They have assumed that they had information which the people had not. The district magistrate in his proclamation, in which he stated that he had examined the criminal who was subsequently executed, declared that his confession exactly agreed with his own investigations on the same subject. They are morally responsible therefore for the present attitude of the people throughout this region. The Chinese people when left to themselves exhibit no widespread feeling of animosity against the foreigner. When they are informed however by their authorities upon what they declare to be good evidence that these foreigners have the most murderous intentions respecting the people of the entire eighteen provinces, is it any wonder that a spirit of hatred should be aroused that might lead them into any excesses? A Chinaman, under ordinary circumstances, is a stolid and sluggish kind of being when compared with the more excitable men of the West; and yet when he is aroused he becomes a very demon, and, as the scenes connected with the Tientsin Massacre prove, shows himself capable of the wildest excesses of cruelty and revenge. Previous to the tragedy in Tientsin the people were excited by absurd and impossible stories of the wrongdoing of the foreigners; placards were posted up, and a district magistrate there put out an inflammatory proclamation which still further aroused the passions of the people. Precisely the same course is being pursued in this region at the present moment, whether with the intention of the same fearful result I cannot say. The English Government will be incurring a grave responsibility if this state of things is allowed to go on unchecked. The testimony of men competent to speak on this subject has been repeatedly offered. The fearful atrocities of Tientsin are still fresh in the recollection of every one, and ought not to need repetition before our rulers will learn what is the true policy that ought to be adopted towards a Government that is incapable of being moved by sentiments of justice and honour.

HONG KONG.

Advices from this port are to the 1st September. The P. and O. mail with dates to July 14 was received on the 22nd, and the French mail of July 21st on the 28 August.

We are indebted to the China Mail for the following items:—

A meeting of Justices of Peace was held at the Chamber of Commerce on the 30th August, to consider whether, under the circumstances of the alarming increase of crimes in the colony, and the apparent powerlessness of the police to prevent it, or even to discover and arrest the offenders, some steps might not be taken on behalf of the community at large to ascertain the cause of the existing state of matters and inaugurate some reform for the future. It was proposed by Mr. Maclean, seconded by M. E. D. Sassoon, and carried unanimously:—"That the whole body of non-official J. Ps wait upon his Excellency the Lieut.-Governor by appointment and ascertain if any and what immediate steps are being taken by the Government with regard to the reformation of the police Force." It was then proposed by Mr. T. G. Linstead, seconded by the Hon. P. Ryrie, Esq., and carried unanimously:—"That his Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor be also requested to appoint a Commission, consisting principally of residents not official members of the Government, with full power and authority to inquire into the existing state of the police force, the result of such inquiry to be made public, and that the former official report of the Commission of 1869 be as a preliminary placed in the hands of the Commission now desired to be appointed."

We learn upon good authority that Senor M. del Cano, Spanish Consul at Macao, has received a telegram from his Government to the effect that Chinese emigration to Cuba is not (the decree of April 27 last notwithstanding) to be discontinued. In connection with this subject we further understand that the Cuban planters have come to the conclusion that the go-between system of coolie brokers, crimps, &c., is opposed to their interests. They are now making efforts to induce direct emigration—in other words, a direct contract between the coolie and his future master. To this end Mr. F. Abella, agent of a "planters' society," constituted to carry out the revised system, has proceeded to Amoy to engage coolies. The terms offered are more liberal than has hitherto been the case, and Mr. Abella's four years' residence in China should have taught him something in the way of experience. We cannot believe that any system of coolie emigration to Cuba will (for many years at least) be unattended with abuses and hardships to the coolie; but if Mr. Abella inaugurates a scheme in which those two most objectionable features—the Chinese crimp here and the Cuban contract broker there—are done away with, we shall cheerfully admit that he has improved the aspect of a business which heretofore has been simply and solely a crying shame in the face of civilised humanity.

The landing of H.M.'s 10th Regiment from Yokohama per Tamar took place at dawn on the 22nd August; and while we welcome our coming protectors, we most sincerely wish God-speed to our departing friends of the 75th Regiment.

We have to acknowledge the receipt of a hundred page pamphlet entitled "A Sketch of our Relations with China during three and a half centuries, 1517-1869: By Baron De Meritens, Knight of the Legion D'Honneur, formerly Chinese Secretary to the French Legation at Peking, late Commissioner of Chinese Customs at Foochow."

A court-martial was held on board H.M.S. Princess Charlotte, on Saturday, the 19th instant, for the trial of Mr. Thomas Carline, engineer of H.M.S. Princess Charlotte. The prisoner pleaded guilty to charges of quitting the ship without leave and drunkenness, and was sentenced to be dismissed from Her Majesty Service. A second court assembled immediately afterwards, for the trial of Mr. Edward J. Parker, gunner, supernumerary of H.M.S. Princess Charlotte, on a charge of drunkenness on duty. The prisoner pleaded guilty, and was adjudged to be dismissed from Her Majesty's Service.

A serious attack was made upon Mr. G. L. Tomlin, of the Surveyor-General's Department, on Caine-road, on the evening of the 28th August. At half-past seven Mr. Tomlin was found lying insensible in the road near Glenisla, the pockets of his trousers turned inside out, his body showing a severe cut on the back of the head, and his watch and chain absent. The unfortunate gentleman remains in an unconscious state.

We have been favoured with the following communication per str. Kwangtung :—

Great excitement existed at Foochow for some days before, and at the date of, the Kwangtung's departure, in connection with the "Shan-sin-fan" swindle. Foreigners were very anxious for the return of H.M.S. Elk from Formosa. The native authorities had notified the different Consuls to warn their subjects not to go into the interior or far from the settlements. A foreigner belonging to a vessel at Pagoda Anchorage had wandered on shore about half way between that place and the city, and was found looking down a well, unfortunately for himself. The people fell upon him, and beat him severely. The Mandarins got hold of him, and forwarded him on to the city, where the authorities re-clothed him, fed him, and presented him with $20, before handing him over to his Consul. It was currently reported that one of the principal causes of the excitement was that one of the missionaries had actually received a consignment of pills by a recent steamer; and it had come to the knowledge of the natives. It is needless to say that these pills were not the dreaded "Shan-sin-Fan," but were distributed by the well-meaning consignee, as "antidotes" amongst opium smokers, a thing he has been in the habit of doing for some years.

We learn from Macao that the pirates there have been unusually lively since the departure of the Anglo-Chinese fleet. An incident took place on the 27th August which well illustrates both the daring of the pirates and the ingenuity of the fishermen in the neighbourhood. It appears that two piratical boats fell upon a fishing-boat just outside the harbour, and was making short work of its contents, when a large number of fishing junks in the vicinity formed a cordon round the marauders, while a message was at once despatched inside the harbour for assistance. The Macao Government at once got together a force and sent them to the place where the pirates were cooped up by the fishermen. But the pirates thus brought to bay had one mode of escape, though their two boats could not be saved. They had the shore on their lee, and the crews found their way to leeward, leaving the boats to look after themselves. Four of the natives from the freebooters' junks were caught, however, and the junks were secured. Had the Government completed the cordon by sending a party of soldiers on the shore near the assembled fleet of boats, a large number of the pirates might have been captured. As it was, the sea-rovers have received a check from the novel and somewhat amusing expedient of the fishermen. It is said that one or two casualties occurred among the fishermen, one of which proved fatal.

We also hear that the Holy City is likely to have for its next Governor an officer of the Portuguese army, and that telegraphic news has been received to that effect. The Governor also brings out his secretary; but we have not learnt the names nor the precise time when they may be looked for.

The annual meeting of shareholders and subscribers to the City Hall was held on the afternoon of the 18th August. The report states that a favourable result has attended the decision of the committee to reduce the rent previously charged for the use of the theatre, hall, and ante-rooms. The duties of secretary, librarian, and curator, so satisfactorily performed during the absence of Mr. N. B. Dennys by Mr. J. J. Francis, have been resumed by the former gentleman on his return to the colony. The report was unanimously adopted.

The second ordinary meeting of shareholders in the China Fire Insurance Company was held on the 25th August, when the report was carried unanimously, and the shareholders thereupon resolved themselves into an extraordinary meeting, to consider a change in the articles of association. The chairman proposed:—"That meetings of the shareholders of the company shall be held yearly, in the month of February, and that the accounts should be made up to the 31st December." Carried unanimously.

In the North German Court at Kanagawa, on Aug. 17, the case of John Grigor, Manager of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, v. Heinrich Ohl, administrator to the estates of E. Seyd and Co., was heard. Mr. F. W. Marks appeared for the Bank. This was an action brought to recover forty bales of silk hypothecated to the Bank on May 16, 1871, by Messrs. Seyd and Co., to secure an advance of $28,000, and interest, which silk had been seized by the administrator in Messrs. Seyd's bankruptcy. Judgment was deferred.

BANGKOK.

Dates are to the 24th August. The following items are from the columns of the Siam Advertiser, and we have much pleasure in congratulating our contemporary on completing the second year of his literary existence, to which he alludes in very feeling terms in a leading article. We wish him every success, and can assure him that he has the esteem of his friends at home with their friends, as much as those who are "at home" with him.

It is believed that Captain Peterson, of the Siamese ship St. George, must have been lost in a typhoon in the China Seas last year, with one of his sisters. Captain Peterson will be remembered as the officer who married a native woman last year, after having cohabited with her for a long time.

The determination of his Majesty the King of Siam to visit British India may now be considered a fixed fact, and his Majesty will probably leave Bangkok in the execution of that determination some time next December, about the latter part of the month.

We regret to learn that the veteran and indefatigable missionary, the Rev. D. B. Bradley, M.D., has been seriously ill. Later information describes the reverend gentleman's condition as improving.

By a storm on the 22nd August the new building, which was being erected on the Steam Rice Mill lot, adjoining the premises of Messrs. Pickenpack, Thies and Co., was reduced to a mass of ruins. The new building was not yet braced by partitions. During the fury of the storm many of the workmen and some of the paddy men who had just been paid resorted to it for shelter; but the building fell, and the casualties are three killed, one so seriously wounded that he probably cannot recover, and seventeen others wounded.

Nothing remarkable in the amount of rainfall at this state of the rainy season. The very high tides show abundance of water up country. The annual inundations at Ayuthia have commenced. The reports of the anticipated rice crop in that extensive rice-growing district are still very favourable. The prospects of the next rice crop at Panatsanik'on are likewise very favourable. The grain of the first district is Namuang paddy, that of the latter Nasuen. The grain at Ayuthia is planted by scattering, at Panatsanik'on by transplanting.

BORNEO.

SARAWAK.

Dates are to the 15th Aug.; the outward mail of 30th June reached this port on the 5th Aug. We are indebted to the Sarawak Gazette for the following :—

Mr. W. W. Birch, the Colonial Secretary at Singapore, has had a favourable interview with the Sultan of Salangore, with reference to the late occurrences there. Three rajahs who took part against the Government authorities have been outlawed, and one Tongko Udin, who is said to be well-disposed and peaceful, has been made Governor of the Sultan's province.

The Dyaks of Kanowit are moving down the river as a proof of their submission to the Government, and those who had fortified themselves on the mountains in the Mujok have already removed.

H. M. S. Nassau, Captain Chimmo, has been engaged in surveying the China seas in the neighbourhood of the Sulu Islands, and thence to Labuan, from which place she came to Sarawak. Her stay has caused our little society to wear an aspect of unwonted gaiety.

His Highness the Rajah has been pleased to appoint Mr. E. C. Parker to be postmaster and shipping-master; Mr. R. M. Mackenzie taking his duties as accountant.

The opium farm for 1871-2 was announced for sale by public auction at the Court-house on October 2 (for November 1.)

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates extend to the 9th September. On the 30th August the Hindustan arrived with the English mail of the 28th July, and on the 3rd September the Meikong came in with the French mail of the 4th August. The following items are from the Straits Times :—

The question of providing asylums for the paupers which infest our streets has at last engaged the attention of the Government, and a committee has been employed in examining into the extent of the additional accommodation required for the purpose. Their report was laid before the Legislative Council on the 4th instant, and recommends the adoption of island asylums for lepers, and additional accommodation at the hospitals for the other paupers. The hospital buildings at Pulo Jerajah, near Penang, which were built some years ago under Government supervision at an expense of nearly $20,000, furnished by public subscription at Penang, but which have never been used, the committee recommend to be taken over by Government, and used as a leper asylum. The subscribers are willing to hand over the buildings, but the distance of the island from the Settlements, and the fact that it is said to be unhealthy and deficient of water, may prove serious obstacles to the carrying out of the scheme. Though we think some of the suggestions of the committee open to objection, their report is a very interesting paper, and will well repay perusal.

Murmurs of discontent have from time to time been heard from Penang, that though the revenue of that settlement showed a handsome surplus over its expenditure, it never reaped any benefit in the shape of public improvements, but that all the available balance in the hands of Government was expended in Singapore. The complaints were louder when it was proposed that the Government should again take in hand and complete the Singapore Waterworks. This feeling has gained such ground that it has been found necessary to reconsider the apportionment of the expenditure; a committee was appointed, who, after careful examination of the accounts, have recommended the principle of debiting each settlement with the cost of administering the Government, the military contribution, &c., in proportion to the share it contributes towards the general revenue. The result of this will be that Singapore will have a surplus of some $150,000, Penang a deficit of about $60,000, and Malacca a deficit of $51,000. The Singapore surplus will then, as now, have to cover the deficits of the other settlements, and the only object of such a reappointment is to convince the people of Penang and Malacca of their liability for a share of the general expenses of the colony.

The Census returns for all three Settlements have at last been published, and though the figures are probably not wholly reliable, this being the first regular census ever taken here—an approximate idea may be formed of the relative proportions of the various nationalities composing our population. According to the report the entire resident population of the Colony is 306,776, among whom the Europeans, from all parts of Europe, number only 1,592—about 1 in 200. The number of Malays is 147,684; the Chinese 114,130; and Klings 20,125. The remaining 23,245 are of varied nationalities—Javanese, Bugis, Boyanese, Armenians, Jews, Bengalees, Siamese, Burmese, &c., &c. The return of the European population is, we presume, thoroughly correct; the number in Singapore is 922, or a ratio of nearly 1 in 100 of the given population; in Malacca, 47; in Penang and Province Wellesley, 623. The Chinese population of Singapore is 54,572, of Malacca, 13,842, and of Penang and Province Wellesley, 35,716. The number of Malays in Singapore, is 19,250, in Penang and Province Wellesley, 70,960, and Malacca, 57,474. The Malay population of Singapore and Penang Proper is nearly equal, as is also that of Malacca and Province Wellesley. We are of opinion that the Chinese and native population has been greatly under estimated, and that the population of the colony is in reality not far short of half a million. The return is, however, as correct as could have been expected for a first attempt at numbering a population prejudiced against giving the desired information.

On the 29th August there were sold by auction at Batavia 75,000 piculs of Government sugar, which brought an average price of f.15.56 4-16ths per picul, and also 15,000 piculs Samarang and 10,000 piculs Kadu coffee, bringing an average price of f.37.43 and f.37.50 respectively.

By late advices from Labuan we learn that Mr. Archibald Gray, jun., the new manager of the Oriental Coal Company, had arrived at the mines, bringing with him eight Scotch miners. Mr. Hugh Townley, the underground viewer, had died from malarious fever after a few days' illness. The Chinese coolies from Singapore, engaged at the mines, were, we are told, mostly sick, but those from Hong Kong were in good health.

At the settlement of Labuan, the following changes have been made:—Mr. Falvey is appointed gaoler, vice Mr. Warren, retired on pension. Mr. Chamberlayne to be Acting Police Magistrate, vice Mr. Hugh Low, suspended. Mr. Derrick to be chief constable.

Our Chinese friends have devoted themselves during the fortnight to the festivities of the Sumbayang Hantu, or spirit worship, and night after night one or another of the public streets has been blocked up with tables two or three hundred feet in length, brilliantly lighted with gas, and groaning under the weight of the delicacies and edibles with which they are loaded down as offerings to the spirits. The streets and roadsides have been availed of for Chinese theatrical displays and smaller shows, and altogether have presented a gay and animated appearance.

PENANG.

Dates are to the 11th Sept.

We are indebted to the Argus for the following items:—

The result of the census at Penang and Province Wellesley places the population of Prince of Wales Island at 60,444, and of the Province at 71,445. The population of George Town proper is 30,068, and of the country districts of the island 30,376. The Chinese population of the town is 14,461, of the country 8,678, and of the Province 12,577. The Malay population is, in town 3,696, in the country 16,501, and in Province Wellesley 50,763. The return of inhabitants without declared occupation is very large, being 12,637 in George Town, 15,417 in the country districts, and 30,405 in Province Wellesley; but we presume this is the result of negligence in filling up the "occupation" column, and that little dependence is to be placed in these figures. The number of males and females in George Town are, 17,403 men and 3,543 boys, 5,964 women and 3,158 girls; in the country districts, 13,689 men and 5,207 boys, 6,654 women and 4,826 girls; in Province Wellesley, 32,024 men and 11,553 boys, 16,632 women and 11,266 girls.

A meeting of the Municipal Commissioners was held at their office on the 6th Sept. The Secretary informed the Commissioners that one of the original contractors who tendered for building the retaining wall at Prangin for fifteen hundred and odd dollars had since offered to do the work for $1,200, and that he had given the contract to him.

The President informed the Commissioners that a report had been sent him from Province Wellesley that gave the number of cases of small-pox now existing there at 129, that is to say, 80 in the North, and 49 in the South.

The want of an assessor to assess the houses and lands in Penang was discussed, and the president mentioned the name of Mr. Koh Sin Tat, of Messrs. Tye Sin Tat and Co., as a gentleman who could be entrusted with the duties of Assessor. But Mr. Herriot considered that Mr. Koh Sin Tat did not possess the required experience, and would not do as an Assessor. He mentioned Mr. Thean Tek, but his name being objected to, it was decided to wait until the return from China of Mr. Foo Tye Sin.

Tan Neoh Keah, who absconded with $933, the property of his employers, was arrested by Captain Speedy, at Malacca. The greater part of the money was found on his person. On the passage between Malacca and Penang, the prisoner managed to evade the vigilance of the peon who had him in custody, and deliberately threw himself overboard and was drowned.

THE GRAVE OF COLONEL CATHCART.

A correspondent has kindly favoured us with the following interesting information:—

In the course of the works necessary for laying the telegraph cable from Anjer Point to Sumatra the coffin of Lieutenant Colonel the Hon. Charles Allen Cathcart, M.P., who died June 10, 1788, aged twenty-nine years, was discovered at a considerable distance below the surface.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

HANKOW.—During the closing week there had been a brisk demand for Grey Shirtings at improved rates, but otherwise the market had been extremely quiet throughout the fortnight, sales being small and generally at a decline on last quotations. Grey Shirtings: The market remained dull and weak, and prices further declined about 3 candareens after last mail left, but latterly there had been active enquiry, and a recovery of about 5 candareens. Quotations Tls. 1.70 to 1.77 for 7 lbs., Tls. 1.88 to 1.98 for 8½ lbs., and Tls. 2.40 to 2.60 per piece for 9½ lbs. White Shirtings: No enquiry and nominal. T-Cloths very quiet; holders had not forced sales, best 7 lbs. quoted Tls 1.70. Drills: Arrivals large; demand fallen off, and sales pressed at a decline of fully a mace. A sale of best English reported at Tls. 3.16. Jeans not asked for; quoted Tls. 2.30 to 2.40. Fancy and Dyed Cottons: Small sales at last quotations. Woollens and Worsteds—Camlets: Few sales of favourite chop. Long Ells: Assorted nominally higher, but no contracts passed. Orleans and Lustres: Demand subsided.

SHANGHAI.—Grey Shirtings: A speculative demand had been shown for 8½ lb., and resulted in large settlement; it lasted a few days only, but, although great quietness has since ruled, the advance established had not been wholly lost; the closing quotations for Dewhurst's Pheasant chop being Tls. 1.90 to 1.91, against Tls. 1.87½ to 1.88½ last mail. Nothing whatever has been done in the heavy qualities, and the quotations were nominal. White Shirtings: No inquiry or transactions. T-Cloths: Small demand for 6 lbs. of low qualities at Tls. 1.14 to 1.19, but few settlements recorded. 7 lb. goods of same class also asked for and sold at Tls. 1.40 to 1.45. Buyers, however, disinclined to pay over Tls. 1.36 to 1.42. In Mexican 7 lbs. more doing, and firm at Tls. 1.58 to 1.62; 8 lb. placed to moderate extent, but demand on a limited scale, and prices favour buyers. Drills showed a further decline; native holders anxious to quit stocks at receding rates. Jeans much weaker. Best English freely offered at Tls. 2.00 to 2.35; few buyers. Dutch changed hands at Tls. 2.42½. Nothing done in American. Sheetings: No transactions. Fancy Cottons: A few Dyed Brocades, best chop, changed hands at Tls. 3. Chintzes rather lower. White Spots in demand, but stock exhausted. Velvets unchanged in value, but very little doing. The market for almost every description of Fancies was inactive and drooping. Woollens: Quiet market for all classes of Woollen manufactures, and former quotations had not been sustained in any one instance. A resale of Scarlet Camlets reported at Tls. 14, and Tls. 13.65 refused for a fair assortment of C P H. Figured Orleans find buyers for Hankow at a fall of nearly 1 mace. In Long Ells, Lastings, Crapes, or Spanish Stripes scarcely any business reported, and prices of all easier. Market closed dull, with a downward tendency.

HONG KONG.—The only article showing any marked activity during the past fortnight had been T-Cloths. These had been taken freely, but most other goods had been neglected. Woollens generally were firm, but very little business is reported. Cotton Yarn: Market completely stagnant. Holders generally inclined to be firm, and there was no reason to suppose that when business is resumed any concession will be made upon the scale of prices last quoted. Grey Shirtings unchanged, very little doing, at $2.15 to 2.17½ for 7 lb., and $2.45 to 2.50 for 8½ lbs. White Shirtings without improvement. T-Cloths: Demand had continued steady. Ordinary 6 lbs. readily saleable at $1.60 to 1.62½; 7 lbs. are in fair demand, up to $1.87½ per piece. Mexicans: 6 lbs. quite neglected; $1.70 to 1.75 nominal quotations; 7 lbs. more active, and considerable settlements at rates varying from $2.08 to 2.17½ according to quality. 8 lbs. 36-in. worth $2.40 to 2.50. Grey Twills: Fair demand for English at $3.70 to 3.75 for 14 lbs., and $4.00 to 4.05 for 15 lbs. Dutch and American neglected. Chintzes saleable at an advance of about 10 cents. Dyed Spots quoted about 25 cents higher, and Brocades also showed a small improvement. Blue Handkerchiefs in better demand. Other fancy goods unaltered. Medium Cloth quitted in small quantities at former rates. Spanish Stripes—Settlements confined almost exclusively to heavy German descriptions at 90 to 92½ cents. Long Ells maintained their value. Settlements of HH Assorted at $7.25 per piece, and a parcel of "Dog Chop" placed at $8.25. Camlets very firm; quotations advanced 50 cents per piece, but no sellers. Lastings without change. Metals—Nail Rod Iron: Holders firmer, and market better, though not much doing. Good assortments of Nos. 1/6 worth $2.45 to 2.55 per picul, and a parcel of Nos. 4/6 placed at $2.65. Bars and Hoop Iron are neglected. Tin-Plates not inquired for. Iron Wire sales at $6.00 to 6.40. Quick-silver has advanced to $98 to 100. Yellow Metal Sheathing quiet and unchanged, sales at 20 per picul for Muntz's. Lead slightly better, but still much depressed. Nothing doing in L. B. and Co. and W. B.

SINGAPORE.—We are indebted to Messrs. Boustead's Report for the following:—39-inch Grey Shirtings: Only moderate inquiry for 8½ lbs., with sales at $2.42½ to 2.45, principally at the lower quotation, holders asking higher prices. 7 lbs. very quiet at $2.10 to 2.12½. 6 lbs. without improvement, and dull at $1.75 to 1.80. 45-inch: 8 lbs. very dull, small sales at $2.35; 9 lbs. still in demand at $2.82½, but no stocks. 32-inch Grey T-Cloth in excellent demand, especially 6 lbs., and stocks of all weights very light; prices firm at a slight advance. Closing quotations—$1.30 to 1.35 for 5 lbs., $1.62½ to 1.65 for 6 lbs., and $1.80 to 1.82½ for 7 lbs.; light weights dull at about last quotations—4 lbs., $1; 4½ lbs., $1.10 to 1.12½. Grey Madapollams: No stock of 2½ lbs., which are inquired for at $17; 3 lbs. dull at $18. 36-inch Grey Supers: Good demand for No. 1 at $1.95; No. 2, limited inquiry at $2.05; No. 3, very dull at $2.15. 36-inch White Shirtings without change; fair inquiry for fine; medium and low dull. 36-inch White Spots: Limited inquiry for 14 by 15 at $2.47½ to 2.50; for 16 by 16 no demand. 36-inch White Brocades: No demand; quotations nominal. 45-inch White Cambrics: Strong demand for 15-16's, and market cleared—last sales at $28½ to 28¾; No. 24's without inquiry, and nominal at $18 for 18 by 18; lower qualities placed at $16½ to 16¾. 32-inch Imitation Irishes in better demand, and stocks having been reduced, firmer, 16 by 15 5½ lbs. quoted $1.67½ to 1.70. Dyed Shirtings and Brocades without enquiry and nominal; nothing doing in Velvets. Stocks of Turkey Red Cambrics continue heavy and demand trifling, 2½ lbs. $2.07½ to 2.10; 3 lbs. $2.20 to 2.25; no enquiry for lighter weights. Turkey Red Mulls in limited request at $30½ for 2 lbs., 1½ lbs. quoted $28 per corg. Woollen Goods: Still good demand for 32 lbs. Camlets: Sales of Scarlet at $17; inferior assorted offered at $15, without finding buyers. Scarlet Long Ells: 12 lbs. enquired for at $7.20 to 7.25, but holders asking an advance had checked business; other weights dull, 8 lbs. $5; 9 lbs. $5.50. Scarlet Bombazettes no demand. Lastings and Lustres without any enquiry. Grey Yarn: No improvement; all counts very dull, 18-24's, $90 to 92½, 30's, $105, 40's, $111 to 112. Turkey Red in moderate demand for 12 lbs. of favourite marks at $135 to 137½; 10 lbs. quiet at $127½ to 130. Imperial Red in no demand at $67, and Dark Green quiet at $78 to 80.

PENANG.—The past fortnight had been very dull for nearly every description of imports, and very few transactions were reported. Grey Shirtings: 6 lbs. in request at $39, stocks small; 7 lbs. moving slowly; 8½ lbs., heavy supply, and very little inquiry. Grey Supers: Small stock; demand abated. Grey Long Cloths: Very dull; no sales. Grey Madapollams: Demand had fallen off; no sales. Grey T-Cloths: Lighter weights were in very little request, but 7 lbs. in demand; stocks reduced; moderate inquiry for 6 lbs., and sales at $32. English Sheetings and Drills in no demand; small sales of Dutch Drills, 30 yards, at $56. White Shirtings: Common and medium without inquiry; fine in request, but without advance; stocks reduced. White Cambrics: Improved, especially Nos. 15-16, of which stocks were small, and held for a further advance. Dyed Shirtings, Brocades, and Damasks: No transactions. Woollens: In poor demand; a sale of Assorted Lastings at 35c. Grey Yarns: Stocks of 30's smaller, and sales at $100 cash; not much demand for other numbers. Green Yarn: 40's sold at $79½; other colours not wanted. Iron of suitable assortments wanted; a sale of Glasgow Refined, to arrive, at $2.75 to 2.80 for an assorted invoice. Lead and Brass Wire in no demand. A sale of Yellow Metal at $21.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

HANKOW.—The following is from Messrs. Drysdale, Ringer, and Co.'s report:—During the fortnight a small business has been transacted, settlements amounting altogether to 8,993 chests, 3,467 half-chests. In the corresponding time last year 2,800 chests only were settled here. Although prices have ranged fully equal to the equivalent in Shanghai, in some cases even higher, the bulk of the Teas as they arrived have been at once forwarded there for sale. During the fortnight 31,327 chests 14,698 half-chests have come to hand, nearly all third crop Tea, which we still think compares favourably with last year's. Settlements are:—(At Exchange 6s. 1d., and Freight £3, adding Tls. 5 for duty, exchange, &c.)—6,880 chests 2,787 half-chests at 1s. 2½ d. to 1s. 3¾ d. per lb., 2,113 chests 680 half-chests at 11½ d. to 1s. 1d. Total shipments to Shanghai for sale on native account, 189,000 packages, against 195,000 packages last year.

KIUKIANG.—Black: Three chops had been settled, and 108 had gone forward to Shanghai on native account. Quotations were:—Ningchows, Tls. 18.5 to 19.25; Hohows, nominal; Green: Ten chops had arrived, but the Teamen, attracted by the high price ruling in Shanghai, would not show their musters here. Free arrivals looked for in about ten days from date.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs. Drysdale, Ringer, and Co. report as follows:—Black Teas: We have again to report a large business, settlements for the fortnight amounting to 27,700 chests and 35,000 half-chests. From date of our last report to the 21st Aug. buying was pretty general and free settlements were made; we then received advices from Foochow reporting the export thence about 8 millions in excess of last year, since when there has been less inquiry, but subsequent settlements do not show any decline from rates previously current. The attention of buyers has been chiefly directed to Teas costing Tls. 20.00 to 22.00, equal to 1s. 2d. to 1s. 3¾ d.; Ningchows forming a large proportion of the quantity taken, Shuntams and Common Hohows have not been in such request, and operations in finer kinds have also been limited. Supplies have been coming forward freely, there is, however, a great falling off in quality, nearly all the late arrivals being of inferior and common grades. Our export shows an excess of 10 million pounds, with a stock of 43,000 chests against 93,000 chests same time last year. Prices: Shuntams and Hohows do not show any change in quotations; common to fair Oopacks and Onfas, and also fair Ningchows, show a rather lower range of tael price, which, however, is fully covered by inferiority of quality. Medium to better kinds do not show any change, but the market closes with a downward tendency. Quotations (exchange at 6s. 0½ d., freight £3):—Hohows, common to fair, 11½ d. to 1s. 2d.; Oonams, common to fair, 11d. to 1s. 0¾ d.; Oopacks, common to fair, 1s. 0¾ d. to 1s. 3¾ d.; do., fair to medium, 1s. 3¾ d. to 1s. 5d.; Onfas, common to fair, 1s. 1½ d. to 1s. 3¾ d.; Ningchows, fair to medium, 1s. 0¾ d. to 1s. 2½ d.; do., medium to good medium, 1s. 3¾ d. to 1s. 5d. Green Teas: Settlements since our last have been heavy, finest kinds still commanding most attention; stock has, however, accumulated, and there is more disposition shown by holders to meet buyers, some chops of fine Teenkai having been settled at Tls. 3 less than the price for which they were held at the opening of the season. Common to medium kinds are still neglected. Pingsueys have ranged from Tls. 33 to 57, Pychow and Teenkai at Tls. 31 to 62.5 proportion. Old Tea of last season can be bought from Tls. 20 to 28.

FOOCHOW.—During the fortnight the market had been rather quiet, and business on a moderate scale. Congou: Transactions had been of a limited nature, and prices had shown some signs of weakness, but latterly purchases had been made at gradually hardening rates, and a few settlements of Flavours to Medium kinds showed a slight advance. Third crop Teas were arriving freely, and the stock amounted to 76,570 chests. Arrivals 69,960 chests, settlements 41,511 chests. Quotations: Dust and Siftings, Tls. 4 to 8; Broken Leaf to Ordinary, Tls. 8½ to 12; Fair to Good Common, Tls. 12½ to 15; Flavours to Medium, Tls. 16½ to 24½. Souchong: Fair business reported at former rates, and some purchases of second crop Teas made at Tls. 20 to 24. Arrivals, 1,000 chests, settlements, 5,258 chests. Quotations: Common Tls. 14 to 18; Medium to Fine, Tls. 19 to 27; Fine, Tls. 28. Oolong: Musters of about 27,000 half-chests fine had been shown, but as yet no business had been done. The quality was satisfactory, the Teas being superior to last season's both in leaf and in liquor. Arrivals, 11,970 half-chests. Nominal quotations:—Common to fair cargo, Tls. 16 to 19; good cargo, Tls. 21 to 23; superior to fine, Tls. 24 to 29; fine to finest, Tls. 30. Scented Teas dealt in to a fair extent, but at a decline of fully one tael and a half. Settlements, 24,298 boxes at Tls. 15½ to 23 for Caper, Tls. 15½ to 24½ for Scented Orange Pekoe, and Tls. 6 for Scented Tea Dust. Quotations:—Dust, Tls. 6; common to fair, Tls. 19 to 21; medium, Tls. 22 to 24½. Flowery Pekoe: Settlements, 330 chests, at Tls. 24 to 42.

AMOY.—Oolong: Settlements for the fortnight about 13,000 half-chests at $20 to 24 for common to fair, $26 to 28 for good cargo, $29 to 31 for superior, $32 to 36 for fine, and $37 to 42 for finest; for fine and finest kinds, full rates continued to be paid, while cargo grades could be purchased on easier terms. Congou: About 500 half-chests of inferior quality taken at $14 to 15.

CANTON.—The settlements reported were nearly all made during the first week of the fortnight. On receipt of telegrams advising sales in London of shipments per Danube, business was brought to a standstill, and all offers withdrawn. The few sales of Scented Teas show no change from quotations last current, but to effect any further settlement holders would have to accept a considerable reduction in price. In Canton Greens there had been but little doing, and of Canton district Congous no sales were reported. Settlements: Scented Orange Pekoe, 4,200 boxes at Tls. 14.00 to 25.00; Scented Caper, 13,000 boxes at Tls. 13.50 to 21.50; Gunpowder, 3,000 boxes at Tls. 16.00 to 30.00; Imperial, 600 boxes at Tls. 15.00 to 20.00.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—The following is from Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular:—We had a very quiet market for the first seven or eight days of the fortnight, when some "Blue Elephant" chops were settled at Tls. 525, equal to 27s. 2d., but on inspection were found to be so bad that they were rejected; since then, however, business has assumed a more active form; dealers, finding it useless to hold out any longer, gave way Tls. 10 to 20 per picul on most of the medium Tsatlee and many of the common descriptions of Taysaams. This has resulted in the settlement of about 2,000 bales, buyers showing little inclination to go on unless a still further reduction is obtained. Common Tsatlees are still sought after, but owing to the mixture they contain show worse value than anything else; holders of chop Silk's are very firm, most of them assert they will not take less than Tls. 590 equal to 30s. 6d., although we believe some have been settled at Tls. 10 less. About one third of the settlements are on Chinese account or in joint account with foreigners. Stock is still about 8,000 bales. The following are a few of the prices paid: Dragon, No. 3, 30s. 0d. to 30s. 3d.; Changling, No. 3, 30s. 6d.; Blue Flag, No. 3, 27s. 2d.; Kukee Chin Jan, 27s. 2d.; Red Peacock, 26s. 4d.; Medium and Common Tsatlee, 24s. 6d. and 25s. 10d.

CANTON.—Prices during the fortnight had shown but little change, but the market had been much quieter. For America there had been less doing, and dealers had advanced their demands somewhat.

THE steamer Priam, in addition to a general cargo, brings the following quantities of silk:—Shipped by George Barnett and Co., 134 bales; Butterfield and Swire, 90 b.; Gamwell, F. R., 28 b.; Hogg, Brothers, 122 b.; Sassoon, D., Sons, and Co., 57 b.; Shaw, Brothers, and Co., 180 b.; Scheibler, Matthaei, and Co., 34 b.; Skeggs, C. J., and Co., 250 b.; Telge, Nolting, and Co., 40 b.; Turner and Co., 50 b.; Westall, Brand, and Co., 17 b.; Wright, Burkill, and Co., 25 b.; total, 1,027 b.

OBITUARY.

MR. JOHN MARKHAM.

The announcement of the sudden death of Mr. Consul Markham, which reached us by telegram on the 10th, has excited the sympathy of all circles connected with China, official and non-official, in this country. Mr. Markham had enjoyed a long and honourable connection with the Consular Service. At the time of his death he was Acting Consul at Shanghai in the absence of the Consul, Mr. W. H. Medhurst. Entering the service in 1852 as Student Interpreter, he was appointed Acting Assistant at Canton, February, 1853; Assistant at Foochow, April, 1854; Second Assistant at Hong Kong, October, 1856; and First Assistant at Bangkok, June, 1857. Mr. Markham remained at Siam until December, 1858, when he was promoted to the post of Vice-Consul at Shanghai, and he acted as Consul at that port from June, 1863, until March, 1864. He was appointed Consul at Chefoo in January, 1868. Mr. Markham was brother to Mr. Clement Markham, one of the secretaries to the Geographical Society, upon whom the distinction of C.B. was lately conferred. His official career of twenty years was sufficient only to give greater cause of regret for his untimely removal. It was sufficient, however, to surround him with a circle of personal friends such as few men have deserved better, or done greater honour to. His power of observation, natural good sense, amiable temper, and the refinement of a true gentleman carried him through all the shallows and quicksands by which the path of public duty was oftentimes beset. However he might be taken by surprise, he was never unequal to the emergency before him. His reports were always plain, vigorous, and thoughtful, and have added much to our information concerning Chinkiang and Chefoo. Some of his papers excited much attention when read at the Geographical Society's meetings, and we therefore hope that the expectation that he was about to publish a record of his experiences in a collected form will be carried out. Such a volume would be as acceptable to students as to personal friends, and would form a literary monument to his memory which his brother, the Secretary of the Royal Geographical Society, will, we have no doubt, raise from the materials in his possession.

VICE-ADMIRAL W. WARREN, C.B., died on Monday last, aged seventy-three. He sailed with the expedition to China in 1840, and in January of the following year he co-operated at the attack upon Chuen-pee. In March ensuing he was at the capture of Canton, when he had command of the western division of boats. He also bore a conspicuous part at the second attack on Canton in May that year. His gallantry and able services obtained him his commission as captain, bearing date May, 1841, and in the October following he was further rewarded by being nominated a Companion of the Order of the Bath. He became rear-admiral on reserved half pay June 4, 1861, and vice-admiral April 2, 1866.

NAVAL AND MILITARY.

Lieutenant-Colonel Robert Biddulph, Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General, Royal Artillery, has been appointed secretary to the Right Hon. Edward Cardwell, with orders to take up his appointment forthwith. Colonel Biddulph, who is an officer of very high repute, joined the Royal Artillery, from the Royal Military Academy, in 1853, and has since that date been almost constantly filling important staff appointments on active service. In the Crimea he earned the medal and three clasps, with the Turkish medal and the Order of the Medjidie. He was in the campaign in India during 1857 and 1858, actively employed, being deputy assistant quartermaster-general, Royal Artillery, at the siege and capture of Lucknow, and was subsequently in China at various engagements, ending in the capture of Peking, being many times honourably mentioned. Though only second captain in the regiment he was made brevet major in 1861 for his services in China, and in 1864 he was breveted lieutenant-colonel in recognition of his skill and bravery in India. He has occupied his present post at Woolwich since April, 1868, and has been constantly employed in improving the organisation of the corps, and advancing the efficiency of the army, his latest special service being upon the staff during the autumn manœuvres.

On the 10th inst. the undermentioned officers and troops embarked at Gravesend, on board the screw steamer Cheops, for passage to Ceylon and the Straits Settlement, via the Suez Canal:—Captain H. Guy Carleton, Assistant-Surgeon M'Namara, and sixty non-commissioned officers and men of the 1st battalion of the 10th Regiment; Capt. William Gordon and sixty-eight men of all ranks of the 73rd Regiment; Lieutenant Philip Edmund Monckton and twenty men of the Royal Artillery, and Staff Surgeon Major Alexander Peille Cahill. The detachment of the 1st battalion of the 10th Regiment proceeds to the Straits Settlement, and that of the 73rd Regiment to Ceylon.

The Icarus, Commander Lord Charles Scott, lately on the China station, which broke down in her machinery, and put into Simon's Bay in the middle of August, has been further patched up to allow her to proceed to England in safety.

The Iron Duke, Captain Arthur, arrived at Malta on Monday last, the 9th inst., from Plymouth Sound, bound to China, via the Suez Canal.

THE Emperor of Germany has conferred the title of Baron upon Mr. Reuter, of telegraphic celebrity. Few will be disposed to question Mr. Reuter's right to the honour, and the question suggests itself whether the example set by the Emperor should not be followed by the British Government. The punctual and effective manner in which Baron Reuter has supplied the public with news for some years past certainly calls for some recognition.

MR. SIDGREAVES, the new Chief Justice of the Straits Settlements, proceeds by the mail of the 17th prox.

THE LOSS OF THE TROOP-SHIP "MEGÆRA."

Now that the public mind has been relieved from apprehension lest the stranding of the Megæra might be attended with loss of life we may with decency pause, and count the cost of that scandalous disaster. Not that it is very easy for anybody to calculate such a charge, because the undisguised insouciance of the Government on this, as on some other subjects, has cost Mr. GOSCHEN'S administration of the Admiralty much that he could not afford to lose, and must also have told injuriously on the prestige of our maritime supremacy in the mind of every nationality East or West. The incidents of the stranding of the Megæra, from the time when she was despatched to the moment she was lost, must be so immediately in the recollection of our readers that few words are required to recapitulate how the Megæra was twenty-five years old when despatched; how, fifteen years ago, she was so depreciated as to be placed at the bottom of the list of troop, not store, ships; how she was then "reported" as possibly able to last eighteen months longer; how, in this present year of grace, she was selected for service, but got no further than Plymouth before her miserable condition induced her commander, on the respectful remonstrance of the crew, to represent her unseaworthiness to the Admiralty; how the commander got reproved for his "officiousness;" how he and his men sailed dauntlessly out in loyal obedience to his unfeeling chief, with ports leaking, seams open, and decks flooded; and how, in due course, (or rather, out of due course, for the wretched "tub" could not be steered) she was wrecked on the Island of St. Paul, thank Heaven, without ultimate loss of life. Owing to the zeal and promptitude of the P. and O. Company, the completeness of whose arrangements put the Admiralty to the blush, every soul was got off the wreck; every life that had been inhumanly risked on board the hulk (oddly enough named after one of the three goddesses whose especial function it was to punish inhumanity) was saved, and Mr. GLADSTONE and Mr. GOSCHEN could draw their breath—and their salaries—once more.

But the bill! what JOSEPH HUME used to call the "tottle of the whole"—what is the cost at which the rescue of all that was worth saving in this shameless catastrophe has been effected? If ever, to use a common phrase, Providence was "tempted," it was when the Megæra was despatched with its human freight; and to have saved these we are sure no Englishman will grudge the amount it is estimated to have cost—startling as it is—a quarter of a million of money. This is without bringing into account the value of the Megæra herself, for we reckon that as nothing—or rather at a quarter of a million less than nothing, as an "economical" Government handled her. Still, if her hull had been sold to be broken up, it would have fetched something; and her cargo, stores, and furniture, a great deal more. Neither will anybody grudge the sum charged by the P. and O. Company for the services of their steamer Malacca, large as it seems at first sight, being no less, we believe, than £4,500 per mensem, exclusive of coal. Some allowance must also be made to the Oberon, which called at St. Paul's, en route to London; too late, however, to render any service. The Malacca did her work nobly, and it must be a great consolation for Mr. GOSCHEN to reflect that so splendid a fleet as the P. and O.'s is at his service (for a consideration), whenever he chooses to make another "economical" experiment. But by yielding to the insidious councils which prompted him to send the Megæra to sea, he has cast an indelible slur on his administrative judgment. The mythological Megæra wore snakes in her hair—we think there must be snakes about the head, particularly near the ears, of the Admiralty.

THE departure of Mr. J. LOUDON, lately appointed Governor-General of Java, has been postponed until next month.

WE understand that negotiations are in progress between our postal authorities and the Government of France as to the conveyance of the India and China Mails through France and the Mont Cenis Tunnel to Brindisi. The German authorities are using their best efforts to induce our Government to continue the present route by the Brenner Pass, but it will be impossible for this service to compete in point of time with the Mont Cenis. It is expected that the time of transit will be shortened by two days, and that the despatch of the homeward mails from India, China, and Australia, by the P. and O. Co.'s steamers will be put forward that time. The outward mail from London will be despatched on Friday, as heretofore, but the Southampton steamer will have to be despatched earlier. The overland route through Egypt to Alexandria will be continued. When the present negotiations are completed, the P. and O. Company's "Time-table for 1872" will be published.

SIR RICHARD MACDONNELL, the Governor of Hong Kong, we understand, will leave by the mail of the 27th inst. Sir EDMUND HORNBY has obtained an extension of leave to May, when, according to present arrangements, he will proceed to Shanghai and resume his post of Chief Judge in China and Japan. Mr. CHALONER ALABASTER, Vice-Consul at Shanghai, will return to his post by an early mail. The death of Mr. JOHN MARKHAM, Acting Consul at Shanghai, but whose post was that of Consul at Chefoo, is noticed in another column.

SOME of our friends in the Straits may be glad to know that his Excellency Sir HARRY ORD has obtained a further extension of leave, and will not leave this country until January next. The appointment of Mr. SIDGREAVES as Chief Justice of the Straits Settlements, in succession to Sir BENSON MAXWELL, has been gazetted. Mr. SIDGREAVES is a barrister of some fourteen years' standing, and has been chiefly in practice in Liverpool and on the Northern circuit.

TELEGRAMS have been received announcing the arrival of the Investigator, Captain Halpin, at Anjer on the 5th inst., and after laying the cable across the Straits of Sunda, to connect Anjer with Sumatra, she will proceed to lay her section of the Australian cable. If all goes well, we may hear of the completion of the work in the first week in December. The vessels engaged on this service, besides the Investigator, are the Edinburgh and Hibernia.

WE have already announced the completion of the Submarine Cables of the Great Northern Company between the Russian shores of the Pacific, Nagasaki, and Shanghai. The land lines from St. Petersburg to Wladiwostok (Possiet Bay), a distance of nearly 6,000 miles, are also complete, but the instruments and working staff are not yet ready for a pressure of messages. It is however a question of a few days only.

THE SHAN-SIN-FAN.

No one can question the force of the Rev. Mr. CHALMERS'S reasoning in his letter to the China Mail. It is quite impossible to take any half views of our position in China. We cannot permit the Chinese Government to separate our missionaries from the rest of Her MAJESTY'S subjects whom they are bound to protect by treaty; and we cannot allow them to make new regulations infringing the missionaries' privileges in the Far East, or to suffer placards and books tending to inflame the populace against them to be published without condign and open punishment. All temporising and plausible excuses have been worn out, and yet the evil is as great as ever—indeed it seems likely that an endeavour will be made to repress missionary enterprise altogether when the Chinese Government thinks it has formed a party strong enough to carry that point. No time is therefore to be lost in establishing beyond dispute, and at whatever cost, the position of Christian missionaries in China. We can well imagine the reluctance with which Mr. CHALMERS feels himself compelled to call upon our Government to "enforce the good behaviour" of the iterati. Of course this means that we must put down their present agitation and protect the missionaries from such machinations as the SHAN-SIN-FAN and other "weak inventions of the enemy at any cost." And if this be done immediately and with a strong hand, we agree with Mr. CHALMERS that it may prove an easy and bloodless undertaking. But, in order that this may be the case, it is necessary that all Christian countries should unite on common ground in the reconstruction of the parts of the Treaty which refer to religion. There can be no distinction between Protestants and Roman Catholics without danger to both. We believe that our own clergy would meet with the earnest co-operation of the Roman Catholics, whose missionaries, Dr. MILNE, the coadjutor of Dr. MORRISON in China, describes as possessing "great learning, personal virtues, and ardent zeal." It is certain that whatever may be the differences of creed, the Catholics have one great advantage over the missionaries of our own religion—their interests and progress are watched and promoted with unflagging zeal by the dignitaries of their Church, while our own Bishops unfortunately never open their lips to plead for any sort of protection for their humbler but more zealous brethren, in that branch of the Legislature where they are supposed to sit to represent religion in its interests both at home and abroad. Even the services of the Bishop of VICTORIA (Hong Kong) have been lost for the last two years, owing to a squabble with the Church Missionary Society as to the appointment of a second or North China Bishop.

Foreign Intelligence.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Oct. 11.

The section report upon the Colonial Budget has at last been published. It is said that the delay in its issue has been caused by the slowness of Mr. Heemskerck Azn, one of the reporters, and as the Ministers have still to answer to the report, it is impossible that the Budget can be passed by both the Chambers and reach Java before the 1st of January. Some members who foresaw this urged, according to the report, that the Budget should be laid before the members one month before the opening of the session, to ensure its arriving in due time in India. The tenour of the report is as ordinary. There are some members who disapprove, there are others who applaud, the measures of the Minister. But there is a general complaint of the condition of our East India colonies, which is very bad. Our authority—I cite—has been weakened almost everywhere. The utmost uncertainty prevailed about the finances. The Agrarian Law and the Sugar Law have not given any practical result. The Agrarian Law—once the ground of hope for a better future—is even stigmatised as useless, because there are in Java neither free farmers, capital, nor confidence. Useful and necessary public works have not been constructed, notwithstanding that the money was granted for this purpose. Trade and industry do not flourish, and a want of confidence and a sort of malaise prevails amongst the population. You see that there is a great difference of opinion between the Minister and the M.P.s. You will remember that Mr. van Bosse stated in the Speech from the Throne that it was all couleur de rose in India. The debate on the Budget will be very warm, and the Minister will have to meet an enormous number of complaints, which I think in most cases are well founded.

The Second Chamber is now occupied with the discussion about the Bill by which a subsidy is asked of £600,000 a-year for ten years for a steam line between Flushing and America. This, of course, is not a party question, but rather a local one. For instance, the Rotterdam members are the great opponents of this Bill, because early next year small steamers will run between this town and New York, and they do not wish the State to compete with private undertakings. The members who represent Zeeland are, on the contrary, warm promoters of the Bill, because Flushing and their whole province will be favoured by the measure. The opinions of the other members are divided, and there are both Liberals and Conservatives in the ranks of the antagonists and promoters. Of course it is impossible to foretell what will be the result of the division, but I guess that it will be an unfavourable one, the greatest objection being—as was stated by the Minister of the Financial Department—that we have no money.

Both in foreign and in home papers we find rumours of a Ministerial crisis. If we may believe these correspondents—which I do not—then we are on the eve of a Radical Cabinet. Others there are who state that we shall be favoured with a ministry: Van Zuylen-Heemskerck, with a sharp Ultramontane tint, and even Mr. Groen, the Caser of the anti-revolutionists (the orthodox Protestants), called the last speech of the Earl van Zuylen a discours-ministre. You see we may choose between a "Red" or a Tory Cabinet; but I think it best not to believe these *on dit*s.

The Bill to levy an income-tax, which was laid before the Second Chamber by Mr. Bluse, has made a very bad impression. To levy two per cent. upon the annual income is regarded as much too high, even taking into account that the license-tax and the meat-duty is abolished. The Liberal papers are very slow in giving their opinion upon the measure, whilst the Conservatives pronounce at once a most unfavourable opinion upon it. But the principal question is that we want money, because our treasury is empty. Year after year we have thrown away our millions for naval and military purposes, and now that we have come to the conviction that all must again be reorganised, of course we want more millions. But now the nation grumbles; instead of squeezing the Javanese, the people must pay themselves. The Dutch are very quiet, very content; but you must not touch their money, which they love above all things else.

In our military circles a sort of scandal has made a sensation. Some months ago a certain Captain Jansen—well known in the East Indies—published an article about a nonsensical military question. The authorities, Prussian-like, were very angry, and Mr. Jansen was persecuted, but without result. But some weeks after he was acquitted he was summoned before a court-martial, and the result was that Mr. Jansen was released from his duties, not honourably, and the King granted him a pension of about £20 a-year. Mr. Jansen now asks for employment, and states that he did nothing against military law beyond writing the said article. The public, however, mistrusts his statements; they think it impossible that a whole family should be sacrificed for so miserable a reason. The question is not very clear, and we wait for further information, which will be given by the Second Chamber, whose members are dealing with this matter. A storm of indignation will arise if Mr. Jansen's statements are correct.

The shareholders of the Dutch Trading Company will meet on the 8th of November, in the Amstel Hotel, at Amsterdam, in order to decide whether the company will continue operations for another term of twenty-five years or not. Our money market is very dull. The Bank directors have, contrary to the prevailing opinion, not yet raised the rate of discount, and the minimum is still fixed at 3 per cent. In the market for public securities a feeling of less apprehension, of course, has been apparent; quotations, although not showing any important decline, are, however, in a somewhat depressed condition. The financial position in England and Germany destroys confidence and checks speculation.

Returns of our trade during 1870 have been published, stating that the imports in that year reached the amount of £654,735,466, against £575,920,713 in 1869. The exports in 1870 amounted to £539,366,689, against £507,290,378. The exports to Great Britain amounted to 152 millions, against 141 millions in 1869; whilst the imports from the United Kingdom were 206 millions, against 159 millions in 1869.

The Kölnische Zeitung published some days ago a correspondence from Arnheim. The writer of this singular letter ascertains that rumours are circulating that Prince Bismark has done his best to engage the Dutch Government to join the German league, but that our Government has refused. This he regrets; he thinks the state both of the mother country and the colonies most deplorable, because the supply of money by the squeezing system is stopped, and the English are busy creating a revolution in Java, in order to secure these rich colonies for themselves. He thinks it necessary that a powerful state should assist us in order to frustrate these plans of John Bull. The editor of the Kölnische Zeitung makes the comment that he does not believe the ideas of his correspondent are widely spread in Holland.

The departure of the steamer Prins Hendrik to Java has been delayed; in consequence of the strike on the Clyde the steamer cannot be ready in due time. The vessel will now sail between the 10th and 15th of November.

A curious story circulates in the Hague. You will remember that some time ago the bones of the officers who died when defending the Citadel of Antwerp were transported, with great solemnity, to Holland. The Belgian Government were most friendly, and, of course, some crosses ought to have been conferred by our King on the Belgian officers. It has, however, transpired that the leading General was a deserter from the Dutch army, and, of course, his Majesty could not confer on him the sign of Virtus nobilitat. What a curious blunder of the Belgian Government!

PRODUCE MARKETS.

A healthy tone continues to prevail for most of the leading articles, and a fair amount of business has upon the whole been doing since my last. The indigo sales went off in accordance with the anticipations and at full prices, compared with the late market value. Cotton and Tin have advanced. Sugar has also further improved in value, and enjoys a good demand.

COFFEE continues to be well thought of, and more inquiry has manifested itself in the last few days, but no sellers are to be met with of Trading Company's Java at the prices of the late public sale, which would be currently paid. The pale sorts are especially sought after. The Trading Company's October sale has not yet been advertised, but will probably take place on the 25th inst. About 1,000 bags Java, ex 's Gravenhage, changed hands at 42c., and 1,012 bags, ex Nyuerheid, on secret terms, whilst 1,300 bags, ex Henrietta Adriana, were sold at various prices.

SUGAR.—The market continues to exhibit a firm appearance, consequent upon the delay experienced in getting supplies of new Beet Sugar, which creates a good demand for Cane Sugar. Sales have been making of Java of current numbers, available for present delivery at f. $\frac{1}{2}$ to f. $\frac{3}{4}$ above the currency of the September sale, whilst some transactions have also been concluded in floating Java of the new crop at f. $\frac{1}{2}$ above September. Nothing is being offered for immediate delivery. A sale is mentioned of about 11,000 Mats Syrup afloat, supposedly at £18 $\frac{1}{2}$.

COTTON.—The demand has assumed increased animation, and the market has been very buoyant, export buyers and speculators both operate freely. Prices of American advanced about 3c., and of East Indian 2c.

TEA.—Nearly the whole quantity put up in the late public sale has found buyers, and, upon the whole, at fair prices compared with the valuations. The China Tea, ex Windermere, was partly sold at 85c. to 117c., and the Java Tea at 70c. to 270c.

INDIGO.—The public sales held here on account of the Netherlands Trading Company and of private firms have, upon the whole, gone off satisfactorily. The whole quantity put up at the same has been disposed of in the following proportions:—very ordinary and hard sorts 40c. to 50c. lower; ordinary middling 20c. to 40c. lower; good and fine middling at par to 20c. higher; superfine and very soft 10c. to 40c. higher than in April last. The biddings have been in general very animated forasmuch as regards the colour and soft sorts, but the pale and lean qualities moved off slowly. The 519 chests Java brought to the hammer on private account, as well as the 1,041 chests Java and 65 chests Bengal, have all been sold. The prices realised for the Java ranged about in the proportion of those paid for the Indigo offered by the Trading Company, but those for the Bengal have ruled in general rather easier.

TORACCO.—951 bales Java, headmark. PK/Blitar, have been sold afloat at a price kept secret, besides the following by secret tender: 725 bales Java, headmark J. D. Kunst/Blitar; 385 bales do., headmark Kawi; 397 bales Sumatra, headmark Delhi, L. and L. M.; 387 bales Java, headmark M.; 318 bales do., headmark M/D.; 330 bales do., headmark Passirian; 282 bales do., headmark Ketjen/B; 33 bales do., headmark KK.; 903 bales do., headmark C/Blitar; 108 bales do., headmark Madjenang; 54 bales do., headmark Djenkiloong; 59 bales do., headmark Temoesoes; 16 bales do., headmark J. V. B./T.

TIN.—Prices have been very irregular. Banca sold for public sales prompt at f.80½, f.80½, f.81, f.81½, f.81½, and f.81; Billiton, spot, f.79 to f.80, whilst several lots of this sort sold subsequently afloat at f.80 to 80½. According to a telegram from Batavia of the 6th inst. the public sale of about 8,000 piculs Billiton Tin, held there on that day, has gone of on an average of f.86.93 per picul.

TORTOISE-SHELL.—A public sale of 19 chests, ex Catharina and Elisabeth and Hollandia, will take place on the 17th inst.

SPICES.—Nutmegs and Mace continue to enjoy some demand at late prices, but hardly anything is offered. Black Pepper is offered for 38c. Cinnamon was sold in public sale, 137 packages at 131c. to 223c., 693 boxes at 58c. to 101c., 188 bags at 51c. to 60c.

RICE remains very quiet. Prices, however, are well supported.

HIDES.—Prices steady. The business done embraces several parcels, ex Coleroon.

Monetary and Commercial.

The following report has been issued to the shareholders of the Chartered Bank of India, which will doubtless be considered very satisfactory. The present management will soon wipe out the old losses and once more resume the payment of dividends:—

The directors being unable on the present occasion to convene a general meeting for the purpose of declaring a dividend, it is considered desirable, as the accounts of the Bank are only published annually, to lay before the shareholders a statement of the progress made during the six months ended 30th June last. After bringing the operations to a point at the above date, the net profits for the half-year amount to £27,012 9s. 2d., a result which cannot but be deemed satisfactory, considering the difficulties in the way of profitable business, arising from the low value of money in the East, and the unremunerative state of the Exchanges. The balance sheet made up to 31st December last exhibited a deficiency of £59,022 9s. 11d., which has been reduced by the above-mentioned profits to £32,010 0s. 9d. The directors are able to report, after a strict re-valuation, that the provision made for bad and doubtful debts at the close of 1870 is in every respect ample; and they have pleasure in adding that since then no bad debt has been incurred.

The directors of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company have decided to recommend to the shareholders, at the meeting to be held on the 25th instant, a distribution of £4 10s. per share, including dividend and bonus, for the half-year ended 30th June last, free of income-tax.

Subjoined is an account of the quantities of the principal articles of imported merchandise subject to Customs' duties remaining in the bonded warehouses of the United Kingdom on the 30th of September, 1871, compared with the quantities in warehouse on the 30th of September, 1869 and 1870:—

The silver market is quiet, the demand for the Continent having ceased, owing to the rise in the exchanges, caused by the rate of discount being advanced. A large amount of silver is now on hand, but it cannot be sold at the present market rate, which may be quoted at 60½d. per oz. standard. Mexican dollars of the old coinage are tolerably firm in price, at 60½d. per oz., owing to a good demand for China.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

The market continues steady, the better qualities both of black and brown leaf Congou selling at firm rates. The samples of the Ajar and Prian are now on the markets.

At auction on the 10th inst. 3,792 packages China were offered without reserve and all sold, only 710 packages being new season's; the bulk consisted of old and second-hand parcels of Congou, a good proportion being red leaf fannings, which sold at 5d. to 7d.; common old black leave sold at 9½d. to 9½d., ditto red leaf at 9d. to 10d.; 184 half-chests medium new black leaf sold at 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 5½d.; 524 boxes new season's Foochow Scented Orange Pekoe sold at 1s. 8d. to 1s. 9d. per lb.

At public sale yesterday 979 packages new season's Congou per Elgin, from Shanghai, were offered without reserve and all sold; 433 chests common Shantam Congou sold at 11½d., being fully equal to private contract rates; 546 half-chests and boxes Gunpowder sold at about the valuations, medium at 2s. 2½d. to 2s. 3d., common kinds 11d. to 1s. 1½d.

SILK.

There is no change to report in the market.

COFFEE.

The market for Ceylon has been characterized by a steady demand, and the offers—which have been fairly extensive—of both Plantation and Native have been disposed of a fully last week's prices. Towards the close holders have exhibited a firmer tone, and supplies are held for higher prices and bought in as follows:—Plantation, greyish, 71s. to 72s.; bold do., 75s.; peaberry, 82s. to 84s. Native has been in good and increasing demand for arrival; early in the week 200 tons good ordinary sold at 62s., but subsequently holders required an advance, and 200 bags have been sold at 63s.; also 250 bags at 65s., guaranteed fine ordinary bold. Of Manila 408 bags have been sold, good to fine ordinary palish at 61s. to 61s. 6d. per cwt.

Against the large landings at this time last year those in the present are very small, showing a discrepancy of 1,770 tons, and, as the deliveries are heavy and 480 tons in excess of 1870, the stock is further importantly reduced, and the relative deficiency increased to 6,300 tons. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 117,781 cwt., against 204,591 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1870; Native 17,960 cwt., against 10,728 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is 5,811 cwt. Plantation, against 2,402 cwt., and 1,225 cwt. Native, against 3,136 cwt. The quantity of Coffee landed in the forty weeks ended Oct. 7, 1871, was, of Ceylon, 31,982 tons, against 31,718 tons during the corresponding period of 1870; of all descriptions, 58,937 tons, against 55,321 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 8,748 tons, against 8,127 tons; of all descriptions, 15,419 tons, against 14,585 tons.

SUGAR.

There has been a good demand for all descriptions during the week, chiefly for the outports, and sales of good extent have been effected, prices being mostly 8d. dearer than at the close of last week, the advance being obtained for low as well as good descriptions. The following are the details of the business done:—

PENANG.—2,400 bags offered by auction were bought in—pasty date sort at 22s. to 23s.; fine soft brown and low yellow (duty 4s. 9d.) at 29s. to 30s.; except 300 bags, which were sold—low pasty, 21s. 6d.; good brown, 28s.; low yellow, 29s. 6d. Privately, 1,200 baskets common date have been sold at 22s. 6d., and 300 baskets soft colour at 34s. 6d.

MANILA.—In auction 50 tons Taal have been sold at 22s., and 5,500 bags Zebu unclayed at 22s. 9d. Privately, 7,000 bags unclayed Zebu have been sold at 22s. 6d., 6,000 bags good clayed (duty 4s.), at 26s. 3d. For arrival, 150 tons Zebu have been sold at 22s. 6d., and 4,500 bags Ilo Ilo at 23s.

JAVA, &c.—In auction of 13,430 mats Java syrups of indirect import from Cape Town 6,000 bags sold, low 20s. 6d., washed of better quality 20s. 6d. to 21s., the remainder being bought in at 22s., but since sold, price not reported.

The quantity of Sugar landed in the forty weeks ended Oct. 7, 1871, was, of Penang, 1,358 tons, against 2,277 tons in the corresponding period of 1870; of Manila, Java and China, 17,516 tons, against 15,288 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 3,096 tons, against 1,699 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 25,097 tons, against 20,499 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 229 tons, against 99 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 1,065 tons, against 2,421 tons. The stock on Oct. 7 was, of Penang, 1,007 tons, against 2,809 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 19,149 tons, against 28,153 tons.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—The market is without change on the spot, but a slightly firmer tone is observable in the inquiry for floating parcels. At auction of 384 casks Ceylon offered 151 casks sold, good in pipes at £38 to £38 5s., puncheons £38, hogsheads yellowish to good £38 5s. to £38 10s.; 110 tons have been sold privately since the sale, pipes at £38 5s., hogsheads at £38 10s., further business has been done for arrival, including 150 tons at £37 10s., 100 tons at £38 5s., and 150 tons for shipment up to December at £38 10s.; in addition, since, sales of 150 tons were effected for arrival at £38 10s., since when £38 15s. has been paid, and £39 is reported to have been refused.

COIR GOODS.—At the auctions a good supply of Yarn was offered, but the demand was moderate, and only about one-half sold without competition at previous rates for common as well as the better qualities. Of 351 bales Ceylon Yarn offered only 70 bales sold, medium £33 10s. to £34, fine £41 to £41 15s., very fine £50 to £55, the remainder being bought in at £42 to £47; of 114 tons in dholls 60 tons sold, low coarse £23, common £27 to £28, good common to medium £28 15s. to £30 5s., good medium to good £32 to £36. Of Fibre 2,777 ballots (14 tons) middling reddish Ceylon sold at £16 to £16 10s.

CURCH.—Fine Pegu continues in request, and business has been done at 22s. 6d. to 23s. 6d. per cwt.

HEMP.—The market remains firm, and at the public sales 657 bales were bought in, chiefly brown qualities at £42 to £45, barely fair £48 10s. per ton.

PEPPER.—Black continues in good request at advancing rates; at public sale Singapore has sold at 7½d., Penang, sound at 6½d. to 6½d., sea damaged and repacked at 6½d. to 6½d., sweepings 6½d. to 6½d.; privately Penang has been sold on the spot at 6½d. to 6½d. For arrival 25 tons Singapore, per Earl of Dalhousie, near at hand, have been sold at 7d., 3,160 bags Penang, per Ulva, at 6½d., and 300 bags Singapore, per Dorothea, near at hand, at 7½d. White: The market is firm, and sales of Singapore have again been effected at 11 5-16d.; for arrival about 100 tons have been sold, ships and marks declared, at 11d.

TIN.—The market is very firm at last quotations, viz., Straits, on the spot, £135 to £136; afloat, £136; Banca, £139.

RICE.—The market, until within the past two days has shown great activity, and prices show a further advance; towards the close a quieter tone has been manifested, but rates are firmly maintained. In auction good middling white Bengal, mark TR, per Iron Cross, has sold at 11s. to 11s. 3d., fair Rangoon, per Istapa, sea damaged at 10s. 3d. for first class, sound at 10s. 7½d.; privately, on the spot, fine white Bengal has been sold at 12s. 6d., middling Bengal at 11s. 1½d., 670 tons Rangoon, per Bravo, at 10s. 9d. prompt 6 weeks, 400 tons Rangoon, per Wylo, at 10s. 6d., ex quay, 480 tons Necrasie, per Amazon, at 10s. 4½d., landed prompt 3 months, 860 tons Bassein, per D. Reterman, at 10s. 4½d., ex quay. For arrival, the cargo per Hotspur, 800 tons Moulmein, September sailing, at 10s. 4½d., ex ship for London, and the cargo per Riversdale, about 2,000 tons Rangoon, September shipment, has been sold at 10s. 6d. ex ship for London.

SPICES.—Nutmegs in good demand, and about 1d. per lb. dearer; 27 cases Singapore of recent import sold, average 78 nuts to the lb. at 3s. 5d., with one lot at 3s. 6d., 80's at 3s. 4d. to 3s. 5d., ordinary 100 and 124's at 2s., low 160 and 200's at 1s. 8d. and 1s. 5d., also 16 boxes 104's slightly wormy at 3s., 20 cases Penang also sold, 75's at 3s. 6d., 85 to 81's at 3s. 4d., 100's at 3s. 2d., and 19 cases Java, 68's at 3s. 10d. to 3s. 11d., 114's at 3s. Mace: 9 cases middling red Penang of old import sold firmly at 4s. 5d. to 4s. 6d., 3 cases ordinary red Singapore at 4s. 2d.

SHELLS.—The periodical sales took place on the 10th inst., with the following result:—Mother o' Pearl: A large supply, consisting principally of Bombay, was brought forward, and met less demand; prices of medium and bold were irregular and occasionally lower, small selling at previous rates. Of 39 cases Manila 6 cases bold sold at £8 15s. Tortoise: A total of 3,363 lbs. of shell and hoof was offered, the former sold readily at an advance of 3s. to 5s. per lb., whilst the supply of hoof was comparatively plentiful, and prices declined 2s. to 3s., no East India was offered. Other Shells: 45 baskets 13 bags and 10,000 loose Green Snail partly sold at 3d., small and broken 1½d. each; 195 cases 230 packages and 41 tons loose Japan Ear bought in at 18s. to 25s., except 5 tons, which sold at 14s. to 15s.; 21 bags Fancy Cowries sold at 12s. 6d. per cwt., and 12 cases Bull-mouth at 2d. each.

SAGO.—Sales can only be effected on easier terms, in auction good small pearl in boxes bought in at 18s. 6d.; bags sold, ordinary 18s. 6d. to 14s., first-class sea-damaged fair quality at 14s. 6d., one lot sound large 15s., medium 17s. 6d., brown Borneo bought in at 14s.

TAPIOCA.—Lower prices accepted for Eastern kinds, good Penang sold at 2d. to 2½d., Singapore at 2d. to 2½d.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

The improvement reported last week has been barely maintained, and there is again a pause in demand both for Yarns and Goods. The change of tone appears to be chiefly due to the further advance in the Bank rate on the 7th inst. Producers, however, adhere steadily to the quotations, considering the limited business that has been done, although the feeling at the close is very quiet.

ART, PICTORIAL AND INDUSTRIAL. In Illustrated Magazine.

THIS Publication was commenced on July 1st, 1870, in the belief that an ample field existed for a high class monthly magazine devoted to Art; and already the result has fulfilled this expectation. 'ART' is produced in a form eminently adapted to the drawing-room table. It is handsomely printed on fine paper, in super-royal quarto, and each Number contains four or more Full-page Heliotype Illustrations, being reproductions of Ancient and Modern Pictures, Engravings, Designs, Sculpture, and objects of Industrial or Decorative Art.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

WRONGS MADE RIGHT.—Every day that any bodily suffering is permitted to continue renders it more certain to become chronic or dangerous. Holloway's purifying, cooling, and strengthening Pills are well adapted for any irregularity of the human body, and should be taken when the stomach is disordered, the liver deranged, the kidneys inactive, the bowels torpid, or the brain muddled. With this medicine every invalid can cure himself, and those who are weak and infirm through imperfect digestion may make themselves strong and stout by Holloway's excellent Pills. A few doses of them usually mitigate the most painful symptoms caused by undigested food, from which they thoroughly free the alimentary canal, and completely restore its natural power and action.

NEW BOOKS.

Friends and Acquaintances. By the Author of "Episodes in an Obscure Life." Three Vols., post 8vo.

"This book reveals a rich humanity and fine sympathy with the unfortunate. The sketches are graphic and interesting; in some instances simply masterly."—Daily Telegraph.

Fernyhurst Court: an Every-day Story.

By the Author of "Stone Edge." Crown 8vo., 6s. "We are indebted to the author of 'Stone Edge' for another excellent story. Female character in all its types is most truly and vividly exemplified. We cannot call to recollection a book in which women, as distinguished from feminine lay figures, have displayed so distinguished and diversified a part. Our author should win the gratitude of her sex for a series of charming portraits of what hundreds of English ladies are and may be."—Athenæum.

Sermons for my Curates. By the late

Rev. T. T. LYNCH. Edited by the Rev. SAMUEL COX. Crown 8vo., 9s.

"The world will now find out that a prophet had lifted up his voice in the heart of modern London comparatively disregarded; and that a ministry exercising transcendent influence over a few sympathetic minds, the spiritual work of a great poet and philosopher, the subtle wit, delicate humour, and piercing satire of a gifted man, are things of the past. This volume makes us feel how incalculable is our loss. We accept it reverently; we commend it heartily and tenderly to our readers."—British Quarterly Review.

Faust: a Tragedy. By Johanna Woolf-

GANG VON GOETHE. Translated in the Original Metres by BAYARD TAYLOR. Two Vols., post 8vo., 28s.

"Here for the first time can we really see 'Faust' reproduced in an English dress as near as it is possible for any one to do so. . . . For the future, Mr. Taylor's version will doubtless be the accepted translation of 'Faust' for English readers."—Westminster Review.

Shoemakers' Village. By Henry Hol-

BEACH. Two Vols., post 8vo., 16s.

"It would be poor and insufficient praise to say of 'Shoemakers' Village' that it is worth perusal. It is worth buying to store up with the classics of fiction, containing, as it does, a fixed and lasting quantity of refined humour, pathos, and fancy."—Daily News.

The Ecclesiastical Polity of the New TESTAMENT: a Study for the Present Crisis in the Church of England. By the Rev. G. A. JACOB, D.D., late Head Master of Christ's Hospital. Post 8vo., 16s.

"A remarkably seasonable, reasonable, and withal Scriptural book, eminently adapted to be useful, if men in the English Church interested in Church questions would but read and ponder it."—British and Foreign Evangelical Review.

Lilliput Lectures. By the Author of

"Lilliput Levee." With illustrations by Arthur Hughes. Square 8vo., cloth, gilt extra, 5s.

Heroes of Hebrew History. By Samuel

Wilberforce, D.D., Bishop of Winchester. Popular Edition. Crown 8vo., 5s.

"A rare intellectual treat."—Times.

"All will welcome them as a new treasure."—Guardian.

Ginx's Baby: His Birth and Other

Misfortunes. People's Edition. Crown 8vo., 2s.

"The most powerful political satire since the time of Swift. . . . We should all read and think about such a book as this when we can get it, which is seldom."—Henry Kingsley in the Edinburgh Daily Review.

THE MAILS, &c.

The French mail, bringing above dates, was delivered, via Marseilles, this morning, its due date. The next inward mail (P. and O.) is due on the 28th inst., via Brindisi, with dates—Yokohama Sept. 5, Shanghai Sept. 9, Hong Kong Sept. 15, Singapore Sept. 23. The extra Pacific mail steamer Arizona arrived at San Francisco on the 7th inst., with advices from Yokohama to the 13th September. The regular fortnightly service of the Pacific Mail Company will commence in May next.

The telegraph line to China continues to work satisfactorily; this day's advices from Hong Kong extend to 10.30 A.M., and from Singapore to 11 A.M., the messages occupying—allowing for difference of time—about five hours in transmission.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

HIOGO AND OSAKA.

The Hiogo News says:—The Japanese Government appear to be in earnest about carrying out the scheme of connecting Tsurunga with the Hiogo and Osaka Railway. We hear on good authority that they have persuaded four of the principal merchants in Kioto to "take an interest" in the undertaking to the handsome figure of 150,000 rios each. If they are proportionately successful with the minor merchants of the sacred city and with the merchant princes of Osaka, they ought to be able to make up a good portion of the $2,200,000 which the line is estimated to cost.

FIFTEEN DAYS LATER, VIA SAN FRANCISCO.

The extra Pacific Mail steamer Arizona arrived at San Francisco on the 7th inst., with dates from Yokohama to Sept. 13. The following is the summary of news telegraphed to the New York papers, which must be read with certain allowances:—

The Japanese Government has issued a decree wiping out the position of Daimios. This reduces people who have been rulers for over three hundred years to the position of the common people, and immediately annexes their territories to the Government. There is no longer any aristocracy or religion except through the Mikado.

The Japanese man-of-war Nisun went to Hakodadi, where the Russian vessels should have met the Embassy for St. Petersburg; but after waiting a month she sailed for Yedo. The Russians have annexed the entire Saghalien Islands, and the Embassies have been unable to alter it.

The new coin from the Mint is refused at the Custom-house, except at a heavy discount, which causes great distrust.

The Japanese merchants grieve over the deterioration of silk and the decline in trade, which is caused by the unskilful and careless manner in which the silk is prepared for market. The merchants have asked the Chamber of Commerce to assist them in establishing an inspection house, where all the silk unfit for market will be returned to the interior. The Japanese merchants threaten to burn half the stock of silkworm eggs, and so force the market. Tea is declining. Silk—large settlements have been made at $20 advance.

The decision of the Acting Secretary of State, upholding the Japanese Government in closing Van Reed's Stock-Exchange at Yedo, and asserting that, though lawful in America, yet every nation is the judge of what laws are required to preserve the morals of its people, has created much comment among all classes of foreigners as affecting their Treaty rights with this Government. Five Stock establishments of other nationalities and twenty native establishments are in operation, with the sanction of the Government. An appeal will be made to Washington to uphold the Treaty rights, granting the same facilities to American trade as are accorded to other nationalities.

Coolies are constantly employed on the railroad between Yokohama and Yedo. The first locomotive run over the road—three miles, to Kanagawa—attracted great attention. The road from Osaka to Kobe progresses rapidly, and a new line of sixty miles, costing $2,000,000, running through Kioto to Tsuruga, is contemplated.

CHINA.

TIENTSIN.

The Tientsin correspondents of the North China Herald, writing under date the 19th and 23rd August, states that the present inundation extends to the south to beyond the Yellow river, and to the north nearly to the Great Wall, with an average breadth of 280 li from the sea-coast. The population which is now suffering starvation from this stretch of country being flooded is enormous. On the evening of the 18th a mark was put at the level of the water of the west plain, and next morning the mark was found covered with two-eighths of an inch, thus showing the waters of the adjoining plains still rising, notwithstanding that there had been no rain since daylight of the 15th.

During the last two days the water in the west plain remained very much about the same height; some say it has gone down seven-tenths of an inch, but the direction of the wind would cause such a slight difference. It was expected the whole district would be turned into a lake, till winter brings ice and northerly gales. Rain fell again on the 22nd, but it appears that the Chinese always expect rain on the seventh day of the seventh moon; and last night's was only a shower, so it was hoped the wet season was over. But the harm was done; and the distress among the country people during the winter, from want of fuel no less than from want of food, will be very great. The local authorities and gentry were doing all they could to provide relief, and a society was formed, of which the committee were the Salt Commissioner, the territorial Taotai, and the leading gentry and merchants. Her Majesty's Consul intends to send round a circular asking his countrymen to subscribe. There was great mortality amongst the inhabitants of the villages in the plains inundated.

Some 270 li, from Tientsin, and further in the interior, where no inundations existed, the crops of millet, beans, peas, &c., were looking very promising, and the peasants expected to reap good harvests this year.

SHANGHAI.

Dates from this port are to the 1st Sept. The P. and O. mail of 14th July arrived out on the 27th August, and the following French mail of 21st July was expected on the 2nd Sept. The following is the summary of news from the North China Herald of 1st Sept. :—

The strange nature of the Chinese climate, which seems to result in alternate seasons of drought and flood, was perhaps never better exemplified than this season. The oscillation of wet and dry periods between the North and centre of China would seem in fact to be the rule. Looking back for a series of some four years, heavy floods have had to be recalled in Chekeang, Kiangsu or Hunan; while in the North the usual harvests were withheld from the want of a due supply of rain to moisten the parched fields; and inland communication, in the absence of proper roads, became almost impossible, owing to the drying up of the water-courses. For some years back the authorities at Peking and Tientsin have prayed earnestly for rain, while those in the more central provinces have, with fasts, implored the rain-god to spare from excess of favours their crops and houses. This year, the reverse has been the case; the cotton crops, which at one time promised a yield if possible more abundant than last season, seem now to be scarcely up to the average, while a general want of water prevents the due irrigation of the rice fields. All through Chekeang and partially in Kiangsu, fasts have been proclaimed; the angry deity is to be propitiated by an abstinence from wholesome food, and the silly prohibition which consigns to useless waste the greater portion of the central provinces is still further to be forced on a people willing, if permitted, to restore to pasture large districts now useless for the sustenance of human life. Yet, after all, this alternation of excessive extremes seems to be explicable on very simple natural principles. The division between the region of the monsoons and the variable winds of the north temperate zone happens to run through the north of China. Along this division line the warm and moist equatorial winds, which produce the monsoon, meet with the more or less cold or parched winds of the variable zone; the reduction of temperature ensuing loosens the moisture contained in the atmosphere, which falls down in abundant rain. The division line is not, however, invariable; in fact, it is difficult to conceive how it could be so. A slight variation in the climate of Australia, the deflection of an equatorial current in the East India islands, the result of an earthquake or a volcanic eruption—may cause the division line to advance or recede a few degrees. This year the unusual strength of the summer monsoon has caused its prevalence further north than usual, so that the boundary line which usually passes through Chekeang or Kiangse has moved as far north as Shantung and Pechihli. We have, in fact, experienced the usual summer climate of Fohkien or Kwantung, while the border line has advanced some four or six degrees to the north of its usual line. It is of course impossible from merely local experience to calculate on the causes of this unusual strength and consequently northern extension of the monsoon; but a careful study of the climatic influences and physical phenomena of the districts lying near or south of the Equator would probably result in a better knowledge of the hidden causes of the present unusual season. One thing we may, however, learn, even from our limited experience here, and that is that it is no merely local cause which influences such things. The whole world is so bound together—may, even so correlated with distinct spheres—that the northern extension of the rainy border line of the monsoon, and the consequent unusual floods in the north of China, can only be looked upon as the local effects of causes influencing wide areas, and perhaps extending beyond our globe itself. Seen from such a point of view, how useless are the miserable and petulant appeals to the Rain-deity which, under different forms, are now being offered up in Chekeang and Pechihli. We remember a tale of an old Scottish parson who, when asked to pray for rain, said he was very willing to meet the wishes of his congregation, but did not think it was much use so long as the wind remained in the present quarter. The Chinese mandarins are in much the same case. If, instead of ordering fasts, these supposed protectors of the people would keep their dykes in order, and lessen the chances of such extremes by encouraging the planting of trees over the now burnt up or deluged plains of North China—they would be acting more practically.

A volunteer parade was held a few nights ago, but did not, unfortunately, go off so well as the fine weather of the past day or two had augured would be the case. There was a fair muster, some hundred and fifty men of all ranks being on the ground; but just at the hour appointed for assembly the wind went round from south to north, and big threatening drops fell. A few minutes only were wasted, and then the resolution of the men was almost unanimously given for carrying out the programme, weather or no. A cessation of hostilities on the part of the clouds encouraged the companies to fall in, when they were marched down to the French Bund and up the Rue du Consulat, with the object, we believe, of drilling on the ground beyond the French Concession. But the rain set in again, with every intention apparently of making a night of it, and after a few manoeuvres the force returned home, and was dismissed, thoroughly drenched. The Artillery and Rangers also appeared, but did not join in any movements with the infantry corps, and were dismissed early.

Much has been said lately about Chinese suspiciousness [of priests, whether native or foreign, and of the restrictions which they attempt to place upon women going to joss-houses or churches. An illustrative case occurred on Saturday. Some persons observed a woman go to one of the priests' rooms in a joss-house off the Maloo, and gave an alarm which brought together the whole neighbourhood. The delinquents were bound and handed over to the police. Both denied that there was anything wrong in the circumstances; the woman alleging that she was engaged in the innocent but rather hopeless endeavour to collect a debt of $30 from the priest, for which reasons he had gone to his apartment, when the crowd instantly rushed in. The priest said the woman was at the foot of the stair when the crowd gathered in, and in their impetuous entrance forcibly bore her to his room. The husband of the suspect repudiated the allegation sought to be fastened on his spouse; and the mandarin observed that it would have been more advisable if a debt were due that the husband should have collected it. The excitement ran very high, but the bonze was safe in the hands of the police, and was ultimately bailed by the head of the joss-house. He had no sooner got away, however, than he ended the difficulty and his own life by taking opium.

A scheme has been suggested for removing the obstacle to local inter-communication offered by the Soochow Creek, as well as solving the vexed question of Bridge monopoly. This is no less than the diversion of the creek from its present bed to a channel which should skirt Hongkew and debouch on the Wongpoo, below that part of the Foreign Settlements. The scheme is not, of course, without its difficulties, though, we fancy, these are hardly of an engineering character, but the advantages from carrying it out are various and considerable. The matter of cost, which presents itself as the prime consideration, would, it is thought, be met by the value of the land reclaimed, while proprietors of land on the banks of the new channel would be largely benefited, if not wholly repaid for any sacrifice, by the increased value likely to arise from the localisation of much of the traffic from the creek in the native quarter of Hongkew. As this traffic, however, is now mostly carried on at the native city, it might also be necessary to provide a less distant outlet for a portion of it—junkmen would certainly demur to doubling the Hongkew peninsula thus created; but this could be partly met by deepening the Defence Ditch, and keeping it and the Yang-king-pang in a fairly navigable state. The community would, if the change were carried out, be rid of two troublesome facts, the chow-chow water and the bridge, though whether the Taotai's charter secures the Bridge company against the effects of a scheme so blighting to its monopoly is another question. The convenience of having the settlements one and undivided, territorially as well as municipally, and of uniting more closely the great import wharves with the hongs in the English Settlement, are points upon which it is almost unnecessary to enlarge. We have very little hope of seeing the idea carried out, but have jotted it down as we heard it sketched.

Le Nouvelliste says Li-chan-su, one of the heroes of the late Yangchow affair, has been decapitated at Nganking, by order of the Emperor. We have heard nothing of the matter ourselves, and only quote our contemporary's statement. We have heard, however, on pretty good authority, that Chen-kwo-jui passed through Yangchow a week or two ago, on his way to Peking, instead of remaining under surveillance in Anhwei, as the Imperial edict ordered. But Chinese news in these matters is never very reliable.

We subjoin a copy and rough translation of a sort of epigrammatical prediction which is going about among the Chinese, and attracting some attention. It seems to be obscure enough to leave them rather doubtful as to its meaning, but causes therefore the more excitement.

O'er this land of peace and rest,
Trouble rises like the tide;
And the year sixteen* demands
That we prepare on every side.
Now await the coming years
Of Lung, Shay, and stalking Mat[†]
When five nations will convulse
Our flowery land—Chung Hua.

So far as we can make out, the idea seems to be that two political crises are impending in China; one, during this present sixteenth year of the Emperor Tungche, which may be averted by firmness; another, during the years 1880, 1881, 1882, when five nations will attack China. In the latter case we shall be sorry for China.

The barque Norfolk, of 264 tons register, with all her equipment, has been sold by auction for £3,250.

The British ship Her Majesty, which sailed from Foochow, tea laden, for London, was caught in the recent typhoon very soon after getting out of the Min, and had to cut away her masts. Thus disabled she was unable to make Foochow again, and has run up to Shanghai to refit.

Our Tientsin correspondent writes that the water in the West Plain has fallen two-tenths of an inch, and in the East Plain five inches. No rain has fallen since the 23rd, nor is there any appearance of a renewed fall. Many human bodies are floating about the East Plain, and it is feared that many of those who have escaped will soon die of starvation. Charity cannot feed the population of a province, unless with far wider and more rapid organisation than the Chinese are capable of. With newspapers to spread the accounts and railways to convey food the sufferers might be saved; as it is thousands will probably die. The Peking Gazette contains an edict degrading several mandarins for the neglect which led to the inundations. The Yung-ting river, one of the affluents of the Peiho, is spoken of as the river whose banks have burst. We can well believe that, in a province where drought is more frequent than flood, successive mandarins have for years been pocketing the money which should have gone to repair those, and that when the emergency came they were quite unequal to bear the pressure. Even Li goes through the formality of condemning himself, and the Emperor through the formality of handing him over to the Board of Punishments.

A Hankow correspondent writes that very heavy rains have been falling in that district, accompanied by strong winds, and that considerable damage has been done to the standing cotton. On the 21st it was estimated that the yield would be 10 to 15 per cent., and on the 23rd, 30 to 35 per cent., below average. Evidently the fate of the crops depends very much upon the weather which may have prevailed during the past week.

As the Kiushiu was proceeding to sea, she came into collision with the Kiangse, striking her on the port paddle-box, and rendering the paddle-wheel completely useless. The Kiushiu proceeded on her voyage, but we hear the Kiangse had to be towed into port.

HONG KONG.

Our advices from this port extend to the 8th September; the London mail of the 28th July arrived out on the 6th Sept.

The following items are from the Daily Press :—

We regret to hear that Mr. Tomlin still continues in a very unsatisfactory state; he has recovered consciousness, but has at present no memory whatever of the past, though he remembers what is going on from hour to hour. It is to be hoped, however, that further quiet will gradually restore his mental equilibrium.

The annual general meeting of the Hong Kong Yacht Club was held at the Hong Kong Club-house. The secretary's report and accounts for the past season were read and passed. The following gentlemen were elected committee for the ensuing season :—Commodore, Commodore Shortt, R.N.; Vice-Commodore, R. F. Hawke, Esq.; J. M. Forbes, Esq., and J. M. Vickers, Esq.; Hon. Secretary and Treasurer, E. Beart, Esq.

We regret to have to record that the damage to the telegraph between this and Shanghai proves more serious than was at first anticipated, and that it must be some little time before communication is re-established. A circular to this effect was sent round by the superintendent yesterday. We understand it is expected that so soon as the damage is known in Shanghai the Great Northern will be sent down with the necessary appliances to repair it.

An extraordinary meeting of shareholders of the Indo-Chinese Sugar Company has taken place. The chairman, G. J. Helland, Esq., said that as the matters to be discussed were of a private nature, concerning only the shareholders and directors, the latter considered that the reporters should be excluded. He further stated that it was the intention of the board to publish the proceedings so soon as the matters now pending should be finally settled. A shareholder, J. Greig, Esq., proposed that the reporters should remain, but hold over their notes until the directors saw fit to publish them, but the chairman was not inclined to put that amendment to the meeting. The original proposal having been put, was therefore carried, and we are consequently unable to give a report of the proceedings. The meeting was somewhat thinly attended, probably on account of its taking place on mail-day. As far as we can judge, without knowing anything about it, the offer is probably a good one, as on a report to the effect that the company was to part with the Bienhoa property at a loss of $100,000, the shares sprang from 20 per cent. discount to 9 per cent.

Tenders have been received for the construction of the chancel to the new Hong Kong Cathedral, in which the memorial window to the late Douglas Lapraik will be erected. Owing to some remarks by Chief Justice Smale we believe there was at one time a probability of the window coming back and being erected at the church at Acton.

The steamer Chieftain, which has been for some time in Japan on sale, is now advertised by Messrs. Tinley, Richardson, and Co., Yokohama, or the agencies of the Borneo Company in China ports.

The Hong Kong Pier and Godown Company have invited tenders for wood, by which it must be assumed that the capital is subscribed.

THE TYPHOON AT HONG KONG.

The present mail brings us particulars of the typhoon, the news of which was telegraphed last month. The storm broke out on the night of the 2nd September, the weather throughout the day having been very thick, and the water more and more turbulent. At 6.30 the cyclone had fairly taken possession, and its violence increased rapidly, until at about 9.30 or 10 the Praya was flooded. The Daily Press says the scene on the bund at this time was one which beggars description. Unlike the typhoon of last year this one occurred at night, and its grandeur was enhanced by the innumerable effects of the darkness.

The steamer Peiho was seen to drift rapidly in the direction of Pedder's Wharf (which at this time was indicated only by a more violent seething of the water), and by eleven o'clock she had reached a point nearly opposite the wharf, and at a remarkably short distance from shore, where she managed to pull up. The China, a short distance farther west, seems to have held out manfully, her position being scarcely changed, but the Cleator drifted down into dangerous proximity. The Acantha, a little farther out, had apparently plenty of elbow room; while the Shaftesbury, some distance east of these, riding to an extraordinary length of cable, would seem to have escaped danger altogether. The little hulk which has been used as a small-pox convalescent hospital has made a voyage during the night, and has brought up at a not very safe distance from the John Adam, having been partially unroofed during her progress. Throughout the early part of the night, especially during the flood-tide, the Praya was deluged, and the smaller craft were piled on top of it with utter disregard to arrangement of any kind.

From Pedder's Wharf westward for several hundred yards the Praya is demolished. The wall is an unshapely heap of granite, huge blocks of which have been carried by the impetuous violence of the sea to distances of twenty and thirty feet from their original locations. But not only have the stones been displaced, but large gaps have been formed, reaching almost to the verandahs of the houses. This is particularly the case between Pedder's wharf and the P. and O. offices. Farther to the west the damage done is great, but the destruction of the Praya less complete than in the central positions. Pedder's Wharf is greatly injured, as indeed are all the prominent stone constructions, while the wooden piers, through which the water has free passage, are unhurt, except as regards the tearing up of the planking, which is easily remedied. Close to Pedder's wharf a large Government lighter came ashore and sank; her gunwales are now flush with the water's edge, and one of her ropes is coiled round the telegraph wire, which is broken further east. Another Government lighter sank in mid-channel, off Messrs. Douglas Lapraik and Co.'s wharf. Opposite this spot are visible the masts of a junk which went down with a valuable Chinchew cargo. The Canton steamer wharf is not extensively injured, though at one time during the night it was in danger of being entirely carried away by a large iron ship which drifted down upon it.

Messrs. Hook's lighter Advance lies in a forlorn condition, level with the water. The Despat appears to have sustained no great injury, as she rides at anchor in a safe enough position. The Pacific Mail wharf has been somewhat injured in its planking, but repairs are being promptly executed. The America rides at her anchor slightly weather-beaten, and with an insignificant list to starboard, but otherwise as if nothing had happened. Further west the Atrevida and Coruviva are both dismasted, the former ashore with stern badly knocked about, and pumps vigorously at work. Still further west the destruction of native boats increases. The misery amongst these boat people must be very great, those even who have been fortunate enough to save their boats, which are their only habitations, having lost a great portion of their property, either accidentally swept or necessarily thrown overboard. Indeed, the whole of the long bay reaching nearly to the Sailors' Home was thronged with Chinamen, some grappling from boats, some diving for the numberless articles, invaluable to these poor people, which strew the bottom at this particular point. Near the Sailors' Home there is a fine junk with a very seedy bottom, ashore, and fearfully smashed, while just beyond there is another full of water, apparently loaded with some valuable cargo. About this point, but farther out in the harbour, are two vessels, the Joseph Clark and Jennie Eastman, broadside on together, and mutually damaged, while as far as the eye can reach towards Capsingmoon appear the masts and yards of ships which have dragged their anchors, far from their original berths.

* Supposed to refer to the present age of the Emperor.

† The cyclical names of 1880, 1881, 1882.

Eastward the devastation is less apparent, though there has been enough of it. Close to the military store are two or three sunken junks, presenting a most melancholy appearance. Shops have been unroofed everywhere, but this is trifling compared with the loss of life which has taken place. At Wanchai details are given, two men have been taken dead to the Civil Hospital from East Point, having been smashed between two cargo boats which came together broadside on. Many more have been killed, and unknown numbers injured. Inspector Orley was energetic in saving life at McDonald's pier, and in this he was ably assisted by five Europeans who tendered their service in the good cause. The loss of life appears to have been most serious at West Point, Wanchai, Aberdeen, and Sowkewan. The latter station especially seems to have been the scene of great disaster, exposed as it is to the full force of the northerly wind. Sampan and junks ashore, houses blown down, with scarcely any part standing, lives lost, plunder immense, and all capped by a desperate attack on the police on the part of the plunderers; these are some of the things which are reported from Sowkewan. One constable received a serious wound on the shoulder during the fight, and seventeen of the disorderly ruffians have been arrested. Not content with plunder, these wretches attempted to take the lives of the unfortunate junk people, in protecting whom the police turned on themselves the tide of their violence. We noted a fine brig driven on shore at the back of the native guard house. She was newly bought and newly masted by Messrs. W. B. Spratt and Co. On the beach near the Commissariat a smaller schooner lies high and dry. Four Government lighters are sunk abreast of the dockyard, one of them being ashore. One of them sank about four feet from the American ship Florella, and but for the energetic help of Captain Peabody, who hove lines to her crew, many of them would have gone down in the lighter. One of these lighters sank on top of the chains of the barque Veronica. One boat in trying to round the corner of Messrs. Wahee, Smith, and Co.'s premises was capsized, and nine of her crew, consisting of twelve persons, were with great difficulty saved by Mr. Smith, who took them in his gig; one old woman and two children were washed away by the sea before the boat could reach them. The brig Selina Jane was driven ashore near the Hospital; schooner Gaviota is reported sunk at her moorings. Mr. Speechly's steam launch found her way to the bottom, while the new steamer just launched by Messrs. Hook and Son had her stern stove in and was filled with water; her engines not having been placed in her, she floated flush with the water's edge, and was saved. The Praya was terribly cut up, and at the proposed site of the New Pier Company the sea wall was entirely washed away, carrying with it about half the carriage road. The wooden pier at the old "McGregor" house was completely destroyed at the shore end, leaving a mass of ruins to mark its site.

Messrs. Jardine's garden suffered terribly, the trees, bamboos, and shrubs being torn and wrenched in every direction. A corrugated iron building at Mr. Jack's slip was unroofed and rendered useless, while one of the houses in the Bazaar had its front completely driven in. The sugar refinery and distillery suffered but little, the Praya wall at the former being prostrated, while the latter had their godown doors blown in and portion of their cooperage untiled. The destruction of boating in Causeway Bay was very heavy. One large Swatow junk was capsized opposite the residence of the sugar boilers at the refinery, driving the head of her mainmast through the wall of the house. She was full of passengers, who were all rescued and kindly cared for, though the poor fellows had lost their all in the wreck. From the north-eastern corner of the refinery, up the bay past the distillery, the Praya wall, which was a dead lee, is lined with wreck of Pea junks, cargo boats, and other native shipping, in some places three and four deep. The steam-launch Fiza was found on her beam ends, but it is believed has sustained no serious injury.

The P. and O. steamers Madras and Ottawa dragged nearly as far as the P. and O. factory at West Point. The French barque Arabie fouled the Madras, and the French ship Nancy fouled the Ottawa, flattening her boats on her side and damaging her stern. The P. and O. Company also lost a lighter with a cargo of coals. It is sad to have to record the loss of the Nancy's gallant master, Captain Maugat; she was fouled by a P. and O. steamer, thought to be the Ottawa, and having parted her cable and drifted towards Capsingmoon, was running ashore, when the crew managed to get out a rope. By means of this every man got off safely, and even the captain's dog was taken ashore before he left. As he did so, Captain Maugat dropped from the rope, disappeared, and has not since been seen. The Nancy, half laden with a valuable cargo for Bombay, is totally lost.

On shore the casualties have of course been fewer, but have still been serious—the only losses of life yet heard of, in addition to those mentioned above as occurring at East Point, being those resulting from the fall of some Chinese houses in Saying-poon, which killed and badly injured several natives. Matsheds, wherever they existed, exist no longer, except in skeleton. The German Club mat-shed, and that over the Seamen's Church, are destroyed almost entirely, while the bamboos have forced some of the courses of the brickwork of the latter building out of the perpendicular. The mat-shed on Government House is also demolished, and two or three Europeans appeared on the roof 4.30 p.m. on Sunday, looking apparently for damages, and pending Supplementary Estimates. If the Surveyor-General was on the look-out there, other officials were not less energetic after the cessation of the storm. The Lieutenant-Governor, the Attorney-General, and the Colonial Secretary were abroad, contemplating the ruin wrought by other hands than theirs. In every part of the town where there were trees there is now plentiful debris. Altogether the devastation wrought by the typhoon of September 2, 1871, has not been matched for several years.

COCHIN CHINA.

—o—
SAIGON.

Dates by the present opportunity extend to Sept. 13. The outward mail of Aug. 4 was received on Sept. 6.

We learn from the Courier that the question of revenue is at present most urgent, a proposition having been made to create a monopoly of the rice distillery. The colony contains 2,500 distilleries, of which no more than 900 belong to the Annamese, all the others being conducted by Chinese. Therefore to create a monopoly in rice, similar to that in opium, would, it is contended, place the great part of the wealth of the country in the hands of the Chinese. On the other hand, if the cost of the licenses were raised even so high as f.300 it would realise no more than f.750,000, even supposing that it did not reduce the number of distilleries now in work. If the Chinese have offered as much as f.100,000 per mensem for the proposed monopoly it is because they count much less on the products of the up-country distilleries than on the rice liquors imported from China in large quantities, which are nearly all consumed by the wealthy classes. Some European merchants have suggested that the proposed monopoly should include all kinds of ardent spirits with those distilled from rice, but this, it is contended, would only complicate the question.

The same journal informs us that in order to give Saigon a share of the advantages caused by the extension of the telegraph between Singapore, Hong Kong, &c., a system of inland navigation has been resolved upon to bring the up-country produce more rapidly to the market. A contract, with a subsidy, has been made with Mr. Larrien, by which that gentleman engages to provide, for nine years, a sufficient number of fast steamers, 200 feet long, and 600 tons burden, with accommodation for twenty cabin and 200 deck passengers, to proceed six times monthly to the richest provinces of the West, and other districts. It is not expected, however, that this arrangement can be brought into operation before the end of next year.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

—o—
SINGAPORE.

Dates extend to Sept. 16th. The outward mail of Aug. 11th was received on the 14th Sept.

The Government Gazette contains the draft of the supply ordinance for 1872, from which we learn that the estimated expenditure is $1,321,105, but in order to cover this, and provide for contingencies, it is proposed to appropriate a sum of $1,327,980.32 for the public service. The estimated expenditure for the present year was $1,294,400.80, but it has been found necessary to introduce a supplementary supply ordinance for $81,605.62, in order to meet certain extra and unforeseen expenditure. We observe with regret that, although Government House no longer affords an excuse for increased expenditure, the expense of administering the Government is constantly and steadily increasing, but the details given are not sufficiently explicit to warrant criticism until the publication of the estimates.

The Legislative Council met on the 11th Sept., but the proceedings were purely formal.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

SHANGHAI.—The week had been devoid of interest. The Grey Shirting market had been quiet, but very steady. A moderate business had been done, and, owing to the firmness of holders, a slight advance in value had been obtained. Rather more cheering news from Tientsin had caused a renewal of the trade demand for that quarter. The inquiry had embraced Grey Shirtings, T-Cloths, Drills, and Jeans, and sales of these fabrics had been more readily effected at gradually hardening rates. In Fancy Cottons there was no change to notice; and with the exception of Spanish Stripes and best assorted Long Ells, which had been in better favour, the Woollen market had shown no signs of improvement. Metals.—Iron: The sales of the week amounted to some 8,000 bundles, at Tls. 2.28-2.30, the same range of prices as were ruling at the time of our last report. Although quotations were unaltered, the market was very weak, and a decline would have to be submitted to to induce further business. Lead: Holders showing signs of weakness; L.B. offered at Tls. 4.50. Coals: Very little change to record in anything but Cardiffs, of which some 1,600 tons had changed hands at Tls. 10. Ex godown rates generally were nominally higher.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

FOOCHOW.—The principal feature in the business of the week had been the opening of the market for fine Oologs for America. A moderate business of the week had been done in Congous and other kinds. Congou: A fair amount of business had been transacted, the advance quoted in our last report having been fully maintained. Supplies continued to arrive freely, and the excess in arrivals was 82,000 chests over the arrivals at same date last season. Settlements, 16,550 chests at Tls. 4 to 20½; arrivals, 24,180 chests. Current quotations (of which Tls. 2.8 must be added for duty, cost at which teas laid down in London calculated at an exchange of 4/4½, and freight £2 10s.): Dust and siftings, Tls. 6 to 8½; broken leaf to ordinary, Tls. 8½ to 10½; fair to good common, Tls. 11 to 1/0; flavory to medium, 1/1½ to 1/6½. Sou-chongs: There is nothing to report; settlements, 2,648 chests at Tls. 15 to 29; arrivals, 1,400 chests. Current quotations: Common, 1/0 to 1/2½; medium to fine, 1/2½ to 1/8; fine, 1/8½. Oologs: The market was opened on the 26th August, by the sale of two favourite chops. Tong-Lee and Tong-Mow, at Tls. 33 to 34. Since when considerable settlements at about proportionate prices had been made amounting to about 20,000 half-chests. Prices compared with last season's opening rates showed an advance of Tls. 2 to 5. The quality of this season's tea, however, was much superior. Quotations (at exchange 4/4½ freight, at £3 per ton): Common to fair, 37 cents gold in bond in New York; good cargo to superior, Tls. 54½ to 102; choice to choicest, Tls. 109 to 118½. As the chops containing the finer lines had been settled at proportionate prices for all grades, the quotations given are necessarily arbitrary. Scented Teas: 2,648 boxes had been settled during the week at Tls. 17 to 17½ for Caper, and Tls. 19 to 20 for Scented Orange Pekoe; arrivals, 1,000 boxes. Flowery Pekoe: Settlements, 100 chests at Tls. 24.

SHANGHAI.—There had been a considerable business done in Black during the week, but prices were quoted fully Tls. 1 lower. The demand had been chiefly for medium teas at Tls. 19 to 22; low classes were much neglected, and holders were anxious to sell at a considerable concession. Settlements 19,000 chests, stocks 50,000 chests. In Green Teas there had been a very large business, amounting to 45,000 half-chests for the week. The demand for the best chops was very active, and prices were fully maintained for all desirable chops of Fychow. Tenkai and Moyune. Stocks, 32,000 half-chests of all descriptions. Total export to date to Great Britain as compared with that of last season: Black, 9,250,000 lbs. in excess; Green, 400,000 lbs. in excess.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—The market was quiet, and prices were drooping gradually. Settlements, since the departure of the English mail on the 25th August, amounted to about 500 bales, and were chiefly on joint account with Chinese. Red Peacocks, Tls. 500; Ku-kees, Kinjan, Tls. 512½; for better grades, prices nominal. Stock, from 7,500 to 8,000 bales.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.—OCT. 7.

TEA.

There is an active demand for Green, but as the supply is about exhausted, transactions are restricted, and prices are very firm; the sales recently have been principally from second hands. Blacks and Japan are in good supply, and as there is very little inquiry for either description, prices are somewhat irregular.

COFFEE.—The market for Brazil is strong and buoyant, the advices to hand confirming the previous accounts of diminished crop, moderate shipments, and constantly rising prices. The estimates of the incoming crop of Brazil are reduced from 1,600,000 to 1,250,000 bags to 800,000 to 1,000,000, and remaining of the old crop from 600,000 to 300,000. The market for East India is also very strong, the absence of arrivals and continued scant stock inducing great firmness on the part of holders, who are sellers only at extreme prices, and which may be said to have an upward tendency from day to day, the demand from consumers being now quite good, with considerable purchases from the second-hand lots recently disposed of. Java is reduced in stock to one cargo of 12,476 mats in first hands, though here and in Boston there are some 40,000 to 50,000 mats held in second hands by two or three houses. Of Singapore the stock in the country is 12,000 to 15,000 mats, all in second hands. Prices of East India are 1c. to 2c. per lb. higher, with jobbing sales from dealers' hands at 24½c. for pale Java, 25c. for medium brown, 25½c. for brown, and 26c. to 26½c. for extreme brown; 20c. to 20½c. for pale Singapore, and 21c. to 22c. for brown—all gold. The transactions in large parcels include 1,257 mats Java, per President v. Ryckevorsel; 500 bags (Government) Java, to arrive; 4,867 mats, and 1,050 bags Ceylon, in lots, on private terms; 842 bags Ceylon, a resale, 18c.; 1,000 mats Pale Java, a resale, 25c.—gold; 300 bags Native Ceylon, ex Francia, at 14c. gold (in bond); a resale of 7,300 mats Padang and 7,000 do. Samarang, cargo of the Agnes, to arrive next November, on private terms; and 12,000 mats Java, to arrive per Galilee at the close of the year, on private terms.

CORDAGE.—Market without alteration.

CAMPOR.—China is quoted 15c. gold (in bond), the stock is heavy.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $2.85; Cassia, $2 gold (duty paid).

FIRE CRACKERS.—Without change.

GUNNY CLOTH remains inactive; we quote nominally Native 15½c. to 15½c., Borneo 17½c., cash.

HEMP.—The remainder of the Surprise's cargo of Manila, viz., 2,679 bales, has been sold at 13½c. gold; we also notice the sale of 2,250 bales to arrive, 1,500 per John Temperly, and 750 per L'Imperatrice at 13½c. gold, 60 days. The market is firm, but the demand at the moment is light, the current rate is 13½c. to 13½c. gold. Stock of Manila in New York, Oct. 2—10,486 bales in 1868, 10,178 bales in 1869, 7,730 bales in 1870, and 1,130 bales in 1871.

INDIGO.—Manila and Madras are in fair jobbing demand, Manila at $1.05 to $1.15, Madras at $1.15 to $1.17½, currency.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $3.50 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is 50c. to 60c. currency (duty free).

RICE.—There is a fair demand for home use, prices showing no particular change since our last. The sales of Rangoon have been 3,600 bags at $6.75 to $7, currency, and about 1,000 bags in bond at $3.15 to $3.25 gold.

SUGAR.—The market is weak, and prices favour buyers, some descriptions having receded one-eighth of a cent. since our last. Holders at this late period of the season offer their stocks rather freely, and though refiners are purchasing to a fair extent, they do not exceed their daily wants, and the advantage has been on their side. No business has been done in East India descriptions.

SPICES.—The market for Pepper has been active and somewhat excited, under favourable accounts from abroad, the latest cable advices from Singapore quoting the article “$13.25 per picul, and advancing rapidly.” The sales reach about 10,500 bags Sumatra and Singapore, here and to arrive, say 5,500 bags here and 5,000 to arrive here including about 3,000 taken for export, a portion of the above from second hands. The market at the close is firm, at fully 17c. in lots for Sumatra and 18c. for Singapore, with an upward tendency, about 2,000 bags have been re-sold at the quotations named. There has also been another large movement in Nutmegs, by which all expected to arrive in the country, known to be on the way, has been taken up on speculation, say some 2,500 cases, thus concentrating the whole supply here or to come for a long time to come in the hands of one or two houses. We notice from second hands some 400 to 500 cases, in lots, at 97½c. to 100c., closing strong at $1 for Penang. Cloves, too, are higher, the stock having been further concentrated by the purchase of 2,489 bales Zanzibar in Boston, with 1,000 bales or more sold here from second hands—the price is now 11½c., duty paid, and 6½c. in bond, gold. For the other descriptions there is a steady good demand, in a jobbing way, at last quotations, which are well maintained.

TIN.—The market is quiet, but firm, Straits being held at 36½c. to 37c., and Banca at 41½c. to 42c., gold.

APPOINTMENTS AT SINGAPORE.

SOME of the New Straits appointments have excited a good deal of feeling, not only in the colony, but among Straits men at home. It is difficult to speak gravely of Colonel ANSON's manner of filling Mr. OWEN's place, and yet it is no laughing matter to see an important judicial office of £1,000 to £1,200 a-year thrown to a youth who is, or was but yesterday, a clerk in the Audit Office. Mr. COUSINS appears to have good interest among the local officials who have the temporary disposal of the loaves and fishes in their hands; for he was deputed for a short time, to the great amusement of the public, to do justice in the same Court, when Captain ORD hurriedly left it in 1867. The thing was regarded as a joke, and a bad joke too; but did not last long. On what public ground such an appointment can be defended we are at a loss to discover; for there are many gentlemen in the colony, both at the bar and in the public service, who might have been fairly entrusted with its duties; but of the effect of such an appointment there can be no question. To place utter ignorance, inexperience and incompetency on the Bench is to make a laughing stock of justice and to degrade the judicial office. Since the affair of the temporary judgeship, the public may suspect that the degradation of the Bench is no public injury in the eyes of Colonel ANSON and of his secretary, Mr. BIRCH, whose coarse abuse of the late judge, Mr. OWEN, in the Council, is not likely soon to be forgotten; but this would be but one of the many reasons which are making everybody question the unfitness of the hands into which the executive functions have fallen.

It appears from the Straits Times that the circulation of a report that Captain ORD had been appointed to succeed Mr. PLUNKETT as Magistrate at Singapore had elicited strong marks of general disapprobation; and it is gratifying to learn that the rumour was premature at least, if not altogether unfounded. Of Captain ORD personally we have no knowledge, but certainly his public career in the Straits hitherto has not been as satisfactory as his friends could have wished; and it is but fair and just, for the sake of the public, that those features of it which attracted attention at the time should not be lost sight of. When Sir H. ORD went out to assume the Governorship of the Straits Settlements he was accompanied by his brother, a military officer on half-pay; and this brother was at once installed into the vacant Magistracy at Malacca. Captain ORD, it is well known, knew neither law nor any native language; but his want of these qualifications was thought, if ever thought of at all, of no moment by the Secretary of State of the day. The Judgeship of the Singapore Small Debts Court falling vacant on his arrival, Sir HARRY appointed to it this same brother. He did not occupy it long, however. His celebrated committal to gaol, for contempt of court, of one of the leading advocates of the Singapore bar was too much even for fraternal feelings, and Captain ORD was sent off in hot haste to his post at Malacca, where there was neither press to report, lawyers to object, nor public opinion to criticise. In an evil hour, however, the wheel of promotion sent Captain ORD to Penang; and he had not been there three months before he was in hot water again. Things had gone to the extent of a petition being got up against him, when Sir H. ORD hurried to Penang to the rescue. Apologies were made, and it was at the same time discovered that Captain ORD's health required a change of climate, and he returned to England. This was about a year and a half ago. Whether Captain ORD has passed the interval in qualifying himself for the duties of an office which require learning, patience, temper, and a high conscientiousness, as well as in recruiting his health, we are unable to say; but we think that Lord KIMBERLEY will consult the public interests and his own high reputation if he waits for some proofs that these qualities have been acquired, and in the meantime place in the Singapore Magistracy some gentleman who has higher claims to public confidence.

WE noticed in our last the arrival at Anjer of the Investigator, one of the vessels engaged to lay the telegraphic cable between Java and Australia (Port Darwin). We have since heard of her arrival at Batavia on the 18th inst., after laying the small cable across the Straits of Sunda connecting Anjer with Sumatra.

GAS IN YOKOHAMA.

Some months since we noticed the schemes set on foot for lighting Yokohama, Yedo, &c., with gas. Two schemes were before the public, one known as the German project, and one the Japanese; it seems that the promoters of the former got their capital subscribed, drew up their plans, and sent home instructions for the construction of the works. These were intrusted to Messrs. Robert Laidlaw and Sons, gas engineers, Glasgow, by the agents of the company, Messrs. Miller Bros. There is scarcely a part of the globe in which Messrs. Laidlaw have not been called on to fit up gas works, and doubtless these works for Yokohama will prove as successful as their other contracts. The company are starting, without any concession from Government, to light along the railway to Yedo or any other Government property, but when successfully at work there is little doubt but that they will obtain this on fair terms. Sir Harry Parkes on his late visit to Glasgow inspected the plans and particulars of these works, which are now in course of shipment per steamer Ladkia for Yokohama.

THE GRAVE OF COLONEL CATHCART.

In our last issue we recorded the discovery of the grave of Colonel the Hon. C. A. Cathcart. We have since been favoured with the following particulars of the life of this gallant officer, which will be read with melancholy interest:—

“Colonel the Hon. Charles Alan Cathcart, the second son of the great Lord, and great-uncle to the present Lord Cathcart, was born in the year 1759, and died at the early age of twenty-nine years. Even at this early age he had distinguished himself as a soldier, as a senator, and as a diplomatist. Joining the army in America in 1776, he was taken prisoner on his return by a French privateer. Subsequently, as Lieutenant-Colonel of the 98th Regiment, and in more important commands in the East Indies, he saw much military service; he was also present during many naval battles with the French. Employed diplomatically, he conducted important negotiations with the French Governor of Bourbon, the Marquis de Souillac. In command of the storming party at Cuddalore Charles Cathcart carried all the French redoubts, capturing eighteen guns; sent to England with despatches, he was, for his services, appointed quartermaster-general in India; the Court of Directors voted him a sword of honour, value 100 guineas. At the general election of 1784 Clackmashire sent him to Parliament, where he at once established an honourable position. Mr. Pitt, having consulted Charles Cathcart in regard to the French Islands, in 1788, with a view to commercial interests, sent him with full powers on an embassy to China. On the outward voyage he died, on board the Vestal frigate, then in the Straits of Sunda. This was on the 10th of June, 1788. He was buried on the adjoining coast of Java. The scene is depicted by the artist of the expedition:—In the background a chief and groups of natives; nearer the shore marines and seamen drawn up on either side; a central group of mourners, gentlemen of the embassy and naval officers—one faints, many weep; the coffin under the white ensign is being landed through the surf, whilst in the offing the distant frigate fires minute guns. To express their grief and record their affection for the deceased officer his companions placed a monument in the Dutch fort of Angiers. The skilful pencil of Romney renders Charles Cathcart's image still familiar—his memory is fresh, and cherished.

LITERATURE.

The September number of the Phoenix is better than usual. It opens with a capital paper on the sports and games of Chinese children, by Dr. Porter Smith. The Rev. Mr. Beal contributes an interesting review of “Three Lectures on Buddhism.” The editor gives us a couple of scholarly papers; and Mr. Carroll in the conclusion of his “Cure for Jealousy,” though he may have

—“as skilful surgeons cut beyond the wound, Yet makes the cure complete.”

In plain English, his very clever and conscientious translation of this tale, which was becoming a little tedious, is wound up; and, if read off at a sitting, would, we doubt not, prove amusing. Mr. Alabaster's “Fable from the Siamese” is suggestive, and therefore valuable. Mr. Hodgson and other writers contribute articles which fill up a very readable number; though we must own that we grudge the considerable space devoted to a feeble extract from the Standard on “Medical Mission Work in China.” “Grand-mamma” may feel much honoured by the distinction thus bestowed, but it is quite beneath the dignity of a magazine with such a speciality as the Phoenix to come home, and to such an authority as the Standard, for information on Chinese affairs.

Spiritualism and Animal Magnetism; by Professor G. G. Terrell, Ph.D. London: R. Hardwicke.

This is an exhaustive treatise on the vexed questions of spiritualism and magnetism. The learned author contends that animal magnetism exists beyond doubt, that the sensations of one person may be conveyed to another under certain controlling circumstances, and he thus accounts for what are commonly called apparitions. We are not at liberty here to express any opinion on the subjects thus opened beyond saying that we believe that they have not yet received all the attention they deserve. A brief extract will perhaps prove the attractiveness of the book:—

Magnetism, which pervades the whole universe as life-giving force, serves as a further means to explain phenomena which have often happened and have as often either been discredited or attributed to supernatural agencies. Passionate people, for instance, charged with a great amount of animal magnetism, will be able to influence the sympathetic system of sensitive persons, and will not only affect their fancy, but the perceptive faculties of their brain, to such a degree that they will be seen by them as if present in the body. These visions of absent persons in great danger, struggling with death, or dying, have taken place; such visions of the same person were often seen in different places, by different people. A friend of mine received one day a letter from his sister-in-law in New York, inquiring about the health of his wife, as the writer had seen her dying, in a dream. The letter is still in existence. At the very moment that the sister in New York dreamed this, her sister was, in reality, on the brink of the grave, in London. The wife of an Indian officer saw her husband's apparition in England, whilst he was murdered in India. Most important is the case that happened at Frankfort-on-the-Maine, in the Jewish Hospital, where a servant died one night. The next morning, her sister and niece, both living in different places, the one at a distance of five miles from town, the other in town, appeared at the house of the lady in whose service she was, to inquire after their relation, who had appeared to both of them during the night, whilst she was dying. The superintendent of the hospital, who has recorded this incident, asserts that such cases often occur. Somnambulists, when in a state of catalepsy, have appeared to others. The power of seeing absent persons may be even inherited. People in good health rarely possess it, but many exceptional cases have been recorded.

We have received the twelfth periodical issue of the Silk Supply Journal, which continues its efforts towards the improvement and extension of silk culture.

CHINESE “POLITICS.”

(NEW YORK TIMES.)

The Chinese are true to their traditions. They have been watching the proceedings of our squadron and the invasion of Korea with profound interest, and they have lately favoured the Celestial world with a highly original account of them. It will be remembered that the late operations under Admiral Rodgers resulted, to put the matter concisely, in the destruction of five Korean forts, with the loss of three men of the attacking force. This has been described to the Chinese public by their official purveyors of news in the following manner:—“Great victory over the Yang Kuay-tz! One thousand foreigners killed! Four foreign ships caught in the river and unable to get out!” This bears a delicious family resemblance to the Herald's long-continued treatment of the King frauds, and suggests that that paper must have made a study of the ingenious vermillion edicts which are obviously so much after its own heart. Elated, no doubt, by the cheering intelligence of Yang Kuay-tz's discomfiture, the Chinese appear to be getting ready for their periodic crusades against foreigners. Reports are at hand of the likelihood of an outbreak at Canton, and it seems to be true that a Protestant chapel at Fatsan has been destroyed. No foreigners had been actually attacked at last accounts, and perhaps the action promptly taken at Hong Kong may prevent such a misfortune. It is stated that Her British Majesty's steamship Thistle was despatched from the latter port to Canton on the 23rd of July, and a considerable number of troops have been collected and held in readiness to operate at short notice if required. The Mandarins seem to have taken steps to allay the excitement; but, of course, it may blaze up afresh, and violence be precipitated by a number of conceivable accidents. The Chinese always have specious pretences for their behaviour in such cases—“cries,” that is to say, not necessarily believed in by the more educated classes but invented to exasperate the multitude. The story this time is that the foreigners have been selling a peculiar drug, which has very deleterious effects on those who take it. This stuff is known as the "Evil-genius Mixture," or "Shan Sin Fan," and has become a universal theme of discussion and alarm. It has become known that a number of secret societies certainly exist, the object of which is to foment discord between the Chinese Government and the foreign Powers. One of their methods of operating has consisted in secretly distributing Shan Sin Fan, and imputing the act to the foreigners. The substance is in the form of powder, and a competent gentleman got hold of some of it the other day and analysed it, when the composition proved to be simply rice-flour, with the addition of a little red colouring matter. In most countries the publication of this fact would be sufficient to destroy the malefic repute of the "Evil-genius Mixture," but not so in China. A true statement of the ingredients would, without question, be promptly subjected to the process applied so refreshingly to the news from Korea, and the "Red Devils" be duly branded with hate and reprobation. There is only one argument that is always and absolutely convincing in dealing with these small-eyed children of Confucius, and for their sakes we hope the mandarins will retain sufficient influence to prevent the foreign Powers from being obliged to use it.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE REV. GRIFFITH JOHN ON CHINA.—This gentleman, who has for the last fifteen years laboured most earnestly in the cause of the London Missionary Society in various parts of China, but chiefly in the neighbourhood of Hankow, on the Yangtze, has just delivered an impressive lecture, in connection with the Congregational Union, at Swansea, on the difficulties with which missionary enterprise is surrounded in the Far East, and on the encouraging results which have nevertheless attended the exertions of the missionaries. In the course of his speech Mr. John said: "In the year 1853 we had not quite 500 pupils in our day schools; we have now about 4,000. Native preachers in 1853, 19; we have now more than 360. Stations and out-stations in 1853, only 26; we have now more than 300. Converts in 1853, 351; we have now between 6,000 and 7,000 communicants. Contributions in 1853, nothing; at present we have about £1,000. Now I think you will agree with me that we are making some progress in China, that the Gospel is not a failure in China. But these figures do not represent the actual amount of work that has been accomplished; for there are hundreds, perhaps thousands, around the various stations who have been influenced to a certain extent by the Gospel. We are saturating the minds of the people with stories of Jesus Christ, and filling the air with the music of the Cross.

SIR RODERICK MURCHISON.—We regret to observe the announcement of the death of this distinguished and venerable philosopher, on the 22nd inst., at an age not far short of eighty years. In the biography published in The Times of Sir Roderick's death, his geological investigations are described as constituting his greatest claim on the admiration of his contemporaries. Our appreciation of Sir Roderick was mainly founded on the support he gave to geographical researches as president of the Royal Geographical Society, to which he post he was elected in 1844. Sir Roderick Impey Murchison, Bart., K.C.B., LL.D., D.C.L., F.R.S., &c., was the eldest son of a gentleman of ancient family and noble Highland extraction. The family traced their descent from one Murdo McCollman, whose descendants held, under the Mackenzies, Laids of Kintail, the castellanship of the stronghold of Eilan Dounan. The last who held this post was the great-great-grandfather of the baronet, and nephew of that Colonel Donald Murchison celebrated for defending Kintail and Lochalsh for six years after the battle of Sheriff Muir, against the forces of George the First and Second. In testimony of the loyalty of his ancestors to the ancient Royal family Sir Roderick not long ago erected a monument in Lochalsh.

A PRIVATE letter, received from Singapore, dated September 7, says:—"Her Majesty's ship Tamar, Capt. H. D. Hickley, arrived here on the 2nd from Hong Kong. She brought with her the left wing of the 10th Regiment, under command of Major Lucas, from Japan, which was landed the same day. She also brought with her the right wing of the 75th from Hong Kong, and embarked the left wing from here this morning. Instead of leaving this regiment at Mauritius, as was first intended, she will take the whole to the Cape of Good Hope, and bring back the headquarters of the 32nd and about 400 men to Mauritius, then embark the right wing of the 20th, call at the Cape for the left wing, and take the whole to Queenstown. Letters sent on the 9th of November and December to St. Vincent, Cape Verd, will meet this ship."

LOSS OF THE "TAEPING."—We regret to hear of the loss of the clipper Tae ping, which has frequently held a foremost place in the annual homeward race from China with new season's teas, and on two occasions has taken the prize. The vessel was among the earliest built of the new class of China clippers, and was owned by Mr. Alexander Rodger, of Glasgow.

We learn that the extra P. and O. steamer Mirzapore, on the 26th inst., takes out the English expedition to observe the eclipse of December next, including M. Janssen, and Professor Respighi, of Rome.

A TELEGRAM received on the 19th at the War-office contradicts a statement made a short time since that the 10th Foot, from Japan, were in a very unsatisfactory condition.

GERMANY.

HAMBURG, Oct. 17.

Business is about to recommence in earnest, now that the holidays are over, and those officials who were enabled to obtain leave of absence have returned from the seaside, the German Spas, and the Swiss Lakes. The Prince-Chancellor, the Federal Council, and the German Parliament (which was opened yesterday by the Emperor, whose Speech from the Throne you will have received by the telegraph) have enough on their hands, as there are many important measures to come under discussion; for though it is intended to make the session a very short one, to enable the Prussian Chambers to be convoked and pass the Budget before the Christmas holidays, I for one cannot readily understand how the Parliament will find time to dispose of the great accumulation of business before them, as we know how fond members of Parliament—not only in Germany but in other countries as well—are of making long speeches, particularly on subjects about which they know little or nothing, and would act more wisely not to speak at all, and content themselves with giving a silent vote.

One of the most important of these new measures, and one that mostly absorbs public attention, as it will dip into everybody's pocket—man, woman, and child—whether they will or no, is the reform of the currency and the introduction of one uniform system of money for the whole of the Empire of Germany. This subject was specially mentioned in the Emperor's Speech from the Throne yesterday. In one of my former letters—about three months ago—I informed your readers of the different proposals at that time made for the alteration in question. Since then a Congress of political economists, scientific men, and practical bankers was held at Lubeck, where the subject was prominently brought under discussion, and the result was embodied in a set of resolutions, which were forwarded to Prince Bismark, and subsequently published in the German newspapers. This greatly tended to help on the affair, and now it has arrived at such a state of maturity, having received the sanction of the separate Governments,—that the draft of the Bill to be laid before Parliament has been drawn up and published by the semi-official press, so that there can be no doubt of its being what it purports to be. The principal features of the new system are as follows:—The unit of value, which is to be called the mark, is the third part of the Prussian thaler or the present ten-groschen piece, containing ten groschens (the name is to be retained) of ten pfennigs each. This is a combination of the decimal system with that of the Prussian currency, and therefore all sums in thalers can be readily converted into the new denomination by simply multiplying with three. The coin itself will be made of silver, and be as nearly as possible of the value of a shilling sterling. For all larger payments we are to have a good currency, the coinage of silver dollars has already been stopped, and those now in circulation will by degrees be put out of the way of the public, called in, exchanged for gold, melted down, and sold as silver. The principal and largest gold coin, of which 46½ pieces of fine gold will weigh half a kilogram, will pass for 30 marks (or 10 of the present dollars), and there will also be gold pieces of 20 marks and of 15 marks. They are all to contain nine parts of fine gold and one of alloy. For a certain period, not yet definitively settled, the following silver currency will be permitted to pass at their present nominal value: the thaler, the double thaler, and the smaller pieces of ½ and 1-6 thaler; but all the South German coins (florins and kreuzers) will be put out of circulation when the new system is promulgated, which, it is hoped, can be on the 1st of January next—taking it for granted that the Mint can strike off a sufficient quantity of the different coins by that date. These alterations will not cause any fluctuations in the value of the precious metals, either in Germany or elsewhere. The quantity of silver in the Mint, when the order was given for discontinuing the coinage of thalers, is quite large enough to strike off a very considerable number of marks and half marks; whilst the large sums received from France in payment of the first instalments of the war indemnity—great part of which was in French gold coins—will fully suffice for the first requirements of the Germans. The new coins are all to be struck exclusively at Berlin, and will bear the effigy of the Emperor of Germany, which will be a sad blow for some of the lesser States, such as Bavaria, Saxony, Wurtemberg, Hesse, and Baden, who deprive themselves voluntarily of what has always been considered as one of the principal privileges of the Sovereign of an independent State—the right of coining money. But they make this sacrifice of their inherent rights in the interests and for the consolidation and further development of the unity of the German Empire.

In my last letter I mentioned that an election was to take place here for a member of Parliament, in room of Mr. Edgar Ross, resigned, and that within three days of the election no candidate had come forward. This lukewarmness of the upper classes had the effect of rousing the energies of the Social Democrats, who held a meeting and put in nomination one of their leaders. This caused a corresponding reaction among the merchants, and a requisition was sent to Herr G. A. Schon, the senior partner of one of the most eminent houses on the Hamburg Exchange, who allowed himself to be put in nomination. As the elections in Germany are conducted by universal franchise, and as the democrats here are known to be very numerous, it was thought that Herr Schon would not have a chance of success; but we were all joyfully disappointed on learning the result, which was that he polled 6,729 votes, whilst his opponent could only boast of 1,476.

The new temporary Parliament-house at Berlin, which is built in the court of the Royal Porcelain Manufactory in the Wilhelmstrasse, has been constructed in the short space of three months, and was only delivered over to the authorities by the contractor on Friday last. It is built of iron and glass, and the works have been much accelerated by the workmen relieving each other in day and night gangs—the latter enabled to work by an unstinted use of the electric light—without which the building could scarcely have been completed within the time fixed.

At Stockholm a company has been formed for the purpose of trading direct with China, via Suez Canal. Their first steamer has just been launched at the Ironworks at Hudikswall; she is 200 feet in length, her tonnage being 1,000 tons, and she is rigged with four masts.

The Directors of the German Nautical Union at Bremen have petitioned the Prince-Chancellor to bring in a Bill prohibiting shipowners from altering the names of their vessels, as in England and the United States; and further compelling them to have the name of the vessel and the port where she is owned painted on the stern in letters at least six inches high.

THE SHAN-SIN-FAN QUESTION AND OUR DANGERS IN CHINA.

Pas est et ab hoste doceri has ever been the motto of The Times. The condition of our relations with the Chinese Government has at length awakened the long dormant interest of The Times in the Far East. True, the Editor, with the traditional discretion of Printing House-square, does not commit himself to any distinct opinions, but his "own correspondent" in Shanghai does; and his views concur so entirely with those which we have so long expressed in this journal, that we might almost content ourselves with extracts from his letter, instead of offering any present comment of our own. But, instead of this, we think it will be more satisfactory to our readers if we take the writer's admissions—becoming, as we believe we shall, the mere anticipators of the reflections that they will suggest to every thoughtful man practically acquainted with China. The own correspondent of the leading journal says that the tale of the "Genii Powders" (Shan-sin-fan—we think this must mean Shang sin fan, an injury to the heart through food), which has caused so much excitement at Canton and coasting ports, is "somewhat similar in purport, and as malicious and dangerous as the charges of kidnapping and mutilation which led to the riot last autumn at Tientsin." Of course it is. That is what we have said all along, and therefore we demur to the writer's remark, that "it is rather strange that a similar excitement should break out this year, at precisely the same time, in the south." We can see nothing strange in the matter, except that our Government should have utterly failed to require any adequate atonement for the massacre at Tientsin, and then profess to be surprised at its inevitable consequence; but we certainly perceive that the danger, nay, almost the certainty, of the repetition of that outrage, is daily increasing by reason of the apathy of our representatives. As for the mandarins "arresting and executing several men," we know too well what that means; it is simply their way of increasing popular hatred against foreigners instead of affording foreigners the protection they are entitled to by treaty. The whole matter centres in the value of our treaties, and the necessity of every article contained in them being insisted on with a high hand until they are revised—when the freedom and privileges of foreigners in China ought to be enlarged. This revision ought to be urged forthwith; indeed, it must be so urged, if we are to prevent butchery like that at Tientsin being repeated on a more extended scale. The Times correspondent tells us that from Kwang Tung the excitement spread to the adjoining province of Kwansi, in the capital of which a placard was posted containing "public resolutions for the expulsion of the devils and the strict prohibition of proselytism." It is of immense consequence not to allow these insidious publications to pass unchallenged. Our Minister should insist on the publication of a decree in the Peking Gazette denying the false and malicious accusation, and threatening punishment for any repetition. Until this is done we cannot believe in the sincerity of the Chinese Government.

THE MONT CENIS TUNNEL SERVICE.

We alluded in our last to the negotiations pending as to the conveyance of our mails through France by the Mont Cenis service. The conveniences promised by the opening of the Mont Cenis Tunnel are such as most deeply concern all who have mercantile and other interests in the East. Merchants being now enabled to send goods between France and Italy without even the danger of transshipment, the opening of the Tunnel becomes a matter of real international importance. All commercial experience shows that the development of trade is in a great measure dependent on the facilities of communication. The interchange of goods between France and Italy would alone be sufficient to warrant the outlay of capital necessary for the construction of so large an undertaking, to say nothing of the important traffic which may be expected from other sources. The saving of time is sufficient to prove an inducement for passengers to adopt the Brindisi route in preference to that by Marseilles. The idea of the Tunnel was originally Italian; the only participation of France in the matter has been the payment of a share in the cost, when, by the cession of Savoy, a portion of the projected Tunnel was found to lie within the new French frontier. Unfortunately the management of railway traffic in Italy leaves much to be desired in the way of speed and punctuality; but it may be fairly hoped that, in view of the great benefit to be reaped by increased attention to these matters, the Italian line may soon be placed on a par with the English and French ones.

THE PACIFIC MAIL STEAMSHIP COMPANY.

We learn that this enterprising Company has determined to make its service fortnightly instead of monthly, as hitherto, and that the new arrangements will come into effect on the 15th of May next. It will be remembered that some time ago attention was drawn to the advisability of the United States Government granting a subsidy to assist this object. Since then, however, and in the absence of any action on the part of the Government, the trade has so far increased that the Company have felt it only due to their clients to take the sole risk of doubling the frequency of their voyages on their own responsibility. We have no apprehension that they will find themselves losers by their enterprise, for, seeing that it is entirely owing to the efficient manner in which the Company have already performed their work that the trade has been so quickly developed, we think that fact gives them a stronger claim on Government than they had before. It is a convincing proof that they are determined to occupy permanently the route between San Francisco, Japan, and China, and to do justice to the service, they have already contracted for, and are now building in America, three iron screw steamers of 2,000 tons freight capacity, besides space for passengers, stores, and coal. We are glad to perceive that the Company has adopted the screw principle in lieu of the paddle; and we learn that the engines (400-h.p. nominal) are being constructed by the eminent firm of Messrs. JOHN ELDER and Co., of Glasgow. We are further informed that the Company are about to contract for two more steamers of 4,000 tons and 600-h.p. The service in May next will be commenced with the America, Great Republic, Japan, China, Colorado, and Alaska, aggregating 24,000 tons. We understand that the directors intend to continue their line from New York to San Francisco, via Panama, as heretofore, for goods and passengers. To those who prefer a pleasant sea voyage to the seven days' railway journey, we can assure them that these steamers have first-rate accommodation. In due course Messrs. H. STARR and Co., the London agents, will issue the particulars of freight and passage by the line.

Our Shanghai correspondent's letter, received by the last mail, affords a remarkable corroboration of the views which we expressed in these columns when first the news of the Korean expedition reached us. We then observed that the Koreans would consider the retreat of the American squadron as a virtual defeat, and we now learn that it is regarded as little less than a failure even in the United States. The mischief has been done, and we can only trust it will not be repeated. As for the hope, which our correspondent indulges, that a joint expedition may be undertaken by England, France, and America, we regret that we cannot encourage it. We are well advised that the American Government have decided not to take any further steps, and our own Government will certainly not interfere in the matter at present. The American failure, like the French, must be allowed to die out.

MR. SIDGREAVES, the new Chief Justice of the Straits Settlements, proceeds by the mail of the 17th prox. We have not heard if it is the intention of our Government to confer the honour of knighthood on Mr. SIDGREAVES. We trust that Lord KIMBERLEY will have courage enough to break through a custom in the Straits which has become very inconvenient, and we think Mr. SIDGREAVES is sensible enough to support his lordship in this. The judges at Hong Kong have not enjoyed this handle to their names.

WE are glad to learn, from the Colombo Observer, that Mr. JOHN STODDART, of the Surveyor-General's Department, Ceylon, has been appointed to commence works with a view to the formation of the Paumben Channel. Borings will be made in two different places to enable Mr. TOWNSEND to calculate the cost of either deepening the present, or cutting a new, channel eastward of Ramisseram. It is thought not unlikely that the new channel may be completed and opened within three years.

WE understand that representations have been made to the Foreign-office urging the importance of the fresh agitation against foreigners in China styled the "Shan-Sin-Fau."

STEAMERS FOR THE FAR EAST.

The number of steamers now building on the Clyde for all parts is estimated at over 200, and to say that all desirable builders are "full" is rather an inadequate statement, for we know of many who positively refuse to take any contract where "time" is insisted on. We suppose the world has never seen such an enterprise as this "shipbuilding on the Clyde," which, be it remembered, has been built up chiefly by clever mechanics who have in their early days served in the yards, and one by one shown some special capacity to become a master, and with that insurmountable and canny perseverance peculiar to the Scotch, have completely eclipsed the Thames, the Mersey, and other rivers. True they have the essential materials of coal and iron close by, but these special advantages would have been useless without the genius to turn out ships and steamers on new and improved principles. In short, they have taken the lead in China clippers, steamers, and marine engines. It is really a grand sight to proceed up the Clyde and witness the crowded yards with the roar and din of fifty thousand workmen. The Far East contributes its share to this enterprise.

Messrs. A. and J. Inglis have on the stocks a screw boat, building under the superintendence of Captain Lewis, for the Shanghai Steam Navigation Company, and intended for the Tientsin trade. She will register about 1,200 tons (builders' measurement), and be fitted with three decks, giving large passenger accommodation, as well as cargo. The engines will be on the compound principle, and of 200-horse power, with a very small consumption of coal. Messrs. Inglis are also making for the Chinese Government two pairs of horizontal engines, one of 80-horse power, and the other 250. These engines have a large quantity of brass in them, and are otherwise first-class. The hulls for these boats are building at the Chinese Arsenal at Foochow. They have also in hand part of the machinery and boilers of one of the large Yantze steamers, the cylinder being eighty inches diameter and eleven feet stroke. This firm has built for the China trade the Millet, Hupek, Shantung, and Moyune—the latter with a beam engine on the American principle, but admitted, by accounts from China, to be far superior to the American build. Messrs. Henderson, Colbourn, and Co. are building a screw of about 600 tons for the local trade in China and Japan, and Messrs. Napier one for the direct trade of about 3,000 tons, for the line of Messrs. Shaw, Maxton, and Co. Messrs. John Elder and Co. have just completed the Prins Hendrik for the direct line between Amsterdam and Java, and they have under contract two more for this line. They are also constructing for the Pacific Mail Company of New York three pairs of engines of 400-horse power, on the new compound principle, the hulls for which are building in

New York, and intended to run on the San Francisco and China line. Messrs. Denny and Co., of Dumbarton, have on the stocks two screws of 3,000 tons for the P. and O. Company's service, and Messrs. Caird and Co. have also two, in addition to the Peshawur, nearly ready for launching. Messrs. Connell are building for Messrs. R. and J. Craig a screw of about 2,500 tons, for the direct trade between Glasgow and Java. Messrs. Hall, Russell, and Co., of Aberdeen, have just launched a screw boat intended for the China coast service, and they have on the stocks another of similar dimensions. The following steamers have been launched during the week:—

On the 14th inst. there was launched from the building-yard of Messrs. Hall, Russell, and Co., Aberdeen, an iron screw steamer, named the Lotus, of 580 tons register. Length, 175 feet; breadth, 25 feet 2 in.; depth from spar deck, 19 feet 6 in. The Lotus has a spar deck, with all the accommodation for the passengers under it, the sides of the vessel being fitted with large air scuttles. The engines are compound surface-condensing, of 75 nominal horse power, capable of propelling the vessel at a speed of ten and a-half knots, on a consumption of 6½ cwt. of coal per hour. The Lotus is built to the order of Mr. E. M. De Bussche, for the Japan trade.

The screw steamer Oxfordshire has been successfully launched from the yard of Earle's Shipbuilding and Engineering Company at Hull. She is sister ship to the Yorkshire, launched from the same yard a short time ago, and, like her, is intended for the East India trade. Her dimensions are—length between perpendiculars, 290 feet; breadth, 23 feet; depth of hold 22 feet 3 inches; engines of 200-horse power nominal; and burthen 1,457 tons builders' measurement. She has been built for the special accommodation of passengers for India, and has a deck-house built on her upper deck 122 feet long by 22 feet wide, and fitted to accommodate 24 first-class passengers and 16 second-class passengers. The vessel, which is owned by Messrs. Tindall, will be employed in the direct trade between Colombo and London.

There has been launched from the building yard of the London and Glasgow Engineering and Iron Shipbuilding Company for Messrs. Allan C. Gow and Co., of Glasgow, a screw-steamer of about 2,200 tons register, built to class 100 A, the highest class in Lloyd's books. Her dimensions are:—length, 330 feet; beam, 34 feet; and total depth, 24 feet 6 inches. The vessel is named the Glenroy. She will be fitted by her builders with compound surface-condensing engines of 250-horse power nominal. The Glenroy is the second vessel built by this company for Messrs. Gow and Co., specially for their East India trade, via the Suez Canal.

Monetary and Commercial.

Tenders for £400,000 in bills on India were received on the 18th inst. at the Bank of England. The amounts allotted were—to Calcutta, £300,000; and to Bombay, £100,000. The minimum price was fixed, as before, at 1s. 10½d. on all the Presidencies. Tenders on Calcutta at 1s. 11½d. will receive 41 per cent, and on Bombay at that price in full. An increased demand for remittances to the East is apparent.

The half-yearly meeting of the Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London, and China was held on the 17th inst.; Mr. G. G. Nicol in the chair:—

The secretary having read the notice convening the meeting, the proceedings of the thirteenth annual general meeting held on the 18th April last were approved and confirmed. The report and interim statement of accounts for the half-year ending 30th June last were then taken as read. The Chairman explained, that that being the interim meeting only, he had no resolution to propose. The hopes expressed at the last meeting had been to some extent realised, and in consequence the present report was more satisfactory than the last. The improvement, however, was not so great as they could desire, owing to the very unfavourable state of the exchanges. There were many speculations as to the causes of that, but he believed it was mainly due to the excess of exports to the East, consequent on the low value of money in this country. We were now, he believed, on the eve of dearer money, and an improvement in the exchanges might be expected in proportion as the exports to the East fell off. That improvement was already going on, and there was reason to suppose that the current half-year would show better than the last. He was happy to be enabled to assure them that the bank was in a very sound position. No bad debts had been made during the half-year, and there was nothing in the books to justify any apprehension of losses in the current year. A vote of thanks to the chairman and directors concluded the proceedings.

The following is the report and statement of accounts presented at the meeting:—

The Directors now submit to the shareholders the half-yearly statement of accounts to 30th June last, showing a net profit of £43,047 2s. 7d. A dividend of 3 per cent. for the above period, free of income tax, amounting to £22,500, is now declared, leaving a balance of £20,547 2s. 7d. carried forward to next account. The continued adverse state of Eastern exchanges during the whole of the half-year, has again seriously affected the profitable working of the bank; but, under these unfavourable circumstances, it is hoped the result may be considered not unsatisfactory.

The ad interim meeting of the Oriental Bank was held on the 19th, Mr. James Blyth being in the chair.

Mr. C. J. F. Stuart, the chief manager, having read the advertisement calling the meeting, the chairman explained that the object of the meeting was merely to declare an ad interim dividend, and not to pass any resolution or to present accounts. He added his congratulations to the shareholders that they were again in a position to declare a dividend of 6 per cent. for the half year, or at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum; and bearing in mind the fact that the affairs of India, China, and Australia had not been very favourable for banking operations, he trusted they would agree with the directors that they were fortunate in being able to declare such a dividend. It would be paid on and after the 1st November, free of income-tax. The proceedings terminated with the usual acknowledgment to the chairman and directors.

The report of the Singapore Gas Company for the half-year ended 30th June, to be presented at the meeting on the 24th inst., has been issued:—

The balance-sheet to 30th June states the profits for the half-year to have been £1,597 2s., after writing off the whole of the balance (£896 14s. 11d.) of coal deficiency suspense account, and £5 off office furniture, which, together with £15 15s. 11d., the unappropriated profit of the preceding half-year, makes the available balance £1,612 17s. 11d. Out of this sum the directors recommend the declaration of a dividend at the rate of 7½ per cent. per annum, less income-tax, on the preference capital, and a dividend at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum on the amounts paid up on the original capital, free from income-tax; the balance of £13 7s. 9d. to be carried forward to the profit of the succeeding half-year. The dividend to be payable on November 30 next.

The committee of merchants appointed to confer with the ship-owners engaged in the China trade, with a view to a revision of their bills of lading, has now, we are happy to say, re-assembled, and there is every probability of the question being satisfactorily settled in a short time. We are glad to perceive that our contemporary the China Mail has taken up the matter, and we can readily believe, with the extracts from current bills of lading which he quotes, that, in the midst of such a hedge of monstrous stipulations, he is unable to perceive where the shipowner's responsibility begins.

Last April we drew attention to the rates demanded for insurance on Tea and Silk from the Far East, and suggested that underwriters should charge a rate more commensurate with the risk run. We are glad to see that a reduction has now been made, to even a greater extent than we recommended. We suggested that the rate for silk should be reduced from 45s. to 35s. We understand that it is now taken at 32s. 6d. by Holt's line of steamers, plying through the Suez Canal.

We regret to learn by private letters that the extensive floods at Tientsin, which resulted in so much loss of life among the natives, were also accompanied by serious damage to the houses and godowns of the European residents, many having four feet of water in them. Query: Will the Insurance offices make good the damage. Business is represented as having been brought to a standstill by this catastrophe, and, as at that season of the year Tientsin is expected to take off a large quantity of piece goods and other staples of import, the effect has exercised a depressing influence here.

The gas works contracted for by Messrs. Miller Bros., of Glasgow (as agents for Messrs. Siber and Brenwald, of Yokohama), have been completed by Messrs. Robert Laidlaw and Son, and are now in course of shipment per steamer Zalkia, to leave Glasgow for Yokohama and Hiogo on the 28th inst.

Now that Brindisi is to be permanently used as the mail port for the India and China service, a special telegraphic cable is to be laid between that port and Alexandria, the present means of communication via Malta being inadequate. A company will soon be announced with a concession to carry out this work.

A special meeting of the policy-holders of the European Assurance Society will be held on the 24th inst., "to receive a report from the committee on the present position of the society, and to consider the suggestions as to the course to be adopted."

A circular issued by Mr. F. M. Page gives the following details of the export of bullion and specie to the Far East:—To China and Japan, for the month of September, £77,325; for the nine months, £1,010,878; to the Straits Settlements, Java, and Cochin China, for the month of September, £58,099; for the nine months, £728,246.

Bar Silver has slightly increased in value. There has been a fair demand for India, owing to a rise in the exchange, and the Simla has taken £124,000. Quotation 5s. 0½d. to 5s. 0¼d. Mexican Dollars are without change in price, and the Simla has taken £51,790 to China. Quotations, old coinage, 5s. 0¼d., new, 4s. 10½d.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Simla, from Southampton on the 14th inst., was—in gold, to Galle, £10,180; to Madras, £23,391; to Calcutta, £20,000; to Singapore, £15,000—in silver, to Gibraltar, £3,400; to Bombay, £34,000; to Calcutta, £106,500; to Singapore, £20,000; to Hong Kong, £25,354; to Shanghai, £6,440; total in gold, £68,571; in silver, £195,694.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

A steady business has been done out of the new arrivals of black-leaf Congous at fully former rates. The second crop Oopacks, brought by steamers Ajax and Priam, possessing fair strength, and being of the medium class, have commanded the attention of the trade, and have realised full prices. Public sales took place on the 16th and 17th inst., comprising 26,743 packages, the greater portion of which was sold without reserve.

Messrs. Lloyd and Cheshire's Circular says:—The activity continues, and all kinds of medium to fine Tea have been readily taken at full prices. Sales of good medium Monings, per Thermopylae, show an advance of fully 1d., and all fine parcels are very firmly held. Ping Suey and Teen Kai Greens have been freely offered, and very full prices obtained for the latter. Large public sales "without reserve" continue. The market closes with a good general demand.

Red-leaf Congous: Siftings have been sold in public sale at 4½d. to 5½d. per lb. Fair to good common are steady at 10½d. to 11½d. per lb. Fair to good Kaisows are firmly supported, in the absence of arrivals, at 1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d. per lb. Fine to finest continue firm at say 1s. 11d. to 2s. 6d. Paklin kinds have been in good demand. Black-leaf kinds: Low qualities continue depressed in value. Fair to good common of old import have found buyers at 9d. to 10½d. per lb., those of this season selling at 11d. to 1s. per lb. Fair kinds out of recent arrivals have been in demand, and have realised 1s. 3d. to 1s. 4d. per lb. Medium to good have also been taken readily at 1s. 5d. to 1s. 9d. per lb. Fine to finest have commanded about former rates. Amoy kinds: the low descriptions are almost unsaleable; fair quality has been steady at 9½d. to 10d. per lb. New make Canton kinds: Fair quality has been taken to some extent at 1s. 2d. per lb.; good to fine are in request. Souchongs are without alteration, in the absence of supplies. Oolongs: Common to good are dull at last quotations, but finest black-leaf descriptions are wanted, and fresh arrivals would command full value. Flowery Pekoes of fine quality have been sold at high prices. Scented Teas: Canton Capers of common quality have been sold in public sale at 8½d. to 10d. per lb. Foochow kinds are unchanged. Canton Orange Pekoes are saleable at former quotations. Foochow kinds are unaltered. Uncoloured Japans are as last advised. Green Teas: The fresh arrivals out of the Priam are realising extreme rates at public sale. Canton Gunpowders are unchanged.

Messrs. Shepard, Harrison, and Rehden report as follows:—There has been a good demand throughout the past fortnight, and a great weight of tea has been disposed of, chiefly of the value between 1s. 5d. to 1s. 10d. per lb., the consumption for some past throughout the country being on "good quality," and this has further interfered with the sale of common kinds, so that prices have been beaten down to an unusually low standard; and they are worth special attention, more so as the discouraging advices to China must have weight, and tend to diminish supplies the latter part of the season. For export buying has been active of medium and extra fine Congou for the Continent, Oolong for New York.

Red leaf kinds at 10½d. to 1s. have ruled firmer; new season's at 1s. 2d. to 1s. 6d. are scarce and inquired for; medium to finest Kaisow dealers are well supplied, and transactions have been limited. Pakling: No change. Tayshan leaf: The late supplies have been taken at full rates. Black leaf: Old season's slow of sale at very low prices; the new Shantan and Oonam kinds are worth 10d. to 11½d.; Hohow district, flavoury kinds 11d. to 11½d. good to fair at 1s. 1d. to 1s. 3d. is very scarce, but of medium at 1s. 4d. to 1s. 6d. liberal supplies have been offered, and include sweet flavoury Hohows and tarry Oonams: of good medium, some desirable second crop Oopacks, with good leaf and strong in cup, have sold at 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 8d.; fine and finest quality has sold at 1s. 9d. to 2s. 2d. per lb., chiefly Oonam and true Pekoe flavoured Ningchows. Extra fine has been taken for shipping at 2s. 6d. to 2s. 9d. per lb. Souchong, is scarce and wanted. Oolong: Extensive orders from New York have led to considerable sales; medium to fine at 1s. 7d. to 1s. 9d. for yellow leaf kind, and 2s. to 2s. 3d. per lb. for finest, Formosagrowth; these prices showing 1d. per lb. advance, and the loss of the Taping, from Amoy to New York, has also helped the improvement. Scented Tea: Canton kinds are dearer, no fresh supplies having come forward, and there is margin for still further improvement, looking at the present low range of prices. Foochow Scented Orange Pekoe: There is inquiry for medium, but of fine and finest dealers are well supplied. Green: Arrivals equal 800,000 lbs.; this large quantity, however, is being taken off at extreme rates for the finest lines, but common grades continue at low rates. Quotations as 3s. 6d. to 3s. 10d. for No. 1 Pinguey, 2s. 4d. to 2s. 6d. for No. 1 Young Hyson, and 2s. 2d. to 2s. 4d. for No. 1 Imperial. The new Hwuy Chow and Teen Kais have realised extreme rates; No. 1 Gunpowder 3s. 7d. to 3s. 9d., No. 2, 2s. 9d., No. 3, 1s. 11d. to 2s.; No. 1 Imperial 2s. 4d. to 2s. 5d.; No. 1 Young Hyson 2s. 8d. to 2s. 10d., No. 2, 2s. to 2s. 2d. Japan Leaf: The Thermopylae brought about 2,500 half-chests of clean common Yokohama leaf; about half have been sold at 8½d. per lb.

On the 19th a public sale was held, comprising 3,496 packages (chiefly boxes) new season's Green, the whole of which was offered without reserve, and sold. A good demand was apparent, and steady rates were obtained, especially for fine qualities. The bulk consisted of Gunpowder, a parcel of very fine Ping Suey brought 3s. 9½d. for No. 1, 3s. 2d. for No. 2, and 2s. 9d. for No. 3; ordinary to good qualities, 1s. 6½d. to 2s. 7½d.; Moyune, 1s. 0½d. to 2s. 7½d.; Ping Suey Young Hyson No. 1 at 2s. 1d. to 2s. 3½d.; No. 2 at 1s. 4½d., Imperial 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 2½d.

SILK.

There is little or no change to report in the market; a fair business is doing daily at full prices, Chinas and Cantons being in chief request; deliveries are very good, and the general tone of the market is satisfactory. Deliveries from the 1st to 18th October:—

	1871.	1870.
China	1,779	1,228
Canton	602	235
Japan	655	395
Bengal	224	169
Total	3,270	2,027 bales.

COTTON.

The Liverpool market was active until the 17th inst., since when there has been a very quiet feeling, and the tendency of prices has been easier, holders being somewhat anxious to make sales. There is scarcely any inquiry for arrival. Quotations on the spot:—Mid. Orleans, 10d.; Fair Egyptian, 10d.; Fair Dhollerah, 7½d. to 7½d.; Fair Scinde, 6½d.; Fair Westerns, 7d. To arrive from any American port, new crop, not below good ordinary, October-November shipment, 9 11-16d.; New Orleans, new crop, not below good ordinary, shipment October-November, 9½d.; and Dhollera, fair new merchants, sailing July, 7½d.; ditto, August, 7½d.

In the London market for floating parcels a good steady demand has prevailed, and prices are again slightly higher, although barely reaching ½d. per lb. On the spot there has been only a moderate inquiry, at former terms.

COFFEE.

A good demand has been shown for Ceylon during the week, and fair supplies offered at the public sales have been taken off at firm rates, and in some instances at a slight advance. The speculative inquiry for Native Ceylon noticed in our last appears to have ceased, and Plantation, especially the more ordinary qualities, is most in demand. The prices realised have been:—Plantation: Triage, 56s. to 57s.; small, 65s.; low middling grey and dull, 68s. 6d. to 69s. 6d.; bold do. 71s. 6d. to 73s.; middling, 72s. 6d. to 74s.; bold, 79s. 6d.; peaberry, 83s. 6d. Native, 61s. 6d.; fine ordinary, 63s. to 63s. 6d.; and Manila at 62s. For arrival business has been done in Native Ceylon, but no particulars are reported.

The Dutch Trading Company announce their next public sale for the 25th inst., when 91,200 bags Java, &c., and 5,300 bags Rio will be offered.

SUGAR.

A quieter tone has been exhibited than during last week, and there has been less activity in the demand, but prices are steadily maintained. At auction a larger supply has been brought forward than for some time past; a good portion consisted of grainy qualities, which sold at fully previous rates, the remainder, brown and soft kinds, being chiefly bought in. The following are the particulars of the week's sales:—

PENANG.—At auction 300 bags brown (duty 4s.) have been sold at 27s. 6d.; and 549 bags low pasty bought in at 23s.; by private contract 2,000 baskets low and common pasty date have been sold at 22s. 9d. to 24s.; and about 1,400 bags brown (duty 4s.) at 26s.

MANILA.—There are no public sales on the spot; afloat the cargo, per Assyrian, 24,000 bags Ilo Ilo unclayed, July sailing, has been sold for the United Kingdom at 19s. 6d. landing weights, floating terms, and privately the landed cargo of 27,150 bags (500 tons) superior sun dried Ilo Ilo, per Fleur de Maurice, has been sold at 28s.; by private contract 7,000 bags good clayed Manila (duty 4s.) have realised 26s. 6d.

JAVA.—In auction the cargo of 2,678 baskets (all duty 5s. 3d.) per Maxima was all bought in, soft grey to coloury at 34s. to 36s. 6d., low grey and yellow 34s. to 34s. 6d., strong grey to crystallised 35s. to 37s., but 1,600 baskets grainy qualities have since sold for export at 34s. 6d. for grey to 36s. 6d. for fine yellow, equal to 35s. 6d. for about No. 13; of 1,550 bags low scrums from Cape offered 350 bags repacked sold at 20s. 6d., the remainder, washed, being bought in at 21s.

CAMPOR.—In waiting for the result of the Dutch sale the market here has been very dull, and only few transactions have been effected at the rates quoted in our report of the 9th inst. The Dutch sale referred to, consisting of 9,000 tubs Japan, took place on the 18th., when the whole quantity was disposed of at 70s. per cwt.

CHINA ROOT.—No change; market very quiet.

COPRA.—Market steady, but without supply of Penang.

COLOMBO ROOT.—Firm; no offers made.

COCOA NUT OIL.—The market is still fairly active at last quoted rates; £38 to £38 10s. being still the ruling prices for Ceylon on the spot; 100 tons are reported to have been sold for arrival at £39 per ton.

COIR GOODS.—A good supply of Yarn has been offered, but the demand was very moderate, and only about one-half sold slowly at about previous rates; Fibre was also dull of sale; Rope dearer. Of 350 bales Ceylon Yarn only about 70 bales sold at £33 10s. to £41 15s. for middling to good, and £50 to £55 per ton for fine; 114 tons ditto in dholls about half sold at £23 to £27 for low to common, and £28 to £36 for good common to good middling. Of Fibre 14 tons common Ceylon at £16 to £16 10s. per ton.

CURCH.—The demand has continued to improve, and a very large business has been transacted, principally on speculative account, and prices have advanced considerably. The private transactions reach nearly 6,000 packages, at 22s. 6d. to 25s. 6d. per cwt. At auction 1,372 cases good Penang sold at 24s. to 24s. 3d.; 419 cases heated Pegu were taken in at 25s. per cwt.

CUBERS.—Unchanged in value or position: 95 bags at auction partly sold at 23s. 6d. to 24s. 6d. per cwt. for fair greyish.

DRAGON'S-BLOOD.—No transactions.

EBONY.—Fine figured Ceylon is still scarce, and quoted at high rates; no business reported.

GALLS.—Prices are quoted firm, but no transactions either in China or Japan have been effected during the fortnight.

GUTTA-PERCHA.—The market continues very quiet for the common kinds, and only retail trade has been effected. At public sale, of 8,291 packages offered, a very few were placed upon former terms, viz., middling to fair genuine, 1s. 7½d. to 2s. 0½d.; white, 1s. 2½d. to 1s. 5½d.; reboiled, 1s. 2½d. to 1s. 2½d.

GAMBER.—This import has attracted less attention, partly owing to heavy arrivals, but prices remain steady. At auction 1,532 bales block were partly sold at 17s. 3d. for good, and 16s. 9d. to 17s. for inferior; 279 baskets Cubes sold at 19s. 6d.; 310 bales Rhio pressed Cubes were withdrawn. Privately, for arrival 500 tons block have been sold at 16s. 7½d., ex ship.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Sumatra seconds and thirds continue quiet; of 111 cases offered at sale a small proportion only sold at 78s. for thirds. 25 cases Siam also offered, and a few only placed at £9 to £11 12s. 6d. Manila Copal: Steady, 588 cases offered, and partly sold at 36s. 6d. to 37s. per cwt. for good hard; large arrivals. Damar: Lower, 245 cases offered, and nearly all retired. Gamboge: Steady, a single case at auction sold at £11 5s.

HEMP.—The market for Manila has exhibited great quietude, and only very small transactions have been entered into at last quoted rates.

HIDES.—At the fortnightly sales held on the 19th a large quantity of East India kips was again brought forward, and there being a fair active demand, the greater part sold without any material alteration in prices. Tanned sold at about previous prices; Buffalo were in limited demand, and only partly sold at late rates. Of 2,353 Singapore and Penang Buffalo offered 1,585 sold, heavy 31½ lbs. to 40½ lbs. at 4½d. to 5½d., of 2,189 Batavian 600 sold, 27½ lbs. at 8d.; also 594 indirect 23½ lbs. at 5½d. to 5½d.; 1,125 Batavian withdrawn.

HORNS.—Siam Buffalo continue to be quoted at high prices; 20 tons offered at auction were retired.

INDIA-RUBBER.—Market unaltered; good kinds still scarce, common neglected; at auction, of 395 packages Assam from Singapore, a few only sold at 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 1½d. per lb. for foul; and of 119 bags from Calcutta half sold at 1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d. for middling foul to fair.

ISINGLASS.—Market for Penang quiet, and 80 packages at public sale were all retired.

JAPAN WAX.—Continues in small stock and very firm; at auction 12 cases fair hard saucers realised £4 18s. to £5 per cwt.

MUSK.—Market firm, with a little private trade in second-hand goods at full prices. None offered at auction.

OILS.—Anniseed has been firmly held, and a small trade has been done both spot and afloat. Cassia has been rather more inquired for, and firm prices are maintained. Nutmeg dearer; 3 cases at sale brought 9d. to 9½d. per oz. for white. Cinnamon very scarce, and wanted. Citronelle steady; 28 cases at auction sold at 1½d. for good, with a lot at 1½d. Lemon Grass steady, and 3 cases offered sold at 2½d. per oz. for good.

PEPPER.—Black has been firm at rather higher but slightly irregular figures; transactions have not been so extensive as of late. About 1,000 bags Singapore sold at 7d. to 7½d. for good; a similar quantity Penang up to 6½d.; afloat 250 tons Penang distant and July-August shipment, at 6½d. to 6½d., and 500 bags Singapore, near at hand, at 7d. to 7½d. Auctions have presented 3,461 bags Singapore and Penang, a large proportion sold—Singapore at 7½d.; Trang, 7d. to 7½d.; West Coast, 6½d. to 7d.; Acheen, &c., 6½d. to 6½d. White has continued rapidly further to advance; the stock is now much reduced; some 1,500 bags have changed hands up to 1s. 2d. per lb. for fair Singapore; a small trade has also been done afloat near at hand up to 1s., usual terms; at sale 50 bags were offered, and prices forced up to 1s. 2½d.

PLUMBAGO.—Quiet, except for very fine qualities, which are scarce. The bulk of 1,069 barrels at auction retired.

RHUBARB.—Market for China very steady; of 100 cases at sale, about three-fourths sold, chiefly fine small bright coat and fracture, rather high dried, at 2s. 2d. to 2s. 6d. Large parcels are now landing.

RATTANS.—Market firm, but business very limited.

RICE.—The market has been quiet during the week, and but little business has been done, but prices have been steadily maintained. In auction good middling white Bengal has sold at 11s. 6d. to 11s. 9d., Ballam at 10s. 6d.; old crop Rangoon, partly of indirect import—sound at 10s., sea-damaged, first class, at 9s. 6d. to 9s. 9d. The floating cargo per One, 730 tons Necransie, arrived off coast, has been sold at 10s. 4½d., Continental terms; also the cargo per Hermit, 1,200 tons Necransie, at 10s. 4½d. Continental terms.

SPIICES.—Cassia Lignea, &c.: Quieter, and little doing; holders few, and asking high figures; retail transactions in good 2nd pile at 116s. per cwt. In Buds there is no change: 55 boxes at auction retired at £7 5s. Cloves: Penang are still chiefly held in one hand; 6 cases new at auction sold at 1s. 8½d. to 1s. 8½d. per lb. for good bright. Amboyna very dull, especially for the ordinary kinds, of which the supply is more than ample; 72 packages at auction partly sold at 3½d. to 6½d. for low small to fair; 80 bags inferior and sea damaged at 3½d. to 3½d.

Cinnamon: A moderate trade is doing at full prices. Chips steady; the low Sassafras kinds do not move at all. Nutmegs firmly maintain their value; 120 cases at auction, mostly sold, 68's to 75's, 3s. 11d. to 3s. 6d.; 78's to 88's, 3s. 6d. to 3s. 3d.; 100's to 114's, 3s. 2d. to 3s.; smaller, 2s. 11d. to 3s.; inferior, part wormy and shrivelled, 1s. 4d. to 2s. Mace continues firm at the late extreme rates; 46 cases at auction about half sold at 3s. 10d. to 4s. 6d. for ordinary mixed with dark to fair reddish.

SAGO.—Market steady but quiet; at auction, 400 boxes and 155 bags, except a few bags ordinary to good large, sold at 15s. 6d. to 17s. 6d., were all retired. Flour enquired for, and 15s. 6d. paid, spot.

SAPANWOOD.—Manila and Siam in good enquiry privately, and a fair business done at previous quotations; no business at auction. Ceylon: Market firm, but business small; 2 tons at public sale retired.

SHELLS.—No business since the public sales reported in our last.

STICKLAC.—Market steady for all good qualities of Siam; 220 boxes offered at auction partly sold at 70s. per cwt. for fair.

STAR ANNISEEDS are rather scarce, and offers would meet a very ready sale; 8 cases at auction retired.

SOY.—In good demand, but short supply; offers would realise good prices.

TIN.—Prices during the last week have been somewhat fluctuating, owing to the operations of speculative dealers; business in Straits has been done at prices ranging from £135 to £137, and the market closes firmly at £136 on the spot and afloat. Banca is quoted £139, Billiton £136 per ton.

TAPIOCA.—Market steady; at auction 2,119 bags Singapore and Penang were offered, and about half sold at 2d. to 3d. per lb. for middling dull to superior bright; 746 packages Pearl partly sold at 18s. 6d. to 19s. for good medium size; and 186 bags Pearl Bullets were retired. Flour continues quiet.

TURMERIC.—Without transactions.

VERMILION.—The market is entirely bare of stock, and importations would be readily placed.

EXTRACT from SUPPLEMENT to the "LONDON GAZETTE" of Friday, Oct. 13, 1871.—Monday, October 16, 1871:—

NOTIFICATION.

Foreign Office, Oct. 16, 1871.

The following despatch, announcing the first meeting of the Commissioners appointed under the 12th Article of the Treaty of Washington of May 8, 1871, and enclosing the rules and regulations laid down by the Commissioners for the guidance of claimants in the presentation of their claims, was yesterday received at the Foreign Office from Henry Howard, Esq., Her Majesty's Agent for British Claims, and is, with its enclosures, now published for the information and guidance of British claimants:—

Washington, Oct. 3, 1871.

My Lord,—I have the honour to inform your Lordship that the Commissioners appointed under the 12th Article of the Treaty of Washington of May 8, 1871, held their first meeting at the United States State Department on the 26th ult. After having exchanged the usual civilities, the Commissioners requested Count Corti to preside in future at the meetings of the Commission. Mr. Cox, a clerk in the United States State Department, was offered the post of Secretary to the Commission, but, as he requested time to consider whether he would accept the appointment, Mr. McPherson was named Acting Secretary until Mr. Cox's decision was made known to the Commissioners.

A draft form of rules and regulations for the transaction of the business of the Commission, which had been drawn up by Mr. R. S. Hale, United States agent, and Mr. J. M. Carlisle, Her Majesty's Counsel, was then submitted for the approval of the Commissioners. Several amendments were made in the said rules, and the Commissioners then adjourned until the following day. On the next day the Commission again met at the same place. Mr. Cox signified his acceptance of the post of Secretary to the Commission, and his salary was fixed at three thousand dollars a year. The rules and regulations, as amended, were then read and approved, and ordered to be printed, copy of which I have the honour to enclose herewith.

The Commissioners then adjourned until the 14th of November next, so as to allow time for the claimants to print their memorials and comply with the other provisions as laid down in the above-mentioned rules.

I have published further notice to claimants, copy of which I have the honour to inclose, informing them of the date of the first meeting of the Commission, and pointing out to them the necessity of filing their memorials within six months of said date.

The rules of the Commission being of so great a length, I have not thought it right to put Her Majesty's Government to the expense of publishing them in extenso, and have, therefore, as your Lordship will see by referring to the last paragraph of my notice, requested such claimants as may desire copies of said rules to apply to me for them.

May I ask your Lordship to have a notice of a similar kind inserted in the newspapers of Great Britain and Ireland?

I regret that, owing to the delay caused by the printers, I am unable at present to furnish your Lordship with more copies of the rules. Might I suggest that they be printed in the Foreign Office, and claimants residing in Great Britain and Ireland be referred to the Foreign Office for copies thereof?—I have, &c.,

(Signed) HENRY HOWARD.

The Right Hon. the Earl Granville, K.G.

(Inclosure I.)

Rules and regulations adopted by the Commissioners under the 12th Article of the Treaty between the United States and Great Britain, concluded and signed at Washington, on the 8th day of May, A.D. 1871:—

The following are the Articles of the Treaty relating to the Commission:—

Article XII.

The High Contracting Parties agree that all claims on the part of corporations, companies, or private individuals, citizens of the United States, upon the Government of Her Britannic Majesty, arising out of acts committed against the persons or property of citizens of the United States during the period between the 13th of April, 1861, and the 9th of April, 1865, inclusive, not being claims growing out of the acts of the vessels referred to in Article I. of this Treaty, and all claims, with the like exception, on the part of corporations, companies, or private individuals, subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, upon the Government of the United States, arising out of acts committed against the persons or property of subjects of Her Britannic Majesty during the same period, which may have been presented to either Government for its interposition with the other, and which yet remain unsettled, as well as any other such claims which may be presented within the time specified in Article XIV. of this Treaty, shall be referred to three Commissioners, to be appointed in the following manner, that is to say: One Commissioner shall be named by the President of the United States, one by Her Britannic Majesty, and a third by the President of the United States and Her Britannic Majesty conjointly, and in case the third Commissioner shall not have been so named within a period of three months from the date of the exchange of the ratifications of this Treaty, then the third Commissioner shall be named by the representative at Washington of His Majesty the King of Spain. In case of the death, absence, or incapacity of any Commissioner, or in the event of any Commissioner omitting or ceasing to act, the vacancy shall be filled in the manner hereinbefore provided for making the original appointment; the period of three months in case of such substitution being calculated from the date of the happening of the vacancy.

The Commissioners so named shall meet at Washington at the earliest convenient period after they have been respectively named; and shall, before proceeding to any business, make and subscribe a solemn declaration that they will impartially and carefully examine and decide, to the best of their judgment, and according to justice and equity, all such claims as shall be laid before them on the part of the Government of the United States and of Her Britannic Majesty, respectively, and such declaration shall be entered on the record of their proceedings.

Article XIII.

The Commissioners shall then forthwith proceed to the investigation of the claims which shall be presented to them. They shall investigate and decide such claims in such order and such manner as they may think proper, but upon such evidence or information only as shall be furnished by or on behalf of the respective Governments. They shall be bound to receive and consider all written documents or statements which may be presented to them by or on behalf of the respective Governments in support of, or in answer to, any claim, and to hear, if required, one person on each side on behalf of each Government, as counsel or agent for such Government, on each and every separate claim. A majority of the Commissioners shall be sufficient for an award in each case. The award shall be given upon each claim in writing, and shall be signed by the Commissioners assenting to it. It shall be competent for each Government to name one person to attend the Commissioners as its agent, to present and support claims on its behalf, and to answer claims made upon it, and to represent it generally in all matters connected with the investigation and decision thereof.

The High Contracting Parties hereby engage to consider the decision of the Commissioners as absolutely final and conclusive upon each claim decided upon by them, and to give full effect to such decisions, without any objection, evasion, or delay whatsoever.

Article XIV.

Every claim shall be presented to the Commissioners within six months from the day of their first meeting, unless in any case where reasons for delay shall be established to the satisfaction of the Commissioners, and then, in any such case, the period for presenting the claim may be extended by them to any time not exceeding three months longer.

The Commissioners shall be bound to examine and decide upon every claim within two years from the day of their first meeting. It shall be competent for the Commissioners to decide in each case whether any claim has or has not been duly made, preferred, and laid before them, either wholly or to any and what extent, according to the true intent and meaning of this Treaty.

Article XV.

All sums of money which may be awarded by the Commissioners on account of any claim shall be paid by the one Government to the other, as the case may be, within twelve months after the date of the final award, without interest and without any deduction, save as specified in Article XVI. of this Treaty.

Article XVI.

The Commissioners shall keep an accurate record and correct minutes or notes of all their proceedings with the dates thereof, and may appoint and employ a secretary and any other necessary officer or officers, to assist them in the transaction of the business which may come before them.

Each Government shall pay its own commissioner and agent or counsel. All other expenses shall be defrayed by the two Governments in equal moieties.

The whole expenses of the Commission, including contingent expenses, shall be defrayed by a rateable deduction on the amount of the sums awarded by the Commissioners; provided always, that such deduction shall not exceed the rate of 5 per cent. on the sums so awarded.

Article XVII.

The High Contracting Parties engage to consider the result of the proceedings of this Commission as a full, perfect and final settlement of all such claims as are mentioned in Article XII. of this Treaty upon either Government; and further engage that every such claim, whether or not the same may have been presented to the notice of, made, preferred, or laid before, the said Commission, shall, from and after the conclusion of the proceedings of the said Commission, be considered and treated as finally settled, barred, and thenceforth inadmissible.

1. In addition to the representation of his claim, and the proofs in support thereof, which shall have been presented to his Government, the claimant shall file in the office of the Commission a statement of his claim, in the form of a memorial, accompanied by twenty printed copies thereof.

In cases where the amount claimed is less than one thousand dollars, the memorials will be printed at the expense of the Commission.

One copy of each memorial will, by the Secretary, be furnished to each Commissioner, and five copies to the agent of each Government.

2. Every memorial shall state the full name of the claimant, the place and time of his birth, and the place or places of his residence between the 13th day of April, 1861, and the 9th day of April, 1865, inclusive. If he be a naturalised citizen or subject of the Government by which his claim is presented, an authenticated copy of the record of his naturalisation shall be appended to the memorial, and he shall state whether he has taken any and what steps towards becoming naturalised in any other country other than that of his birth.

3. If the claim be preferred in behalf of a firm or association of persons other than a corporation or joint-stock company the names of each person interested, both at the date of the claim accrued and at the date of verifying the memorial, must be stated, with the proportions of each person's interest. And all the particulars above required to be given in the case of individual claimants must be stated in respect of each member of such firm or association, unless the same be dispensed with on special order of the Commission. If any transfer of the claim, or any part thereof, has occurred, the nature and mode of such transfer must be stated.

4. The memorial must state the particulars of the claim, the general grounds on which it is founded, and the amount claimed. It shall be verified by the oath or affirmation of the claimant, or, in the case hereinafter provided, of his agent or attorney; or if the claim be by a firm or an incorporate association of persons, then by the oath or affirmation of one of them; or in the case of a corporation or joint-stock company, by the oath or affirmation of the president or other officer. Such oaths or affirmations may be taken, if in the United States or Great Britain, before any officer having authority, according to the laws of the place, to administer oaths or affirmations, and they may be taken in the said countries, or elsewhere, before any Consul or Diplomatic Agent of either Government. The verification may be by the agent or attorney only when verification by the claimant is substantially impracticable, and can only be given at great inconvenience. And in case of verification by agent or attorney, the cause of the failure of the claimant to verify it shall be stated.

Objection to the jurisdiction of the Commission, or to the sufficiency of the case stated in the memorial, may be made in the form of a demurrer, stating, without technical nicety, the substantial ground of the objection. Any new matter, constituting a special ground of defence, may be stated in a plea, which may be the subject of demurrer, and all demurrers may be set for hearing on a ten days' notice.

5. Every claimant shall be allowed two months after the filing of his memorial to complete his proofs; and after the completion of his proofs, and notice thereof given, two months shall be allowed for taking proofs for the defence, with such further extension of time in each case as the Commission on application may grant for cause shown.

After the proofs on the part of the defence shall have been closed, the Commission will, when the claimant shall desire to take rebutting proof, accord a reasonable time for the purpose.

6. All depositions, after the filing of the memorial, shall be taken on notice, specifying the time and place of taking, to be filed in the office of the Commission, with a copy of the interrogatories, or a statement in writing by the counsel of the Government adducing the witness, showing the subject of the particular examination with sufficient precision to be accepted by the counsel of the Government against whom such witness is to be produced, to be signified by his endorsement thereon. Such interrogatories or statement to be filed in the office of the Commission at least fifteen days before the day named for the examination, with one additional day for every 500 miles of distance from Washington to the place where the deposition is to be taken. When depositions are to be taken elsewhere than in North America, thirty days will be allowed.

7. Every deposition taken in the United States shall be taken before some officer authorised to take depositions in cases pending in courts of the United States. Depositions in Great Britain and her possessions may be taken before any person authorised to take depositions, to be used in courts of record, or any Justice of the Peace. Depositions in those countries or elsewhere may be taken before any Consul or Diplomatic Agent of either Government.

In all cases the cross-examination of the witness may be by written interrogatories or orally, in the election of the party cross-examining.

8. The Commissioners may at any time issue a special commission for the taking of testimony, on the application of either party; such testimony to be taken either in written interrogatories or orally, as the Commissioners may order.

The Commissioners may also, on motion of either party, order any claimant or witness to appear personally before them for examination or cross-examination.

9. When any original papers filed in the State Department of the United States or in the archives of the British Legation in Washington cannot be conveniently withdrawn from the files, copies thereof will be received in evidence, when certified by the State Department or by the British Legation, as the case may be.

10. When the time has expired for taking proofs, or the case has been closed on both sides, the proofs will be printed under the direction of the Secretary, and at the expense of the Commission. The argument for the claimant shall be filed within fifteen days after the papers shall have been printed, and the case shall stand for hearing ten days thereafter.

11. The Secretary will prepare, from time to time, lists of cases ready for hearing, either upon demurrer or upon the merits, in the order in which they are entitled to be heard, or in which the counsel for the two Governments shall agree that they shall be heard.

12. All cases will be submitted on printed arguments, which shall contain a statement of the facts proven, and references to the evidence by which they are proven, and, in addition, the counsel for the respective Governments will be heard whenever they desire to argue any cause orally. Arguments of counsel for individual claimants will be received, in print, when submitted by the counsel of either Government, and not otherwise.

13. Claims against the United States and Great Britain, respectively, will be entered in separate dockets kept by the Secretary. The dockets shall contain an abstract of all proceedings, motions, and orders in each case.

14. The Secretary will keep a record of the proceedings of the Commission upon each day of its session, which shall be read at the next meeting, and will then be signed by him and approved by the signature of the preceding Commissioner.

15. The Secretary will keep a notice book, in which entries may be made by the counsel for either Government, and all entries so made shall be notice to the opposing counsel.

16. The Secretary shall provide books of printed forms, in which will be recorded the awards of the Commission, signed by the Commissioners concurring therein. The awards against each Government will be kept in a separate book.

17. A copy of each award, certified by the Secretary of the Commission, will be furnished on request to the party upon whose claim such award shall have been made.

18. The dockets, minutes of proceedings, and records of awards will be kept in duplicate, one of which will be delivered to each Government at the close of the duties of the Commission.

19. The Secretary will have charge of all the books and papers of the Commission, and no papers shall be withdrawn from the files or taken from the office without an order of the Commission.

Notice to British Claimants.

With reference to my notice dated July 15, 1871, requesting subjects of Her Britannic Majesty to send to me particulars of claims which they may have upon the United States' Government, arising out of acts committed against their persons or property during the period between the 13th of April, 1861, and the 9th of April, 1865, inclusive, and which yet remain unsettled, I hereby give notice that the Commission appointed under the 12th Article of the Treaty of Washington of May 8, 1871, for the settlement of such claims, held their first meeting on the 26th ult., and that in accordance with Article XIV. of the aforesaid Treaty, every claim must be presented to the Commissioners within six months from that date.

Claimants are accordingly requested to file their memorials at my office, 703, Fifteenth-street, with as little delay as possible.

By order of the Commissioners the said memorials must be in print, and 20 copies thereof furnished for the use of the Commission.

Such claimants as may desire copies of the rules as laid down by the Commissioners for the guidance of claimants in the presentation of their claims can obtain them by application to me,

SPASMS, FLATULENCY, CONSTIPATION.—So many persons suffer from these diseases that a description of them is unnecessary, though the knowledge of the means of cure is invaluable. The recommendation to take Holloway's Pills for the cure of disordered digestion will be repaid with gratitude by all who give them a single trial. No medicine will so safely and speedily restore a deranged stomach or torpid liver to order. No other preparation will so effectually and healthily conduct digestion, so that spasms, flatulency, and other torments of dyspepsia cannot by any possibility arise, or, if present, will soon be cured. The power of these Pills in removing acidity of the stomach, sick headache, biliousness, diarrhoea, dysentery, and debility is wonderful.

CAUTION.

THE GROSS FRAUDS which continue to be practised by obscure manufacturers, more particularly in Germany, by imitating the labels attached to JOHN GOSNELL and Co.'s PERFUMERY, render it imperative upon the Proprietors to Caution the public against such nefarious proceedings, and to request their friends and patrons to purchase only of respectable dealers, who import direct from JOHN GOSNELL and Co., and invite special attention to the address, ANGEL-PASSAGE, 93, UPPER THAMES-STREET, late of 12, Three King-court, Lombard-street, London, E.C.

JOHN GOSNELL and Co.'s SELECT PERFUMES—Ess. Bouquet, Royal Yacht Club Bouquet, Jockey Club Perfume, Essence of Wood Violet, Victoria Bouquet, Garibaldi Bouquet, Francipanni, Military Bouquet, The Bride's Bouquet, Tea Rose, Russian Leather Perfume.

JOHN GOSNELL and Co.'s Toilet Vinegar, Inexhaustible Salts, Aromatic Vinegar, Aromatic Eau de Cologne.

THE MAILS, &c.

The P. and O. mail, bringing the above dates from China and the Straits Settlements, was delivered, via Brindisi, on Saturday, the 28th inst., its due date. On the same day we received advices from Japan—Yokohama 11th, Nagasaki, 5th Sept.—brought to San Francisco by the extra Pacific mail steamer Arizona, also a summary of the news by the following Pacific mail, dated Yokohama Sept. 23. The next inward mail (French), with dates, Shanghai Sept. 16, Hong Kong Sept. 22, Singapore Oct. 1, is due, via Marseilles, on Monday next, the 6th Nov., but will probably be delivered on Thursday, the 2nd.

This morning's advices from Shanghai and Hong Kong, by the China Submarine and Red Sea Lines, extend to 10.55, and 9.55. The messages occupy, allowing for difference of time, between six and seven hours in transmission.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

The present (P. and O.) mail brings dates to the 5th September, but we have advices via San Francisco brought by the extra Pacific mail steamer Arizona six days later, viz., to the 11th September. The P. and O. mail, with London dates to the 14th July, arrived out 29th August, and the following French mail of 21st July on the 5th September. The following summary of the news is from the Japan Mail:—

On the 23rd August an intense heat, which had been experienced for some time previously, was dissipated by a violent typhoon. On the evening of the day named a terrific gale from the north-east blew across the settlement. Tiles flew in all directions, and the sea, which was running mountains high, swept away the stone coping of the Bund wall, leaving the heavy blocks of granite scattered in all directions. Sea after sea broke over the low wall and washed up to the houses and palings on the other side of the Bund, and, as the wind still increased, so did the sea become the fiercer and the more destructive. Suddenly a lull took place, after which the wind chopped round to south and blew, if not with equal violence, at least strong enough to continue the work of devastation begun from the other quarter of the compass. After a time the wind gradually decreased in strength, the sea falling at the same time, and with a rising barometer the typhoon passed away. The barometer sank and rose during the storm very rapidly; indeed, more so than is usual on similar occasions, and there was a difference of eight-tenths in the space of an hour and a-half during the storm. The effects of the storm were of a most disastrous nature. The Bund and the houses on the Bund were the chief sufferers, and there is scarcely a house which is not injured in one way or other. Messrs. Carroll and Co.'s house is entirely roofed with corrugated iron, and the wind getting beneath that portion shading the verandah, lifted it in three huge masses, and landed one on the roof of the P. and O. Co.'s hong, cutting through roof and ceiling and destroying one side of the roof entirely. The remainder was floated off toward Messrs. Aspinall, Cornes and Co.'s, and one piece, after cutting off a corner of the roof, made its way through a tea-firing godown, while another buried itself some seven or eight inches in a stone wall. This apparently ended the damage effected by the iron roofing, which now lies scattered about the compounds. Of all the houses on the Bund the Club suffered the most. One moment apparently safe, the next saw the roof on the back part of the house slide down bodily, and a third witnessed the conversion of the bar-room into a shower bath. The residents in the Club were in a sorry plight. The ceilings fell in, it was impossible to find clothes, and the consequence was the appearance on the Club steps of a motley crowd, some in mackintoshes and jack boots, others in pajamas, all, however, equally wet. The Bund itself is absolutely destroyed; persons waded knee-deep in water, and at every step ran great risk of colliding with submarine rocks, or more correctly speaking, the coping stones of the wall. The granite was washed here and there by the waves, and the seaweed spread in all directions gave to the scene a most wretched appearance. The native town has almost entirely escaped, no signs of storm being visible, except at Ishikawa, which is literally levelled with the ground. This village faces north and south, and being attacked both front and rear, easily succumbed. On the Bluff the principal damage is in the shape of demolished palings, destroyed sheds, walls denuded of plaster, and roofs without tiles, while both north and south camps have scarcely a habitable hut left. Colonel Richards's hut gave way at an early hour, the roof falling on Mrs. Richards, but not injuring her.

The shipping sustained very little injury, the principal sufferers being the P.M.S.S. Co. Their wharf by the naval hospital was swept away, and some of the debris was washed on to the Bund, and one large piece blocks up the channel into the creek. Two of the P.M.S.S. Co.'s lighters, one with tea on board, were blown on to the sea-wall at Benteu, a water-boat sunk, and three empty coal junks met a similar fate, altogether a list of misfortunes seldom falling to the lot of any one company in a single day. Two pilot schooners were driven ashore at the English Hatoba, and one sunk, the Barrosa drifted nearly a mile in shore, while the Tokai, Maru, and the Thabor got adrift, the latter losing her bowsprit and the former colliding with the Peiho. The Osaka ran ashore at Benteu, and a Japanese barque was only saved from coming ashore, and probably taking the Ilavoc with her, by the sudden change of wind. The railway works sustained the tremendous test of the typhoon admirably well. They are entirely uninjured, with the exception of a slight sinking of one of the piers in the Kawasaki bridge over the Rokugo. The water was at one time within a foot of the girders, and the current so strong that it washed away the embankment on the Kawasaki side, destroying all the workshops, &c. The bridge has been constructed of timber, so placed to admit of the use of screw piles for its future support, as the scouring of the river appears to be so great that no wooden piling can be permanently relied on. On the arrival of the screw piles from England they will be at once put down. The damage done is but slight. Both the English and French Hatobas were very much injured, the piles lately driven in being uprooted by the score. The sea-wall built at the mouth of the creek was also partially destroyed. The typhoon was unquestionably one of the most severe—if not actually the most severe—that has been experienced during the last few years. During the storm, the Fusiyama, a Japanese steamer intended for a training-ship, blew up. Three men were killed, the engineers and most of the crew being absent at the time of the accident.

The reconstruction of the Government has been entrusted to a commission of fifteen, of which Kido is the president, and Saigo vice-president. Among the members are Okuma, Goto Shojiro, Enoye Bunda, Terashima, and other members of what may be called the advanced liberal party. It is already rumoured that Okubo, the new Minister of Finance, will shortly resign. Sawa has resigned his post as Foreign Minister, and has been replaced by Iwakura. This appointment cannot fail to give satisfaction to the Foreign Ministers. Not, indeed, that Sawa was in any way adverse to foreigners or difficult in his dealings with them; but it may be doubted whether he was able to grasp the difficulties with which the external relations of the empire brought him face to face. Iwakura, on the other hand, while fully apprehending the problems presented by the internal condition of the empire, has more definite views of the exigencies presented by its foreign relations, and will handle these with more vigour and insight. He has been the Mikado's right-hand man since his accession to the executive power, and has largely moulded the present condition and policy of the empire. It will be interesting to watch the next turn of the wheel, and see what special influence is at work in any change or new appointment.

Great excitement has prevailed among the mercantile community on account of the refusal of the Custom-house to accept duties in the form and at the scale in which they have hitherto been paid. Piles of goods are heaped upon the Custom-house quay, detained there because the consignees refuse to admit the claims of the Government, and all the Consuls have made their protests to the Governor against the action of the authorities. The Governor is clearly under strict orders from Yedo, and can only represent matters to head-quarters, where alone they can be set to rights. In connection with this the subjoined has been received from H.M.'s Consul, and is published for the information of British subjects by the authority of H.M.'s Charge d'Affaires:—"For the present, and until an agreement is concluded between the foreign representatives and the Japanese Government as to the rate at which niboos and kinsatsu (such as have hitherto been taken in payment of duties at the Custom-house) are to be taken henceforth in payment of duties, the said satsu will be taken at the same rate as heretofore, the balance claimed by the Custom-house in each case to be deposited with the Consul, who will give a receipt for the said deposit; and the owner of the goods on which duty has been paid will hand the receipt to the Custom house."

The new coins are now being issued in Kobe and Osaka, and the demand for them among foreigners is so great as to exceed the supply. By some strange oversight, no Government proclamation appears to have been issued throughout Japan regarding the new coinage, consequently the natives do not know that the new coins are the standard of value, nor yet that they have been issued by the proper authorities. Up to this time only 20 sen (cent) pieces have been issued, but there is a large demand for the smaller subsidiary coins, which it is to be hoped will soon be supplied. It is very satisfactory to find that the first issue has proved so successful, and that the coins are so much appreciated by foreigners.

The sudden and unexpected death of Mr. Thomas Miller caused a great shock throughout the settlement. Mr. Miller was well known and greatly respected. He was a prominent member of the Masonic fraternity, and discharged his duties in connection with his Lodge with great earnestness and assiduity. The Masons have lost a brother who reflected great credit on their society, and the settlement a member who had won universal regard and esteem.

During the night of the 21st Aug. the German Consulate General at Benteu was broken into by burglars, who, having first entered Mr. Zappe's sitting room and appropriated two Japanese swords, made their way into the bedroom where Mr. Zappe was asleep, and stole a gold watch and a large sum of money in English gold, besides other articles. Mr. Zappe addressed an energetic letter to the Governor of Kanagawa demanding that a most rigorous search should be made for the thieves. This resulted in their apprehension, and the restitution of all the stolen property, with the exception of the money.

The American Minister, Mr. De Long, has left for Hakodate. We understand his visit to the north is connected with alleged irregularities, extending over several years, in the U. S. Consulate at Hakodate.

M. Outrey, the French Minister, has obtained leave of absence. Count Turenne, Chargé d'Affairs, with M. De Walewski, Secretary of Legation, remain in charge during the absence of the Minister.

Mr. Hochstetter has been appointed to the post of Chief Geological and Mining Engineer to the Japanese Government. Mr. Hochstetter is well known in England and Europe for his scientific attainments.

A supply of 118 cases of ammunition has arrived by Pacific mail steamer from Admiral Rodgers. It is believed that a renewal of hostilities against Korea is contemplated.

Drs. Hofman and Mueller have arrived, for the purpose of arranging for the erection of a German naval hospital.

Messrs. Dallas and Ring have been awarded the sum of $1,500 each as some compensation for the injuries they received some months ago.

THE SILK TRADE.

The following communication from the Japanese silk merchants has been received by the Chamber of Commerce, and is published for general information:—"The Japanese merchants of Yokohama desire to express to the Chamber of Commerce their sincere gratitude for the pamphlet which it lately published, and distributed through the various provinces, calling the attention of silk producers and merchants to the unskilful and careless manner in which silk was prepared for the market, and suggesting rules for its improvement. Having suffered great losses by the decline of trade, realising only $500 to $550 for silk that we had advanced $700 for, and the first holders of silk also having been subjected to very great expenses by remaining in Yokohama from one hundred to two hundred days, we came to that condition where it was almost impossible for us to continue business. We were lamenting over the deterioration of the silk and the decline of trade, and were trying to devise some remedy for the evil, when your pamphlet most opportunely came to our help. We hope that henceforth our merchants and producers will make every exertion to keep badly wrought silk out of the market, and that trade may again revive and flourish. If it does so, it will be entirely through the concern and influence of the foreign merchants, who have come ten thousand miles across the ocean to establish mercantile houses in Yokohama, and who have set us examples worthy of our highest admiration. The Japanese merchants of Yokohama having consulted together on the best means of promoting our trade, have agreed to the following articles, which they desire to submit in writing to the Chamber of Commerce:—

1. That every bale of silk brought to Yokohama shall be opened and each hank inspected. All silk that is found to be knotty or dirty, or cased or endy, or wrapped in thick paper, or tied by cord, shall be rejected and kept out of the Yokohama market, according to the recommendations of the Chamber of Commerce. This will be for the interests and ease of both parties.

2. That in order to carry out the above system of inspection, and carefully instruct the producers of silk in the way of manufacturing and preparing it for the foreign market, we shall establish branch or local houses in each silk producing district in every province, and thus to reform the old custom, bring the products to their highest perfection, and cause trade to flourish.

3. That in accordance with the usages of foreign countries, silk shall be numbered according to its quality, No. 1, No. 2, No. 3, and shall be accompanied with a muster and chop according to its fineness, rating it 10, 20, &c.

4. As, if each merchant inspects the silk in his own house, and deals with it in his own way, it will be impossible but that the lust of gain should get the better of him, and give rise to fraud, and as it will be exceedingly inconvenient to send back from thence badly manufactured goods, we shall establish in Kanagawa a common inspection house, and place in it an expert, who will carefully inspect all silk brought to Yokohama, and who will promptly return all bad goods, and prevent all such goods from coming into the market.

5. Through the influence of the pamphlet published by the Chamber of Commerce, in its deep anxiety to improve the production of silk, we have every reason to hope for a gradual improvement; the pamphlet was, however, rather late in its publication to meet fully the present season; but by establishing the rule that badly manufactured silk shall not come to Yokohama, we may hope that in the course of three years we may accomplish a complete reformation. We have no doubt that a very great improvement will be effected in even half a year.

6. Lamenting deeply the falling off of our trade, and desirous to use every exertion and to adopt every mode that will render the productions of Japan more flourishing, and enable us to conduct trade on a more liberal scale, and deeply concerned also that the interests of the foreign merchants shall be promoted, we have agreed upon the foregoing articles; and after they shall have received the consideration of the Chamber of Commerce we desire that they may be brought to the notice of our respective officials, and be widely promulgated as our sincere and united action.

LATER INTELLIGENCE PER "AMERICA."

The Pacific mail steamer America arrived at San Francisco on the 15th inst., with advices from Yokohama to the 23rd September. The following is the summary of the Japan news telegraphed to the New York journals:—

The following is an edict of the Mikado, read to all the feudal Damios assembled in the palace at Yedo in the presence of the Mikado by the President of the Council of State:—"It appears to me that in the time of reformation, if it is our desire to aid and make our people happy, and to take an honourable position with respect to other nations, we should make the reality correspond to the name, to centralise the Governmental power. I previously ordered the Haus (or feudal governments) to send up a report of all their affairs, and appointed the Damios to be Chikuagis (or Governors), and prescribed for each his duties. Having for several hundred years been hereditary rulers, some were satisfied merely with the name and neglected these duties. How, then, can the people be made happy or we take an honourable stand among the nations? I deeply lament this state of things, and now abolish the Hans (or Federal territories) and convert them into Kens (or Imperial domains). In performing your duties do away with all useless matters, cleave to retrenchment, and put off all unnecessary expenses and abrogate all troublesome laws. Do you, my servants, carry out this my mind."

The issue of coin by the Mint has placed the Government in an embarrassing position, forcing alterations in values and creating much trouble and loss to foreign merchants. From January next no kinsats (or paper money) will be accepted in payment of duties. An immense amount of counterfeit kinsats have appeared in the market. The Chinese are exporting silver coin by the cart-load, or as fast as the Mint can issue it, according to an agreement with the late Tycoon.

The Hawaiian Government has returned twelve Japanese whose term of service of thirty years as sugar labourers had expired. One hundred and fifty preferred to remain in Hawaii instead of accepting a free passage home.

Telegraphic communication between Hong Kong and Nagasaki had been interfered with, the Chinese having picked up the cable and stolen quite a length of it, causing much inconvenience and expense to repair it. These interruptions threaten to become serious unless promptly stopped.

NAGASAKI.

NAGASAKI, 5th Sept., via SAN FRANCISCO.

I last wrote on the 1st September, via Brindisi, but as this will reach you first, I have embodied the contents of my last letter into this. On the morning of the 27th ult. the Pacific mail steamer Oregonian arrived with the English portion of the French mail of the 7th July, the Continental portion reaching here by the British steamer Rona yesterday afternoon, which vessel also brought the English mail of 14th July. The U.S. mail was received on the evening of the 30th, but only brought the same dates from London as those received by the Oregonian. This morning the French mail of 21st July was delivered, forty-six days out.

The following men-of-war have arrived since the 14th ultimo:—Russian corvette Almaz, from Chefoo, on the 19th ultimo; Danish frigate Tordenskjold, from Vladivostock, 23rd idem; and H.B.M.S. Ocean, from Taku, on the 31st. The Almaz left on the 23rd ultimo for Vladivostock. Remaining in harbour are the Alaska (American), Ocean (British), and Tordenskjold (Danish).

The North German barque Engelbert sailed for London on the 26th of August with the following cargo from this port:—1,029 bales tobacco, 120 cases curiosities, 40 cases merchandise, and 1 case personal effects; having on board other cargo from Hiogo, which I cannot give you particulars of, but I believe it is

1,000 bales tobacco. The British barque Zohrab, with part of her cargo engaged, is on the berth for London, and will take tobacco and sundries. Rate of freight £3 per ton of 50 feet.

Saturday last, being the anniversary of the battle of Sedan, the German residents celebrated it by having a picnic during the day and lighting a tar barrel and petroleum bonfire in the evening on the top of Innassa, some 1,200 feet above the level of the sea. Unfortunately the day was very wet, but, notwithstanding the drenching rain, they did not alter the programme. Of general news I have again but little to give. The natives have recently been engaged with the "Ancestral Festival," which annually occupies their thoughts to the exclusion of business and everything else, during which time the Custom-house has been closed, namely, for three successive days, viz., 29th, 30th, and 31st ultimo, which would be very inconvenient if strictly enforced, but this fortunately is not the case, as at least a sufficient number of officers can be found on these days to grant permits if invoked by entreaties backed by silver.

The submarine cable between this port and Vladivostock has been completed, which event was duly proclaimed by the arrival of the Tordenskjold, Africa, and Great Northern, with flags flying. It is reported that the Russian land lines are not completed, and until these are established, communication with Europe cannot be opened.

The new coinage has not yet reached this place. Already grave fears are being entertained that the dual coinage will only partially remedy the continued annoyances foreigners have to contend against at the present time, and that the Government or semi-official money changers will be able to control the market sufficiently to make either a premium or a discount if it suits them to do so.

Freight to London, £3 per ton of 50 cubic feet. Drafts on London, 4s. 7d. per dollar nominal. Nebus 380 to 383 per $100.

The reported export of coal 1st to 31st August, is:—Takasima 1,994 tons; Karatz and other kinds, 6,081 tons; Total, 8,075 tons.

CHINA.

TIENTSIN.

Rain began again to fall on the morning of the 29th August, and continued doing so all day and night. The water on the plains, however, was only very slightly higher. The east and west plains are now like two great lakes, and the wind raises or depresses the water according to the direction from which it blows. It is useless to dwell on the condition of the inhabitants, and on the worse misery which awaits them during the ensuing winter. But the prospect is so frightful that one can hardly touch the subject without referring to it.

HANKOW.

A correspondent writes that incessant rain had been falling, and the water was rising steadily; already it was nearly level with the Bund, and there was every reason to fear that it would come over. News of the inundation at Tientsin has deadened the import market at Hankow, during the fortnight, as the native dealers anticipated it would lead to heavy shipments up the river. Large shipments of tea have been made to Shanghai on native account; prices are 1s. 1 lower for Oonfaa and Seangtam kinds; Oopacks and Liclings have been sold at former rates. The export is now 9,294,000 lbs. in excess of last year.

SHANGHAI.

Dates from this port are to the 8th Sept.; the French mail of 21st July arrived out on the 2nd Sept. The North China Herald contains the following summary of the news:—

We have had several thunder-storms and much rain during the week; the thermometer, however, continues high during the intervals by day, though the evenings and nights are much cooler. The inundation continues unabated at Tientsin, and Hankow is threatened with a similar infliction.

The Taoutai has lately put forth two new proclamations—one against lotteries, and another forbidding the country people to kill bullocks used, or useful, for purposes of agriculture. The Taoutai has sentenced a man to be exposed in the cangue at the New North Gate for three months, on account of some part he has taken in the lotteries. Whether he was simply the purchaser of a ticket or whether he had acted as an agent for the sale of tickets we cannot learn.

A rather serious fracas occurred on board the American ship Golden State. The vessel had cleared, and at high water the crew were ordered to weigh anchor, while a portion of them were also engaged shipping a last lot of tea from a cargo-boat alongside. As the anchor came up the crew of the Serica gave their mates on the Golden State a parting cheer, and these at once ceased work to respond. The second mate, who was in charge, told the men to continue steadily at work, fearing that if they did not the tide would be lost, and it would be difficult to drop down river. The men, however, refused to go on at once, and insisted on having their cheer out. The mate urged them again, when one of the crew picked up a handspike and struck him with it on the side of the head, slightly fracturing the skull. Another was going to follow up the brutal attack with a carpenter's mallet, but the carpenter managed to wrest it away. The second mate was obliged to go to his cabin and have his head dressed, and the first mate took charge. The excitement of the men apparently ceased, the work in hand was gone through, and the ship went down stream to below the shipping. About dusk the second mate again came on duty, while the crew were washing down decks. Seeing one of the men passing but one bucket along, while there were several lying unused on the deck, he told them to take two. The man refused to do so, and the officer then took him by the shoulder and turned him towards the empty buckets, repeating his order, when the man suddenly drew a sheath-knife and stabbed him in the pit of the stomach. The mate called to the chief officer and informed him that he had been stabbed, and that his assailant had taken flight over the bows of the ship. The chief officer finding the man hanging on to the chains called to him to come up or he would shoot him; the man, however, jumped into the river instead, but took a line which was thrown out to him, and was hauled on board and put in irons. Several of the men who had taken part in the original disturbance, or who did not wish to go with the ship, jumped into the water after nightfall, and swam to the harbour-master's hulk, and to the Benicia, whence they were returned at daylight, one also being picked up while swimming about by the water police. The mate is in hospital, and his case is considered serious, though he will likely recover. The men implicated have been taken into custody, and the Golden State has proceeded on her voyage without them.

We have received a copy of a most elaborate table compiled by Messrs. Da Costa and Co. It comprises a return of the imports and re-exports of goods and metals, with the variations of prices and the fluctuations of exchange quotations, during the first quarter of the years 1867 to 1871.

HONG KONG.

The advices extend to the 14th Sept. The London mail, with dates to the 4th August, was received on the 11th Sept.

The reply of the Lieutenant-Governor to the deputation which waited on him in regard to the police of the colony, being so very unsatisfactory, a meeting was held on the 11th Sept. to consider the same, and the following is a report of the proceedings:—

At a meeting of non-official justices of the peace held pursuant to notice at the club.—Present: Hon. P. Ryrie, Esq. (in the chair), Hon. R. Rowett, Esq., E. R. Belilios, Esq., T. G. Linstead, Esq., T. Pyke, Esq., Dr. O'Brien, J. Berwick, Esq., S. D. Sassoon, Esq., G. F. Maclean, Esq., E. Arthur, Esq., S. J. Gower, Esq., W. Wilson, Esq., J. M. Vickers, Esq.

Mr. Ryrie stated that the reply received through the Hon. the Colonial Secretary to the resolutions handed by the deputation to his Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor on the 2nd inst. had been communicated to the meeting and was considered to be of a very unsatisfactory nature, more especially seeing that the murderous attacks and robberies had rather increased than otherwise since the day the deputation waited on his Excellency. A meeting on the 9th inst., at which a resolution had been arrived at, which, in the opinion of some gentlemen who were then unable to attend, and also, after further reflection, of others who were present, failed to convey a correct impression of their views; he had, therefore, thought it best to summon this meeting in order that the subject might receive further consideration.

After some discussion, it was then proposed by Mr. T. G. Linstead, seconded by Mr. E. R. Belilios, and carried with one dissentient:—"That the resolution passed at the meeting of the 9th inst. be annulled."

It was then proposed by Mr. T. Pyke, seconded by Mr. J. Berwick, and carried unanimously:—"That this meeting has received the reply of the Hon. the Colonial Secretary with extreme disappointment, and that as his Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor declines to appoint a commission to inquire into the state of the police, a public petition praying for a full inquiry be addressed to Her Majesty's Secretary of State for the Colonies and forwarded through his Excellency, a copy being sent to C. Magniac, Esq., M.P., for presentation in the same quarter."

Proposed by Mr. G. F. Maclean, seconded by Mr. E. Arthur, and carried unanimously:—"That his Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor be requested to forward to Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies copies of all the resolutions passed at this and the first meeting and copies of the correspondence connected therewith."

We (China Mail) learn from Macao that the Government have received their new steam-launch from Hong Kong. The launch, by name the Sergio, is schooner-rigged, 16 tons measurement, 46 feet in length, 9½ beam, and 5 feet in depth. She has a 6-pounder rifled cannon forward; and her engines are 12 horse-power, she being intended for the pursuit of pirates. In addition to a crew, she will carry an armed force of 25 men, rations and water for all hands, and coal and water for her own use for 24 hours. As a proof of the Sergio's fitness for the above service, we may state that she made the run from the premises of the Pier Company, Wanchi, to the Government House, Macao, in 4½ hours. The Sergio was built and engined at the yard of Messrs. J. Inglis and Co., Victoria Foundry, and we are informed that she does great credit to that establishment. We further hear from the Holy City that four vessels—viz., the Vistula, Naples, Blanche, and Uniers—are expected there to load coolies to Havanuah.

His Excellency Major-General Whitfield has been pleased to recognise Rudolph Jensen, Esquire, as Acting Consul for Denmark and also for Sweden and Norway at this port, during the absence of George J. Helland, Esquire, and subject to the pleasure of Her Majesty's Government.

We learn that the hull of the ship Courier was sold by Mr. J. M. Armstrong for the sum of $2,900.; the sale altogether realised $4,300.

A service was held on the 12th at the Catholic Church for the repose of the souls of the late Captain Maugat, and of Captains Marchandau and Defoy. The Acting French Consul, M. Chastel, Chancellor, besides a large number of private friends were in attendance. The service was led by the very Rev. Father Raimondi, who made an eloquent address in the French language.

The following account, duly certified, of the average amount of bank notes in circulation in Hong Kong, during the month ending Aug. 31, 1871, is published for general information:—

THE CHINA-SEA, SAIGON AND STRAITS STEAMSHIP COMPANY, LIMITED.

The following is the report of the Board of Directors to the second ordinary meeting of shareholders to be held at the office of the general agents at Hong Kong, on September 15th:—

The directors have pleasure in laying before you a statement of the working of the Company for the first half of the current year, feeling that the result will be found satisfactory.

The accounts show that the net profits, after paying all disbursements, amount to $7,625.99, and of this the Directors would recommend the following distribution; viz: 10 per cent. of the net profits, or say $762.60 as a bonus to the shareholders who have contributed freight; 20 per cent. of the net profits, or say $1,525.20 to be carried to the Depreciation and Insurance fund; $400 to be devoted to the remuneration of Directors and Auditors, and $5,400 to the payment of a half-yearly dividend of 6 per cent. There will then remain $70.70 to be carried forward to a new account.

At the time the last report was submitted to the shareholders it was intended to change the name of the steamer Venus, then recently acquired by the Company, to Kinkee; but, upon enquiry among the Chinese, it was found inexpedient to make the alteration, as the Venus had already become popular with passengers.

It was in contemplation also at that time to purchase the Sunfoo, but the success hitherto had in chartering has induced the directors to continue for the present that method of conducting the business, and they have taken her up for six months, with the option of two months more, and there will be no necessity for the second call of $25 per share, unless it should be found hereafter to be more advisable to buy than to charter.

Mr. Mellish having left the colony, Mr. Blakeman has been appointed in his place as auditor; and this now awaits the confirmation of the shareholders.

GEORGE F. WELLER, Chairman.

THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

At the meeting of the Legislative Council, on the 11th September, the Supplementary Estimates Ordinance was read a second time and passed.

The ordinance intended to give power to enrol men in the police force for short periods and under special conditions, and to form an auxiliary force, from which to recruit the permanent force, was next read a second time. A discussion took place as to whether it was intended to increase the aggregate force by the 200 men named in the new ordinance, or simply that the recognised strength would include the auxiliaries and not exceed what was mentioned in previous ordinances. The feeling of the Council was such that the words "not exceeding 200 men" were erased. The ordinance was then passed.

Mr. Rowett begged leave to ask for a further sum of $750 in aid of the Cathedral chancel. The object was to enable the work to begin at once, and unless this sum were given, they would never get on with it. The lowest tender which the trustees saw advisable to accept was $8,500, and the money in hand, including the Government grant, was only $7,000, so that there remained a balance of $1,500 to complete the sum required. The trustees thereupon thought that they would collect a sum of $750 from the community, and ask the Government to give a further sum to the same amount. Then the work could be proceeded with. He hoped the Council would regard the matter in a favourable light, as the work had already been so long delayed. They knew that Mr. Lapraik's memorial window was still to be put up, and the stone laid by the Duke of Edinburgh was still alone. He trusted there would be no more delay.

In reply to Judge Ball, Mr. Rowett said that the trustees asked for the grant only on condition that the community subscribed the other $750.

Mr. Keswick said it was a pity that the public money should be expended in this way, especially after the last grant had been made. The chancel might be an architectural ornament, but it was not necessary to the building, and certainly was not required for convenience as to the space. The stone was at present well shadowed by a tree, and was now a better ornament to the church than it would be if embodied in the building. (A laugh.) He opposed the grant.

On a vote being taken it was found that Mr. Keswick was in a minority of one; and the grant was therefore agreed to.

Mr. Ryrie rose to ask a question in regard to the memo. of the non-official members on the letter sent round, in which the Registrar-General had suggested the establishment of a Chinese Customs Station in Hong Kong.

Mr. Smith begged the hon member's pardon, but the Registrar-General had never suggested the establishment of a Custom-house.

After some confusion, during which more than one member at a time addressed the hon. member, who was still on his legs, the Colonial Secretary deprecated any discussion upon a document meant as a confidential communication, and his Excellency somewhat unceremoniously commenced to read a written reply to the question, the substance of which was that the question was Imperial and Executive, that the law officers of the Crown were of opinion that it was competent for the Chinese to establish Custom stations on their own territory, and that any further representations on the subject should be addressed to the Secretary of State and sent through the Colonial Government.

On the motion that the Appropriation Ordinance for 1872 be read a second time, Mr. Ryrie stated that, as the detailed estimates did not reach members till Friday night, and the days following were Saturday and Monday, he would much desire that the discussion on the items might be postponed for, say—a fortnight.

His Excellency reminded members that the Estimates were rather late, and he hoped they would not require too long time.

The Council was adjourned until Friday, the 22nd, at 2.30 p.m., when they will be taken. The sums, as apportioned, are as follow:—

Civil Departments:—
Governor...	...	$740.00
Colonial Secretary	...	12,316.00
Colonial Treasurer	...	5,012.00

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates are to Sept. 23. The English mail of Aug. 11 arrived on Sept. 14, and the French mail, with London letters to Aug. 18, came in on Sept. 17.

The following items are from the Straits Times:—

The Legislative Council has disposed of the railway question by a vote in favour of the long line to embrace all the wharves, but stipulates that the Company be formed and ready to commence within six months from the date of granting the concession, that the Government retain sufficient control over the working and maintenance of the line to secure fair terms to the various proprietors along the route, and may at any time take over the works at a fair valuation. A proposal that the Government should construct the railway itself was negatived. These reservations by the Government are necessary and equitable precautions to ensure the proper carrying out of the work. It is hardly probable it will ever take over the line, unless in event of failure on the part of the Company to properly fulfil the conditions imposed.

The question of the Government steamers seems to be constantly recurring; first, Sir Harry Ord called the Executive Council together, for the purpose of expressing its opinion in favour of a steam launch to cost about $15,000, to replace the Rainbow, but this was forbidden by the Secretary of State. Next, a similar suggestion was made in the reply to the speech of his Excellency the Administrator on the opening of the Legislative Council, and this has at last taken form in a distinct proposal according to the official minutes. His excellency the Administrator brought forward the question of a small steam-tender for the service of the colony, and asked the Council what description of vessel it is most desirable to have. The consideration of the subject was wisely postponed. We presume the principal use of this vessel would be to effect the relief of the lighthouses, and to make trips to Johore and round the island; but we have one steam launch, the Mata Mata, which serves the latter purpose very well, and though nominally a police boat she has done nothing as yet for the suppression of the robberies from native craft in the harbour, and the petty piracies which are the curse of our shores, and is scarcely ever available for any sudden emergency of this sort; and it may be doubted whether an additional steam launch is really needed for the public service. With a little economy in the number of trips made between the Settlements by the Pluto, we think she would be found easily able to do all the work for which a Government steamer is actually required.

The only other question of any significance that has arisen during the fortnight is the proposal by the Secretary of State that the colony pay a share of the expense of adapting a Penal Code being prepared in Jamaica to the circumstances of the other Crown Colonies, in which the Council has acquiesced. With the known tendency of the Colonial-office to assimilate the Government of all the Crown Colonies, no doubt the bare mention of such a scheme would find great favour there; but it should be remembered that the criminal classes in Jamaica are mostly negroes and half-caste Creoles, while those of this colony are Asiatics, and that we have the advantage of a most comprehensive Criminal Code prepared in India, especially to deal with their known vices, of which the working has been proved, and which is now in process of adaptation to our local requirements. It would be too bad to throw away the labour bestowed upon this work for the purpose of introducing a code of which we know nothing, and which would be almost certain to fail to meet the wants of this colony, merely in order that all the Crown Colonies may be governed by one common criminal law.

By the steamer Glenartney the Hon. William Ramsay Scott proceeds to Europe, by way of China, Japan, and America. He will probably return again in six or seven months; but the proofs he has received on all hands of kindly feeling and estimation bear witness to the honourable part he has taken in the politics of the colony, not less than to his genial influence in the social condition of the community. He was entertained at a farewell dinner by the Singapore Club.

We have noticed, with some surprise, the various changes and appointments in the Civil Service, lately notified to the public in the Government Gazette, consequent on the vacancies caused by death or absence, and we are at a loss to understand by what rules promotions and acting appointments are regulated by our Government. We observe in several instances junior officers placed over the heads of senior ones, and, as far as we can judge, with no special qualification to account for it.

PENANG.

Dates extend to the 23rd September, the P. and O. mail, with London dates to the 25th August, arrived out on the 23rd September. The following is from the Penang Argus:—This colony has produced a revenue of one million and two hundred and ninety-four dollars during the past year, and now it is to pay the additional sum of eighty-one thousand and six hundred and five dollars and sixty-two cents for the said year. The money has been spent and what there is to show for it is a matter that does not admit of doubt, because nothing can be shown. We have been bled to no purpose. Our expenditure has been such that if we continue to spend money at the rate we are now doing we shall very soon overrun the constable. It is true that we have purchased an expensive steamer, but the money for that purpose was voted the year before last, and we have had merely the pleasure of paying this year some $11,000 extra for bringing the vessel out, surveying her, and making alterations in her, to suit the taste of our marine authorities and make her fit for service; we have also had a flying visit paid us by the King of Siam, and the visit was not the only thing that was paid—there was a little bill of ten thousand dollars also, the cost of the entertainment of his Majesty. Still it cannot be said that the result of the years' expenditure has been such as to gratify the people of the colony. A pension list of scores of thousands of dollars; a complicated system of Government capitally calculated to do the least amount of good for the greatest amount of money; which cannot rule a population of something less than a third of a million in number at a less cost than upwards of twelve hundred thousand dollars per annum; and which cannot protect its subjects from the attacks of pirates and plunderers, form a picture neither pleasant nor comfortable to contemplate. In the Colonial List for 1868 we find it authoritatively stated that the proportion of taxation to population in the Straits Settlements is greater than in any other part of the world. We pay more per head than any Continental (European) nation, treble what they pay in India, and such a rate, which if any Government was to ask for in Australia, the reply would be its downfall.

The Minute of his Excellency the Administrator conveys this alarming truth—that having spent over a million of dollars upon Government—that Government cannot be carried on unless there is a disbursement of over twenty thousand dollars extra for “Establishments;” more than three thousand for pensions; two thousand for police, fourteen thousand for our “Marine Department;” a lump sum of $23,000 odd put down as “Miscellaneous,” and a nice little bill of $501,788.22 cents—our readers will be careful as to the number of cents—is to be applied next year in payment of “establishments, salaries, allowances, and office contingencies,” thus making the total his Excellency the Administrator asks for as the revenue of 1872 the insignificant amount of one million three hundred and twenty-seven thousand nine hundred and eighty dollars and thirty-two cents.

Where is the money to come from?

We have often heard it said that the Government clerks in Penang have very little to do! We hitherto believed the statement to be incorrect. But lately the store of Messrs. Tye Sin Tat and Co. has been made the rendezvous for these young men, during their office hours, and their visits extend over several hours. Either they must have nothing to do and are not required at their office, or are simply “skulking” when the head of the department is away. Verb sap!

A general meeting of the inhabitants of Penang was held at the room of the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, the 13th September, to take into consideration a letter received from the Government regarding the proposed wharf. The meeting was well attended. The following resolutions were passed:—

“That this meeting do approve of the proceedings of the committee hitherto regarding the Penang wharf scheme, and that the following gentlemen be requested to act as promoters of a joint-stock company to be called the ‘Penang Wharf Company (Limited),’ and to make preliminary application to Government for powers to proceed with the scheme in terms of Act XXII. of 1863:—Messrs. Walter Scott, John Allan, A. J. Gunn, M. A. Anthony, A. Hasche, A. Gentle, G. P. Tolson, Vapoo M. Noordin, Lee Pee Chuan, Oh Yean Heng.

“That subscriptions be invited from the public generally to the extent in the meantime of $1,000, to defray such preliminary expenses as may be incurred by the promoters, such amount to become a first charge on the capital of the company when formed.”

A report is current that his Excellency the Administrator proposes to leave the colony in October, but we do not believe it. A great bribery case, which had for some days caused intense excitement among the Chinese, was heard at the Police-court on the 9th Sept., upon the sworn information of Lim Cheng Keat and Khoo Kay Chan, who charged Lim Cheam, a well-known merchant in Penang, with wilful and corrupt perjury. The perjury was alleged to have been committed before the Chief Justice at Penang, on the 18th November last, on the hearing of the petition of Yeap Cheah Neo, Khoo Kay Chan, Khoo Siew Jeong Neoh, and Lim Cheng Keat, for probate of the will of Oli Yeo Neo, deceased. Mr. B. Rodyk appeared for the prosecution, and Messrs. I. S. Bond and R. C. Woods, barristers-at-law, for the defence. After a lengthened investigation the magistrate was of opinion that the prosecution had failed to make out a prima facie case against the defendant, and dismissed the summons.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—The intervention of a native holiday had interrupted business to some extent. Comparatively few transactions had taken place in Grey Shirtings, and those at a considerable reduction on last quotations. Cotton Yarn had of late been in better demand, with a good inquiry for Nos. 28-32 at improved values. Woollens were attracting somewhat more attention, and sales to fair extent had been effected of Black Orleans, Cloths, Blankets, &c. Black Velvets continued in demand, and prices had further advanced. Quotations were as follows:—GE Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., $2.15 to 2.20 per piece; 8½ to 8½ lbs., $2.50 to 2.57½; 9 to 9½ lbs., $2.82½ to 2.87. GE White Shirtings, 56 to 60-reed, $2.65 to 2.85; 64 to 72-reed, $2.90 to 3.05. T-Cloths, 6 to 7 lbs., $1.70 to 2. Velvets, Black, $8 to 9.25. Cotton Yarn, Nos. 16 to 24, $38 to 38.50; Nos. 28 to 32, $42 to 43; Nos. 38 to 42, $40 to 41. Woollens and Mixtures: Alpaca, 42 yards, $7.40 to 7.85. Camlets S and BBB, $13.50 to 14.50; SS., $12 to 13; SSS., $9 to 10. Cloth, Medium and Broad, $1 to 1.75 per yard; Lastings, $10.25 to 11.25 per piece; Long Ells, Assorted, $6 to 6.50; Orleans and Lustres, Plain, $3.75 to 4.25; Figured, $4.50 to 5. Metals: Lead, $5.50 to 6 per picul; Iron—Nail Rod, $2.60 to 3.20; Bars, $3.50 to 4.

HANKOW.—Immediately after the departure of last English mail news of the inundations at Tientsin was received, and the dealers, anticipating heavy shipments in this direction, at once withdrew all offers. Their fears of the latter had hardly been realised, but news from the country was unsatisfactory, and heavy rain having fallen almost daily, the market had been without the slightest animation, and the business of the fortnight had been very small. Grey Shirtings: Dealers had shown no inclination to make offers, and little had been done. Quotations—Tls. 1.67 to 1.72 for 7 lbs., Tls. 1.86 to 1.95 for 8½ lbs., and Tls. 2.35 to 2.55 for 9½ lbs., but all rather nominal. White Shirtings: Slight inquiry for medium counts at a mere decline on last rates quoted. T-Cloths: Neglected; small sales at a concession of 5 candareens on all weights, and difficult to effect. Drills: Chinese importers eager sellers, and prices tended downwards; best English cloth worth Tls. 3.10 to 3.13. Jeans: No business. Fancy Cottons meet with little attention at rather weaker rates. Woollens and Worsteds: With strong Yorkshire advices, holders were not pressing their goods, but dealers found no difficulty in supplying their wants from Chinese who bought before the recent advance, and sales from foreign hands had been on the small-scale. Quotations for Camlets, Lastings, Spanish Stripes are all nearly nominal, and large stocks of the latter still held by Chinese. Orleans and Lustres: Natives had ample supplies for present requirements, and quotations for Figures and Crapes were nominal.

SHANGHAI.—Piece Goods.—Grey Shirtings: A quiet but steady demand for 8½ lbs. goods had prevailed, but holders, generally, had been unwilling sellers at the offers made them, and, although a fair quantity had been quitted by importers at from 1c. to 2c. per piece advance on last quotations, the business had been considerably restricted by the firmness they had shown. The market closed strong, Tls. 1.94 to 1.95 being demanded for Dewhurst's Red Pheasant chop and for chops of equal quality Dewhurst's Eagles were worth Tls. 1.96 to 1.98, but importers holding for Tls. 1.98 to 2.00. For 7 lbs. a fair inquiry existed, and a moderate business had been done, but former quotations were barely maintained. Heavy cloths in no favour, and rates nominal. White Shirtings: A parcel of 6,000 pieces of the very best chop, 64 Rs. at Tls. 2.15 per piece, and 1,500 pieces good ordinary, same count, at Tls. 2.05 were about the only transactions recorded since last mail. T-Cloths: Mexican qualities somewhat difficult to move, but common had met with ready sale at advancing rates. 15 x 15 counts, 7 lbs., sold at Tls. 1.38 to 1.45, and 16 x 16 reeds held for Tls. 1.47 to 1.50; 6 lbs. of similar counts worth Tls. 1.19 to 1.28 and saleable; market dull at close. Drills: Orders from Szechuen and the North had imparted renewed vigour to the market, and extensive purchases of English and Dutch, at from Tls. 2.98 to 3.10 for the former, and Tls. 2.90 to 3.05 for the latter, had been made. Closing quotations:—Tls. 3.02 to 3.12 and Tls. 2.93 to 3.10 per piece, respectively. American had received no attention. Jeans: In better request, and concession by sellers of 3 to 5 cand. had led to the settlement of about 15,000 pieces, chiefly English; ruling rates, Tls. 2.26 to 2.30. Dutch of finest quality saleable at Tls. 2.40. American, although exceedingly light in stock, find no market. Sheetings: Supplies still taken off as fast as they arrive, but lower prices ruled. Fresh arrivals of American difficult to place, owing to high rates demanded. Fancy Cottons: Turkey Red Cloths wanted for Japan, and 3 lbs. favourite chop sold at Tls. 2.00 to 2.05. Trifling sales of assorted Chintzes, White and Dyed Spotted Shirtings, Brocades, and Velvets reported at about former rates, but in the other descriptions no movement had taken place. Woollens: The market had been very quiet, and the sales effected had been on the most limited scale. Best Long Ells and Spanish Stripes maintained their position, but a decline in the value of almost every other article has to be noted. Figured Orleans in particular had exhibited weakness, and the value cannot be quoted over Tls. 3.60 to 3.90, enquiry lifeless, and clearances far from satisfactory. Camlets: About 1,500 pieces changed hands, at a fall of 1m. 0c. to 1m. 5c. A well selected parcel of C.P.H., quitted at Tls. 13.60. Long Ells: H.H. Scarlet, could not be bought under Tls. 5.95 to 6.00, and a sale of C.P.H. Scarlet at Tls. 5.90. A good assortment of the latter chop placed Tls. 5.50. Common qualities unsaleable. Spanish Stripes, excepting very best, which had maintained former values, were easier, and in retail demand only. Crape Lastings: A large speculative purchase of 2,000 pieces, at Tls. 6.25 reported. It was being re-tailed—one ease at a time—at Tls. 3.60. Crape Lustres: no buyers; Lastings in a similar position. Metals:—Iron: Holders had been obliged to make a concession in favour of buyers, and prices had fallen fully 5 candareens per picul, market weak and likely to go lower. Lead: Without enquiry. Sellers of L.B. at Tls. 4.50. Coal of all descriptions in request, and higher rates obtained. Anthracite Coal sold at Tls. 13 per ton from godown. Stocks decreasing, and but few arrivals.

HONG KONG.—There was a general feeling of steadiness in the market, but not much business doing. The typhoon on the 2nd Sept., and the distraction from business caused by the occurrence of the Dragon festival soon afterwards, had considerably diminished the transactions which might otherwise have been expected to take place. Cotton Yarn had remained in a state of complete stagnation until a few days before the close, during which a few inquiries of a tentative nature had been made, but only a very small business had resulted. Quotations for last mail unchanged, showing that the upward movement in Manchester had not been responded to in any degree on this side. Grey Shirtings also unaltered in price, but there was a much firmer feeling among importers, who were daily showing less disposition to part with their stocks at prices below the cost of replacement. White Shirtings: Small business at former prices. T-Cloths: Market quieter, and prices weaker in consequence of heavy supplies near at hand; 6 lbs. still saleable at $1.60 to 1.62½ for immediate delivery, but for arrival about 5c. lower; 7 lbs. showed a decline of about 2½c., $1.85 being the best rate obtainable. Mexican 6 lbs. quite unsaleable and quotations nominal; 7 lbs. weakened by large supplies, and a decline of 2½c. to 5c. quoted on the finer makes; 8 lbs. 36 in. also declined about 5c., supply being in excess of demand. Grey Twills: English continued in favour at about previous rates for 14 lbs., and a slight decline in 15 lbs. In Dutch and American little or nothing doing. Jeans also very dull. Dyed and Fancy Cottons: A little done in Dyed Spots at late advance. Chintzes, Gentian, Twills, and Handkerchiefs had also attracted attention at former prices. Damasks and Turkey Red Cambrics neglected. Nothing done in Velvet or Velvetens. Medium Cloths in moderate inquiry at previous prices. Spanish Stripes unaltered, demand very moderate. Long Ells: Market declined 30c. from the quotation for last English mail, and sales amount to 800 pieces. Camlets steadily maintained their value, sales not extensive, demand principally for Scarlet. Lastings unchanged in price, nothing doing. Metals: Nail Rod Iron slightly firmer, but good assortments of Nos. 1 to 6 not saleable over $2.55 per picul. Bar Iron in fair request. Hoops and Round Rods neglected. Nothing doing in Steel, Tin Plates, or Iron Wire. A decline of $3 to 5 per picul noticeable in Quicksilver.

Yellow Metal fairly saleable at $20 per picul, with the probability of an advance. Lead a shade firmer, but quotations unaltered. A sale of French reported at $5.60 per picul. Quotations:—Yarn, Nos. 16 to 24, $108 to 123 per bale; Nos. 28 to 32, $117.50 to 125; Nos. 38 to 42, $125 to 130. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., $2.15 to 2.17½; 8.4 lbs., $2.45 to 2.50; 9 to 10 lbs., $2.85 to 3.40. White Shirtings, 54 to 56 reed, $2 to 2.15; 58 to 60-reed, $2.15 to 2.20; 64 to 66-reed, $2.55 to 2.70; 68 to 72-reed, $2.85 to 3.15; finer qualities, $3.65. Grey Twills: English, 14 to 15 lbs., $3.70 to 4 per piece; American, 15 lbs., $4.10 to 4.20; Dutch, 13½ to 14½ lbs., $3.70 to 3.80; Jeans, 8 lbs., $2.80 to 2.90. Long Ells, H Scarlet, $7.90 to 8; HH, $8 to 8.10; H Assorted, $6.80 to 7; III, $7 to 7.20. Camlets, SSS Assorted, $15 to 15.50; SS, $17 to 17.50; S, $18 to 18.50; Dutch, $22 to 23.

FOOCHOW.—Sales have been:—Grey Shirtings, 8½ lbs., 500 pieces, at $2.70 per piece. T-Cloths, 7½ lbs., 500 pieces, at $2.05 per piece.

MANILA.—White Shirtings: Demand quiet, and rates nominally unaltered. Sales only 1,458 pieces. Grey Shirtings: Light weights had been in some request during the fortnight, but prices were offering extremely low—6½ lbs. at $2.25; 6½ lbs. $2.43½; 7 lbs. $2.62½; 7½ lbs. $2.93½; 8½ lbs. $3.12½. Long Cloths: Inquiry dull; 7½ lbs. at $2.81½; 8½ lbs. $3.18½; 8½ lbs. $3.18½ to 3.25; 9 lbs. $3.37½. T-Cloths: Very quiet, and values low. The only sale noted was 100 pieces 6½ lbs. at $2.12 per piece. Twist: Grey in little demand; No. 40s at $195 to 140 per 400 lbs.; White of good quality in moderate inquiry; No. 40s at $145 to 150 per 400 lbs.

SINGAPORE.—We are indebted to Messrs Boustead's Circular for the following:—Manchester Goods generally have been in limited inquiry during the fortnight. With continued favourable advices from Manchester holders have become firmer and are asking an advance; 39-inch Grey Shirtings: Moderate inquiry for 8½ lbs., with sales at improving prices, transactions reported at $2.50 to 2.55, but at the close offered at $2.52½; 7 lbs. quiet, last sale reported $2.15, but held for more; 6 lbs. limited demand at $1.80 to 1.85. 45 inch: 8 lbs. without inquiry, quoted nominally $2.40; 9 lbs. cleared from first hands and saleable at $2.82½ to 2.85; other weights neglected. 36-inch Grey Supers: Fair enquiry for No. 1 at $1.97½ to 2.00, stocks small; No. 2 in limited inquiry at $2.05 to 2.07½; No. 3 very dull and nominal at $2.17½. 36-inch White Shirtings: Pair demand for fine, but business checked by advance asked by holders; medium and low, dull. 45-inch: Only a trifling demand, transactions limited, 64 reed quoted at $3.47½. 36 inch White Spots in no request. 45-inch White Cambrics: Inquiry almost confined to 15/16, for which there is strong demand at $28½; low and medium qualities without improvement. White Madapollams nominal at $19. 32-inch Grey T-Cloth: Sales of 5 lbs. at $1.35, 6 lbs. at $1.65, and 7 lbs. at $1.82½, and market about cleared of these weights, for which there is an excellent demand; lighter weights dull and stocks ample, 4 lbs. $10.5 to 1.07½, 4½ lbs. $1.15 to 1.17½. 32-inch Grey Madapollams: Some inquiry for 2½ lbs., but no stock; 3 lbs. in small demand at $18 to 18½. 32-inch Turkey Red Cambrics: all weights dull; 2½ lbs. $2 to 2.02½, 2½ lbs. $2.07½ to 2.10½; 3 lbs. $2.20 to 2.25. 42-inch Turkey Red Mulls: Demand subsided, 1½ lbs. quoted $28, 2 lbs. $30 to 31. Grey Yarn: Business very limited in all counts. Quotations:—$114 for 40s, $107 for 30s, and $92½ to 95 for 18/24s, but holders will not sell at these prices. Coloured Yarns: Turkey Red, Glasgow dye, 12 lb. inquired for at $135 to 137½; 10 lb. quiet at $127½ to 130; Imperial Red dull and not saleable over $07 to 68; Dark Green, moderate sale at $78 to 79. Woollens held for higher prices, which checks business. A sale of 28 lb. assorted Camlets reported at $14½. A small transaction reported in 12 lb. Scarlet Long Ells at $7½. Scarlet Bombazettes, nothing doing. Lastings quite out of demand. Metals: Iron in fair request; $2.75 offered and refused for a good assortment of Govan flat bar, to arrive. Nail-roads placed at $2.42½, and latterly a small lot at $2.50; in other kinds no sales reported, and prices unaltered. Yellow Metal in moderate demand, supplies being at hand, holders not so firm, and selling at $20½. Small inquiry for Copper Sheathing at $23 to 23½. Zinc Sheathing saleable at $3½ to 9. Pig Lead inquired for, 2,000 piculs L B sold at $5.35 nett cash.

PENANG.—The market had been inactive, and transactions in all classes of imports had been very limited.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—A fairly active business had been done in this market, notwithstanding very unfavourable advices from America, and settlements, consisting principally of medium to fine leaf, but including all grades, amounted to about 7,000 piculs for the California and American markets. Prices had been slightly easier, and at the close a still further tendency downwards was apparent, except for finest and choice grades, which were scarce and commanded full rates. Supplies had come in freely, and having kept pace with settlements, stocks were little changed and consisted chiefly of common and good medium Teas. The last P.M.S.S. Co.'s steamer took 266,408 lbs. for New York, and 62,275 lbs. for San Francisco; there had been no further export, except per Inventory 320,440 lbs. The Flying Spur and Fiery Cross were still loading, and the Black Prince, 750 tons, had been laid on for New York; the Gaucho, and Arizona were loading for San Francisco. Quotations:—Good common, $23 to 25 per picul; medium, $26 to 30; good medium, $31 to 33; fine, $35 to 40; finest, $42 to 50; choice, $52 upwards.

HANKOW.—The following is from Messrs. Drysdale, Ringer, and Co.'s Report:—Since the 19th August a small business has been transacted here; settlements amounting to 5,209 chests, 4,760 half-chests. Only third crop leaf has been offering, and though better than last year, possessing more flavour in cup and better appearance in leaf, we think the prices paid, say from 1s. 1d. to 1s. 3d. laid down in London, much beyond the value of the Tea in the present state of the home market. Arrivals from the country have come in steadily, the bulk of the Tea being, as is usual at this time of the year, immediately forwarded to Shanghai. The large increase in our export over that of last season's is still maintained, but the quantity of Tea now to arrive must be considerably smaller than at same time then. Particulars of settlements: 3,783 chests, 4,760 half-chests at 1s. 1d. to 1s. 3d. per lb.; 1,426 chests at 11d. to 11½d. Shipments to Shanghai for the fortnight are 31,000 packages, making a total to date of 188,500 packages against 218,000 last year.

KIUKIANG.—Black: Three chops had been settled at about former rates, and about fifty chops had been shipped to Shanghai on native account. Quotations were—Ningchows, Tls. 18 to Tls. 19; Hohows, Tls. 17 to Tls. 18 nominal. Green: The Teamen have at last been induced to show musters, and two chops had been settled at about Tls. 36, but this was hardly sufficient to establish market rates, Teamen generally preferring to send their produce to the Shanghai market for sale, to which place twenty-six chops had been forwarded.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs. Drysdale, Ringer, and Co. report as follows:—Black Tea: Settlements since the issue of our last report are 9,000 chests and 14,000 half-chests less than during the previous fortnight; buyers have not been so numerous, and in the absence of active competition, holders have been compelled to accept lower rates. The larger part of the fortnight's business has again been in fair to medium kinds, costing say Tls. 19 to Tls. 21, some of which show good value. Fair to good Hohows have also been in some request at Tls. 17 to Tls. 19, whilst common Shun-tams have been neglected, holders asking Tls. 14 to Tls. 14.5 for Teas pence per lb. inferior, to the first crop of this class, advised by telegrams, as sold at 10½d. Supplies have not come forward so freely, but have been somewhat in excess of the quantity taken, thus increasing the stock to about 55,000 chests, of which, it is estimated, 20,000 chests are Shun-tam packed. Export is nearly 12 million pounds in excess, and stock about 40,000 chests less than at same date last year. Prices:—Shun-tams have been taken to a limited extent at Tls. 14.0 to 14.5, common to fair Hohows at Tls. 16.0 to 19.0, fair to medium Oopacks and Ningchows at Tls. 19.0 to 21.0, whilst Tls. 22.0 to 24.0 has been paid for some of better quality. Oonfas, common to fair have changed hands at Tls. 18.0 to 19.0 per picul. These rates show a decline of Tl. 0.5 to 1.0 per picul on common, and fully Tl. 1.0 per picul on better grades. Quotations:—Hohows, common to fair, 10½d. to 1s. 2d.; Oonams, common to fair, 10½d. to 1s.; Oopacks, common to fair, 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 2½d.; do., fair to medium, 1s. 3½d. to 1s. 4½d.; Oonfas, common to fair, 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 2½d.; Ningchows, fair to medium, 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 2d.; do., medium to good medium, 1s. 2½d. to 1s. 3½d. Green Teas: We have to report a very large business, settlements amounting to 58,000 half-chests and 13,000 boxes. Finest maintain their high range of value and have been readily taken; demand has not been so active for medium to fine kinds, and we quote them Tls. 1.0 to 2.0 lower. Stock is reduced to 26,000 half-chests and 17,000 boxes. Pingsueys have ranged from Tls. 25.5 to 53.5; Fychows Tls. 30.5 to 36.0; Teenkais and Moyunes Tls. 38.0 to 40.5 per picul for chop of fair proportion.

FOOCHOW.—Congou: The better class of Teas, on which the demand had principally run, showed an advance of about Tl. 1 per picul, while the prices for all other kinds had been fully maintained. Arrivals from the country continued on a par with settlements. Arrivals 41,130 chests, and settlements 33,293 chests, at Tls. 4 to 21½. Quotations:—Dust and siftings, Tls. 4 to 8; broken leaf to ordinary, Tls. 8½ to 12; fair to good common, Tls. 12½ to 15; flavour to medium, Tls. 16½ to 24½. Souchong: A considerable business had taken place at previous rates. Arrivals 3,400 chests, and settlements 6,349 chests, at Tls. 15 to 20. Oolong: Since the opening of the market on the 26th August transactions had been on a moderate scale, and Teamen had shown more disposition to meet buyers.

AMOI.—Only about 6,600 half-chests of Oolongs had been settled, as demand had been light and buyers had been holding off for lower prices. Rates paid during the fortnight show no special change though the commoner grades were quoted at the close, rather easier. The fourth-crop Teas were arriving, and bid fair to be of good quality. The Taeping and the Stanley had sailed for New York, leaving the Star of China (full) and Ching Too on the berth.

CANTON.—Enquiry had been very much restricted for Scented Teas owing to adverse advices from London, but notwithstanding this, Teamen had made but slight concessions in late sales, being aware of and turning to their advantage the fact of their being at present four vessels on the berth for England. Greens had been moderately taken forth: Continent.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—An exceedingly large business had been done in this staple since the 19th August, and settlements amounted to fully 1,600 bales, of which Hanks as usual formed the bulk. Prices for Hank sorts up to the 26th August showed no change, but since then a decline of fully $30 per picul had been established, whilst Oshu kinds were very firm at last quotations; Hamatskis being about $10 per picul higher, a large parcel having been purchased at $700 per picul. Silk-worms' Eggs: Total arrivals up to date amounted to about 1,250,000 cards, of which 100,000 cards had been settled, buyers showing no anxiety to operate at the rates asked; prices without change. Silk quotations (including all charges in Yokohama and London, and 3 per cent. loss in weight, exchange 4s. 6½d.):—Hanks, Mybush and Sinehu, best, 27s. 6d. to 28s. 6d.; medium, 24s. 6d. to 26s.; inferior, 20s. to 23s. 0d. Oshu, best, 29s. 6d. to 31s. 3d.; medium, 26s. 9d. to 28s. 3d.; inferior, 24s. 3d. to 25s. 9d. Coahu, best, 27s. 6d.

SHANGHAI.—The following is from Messrs. C. J. Skeggs & Co.'s circular:—We have had a large and unexpected business during the last fortnight, the Chinese anxious to reduce their stocks held out inducements to foreigners to ship on joint account (which was readily accepted by many), at about last English mail's rates, for all Silk except chops, on which there has been a decline of Tls. 10 to 20 per picul. Settlements amount to about 3,000 bales, a large proportion of which is on native account and consists principally of chop's and the better classes of Tsatlee. The following are a few of the prices paid:—Koo-fong-sing and Chooching for No. 3 only, 29s. 10d.; Yakee No. 3 with usual assortment, 29s. 4d. to 29s. 7d.; Dragon, 29s. 4d. to 29s. 7d.; Cock and Worm, 29s. 1d.; Incense, 28s. 1d. to 28s. 4d.; Blue Flag, 26s. 6d. to 26s. 9d.; Golden Lion No. 1 and 2, 27s. 6d. and 26s. 6d.; Kukee Chin Jan, 26s. 3d. to 26s. 6d.; Blue Elephant, 26s. 3d.; Red Peacock, 26s. 0d. to 26s. 3d.; Medium 4 to 4½ Tsatlee, 24s. 11d. to 25s. 6d.; Common and 5 Tsatlee, 24s. 2d. to 24s. 8d.; Ordinary Gnanling Kahing, 25s. 3d. to 25s. 9d.; Thrown, 25s. 3d. to 25s. 9d. At the close the market is much firmer and dealers are now unwilling to sell unless at an advance of Tls. 5 to 10 on the above quotations.

STRAITS PRODUCE.

SINGAPORE.—Tin had gradually advanced and was firmly held for $34.75, though no sales had been made ever $34.50; supplies had been small and there was a good demand. Gambier very scarce and wanted. Contracts at $3.05 to $3.07½, but dealers asking more. Black Pepper nominally worth $11.50 to $11.75 per picul, none being procurable. White Pepper: Small arrivals and sales at $17.50 to $18 per picul. Pearl Sago firm at $2.95 per picul, being in fair demand. Sago Flour: sales of Singapore at $2.52½ to $2.55, of Borneo at $2.57½ to $2.60, and of Sarawak at $2.60. Tapioca in request, Flake $4 to $4.12½, and Pearl $3.80 to $4. Coffee: a sale of 200 piculs Bontyne at $14½ per picul. Bally worth $12.75 for unpicked; stocks cleared of all descriptions. Buffalo Hides advanced, best descriptions worth $10½ to $11 per picul. Cow Hides: Sales at $16½ per picul. Gutta Percha: Sales of first quality at $72½ to $75 per picul.

PENANG.—A fair business had been transacted, more especially in Tin and Pepper. Tin had advanced to $33.60 per picul. Black Pepper had been in small request at $11.80 to 12.25, and White found ready buyers at $19 to 19½.

The troops brought home belong to the 1st battalion of the 10th Regiment, 175th Regiment, and the Army Hospital Corps, the whole of whom embarked at Hong Kong on the 31st August, the Sarpedon sailing on the following day. During the voyage one soldier of the 1st battalion of the 10th Regiment died on board.

A TELEGRAM has been received at the Admiralty from Suez, dated October 22, stating that the Iron Duke had passed through the Suez Canal without impediment, and would sail again on the 26th for the China station.

(For Mail Shipping and Latest Telegrams see p. 775.)

Telegrams announce the departure of the steamer Enterprise from Shanghai to Tientsin with her London cargo, and it may be assumed from this that business was in a fair state of activity.

A meeting of the joint committee, which was recently appointed to take into consideration the framing of bills of lading for the Far East, will be held to-morrow, when it is hoped some definite arrangement may be arrived at.

THE FRENCH COLONY OF SAIGON.

WE cannot read the latest advices from Saigon without congratulating our French friends on the evident zeal and singleness of purpose with which they are addressing themselves to the task of developing their colony in Cochin China, a country of vast extent and great resources, in which they may justly claim to be the pioneers of civilisation, commerce, and progress. Our readers will not fail to remember that, at the time of the distressing war between France and Germany, we animadverted in severe terms on the injudicious and narrow-minded policy which led to the temporary expulsion of peaceful and honourable German merchants from the remote port they had done so much to render prosperous, and in which their interests were so closely bound up. We would fain hope that, in future wars (as, we suppose, war must be an intermittent fever as long as the world goes round) the representatives of the hostile nationalities in the Far East might be exempted from the sufferings involved in the disputes of their respective Courts at home. Petty triumphs like the expulsion of the Germans from Saigon not only show a mean and paltry spirit, but, as the event has proved, they absolutely react to the disadvantage of the party that indulges in them. At the time when the Franco-German war broke out, Saigon was prosperous—her trade increasing, her relations with her Annamese neighbours daily extending, and her revenue giving signs of rapidly-approaching prosperity. Now she is perplexed, her revenue in disorder, and her trade embarrassed. To remedy this state of things two new measures have been taken into consideration, and one of them has already been adopted. This is the contract for the erection of inland steamers to make voyages six times a month to the richest of the outlying districts, supplying the natives with the productions of Western manufacturers, and bringing back produce in return. This is a truly noble idea, and we are so impatient for its success that we cannot disguise our regret that the necessary preparations are announced as being likely to require more than a year before they can be brought into working order. Surely the traffic might be commenced on a small scale by way of making a beginning, long before that time, if ordinary energy were used. Until this is done the trade of the port cannot advance, and the revenue consequently languishes. What seems to us to be still worse is that the paramount necessity of raising the revenue to "solvency pitch" has given rise to a scheme, which, with every disposition to allow our French neighbours to "know their own business best," we cannot but regard as part of a retrograde and suicidal policy. It is proposed to create a monopoly of the Arrack distilled from rice, of which such large quantities are now taken in Saigon as to employ no less than 2,500 stills. Of these, however, the vast majority are owned by Chinese; only 900 out of the 2,500 being conducted by the Annamese. It is, therefore, contended, as it appears to us, with justice, that to farm out such a manufacture as this would be to hand over the whole trade to the Chinese, and, in fact, to make Saigon a colony dependent for its revenue on Chinese enterprise instead of Annamese industry. It is quite beneath the dignity of France to entertain any such hand to mouth scheme; and, without venturing to dictate any method of raising the revenue, more in accordance with the views of modern political economists, we may be permitted to suggest that what is required might be obtained by the imposition of an Excise duty. This method would not have the damaging effect of a monopoly; when it had served its purpose, it could easily be laid aside; and its incidence would not press heavily on any part of the community.

ADVICES have been received in London by the present mail, announcing that the long line of railway from the town of Singapore to New Harbour, and embracing all the wharves, has, after six months' deliberation, been agreed to by the Legislative Council, in preference to the short line which was to terminate at the Tanjong Pagar Company's premises.

THE PORT OF BRINDISI.

The Times has published a letter from a correspondent, who signs himself "An Italian," which, in the midst of a great deal of common sense, contains not a little bombast. The object of the writer appears to be to promote the improvement of the port of Brindisi, so as to keep pace with the opening of the Mont Cenis Tunnel, and the requirements of a place which may be easily be made the key of the East, so far as passenger traffic is concerned. But, in order to do justice to Brindisi and Italy, it is necessary that something more than mere vapid boasting should be employed in favour of new enterprise in a city, which the Italians have ever neglected, and which they do not seem, even now, to have public spirit enough to develop. It is idle for the Italians to tell us that,—

Owing to a combination of vicissitudes almost miraculous, the world has come back to conditions almost analogous to those of the Roman Empire in its most glorious period, and that Brindisi must occupy in the Mediterranean that position which ancient Brundisium had attained in the best days of the Cæsars. From France, from Switzerland, from Germany and Austria, as well as from England and the whole North of Europe, the longest lines of railway communication converge upon Brindisi. If from Calais or from Hamburg a man seeks the shortest way to the Mediterranean or the Adriatic, he may certainly go across to Marseilles or Trieste; but if from those same ports he wishes to approach the Levant or the coasts of North Africa with the shortest possible sea voyage, he must take any train that will convey him to the Alps, cross those mountains above Turin or Verona, and hence travel along the Peninsula all the way to Brindisi; unless they are prepared to carry these enterprises out. And we know that the management of Italian railways has contrasted so unfavourably with that of their neighbours the French, owing to neglect, that nothing but a system of wholesale reform can ever be hoped to satisfy the public, or to allure capitalists.

The whole Peninsula and the whole of adjacent Europe are, therefore, open through Brindisi to the Oriental traffic; and, for instance, between London and Calcutta, the most expeditious as well as pleasantest route is that which, from Calais and through Paris and Macon, goes across the Great Alpine Tunnel down to Turin, Bologna, and so on to Brindisi. Now, what have the Italians, or their Government, or their railway companies done hitherto during these last eleven years to render the port of Brindisi available for maritime or commercial purposes? They have done some little dredging work, and they have constructed some little piers and jetties by the aid of which small steamers can come up to their moorings and land their passengers without the aid of tugs and boats such as are still used in the less civilised harbours of Genoa, Leghorn, or Naples. But vessels at all available for the Eastern trade, as, for instance, the steamers of the Peninsular and Oriental line, are still unable to approach, and must land their passengers, mails, and merchandise by the primitive contrivance of small boats. All the works of docks, dry docks, and graving docks, warehouses, storehouses, workshops, and other establishments necessary for repairing or refitting vessels, are either in the most deplorably backward state or have not even been commenced. Add to this that at Brindisi, as at all other Italian ports, such onerous and still more vexatious harbour duties are exacted that the Peninsular and Oriental Company alone, for instance, is mulcted to the amount of £2,500 yearly.

The writer proceeds:—

If we inquire with whom lies the blame of the remissness of the Italians in profiting by the advantages of their geographical position, we shall be answered—first, that the finances of the country are in a deplorable state; secondly, that the Italian Government is a convert to the ideas of the laissez-faire school, and thinks that everything connected with trade and industry should be left to private enterprise; thirdly, that while native enterprise in Italy is still dormant owing to want of intelligence, of a proper spirit of association, and, finally, of capital, foreign enterprise has been so often disappointed, and, not to mince words, swindled by Italian bad faith, that capital has become extremely shy of the peninsula, and is not to be had except on the most exorbitant charges and upon the most substantial securities.

This is plain speaking without doubt; and the cause is almost sufficient to justify the writer's tone. "There is no doubt" (as he says) that—

Commerce must and will take care of its own interests; but it will do so in its own way and at its own convenience. It knocks at the gates of Italy, at Brindisi, for a free and commodious passage; but if it finds the gates closed, if Italy will do nothing to meet its advances, it will have to turn away and seek other channels, go back to Marseilles or Trieste, till such time as by the Euphrates Valley or some other line new communications are thrown open between East and West.

With all the Italian railway companies, and especially with the southern lines, the prosperity of the port of Brindisi is a first condition of existence. What hope can there be for a line which from Ancona runs along the coast through such backward districts as those of Teramo, Chieti, Trani, Bari, &c., unless it has an emporium at its end at Brindisi, that will make it the great highway of the world? It would seem as if the Società delle Strade Ferrate Meridionali alone ought to be equal to any expense necessary for the accomplishment of the Brindisi harbour, and as if it could confidently look for a very ample return for every penny invested in it.

There is great truth in all this, but we must confess that we think it hardly prudent or in good taste to wind up an appeal to English capital with such a vain and egotistical peroration as the following. The writer seems wholly unconscious that the reason why Brindisi has been neglected till now has been the impracticable nature of the Italians; and that such arrogant iterations of the "greatness" of his country, and such rapid boastings (as if the world were made for Italy, and not Italy for the world) as the following are only likely to frighten away the capital it is "An Italian's" object to attract:—

That long-neglected port of Brindisi is a link in a great chain the two extremities of which stretch from the furthest East to the extreme West and North. That trade of the Levant which was in the Middle Ages an Italian monopoly, and which the genius of the Italians themselves, the Genoese Columbus, the Florentine Vespucci, and the Venetian Cabots, diverted to the Atlantic to the profits of other nations, comes back to them now, thanks to the enterprise of those very nations which have so long stood in the light of the Italians, and taken the lead out of their hands. The canal across the Isthmus of Suez is a work which seems chiefly intended for the benefit of the Italians, and Italian railways are in the main the result of Transalpine enterprise.

THE REV. GRIFFITH JOHN ON CHINA.

This gentleman, who has for many years—we believe about fifteen—laboured as a missionary of the London Missionary Society in China, chiefly in the neighbourhood of Hankow, on the Yangtze, gave a lecture at Swansea (briefly noticed in our last issue) in connection with the Congregational Union.

Mr. John said:—In the first place, you should have some idea of the difficulties with which we have to contend in our efforts to evangelise China. There is the language itself, one of the most difficult to acquire, standing at the threshold, and nothing can be done until it is mastered. Then there is the terrible pride of the Chinese. You must live amongst them to have anything like an idea of it. One of the principal reasons why the Chinaman rejects the Gospel is this pride. The Gospel does not come from China, and therefore it cannot be true; or, if it is true, it is some small insignificant truth pertaining to us as barbarians. Then look at the conservatism of the Chinese. The conservatism of England, as compared with that of China, is radicalism itself. It seems to me that the Chinese have their heads turned in the wrong direction; they look backward instead of forward; every eye is upon the dead past; and in order to make progress they must have their heads turned round. They would drive every one of us into the sea to-morrow if they could. Why? Because they are afraid of these new things that we are introducing—our steamers, railways, and telegraphs—which they think will tend to upset everything, and deprive the Confucians, including scholars and mandarins, of their influence, and almost of their bread and cheese. Confucius is the great saint of China, and a very worthy and great man he was, and for a heathen a very good man. But though a man, they worship him as if he were God, and they commit all his works to memory. A Chinese scholar is more thoroughly versed in the books of Confucius than we are in the Bible by a long way. It is estimated that there are a million of people who could reproduce the whole from beginning to end. Then their faith in the completeness of his teaching shuts their eyes against all other teachings. You have no idea how they quote Confucius against every doctrine that we advance. Then I might mention also the weakness of the religious instinct in the Chinese. A Chinaman goes about his religion in a very different way from what we do in this country. He thinks very little about his soul, but infinitely more of his body—infinitely more of a bowl of rice than of his eternal salvation. He is a thorough man of business, and never more so than in his religious exercises. He gives so much towards religion, and he expects to get so much in return, and if he does not he is very wrath with his God, and sometimes vents that wrath in not very polite terms.

Another difficulty with which we have to contend—and that is the opium traffic and the immoral lives of many of the foreigners in China. I do not speak of Englishmen alone, but foreigners in general. The conduct of Great Britain in reference to the opium trade is one of the most disgraceful things that can possibly be imagined. You know that our first war with China was brought about by the desire of one of the emperors to put an end to this trade. At the close of the last war, however, the Government was induced to legalise the traffic, and now opium smoking has become a general thing all over the empire, and they are indebted to us for that. When I went to China fifteen years ago the opium dens were all in the back streets and narrow lanes; but now you find them in the principal streets, and they are more common than the rice shops, and there is no disgrace connected with the practice as in former times. Just think of it. The Chinese pay for this miserable dirt, as they call it, to foreign lands £15,000,000 sterling per annum—that is, within £1,500,000 of the total sum they receive for all the teas and silks they export to every part of the world. I believe that the Chinese were a happier people before they saw the white man from the west than they are now. This is one of the great obstacles we have to encounter. As for the morality of our fellow-countrymen, there are some excellent men among the merchants of China, some princely, noble, generous men, as fine specimens of men as can be found anywhere in the world; but there is a great deal of wrong among the foreigners. What we want to see is the influence of Christianity upon these foreign merchants. Oh, that God would make every merchant abroad a missionary in his character and conduct!

Now let me mention the work that has been done in the face of these difficulties. In the first place, we have given in that most difficult language a glorious version of the blessed Bible. I have read that version very carefully, and I believe it gives to the Chinese as clear a view of Divine truth as your version gives to you. In the second place, we have created a Christian literature in the country. We have published about 700 different works. We have given them translations of some of our most popular works, and also original productions, in which I believe a great deal more than in those translations. We have also given them many scientific works which are of great value. In addition to this, the missionaries have conveyed a vast amount of information to the outer world. All our Chinese dictionaries have been composed by missionaries, and all the grammars; and now my friend Dr. Legge is translating the classics of the Chinese into English, and he is thereby shortening the labour of missionaries in learning the language by two years. Another thing: we have not only given books to the Chinese, but we have preached the Gospel largely in their country. During the last ten years we have preached the Gospel and distributed the Word of God in seventeen out of the eighteen provinces. About three years ago I went myself to some of the most distant parts of China, and made a tour of nearly 3,000 miles in company with my friend Mr. Wylie. We called at nearly all the cities and towns on the way, and we returned without having created any disturbance, or having been molested in any degree.

In the year 1853 we had not quite 500 pupils in our day-schools; we have now about 4,000. Native preachers in 1853, 19; we have now more than 360. Stations and out-stations in 1853, only 26; we have now more than 300. Converts in 1853, 351; we have now between 6,000 and 7,000 communicants. Contributions in 1853, nothing; at present we have about £1,000. Now, I think you will agree with me that we are making some progress in China—that the Gospel is not a failure in China. But these figures do not represent the actual amount of work that has been accomplished, for there are hundreds, perhaps thousands, around the various stations who have been influenced to a certain extent by the Gospel. We are saturating the minds of the people with stories of Jesus Christ, and filling the air with the music of the Cross. Then there is another important point. We are not able to say that we have many scholars, but I am glad to be able to tell you that some of our most zealous and efficient agents are some of the best scholars in the land. When I left Hankow last year we had a church there numbering more than two hundred, and among them were fifty women and thirty whole families. There were also eight or nine B.A.'s in the Confucian school, one M.A., and several undergraduates. Still, I do protest against gauging a spiritual work like ours by the number of converts. Depend upon it, we are doing our work; the Word is being sowed, and as truly as success now appears in Madagascar it will appear in China and in India. Madagascar is great, but China is greater; and you must be brought to feel that in order to pray as you ought to pray for China, and act as you ought to act towards China.

The population of Madagascar is, I suppose, between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000; but banish China from existence, and scatter the population over the globe, and every third man you met would be a Chinaman, and every third house you entered a Chinese house. The world is looking on, and the question is asked, "Can the Gospel change the Hindoos and the Chinese?" I believe it can. I want you to believe it can, and I want you to show it by contributing according to your ability, and by sending us genuine men to carry on this great work. Don't suppose that any sort of a man will do for a missionary, and especially for China and India. No, we must have your very best men, men with a great deal of humanity in them. Confucius said, "You cannot carve on rotten wood," and I believe you can never make missionaries of rotten wood. We want men of the very highest stamp, men who have something of the manifoldness of humanity, men who will make the natives feel that they are more men than Englishmen, Welshmen, or Americans. We want inspired men. No one honours this precious Book more than I do; but I think it would be almost useless for you to send that Book without the inspired man. But let us have the inspired Book and the inspired man to go along with it, and we shall conquer the world. There is one thing more we want. We want educated men. Let us have men of the very finest feelings and of thorough education, so that when they come in contact with heathens they shall feel that they are truly gentlemen. I would have every missionary be a Hamilton in metaphysics, a John Stuart Mill in political economy; I would have him know as much of protoplasm as Huxley, and as much about monkeys as Darwin. But still he must have a thorough theological training. This is an age in which men are brought face to face with the deepest questions of religious thought, and it is impossible for an inquisitive man to pass through this crisis without having his mind in doubt; but let the doubts go in the college, and not in the pulpit; in the college, and not in the missionary field. We have every respect for honest doubt, but I do know, by profoundest experience, that a man must believe in God and in the eternal realities of the eternal world, otherwise he cannot teach. I am going back to China, and that is the strongest proof I can give you that I believe in my work. I know the difficulties, but I really do believe in my deepest heart that it is God's work, that China is to become Christ's, and that I have something to do with it. I do not believe in my power, but I believe in what Christ has said, "If ye have faith it shall be," and, believing this, I shall go back to China and feel that I can face the difficulties and say, "Who art thou, great mountain? Before Zerubbabel thou shalt be made a plain."

THE Government Eclipse expedition, under the charge of Mr. Lockyer, left Southampton on the 26th inst. in the Mirzapore. Owing to the courtesy of the P. and O. Company everything—even to the smallest Leyden jars—was shipped safely, although the instruments, weighing four tons, all of them costly and delicate, only arrived at Southampton during the morning. The following gentlemen compose the expedition:—Messrs. Lockyer, Friswell, Moseley, Holiday, Lewer, and Davis, Captain M'Lean, Captain Tupman, Rev. W. Abbay, Dr. Thomson, and Professor Respighi.

Monetary and Commercial.

In the report of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company for the half-year ending the 30th June last the directors allude to the favourable results of the operations in that period, the "working account" showing a considerable decrease in the expenditure, and at the same time a very important increase in the receipts, as the "surplus" exceeds that for the first six months of 1870 by £38,559 5s. 7d. The balance in favour of the company on the "repair and renewal account" is £26,055 9s. 1d. The "insurance account" shows a balance of £930,173 13s. 9d., there having been no cause for outlay during the past six months. A dividend is recommended of £2 15s. per share, and a bonus of £1 15s. per share from the insurance account, making together £4 10s. Since the last meeting the directors have entered into an arrangement with Her Majesty's Government to convey a mail between St. Thomas and San Juan (Porto Rico) twice instead of once a month in connection with each of the company's Transatlantic packets. At the half yearly meeting of the company, held on the 25th, the chairman, in moving the adoption of the report, said that his prediction last year that the current year would prove as profitable as 1870 had been verified, and he believed at the close of the year that it would prove more favourable. There had been a reduction in the working expenditure. The company's property had suffered very little injury from the severe hurricane at St. Thomas's. The report was adopted.

At the meeting, on the 24th inst., of the Singapore Gas Company (Limited), the dividends announced in the report were declared, viz., at the rate of $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. per annum, less income-tax, on the preference capital, and at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, free of income-tax, on the original capital.

In moving the adoption of the report, the chairman, Mr. Stephenson, congratulated the shareholders upon the improved position of the company and the increased dividend payable. The accounts, he said, were very satisfactory, showing a decrease of £242 in the expenditure for coal, while at the same time the receipts for gas rental exhibited an increase of £78. The proceedings—which were brief—were brought to a close after votes of thanks to the chairman and directors, to Mr. Wells and the local committee at Singapore, and to Mr. King, the secretary, had been proposed, and unanimously carried.

The annual meeting of the Upper Assam Tea Company (Limited) will be held on the 31st inst., "for the purpose of adjournment sine die, pending important negotiations in the interest of the Company."

A meeting of the policy-holders in the European Assurance Society was held on the 24th inst. to receive the report of the committee appointed in July last. Negotiations for the transfer of the liabilities of the European to the New York Life Assurance Company had been in progress, and a proposed arrangement to this effect had been prepared, the terms of which were now submitted to the meeting and recommended for approval. In the course of the discussion it was incidentally stated that the deficiency of the European amounted to about a million sterling. On the part of the directors, it was stated that, although the offer under consideration was a good one, the board had received one from another office which was better. It was ultimately resolved that the subject be referred back for the joint decision of the directors and the committee, and the meeting was adjourned for a week.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Candia, which left Southampton on the 28th inst., was:—in gold—to Galle, £11,000; to Calcutta, £10,000; to Madras, £9,459; to Alexandria, £10,000. In silver—to Shanghai, £17,470; to Bombay, £54,950. Total in gold, £40,459; in silver, £72,420.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

The market shows but little alteration. Prices for medium kinds have been firmly maintained, but the finer grades have been in somewhat less inquiry, and have gone off at a slight decline on the rates quoted in our report of the 23rd inst.

At public sale, early in the week, 5,417 boxes and 78 half-chests new season's Pingsuey Green, per Ajax, were offered without reserve, on account of the importers, and all sold. Fine to finest No. 1 Gunpowder realised 3s. 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 3s. 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.; good to fine No. 2 Gunpowder, 2s. 10d. to 2s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.; good and fine No. 1 Imperial, 1s. 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s. 1d.; middling to good No. 1 Young Hyson, 2s. 0 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s. 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per lb.

On the 24th inst. 4,923 packages China, offered without reserve, were all sold. 1,900 packages Congou sold, chiefly old import, at 10d. to 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d., new season's Moning in boxes at 1s. 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 1s. 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. 640 boxes new season's Poochow Scented Orange Pekoe sold at 1s. 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. In addition, 1,996 packages new season's Green, per Priam and Sarpedon, were sold, and for several breaks of fine qualities lower prices were accepted. Moyune Gunpowder No. 1 sold at 3s. 7d., No. 2 at 2s. 8d., Young Hyson No. 1 at 2s. 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s. 9 $\frac{3}{4}$ d., No. 2 at 1s. 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 1s. 2d., Imperial No. 1 at 2s. 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s. 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ d., No. 2 at 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.; Ping Suey Gunpowder No. 1 at 3s. 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 3s. 5d., No. 2 at 2s. 2d., No. 3 at 1s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 1s. 11 $\frac{3}{4}$ d.; Imperial No. 1 at 1s. 8d., Young Hyson No. 1 at 1s. 8d. to 1s. 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per lb.

On the 26th 1,569 half-chests and 108 small boxes new season's Moyune Green, per Sarpedon, were offered without reserve, and all sold. Compared with the previous sales this week fine and finest qualities brought full prices, but medium and common lines sold irregularly, and frequently below valuations. Moyune Gunpowder No. 1 sold at 3s. 3d. to 3s. 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ d., No. 2 at 2s. 5d. to 3s. 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ d., Young Hyson No. 1 at 2s. 0 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d., Hyson No. 1 at 1s. 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s., Imperial No. 1 at 1s. 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s. 1d. 1,028 chests and 687 half-chests new season's Moning Congou were also offered without reserve, and sold at steady rates at 1s. 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 1s. 6d. per lb.

SILK.

The periodical public sales took place on the 25th inst. The quantity printed was about 2,000 bales Bengal, 3,200 bales China, 800 bales Japan, and 1,200 bales Canton, with sundry parcels Thrown Silk. The whole was allowed to pass rapidly with even less than the usual small extent of bidding, except the Thrown Silk, which was chiefly printed to be sold "without reserve." The general market is quiet, but firm. All good medium China Silk is scarce and in good demand. Japan continues neglected, but Canton Silk is in full consumption. Deliveries continue good.

COFFEE.

Large quantities of Ceylon have been brought forward at the public sales during the week, but a good demand has been shown and a large business done both in plantation and native at an advance of 1s. to 2s. upon last quoted prices. The favourable result of the Dutch sale has tended to strengthen the market. The prices paid have been—Plantation triage 59s. to 65s., small grey 65s. 6d. to 66s. 6d., low middling grey and mixed 70s. to 72s. 6d., bold do. 72s. 6d. to 76s. 6d., small colour 67s. to 70s., middling 73s. 6d. to 78s. 6d., good middling 80s. to 82s. 6d., peaberry 83s. to 85s.; Native Ceylon small 57s. 6d., ordinary 63s., good ordinary greenish 64s. to 64s. 6d., good bold pale 66s.; privately a good demand has prevailed to-day, and business of some extent has been effected in Ceylon and other East India both on the spot and for arrival at very full rates, but particulars are not reported.

The Dutch Trading Company's October public sale was held at Rotterdam on the 26th inst., when 92,100 bags Java, &c., sold at 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. to 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. above the valuations, or about 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. to 3c. above the previous auction a month ago, good ordinary quality realising 40 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. to 41c., against 37 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. to 38c. in September. The following are the details of the sale:—

SUGAR.

A good demand prevails for brown qualities, and at auction supplies of some extent have been readily disposed of at dearer rates; the market for other qualities is unaltered. The following is a record of the business done during the week:—

PENANG.—In auction 1,540 bag sold—chiefly fine soft colour (duty 5s. 8d.) at 34s., good (duty 5s. 3d.) at 33s. 6d., middling yellow (duty 4s. 9d.) at 31s. 6d.; 692 baskets low to common, brown date sort (duty 4s.), were bought in at 22s. 6d. to 24s., except 102 baskets, which sold at 22s. 6d. to 23s. Of the portion bought in 450 baskets were subsequently sold by private contract at 22s. 6d. to 24s.; also 600 bags good quality at 29s., and 1,200 bags low pasty at 22s. 6d. to 22s. 9d.

MANILA.—There has been more demand for this description, and firm rates have been paid. At public sale 14,000 bags low clayed (duty 4s.) have been sold at 23s. 6d., and 5,000 bags at 25s. 6d. to 26s. 6d.; privately 6,300 bags common clayed (duty 4s.) have been sold at 24s. 6d., 6,000 bags good do. 26s. 6d., and 30,000 bags common brown (duty 4s.) at 23s. 6d. to 24s. The floating cargo per Lake Constance, about 28,000 bags Illo Illo unclayed September sailing, has been sold at 19s. 6d., floating conditions.

JAVA.—In auction 717 bags low Java syrups sold, sound 21s. to 21s. 6d., washed 20s. 6d. to 21s.

COCOA NUT OIL.—At auction Ceylon has met more demand and of 360 casks offered 151 casks, chiefly pipes, sold, very good to fine at £38 15s. to £39, hogheads £38 15s., puncheons £38 10s. Floating sales are reported 50 tons at £38 15s., and 50 tons at £39.

CUTCH.—800 boxes fine Pegue, of the marks GW and SM have been sold at 25s.; 770 boxes good Pegue Fish mark were bought in, sound at 25s. 6d., first class sea-damaged 25s., second class 24s. 6d., and third class at 24s.

GALLS.—Of 300 boxes China offered 120 boxes sold rather dearer at 52s. 6d. to 53s. 6d., chiefly 53s.

HEMP.—The market is firm, but little business has been done during the week; at auction only 213 bales sea-damaged Manila were offered and sold, first-class of fair quality at £48 5s. to £48 10s., mixed £44 15s. per ton.

PEPPER.—The market is firm, with business doing at very full rates.

RICE.—The market has been steady; White Bengal is firm and has been sold at 11s. 6d., good at 12s. 3d., and fine at 13s.; new Rangoon has realised 10s. 6d. full prompt and Moulmein 10s. 1½d., ex ship. Afloat the following sales are reported:—Tho cargo, per Florentine, 1,365 tons Necrasie late July sailing at 10s. 3d. Continental terms E contract; the floating cargo, per Amelia Ross, 540 tons, Moulmein June sailing, at 10s. 6d. for the Continent; the cargo, per Echo, 525 tons Rangoon, June sailing, at 10s. 9d. Continental terms; and the Aboyne, 620 tons Moulmein at 10s. 5½d., Continental terms, damages at valuation.

TIN.—Last week's quotations for Straits and Banca are maintained; deliveries are good, and the market is firm.

CASUALTIES.

The Minister Fransen van der Putte, Bouwmeester, from Batavia to Rotterdam, put into St. Helena, Sept. 22, and reported having experienced a succession of gales from Aug. 24, in lat. 34 S., lon. 31 E., to Sept. 6, in lat. 35 S., lon. 25 E., during which her decks were swept, bulwarks, sails, and two boats carried away, cabin filled, and rudder damaged; on Sept. 3 she was on her beam ends for fourteen hours, and threw sixty tons of coffee overboard. A survey had been held and the vessel recommended to unship to repair rudder, to caulk top-sides and deck, &c.

The Canton (barq.), Denneken, from Hamburg to Hong Kong, put into Table Bay, Sept. 16, for repairs, having been struck by a heavy sea, which carried away her bulwarks and stanchions.

The Aldebarron (Dutch ship), Meyboom, from Batavia to New York, put into Simon's Bay, Sept. 8, leaky, having experienced heavy weather; she was discharging for further survey.

The Yokohama (Amer. barq.), from New York to Batavia, put into Table Bay, Sept. 9, having been struck by a heavy sea, Aug. 28, which carried away bulwarks and wounded six of the crew.

Advices from Port Elizabeth, dated Sept. 15, state the Roska, from Penang to London, which put into Algoa Bay, July 26, leaky, was sold Sept. 6, as she then lay at anchor, realising £508.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

FLUTTERING OF THE HEART is a symptom of irregular action, and imperatively calls for instant attention. The disorderly beats of this primary organ may be a temporary inconvenience, or the certain prelude to ulterior mischief. These purifying Pills address themselves directly to the cause of palpitation, dispel flatulency, and regulate all derangements of the nerves and circulation, besides acting as general tonics and invigorators of the system. The feeble and infirm who are subject to flushings, faintness, and hysterical affections will derive permanent benefit from a course of Holloway's Pills, which reduce every vital action to order, not even excepting the brain, and its many sensorial offshoots. Perfect reliance may be placed upon these Pills as a family medicine.

PORT OF AMOY.

SHIPOWNERS, AGENTS, and COMMANDERS informed that the Dock Company's establishments at the above port afford every facility, at moderate charges, for REPAIRING and SPARRING VESSELS, cleaning and painting iron ships and steamers.

Their large Granite Dock has 286 feet length on the blocks, and at average spring tides can receive vessels of 16 to 17 feet draught. It has a scissor-gate and a powerful centrifugal steam pump, and an engineer's workshop fitted with lathes and tools, driven by steam; iron and brass foundries, boiler-makers' shop, a large smithy and carpenters and boat-builders' sheds. All superintended by resident Europeans.

Their two smaller GRANITE DOCKS can receive, at spring tides, vessels drawing 12 feet.

Spars, timber, and other Dockyard material kept in stock.

Quarters for officers and a DRY GODOWN for stores of vessels under repair.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

Our advices from the Japan ports by this mail are of no later dates than those brought by the Pacific mail steamer Arizona, and published in our last issue.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

The London mail of July 28 arrived out on Sept. 12. Dates now extend to the 15th Sept. :—

The following items are from the North China Herald :—

At the Supreme Court a rule was heard in regard to a sum of about Tls. 10,000 in the hands of the Court, which is claimed by the trustee on the bankrupt estate of William Hargreaves, and the trustees under the bankrupt's marriage settlement. A motion was made by the trustee on the estate to have the amount handed over to him, on behalf of the creditors, and an order had been made by the Court calling on the settlement trustees to show cause why the motion should not be acceded to. Mr. Robinson appeared for the estate, and Messrs. Rennie and Harwood for the trustees under the marriage settlement. Mr. Rennie opened the case, and claimed that £2,048 of the sum in Court, proceeds of furniture, should be held for the marriage settlement trustees, inasmuch as the original investment of £2,048 had been so settled, and it had by no subsequent dealing become alienated from that settlement. Mr. Hargreaves was examined, and Mr. Rennie having submitted his case, reserving the privilege of replying, Counsel for the trustee under the bankruptcy contended that the original fund was destroyed, and that if any settlement existed it was created since 1865, and therefore void, under the 91st section of the Bankruptcy Act of 1869. Judgment was reserved.

In addition to the new coinage just issued from the new Mint at Osaka we understand that a $5 gold piece is in course of preparation, and the smaller silver pieces are wanted. Japanese enterprise has had a fresh development in the direction of paper mills, several of which are expected from America. Hitherto the Japanese have been able to produce very good paper, but only in small sheets.

Tientsin letters to the 9th say that the water on the east and west plains had, during the past six days, fallen two and a-half to three inches. The river water still flowed into the plains, the gaps not having been filled up, nor does it seem likely that this will be done until the river becomes much lower, which will be the case about the end of October. Sailing boats and canoes are the order of the day. Steps were being taken for the distribution of the 80,000 piculs of rice placed at the disposal of Li-hung-chang. The weather continued hot both day and night, and sickness was pretty general amongst the natives. A flock of wild geese were heading south on Sept. 1; last year the first flock going in the same direction was seen on Sept. 24, very shortly after which cool weather set in.

The foundation has been laid of the new church at Ningpo. It is to be built on the river bank, nearly in the middle of the foreign settlement; it is to cost $2,000, and is to accommodate about fifty people—fully as many as are ever likely to occupy it. Our correspondent thinks it a pity that the liberality shown by the residents in subscribing to this new building is not extended to the roads and jetties. An attempt was made lately to raise a subscription of $1 per month from the foreign residents, to keep these at least clean; but it somehow fell through, and they have reverted to their normal condition of dirt and disrepair.

A singular action was tried at the Civil Summary Court on the 8th September. Captain Harley, of the ship Harmon, sued Mr. C. Ball, his chief mate, for detaining the vessel at Foochow while a dispute about 100 poles, more or less, was being settled between the ship and the shipper. The demurrage incurred by this loss of time amounted to $80, and the captain deposed that he included the sum of £18 as a reasonable estimate of the expenses and loss for the two days' detention. The defendant said he had only agreed to pay the actual expenses of the ship, about £3 a day, and the judge finally awarded £4 a day with costs. We are quite at a loss to understand the principle on which this action was brought, and still more so as to the law by which it was decided. So far as we are at present informed, the whole affair seems to be a libel against the common sense of the captain and the intelligence of the judge. There is no sort of proof before us that the mate behaved otherwise than as a faithful servant, and if he did so the proceedings against him savour of persecution.

The North China Herald has devoted a supplement to the reproduction of Baron von Richtofen's very interesting letter on the provinces of Chekiang and Nganhwei. Extending as it does to more than thirty columns, and every sentence bristling with information, it would be quite idle for us to attempt any abridgment or condensation of the Baron's paper in such limits as are at our disposal. We must, therefore, content ourselves for the present with commending it to the perusal of our friends, and thanking Baron von Richtofen for a very valuable and welcome contribution to our knowledge of the Far East.

THE JOURNEY INLAND OF THE REV. J. MAHOOD.

The Rev. J. Mahood has published an interesting account of his experience of the Shan-sin-fan placards and their effects in the neighbourhood of Foochow, which we summarise.

Some time ago inflammatory placards, containing the vilest calumnies against foreigners, were circulated in Foochow, to excite the people against us. The first victim to the malice of the enemy was an unfortunate seaman who happened to sit by a well in one of the villages in the suburbs of the city. He was accused by the people of poisoning the water, and was afterwards beaten. After this the people seemed to be satisfied when they had shown their contempt for the foreign barbarian, and things seemed to be quiet again. Believing this I resolved to visit the city of Kucheng, where we have one of our most important stations and where heretofore we have had no disturbances. On the 29th of August I started from Foochow, and proceeded safely on my journey until twelve o'clock the second day, when I was attacked by a number of villagers, who threatened me with death if I did not leave the place immediately. After passing a night of great anxiety, we proceeded on our journey, passed over some very high mountains, and at four o'clock in the afternoon we met a man from Kucheng, who told us that our chapel had been pulled down the night before. This information rather startled me. I stood and paused for a moment to think what was best to be done. At last, when I thought that I was in the path of duty, and believing that in the Providence of God I should be protected, I determined to go and see the Christians and try to cheer them in their trials. As it was getting dark when we were drawing near Kucheng, I thought it better to stop at a small inn for the night, and enter the city in daylight.

When we approached the city, all things seemed to be quiet; and I was permitted to visit both our own chapel and that of the American Episcopal Methodists, without molestation. Having transacted some mission business, and witnessed the ruins of the chapels, I committed the people to the care of God and started for Angtong. Here I was surrounded by a mob which continued to increase; and having armed themselves with all sorts of knives and weapons, they placed a guard round the house, so that I could not make my escape. I resolved several times to make a rush through their midst and try to escape, but the Christians gathered around me and entreated me not to do so, as the people had determined to kill me if I ventured out in the dark. I took their advice and remained in the house all night. The chair in which I rode was smashed by the mob during the night, to show their ill-feeling towards me. After having passed through the dangers that surrounded the party, I arrived at Chuikan, where some thousands of people assembled around me and tried to throw me into the river, but fortunately we got safely into the boat and kept a little distance from shore. The soldiers who came to guard me, when they saw me surrounded by a mob cursing and using all sorts of vile language, compelled me to give them most of the money I had with me, and when I was in the greatest danger they fled from me and left me to do the best I could. When the news reached Amoy of the disturbances in Canton arising out of the reported spread of poisonous pills there, the people in this place manifested in the first instance very little feeling on the subject. An intense excitement burst throughout the town, placards were freely posted in all the prominent thoroughfares describing the pills, and referring to the proclamations as their authority.

The rumours spread like lightning from Amoy to Chin-chew, a large prefectural city north of this. Placards of the most offensive character were posted, in which it was stated distinctly that foreigners were the prime movers in all this atrocious scheme for the wholesale destruction of the people, and of course that the Christians were the natural allies and agents in the distribution of the pills. One of these placards, contrary to the usual practice, was actually printed, and the name and residence of the publisher ostentatiously affixed. The rumours spread also to Changchow, another prefectural city, thirty-five miles west of Amoy. The district magistrate of the city puts out a proclamation, stating that he had received a letter from one of the mandarins in Amoy on the subject of these poisonous medicines. He warns the people against the bad men that are spreading them abroad, and tells them to strictly guard their wells, as the most infamous designs are afloat to injure and destroy the people living within his district. Of course the excitement at once rose to fever heat. Two days after this another proclamation was put out by him, saying that he had seized a man who is one of a party of four, who have come to the city for the special purpose of distributing their poisons. This man has confessed that he got his medicines from foreigners in Macao, with express orders to poison the wells throughout the whole country. That he and the other three had done so and would have proceeded on throughout the empire had they not been seized by the authorities. A few days after this, the mandarin issues a proclamation stating what all the city knows by this time, that he has executed the criminal, and offers a reward to any person or persons that will seize and bring before him the other three. Amid all the excitement, and throughout this epidemic of placards in which foreigners are freely charged with the most abominable schemes for the destruction of life, not a single step, so far as I can ascertain, has been taken by the authorities to refute or repress the slanders that have been circulated far and wide. The Western Governments will be incurring a grave responsibility if this state of things is allowed to go on unchecked.

HONG KONG.

Dates extend to the 22nd Sept. The London mail of Aug. 11 arrived out Sept. 21.

On the departure of Mr. Attorney-General Pauncefote for England on leave of absence, the Daily Press has the following:—

There appears to be no doubt that it is the intention of the Government to appoint Judge Ball Acting Attorney-General, as mentioned in this paper on Wednesday. We protest in the most unqualified terms against this appointment—on principle; in regard to Mr. Ball individually, and in reference to existing circumstances in the colony. On principle, because it is contrary to all precedent for any one to hold briefs after he has been appointed to the Bench; in regard to Mr. Ball individually, because it is well known that that gentleman's health is such as often to interfere with the performance of his present duties; in reference to existing circumstances, because it is generally understood that we may shortly look for the arrival of another barrister, and there can be no valid reason against the appointment being given to Mr. Hayllar, whose experience and talents quite qualify him for the post. In order, however, that this might be done, it would be necessary that the Hon. Julian Pauncefote, the retiring Attorney-General, should stay a short time longer in the colony. What can be the reason of the present haste in that gentleman's departure we are at a loss to conceive, as we cannot help thinking he must be anxious to explain his conduct in reference to several matters of great public importance before going away, and must greatly regret leaving the Abdool Moosa case, in which he prosecuted as Attorney-General, while he held a brief in a civil suit closely connected with it in his private capacity, in the unsatisfactory light in which it at present stands. Upon this and some other matters of the same kind we are precluded from commenting at the moment: but there will be enough to say by-and-by.

With respect, however, to the appointment of Judge Ball as Acting Attorney-General, it is in every way undesirable and unjustifiable. If nothing else could be done, surely a licence could be given to one or more of the solicitors to practice at the bar. The Chief Justice, it is understood, objects to members of the profession practising in the two capacities; but surely it is a very far less evil—if evil at all—that a gentleman should practice as barrister and solicitor than as judge and advocate.

The general half-yearly meeting of the Chamber was held on Sept. 12 at the City Hall, the Hon. Mr. Ryrie in the chair. The chairman congratulated the Chamber on the success of their memorial on gambling. As to the very important question of Customs' cruisers, he had done all he could in the matter, and could only say that the Chamber must go into the thing thoroughly and entirely by themselves, as there was no prospect of assistance from the Government. He had been in this colony under four Governors, and four Lieut.-Governors, and certainly whatever faults they may have had with regard to the internal matters of the colony up to the present time, when anything outside the colony interfered with commerce, they had always exerted themselves in the matter, and Sir Richard MacDonnell had especially done so. Now, however, it appeared that the Government's hands were tied by strict instructions that such matters were in all cases to be referred to the Secretary of State. Therefore the Chamber must be the more energetic, and see if they could not relieve the colony from its present state of blockade.

In reply to a question from Mr. Pyke, the chairman repeated energetically that he had asked no information from the Government regarding Custom-houses, but that was the reply which he received. Well, what was he to do? Had the letter been marked private or confidential, he would not have referred to it. But on demanding the letter, in order to discover what its real meaning was, he was told that it could not be produced, as it was a "privileged communication," so of course he was shut up. A resolution was then proposed by Mr. Khan, to the effect that the incoming committee be requested to memorialise the home authorities with regard to the blockade of this port by Customs' cruisers. This was seconded by Mr. Sassoon, and carried unanimously.

Mr. Ryrie then asked for opinions as to the bi-weekly telegraph arrangement. It would cost about $60 a year more to each subscriber. The sense of the meeting appeared to be that it was undesirable to begin them at present, as enough was already being spent on the wire between Reuters and the commercial telegrams. Some dissatisfaction was expressed as to the completeness of the information forwarded, but there was only a general conversation on the subject which shortly dropped, and the meeting proceeded to the election of a committee, when the following gentlemen were returned:—Messrs. Pyke, Kahn, Buxey, Melchers, Sassoon, Arthur, Hitchcock, Lowcock, and Hon. P. Ryrie. The proceedings closed with the re-election of Mr. Ryrie as chairman, and the election of Mr. Kahn as vice chairman.

By the steamer Petiko, from Manila, the first and second mates of the Cingala, bound to New York with teas from Whampoa, which was reported lost, have arrived. The vessel was lost on the Palawan Reef; all hands, however, have been saved. The following is the chief mate's version of the loss:—Left Hong Kong 28th July, and experienced N.E. winds for two days, steering S.E. by S. to clear the Macclesfield Bank; afterwards experienced heavy S.W. winds veering to S.; thought to make the Mindon Straits, wind still holding from the southward and S.S.W. Thursday, Aug. 10.—The ship, while under topgallantsails, jib, and staysails, grounded on the Petro Seco Reef, off the Island of Poutod, west one quarter from Tabio. Used all means and made every exertion to get the ship off, but to no purpose. Nothing appeared to avail, the mate of the ship left and went to San Jose to procure assistance, and the steamer Lolo came, bringing the Surveyor for Lloyds, Mr. Ker, and the captain of the Lady Constance, who held a survey on the ship, and finding her bilged, saw no other course but to save all that could be, and leave her. This was accordingly done, the crew remaining fourteen days with the vessel, taking out what cargo they could get at, and then stripping the vessel of everything, sent the goods to Tabio. The crew and first and second mates then left her, as by this time she was flooded at high tide; the steamer Lolo not being able to render any more assistance, returned to Tabio, and took in her the officers and crew; no lives were lost.

Mr. N. B. Dennys, the acting secretary of the Hong Kong Pier and Godown Company, issues a notice that the first call of $25 per share has been made.

We understand that Mr. Douglas, the able jail superintendent, has been made a justice of the peace, and that the appointment will appear in the Gazette.

SIAM.

—o— BANGKOK.

We are indebted to the Weekly Advertiser for the following:—

Business is unusually dull. The steam rice mills must be working to a very great disadvantage. The price of paddy and rice in Bangkok is remarkably high. The serviceable Siamese ships are most of them absent on their usual annual trip to China; a few more are still in port, and if they expect to make a favourable monsoon going and coming, must soon leave. On Sept. 6th there were only two foreign vessels in port; Sept. 6th, 1868, there were thirteen foreign vessels in port; Sept. 6th, 1869, there were twenty-seven; Sept. 6th, 1870, there were thirty-three foreign vessels loading. This comparative statement of the amount of foreign vessels in the port of Bangkok for the past four years places the business transactions of this year in a most unfavourable light.

It is whispered about in certain circles that the Siamese Government is making preparations, and expects soon to send to Batavia a brass elephant, and quite a quantity of decorations for distribution to the people of Java who participated in the reception of his Siamese Majesty during the late royal visit. The brass elephant is to be put up at one of the places of public resort, to serve as a reminder of his Majesty's visit. It is likewise whispered that the Siamese steam brig of war, the Enemy Chaser, Captain E. C. Walrond to be despatched to Batavia for this purpose.

Captain T. S. Andrews, an American, reports that while his vessel, the Dolphin, loaded with fire-wood, from the East Coast, was passing up the short cut Paklat creek, nearly through, his vessel was boarded by un-uniformed natives, armed with clubs, who took possession of the Dolphin, and attempted to take her back through the creek, but, owing to the strong flood tide, that was impossible. After bringing the Dolphin through the creek, they anchored her in the river. Captain Andrews has reported the case to the United States' Consul.

The steamer Rangoon will soon commence to run regularly between Bangkok and Singapore, and a new steamer of about 700 tons burthen, in process of construction on the Clyde, to be called the Tanah Merah, is designed for the same line.

The Malay Prince, Tungko Mahomed Araffin, we learn, will leave Bangkok in the Siamese steamer Chow Phya, on her return trip to Singapore. So far as we can learn, the Siamese Government rendered him no assistance in his efforts to secure full and adequate compensation from the Sultan of Tringanu for the performance of his duties as the Envoy of that Sultan and bearer of the Sultan's despatches and presents to Her Majesty the Queen of England and his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. It is whispered about that his Excellency, one who has been an Ambassador to European Powers, thought that when the Sultan of Tringanu paid $1,700 that was sufficient, and that the Sultan's Envoy had no right to demand more!

So poor Prince Tungko Mahomed Araffin leaves Siam in disgust. As the prince is a subject of the Netherlands East India Government, it remains to be seen if they will use their good offices to secure him an equitable remuneration for his original outlay in fulfilment of his duties as the Sultan's Envoy, and the subsequent losses and expenses necessary to receive that equitable remuneration.

We learn, from a reliable source, that this Malay prince is a son of her Highness Princess Salaman, and the grandson of Puduca Sri Sultan Gundansah, of Munko Munka, Bencoolen, Sumatra.

Dr. Campbell, who has been Consular Physician of Bangkok since 1857, being about to resign his office, was entertained at a dinner at the Consulate on the 28th Aug. Mr. T. G. Knox, H.B.M.'s Consul-General, in the chair. Dr. William Campbell, a cousin of the retiring physician, will succeed to the appointment.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

—o— SINGAPORE.

Dates extend to the 30th Sept. The London mail of 25th Aug. arrived out on the 25th Sept.

The following items are from the Daily Times:—

On examining the "amended scale of police establishment and salaries" we find the following alterations as compared with the present staff:—

Annual increase of expenditure, $27,603. Total numerical increase of the Police force in the Straits, 36 men, divided as follows:—Singapore, 7 constables; Penang, 1 assistant superintendent, 19 corporals, 7 constables; Malacca, 2 corporals.

In Singapore an inspector-general on $4,800 per annum, replaces a commissioner at $5,454. Inspectors' pay to be from $720 per annum to 1,500, in lieu of from $180 to 1,200. Sergeant-majors' and sergeants' pay to be from $180 per annum to 540, in lieu of $144 to 240, and one sergeant-major and three sergeants to be European. Corporals' pay, five Europeans at $420; 36 natives at $120, instead of 41 at $108. Constables' pay from $72 to 96, instead of from $66 to 84.

In Penang and Province Wellesley, two superintendents at $2,400 and 2,880 replaces the deputy commissioners at $1,636.44 to 2,400, and an assistant superintendent at $1,800 is added. Inspectors' pay from $600 to 1,200, in lieu of $240 to 900. European sergeant-major $540, European sergeant $480; native sergeants from $180 to 460, and corporals at $120, in lieu of sergeants and panghulus varying from $60 to 190.92. Constables' pay from $60 to 84, instead of from $54.48 to 70.92.

In Malacca, one superintendent at $2,100 instead of a deputy commissioner at $1,636.44. Inspectors' pay $840 and 1,200, in lieu of $654.60 and 840. Sergeants from $180 to 360, instead of from $108 to 180. Corporals all at $120, instead of from $81 to 96. Constables from $60 to 84, instead of from $60 to 78.

The division of classes remains nearly as before, as well as the numbers in each. The principal increase of pay is to inspectors, sergeants, and corporals, and it is proposed to appoint a very small number of Europeans in these classes.

A robbery was committed on the night of the 28th September of bank-notes, to the amount of $3,000, from a desk in the office of Messrs. Burjorjee, Khodabud, and Co., in Commercial-square. The numbers of the notes are not known.

We learn that his Majesty the King of Siam has fixed the 15th of December as the date of his departure from Bangkok on his visit to Calcutta. His Majesty's visit to Singapore has evidently instilled into the minds of his nobles a desire for some of the material comforts of civilised life; and the pleasant drives they enjoyed here have induced them to patronise our carriage-builders and horse-dealers pretty extensively. The Chow Phya takes, we hear, a number of horses by the present trip.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

SHANGHAI.—There had been a lifeless market for piece goods generally during the week, but lately the northern advices of a gradual subsidence of the floods, and the arrival at Tientsin of the inland traders in numbers, together with telegraphic advices of stronger markets at home, had tended to increase the confidence of importers, who were very firm for the extreme rates quoted in our last report. This refers more especially to all classes of Grey Cottons. The same cannot be said of Woollens, which, with the exception of Camlets of favourite class and good assortment, had been very difficult to move. Grey Shirtings, 8½ lbs. Dewhurst's Eagles, had touched Tls. 2 for ordinary delivery, and Red Pheasants had been sold to a speculator at Tls. 1.95 per piece. The advance in the other and more ordinary chops was not so marked, but they were more firmly held for corresponding values; 7 lbs. had been in better request at higher rates, but heavy goods continued neglected. White Shirtings: Lower prices were offered, but sellers as a rule refused to accept them, and hence almost no business had taken place. Small inquiry for 56 reed and 63 reed and 64 reed at Tls. 1.78 to 1.83, Tls. 1.87 to 1.93, and Tls. 1.97 to 2.03 per piece respectively. T-Cloths: Demand for lower counts of 6 and 7 lbs. makes had continued unabated, but business had been restricted owing to the enhanced ideas of sellers. Sales to a small extent of Mexican quality of both weights at about last quotations had been effected, and a few 8lb. goods had changed hands at a slight decline. Drills: English and Dutch were again dearer and firmly held for a still further rise. The fine to finest makes seemed scarce and continued in demand at improving prices. Tls. 3.15 offered and refused for a parcel of best 15lb. English fabric—to arrive by an early steamer. American Drills: A private sale of some 500 bales—sea-damaged—at an average rate of about Tls. 3.25 indicated a much better feeling in the market for this description. Jeans saleable at last quotations. Sheetings: Quieter market and prices favoured purchasers. Fancy Cottons: Of Turkey-Red Shirtings small lots had found buyers at about last mail rates, and Scarlet Chintzes had been wanted, but the prices offered generally had been too low to induce settlements. Assorted Chintzes in trifling request at last quotations. In other Fancies, with the exception of white Spotted Shirtings, which were in very light stock, there was no noticeable alteration. Woollens: As above intimated, Camlets were the only woollen textile that had maintained their position, Tls. 13.60 to 14.00 per piece being the current values for fair to best quality and assortments. Sales of other woollen imports trifling, and quotations in all cases more or less nominal. Metals.—Iron: Nailrods showed a further fall of 5 candareens, and at this reduction buyers were holding off for a further concession; only 4,000 bbls. disposed of during the week, at Tls. 2.20 to 2.75 per picul. Bar Iron of inferior quality taken to the extent of 75 tons, at Tls. 1.90 per picul. Lead is inquired for, and buyers at Tls. 4.50 for L.B. Coal: All descriptions in good inquiry; stocks small, and arrivals few; Cardiff, from godown, firm at Tls. 11 per ton.

SARONG.—There had been little change in the market during the month; Grey Shirtings 8½ lbs., were quoted $2.52½; 7 lbs., $2.15 to 2.20; T-Cloths 7 lbs. $1.85, 6 lbs. $1.70, 5 lbs. $1.40; Irish Linens No. 150, $1.72; No. 120, $1.65.

BATAVIA.—There had been little or no change in the market, which, continued to exhibit a depressed tone in the face of heavy arrivals. Cambrics: 45-inch by 12 yards; demand for fine qualities subsided; quotation f.4.40 to f.4.50 per piece, medium commanding f.4.30 to f.4.35, and ordinary f.4.20 to f.4.25, one month credit; fair quality, No 30s. f.3.25 to f.3.30; 36s. f.3.50 to f.3.75 per piece. Shirtings: White, 40 yards 45-inch, moved off slowly at f.10 to f.10½; 41-inch not sought after, and quoted f.8½ to f.8¾; 35-36-inch 64-66 reeds f.8 per piece, all one month credit. Grey: 38½ yards not in much demand; 39-inch 7lb., f.6¾; 8lb., f.7¾ to f.8½; 45-inch 8lb., f.7½; all one month credit. Maddapollams: 24 yards; Dutch lower; 33-34-inch White, f.4.50 to f.4.65; 40-41-inch, f.5.90 to f.6.10; with but slight demand. 34-35-inch Grey placed at f.5 to f.5.15; 43-44 inch at f.6 to f.6½, credit. English Grey 3lb., f.2.75 to f.2.80. White Ship, f.2.75, credit, demand being but slight.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

SHANGHAI.—There had been a large business transacted in Black, and the market was very firm for any Teas above very common quality. Common Shongtams taken at Tls. 14 and common to fair Ningchows at Tls. 18½ to 21½. Settlements, &c., 20,000 chests, stock 38,000 chests. In Green also there had been much activity, and all finest chops were eagerly taken for America. Buying for England had also been more considerable, and a striking decline in the value of Pingsueys had induced operations in them for that market. Settlements, 20,000 ½ chests; stock, 23,000 ½ chests. Export to Great Britain to date, as compared with that of last season, showed an excess of 12,400,000 lbs. Black, and 800,000 lbs. Green Tea.

FOOCHOW.—Generally there was no new feature to notice in this market for the past week. The nature of home advices had not favoured large transactions at the ruling scale of prices. Congou: No alteration in the fast price, and though the stock was heavy, natives showed no disposition to accept lower rates. The bulk of the week's settlements had consisted of fair common to low flavoury. Total arrivals for the season 491,000 chests, against 409,850 chests at the same date last year. Settlements during the week 11,271 chests, at Tls. 4 to 21. Arrivals, 15,110 chests. Souchong: Settlements during the week 1,063 chests, at Tls. 15 to 25. Quotations unaltered. Arrivals, 600 chests. Oolongs: The weakness noticed in the last report had resulted in a small business at slightly easier rates. Total arrivals to date 156,800 half-chests, against 117,500 half-chests at the same date last season. Arrived during the week 7,600 half-chests; settled 4,630 half-chests, at Tls. 19½ to 27½. Scented Teas: Settlements during the week 2,440 boxes, at Tls. 17 to 19. Flowery Pekoe: Settled 564 chests, at Tls. 24 to 36.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—The market was quiet, about 150 bales having been settled since the departure of the English mail. Prices firm and unchanged; No 3 Tsatlee, Tls. 570 to 580; Red Peacock, Tls. 507 to 510. Arrivals from country were becoming very small, and the unsold stock was estimated at 5,000 bales.

DEPARTURES.—Nov. 1, from Cardiff, for Hong Kong, India; for Shanghai, Elizabeth Dougall; 2, from London, for Bangkok and Siam, August Friedrich; from Liverpool, for Singapore, Sumatra; 3, from Liverpool, for Singapore, Nor; for Ilo Ilo, Conference; 2, from Cardiff, for Hong Kong, Johanna Maria; from Sunderland, for Shanghai, aragon; Oct. 30, from Cronstadt, for the Amoor, Colibri.

LAID ON.—At London, for Yokohama and Hiogo, Thracian; for Colombo, &c. (via S.C.), Burmah (str.); for Rangoon and Colombo (via S.C.), Commissariat (str.); at Liverpool, for Yokohama and Hiogo, Oceana; at London, for Batavia and Sourabaya, Thomas Blythe; at Liverpool, for Manila (via Suez and Singapore), Buena Ventura (str.).

SPOKEN.—Catharina Elizabeth, Amsterdam to Macassar, Oct. 27, off the Owers; Acacia, London to Colombo, Oct. 29, 43 N., 9 W.; Slic-drecht (?), for Macassar, Sept. 23, 10 N., 25 W.

CASUALTIES.—The Wallace (N. G. brig), Mitchell, from Shields to Singapore, has put back from off the Humber, with loss of anchor and chain. A telegram from Greenock, dated Nov. 2, states that the Zadkia (str.), from the Clyde to Yokohama and Hiogo, was aground at three quarters flood off Dumbarton, but with the assistance of tugs has been got off.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, AND DEATHS.

BIRTHS.

KARBERG.—On the 20th Sept., at Hong Kong, Mrs. P. Karberg, of a daughter.
MARTEN.—On the 1st Nov., at Tarrabang House, St. Germain's-place, Blackheath, the wife of W. T. Marten, Esq., of a son.
RALTENBACH.—On the 23rd Oct., the wife of G. Raltenbach, Esq., of Paris, of a son.
ROBERTSON.—On the 26th Sept., at Osborne House, Singapore, Mrs. Robertson, of a son.
TIDMAN.—On the 1st Nov., at Mentone, the wife of P. F. Tidman, Esq., of a son.
WILD.—On the 26th Oct., at Foo-chow-Foo, the wife of Charles Augustus Wild, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

GODDARD-WILSON.—On the 5th Sept., at Her Britannic Majesty's Consulate, Yokohama, Japan, John Goddard to Isabel, widow of the late George Saxby Wilson. No cards.
WRIGHT-SHOUL.—On the 16th Sept., at Christ's Church, Canton, by the Venerable Archdeacon Gray, M.A., William Trezevant Wright, Esq., Commander of H.L.C.M. gun-vessel Felbow, to Mary Dewstee, eldest daughter of James Sholl, 40, Great Coram-street, Russell-square, London.

DEATHS.

DE HOYOS.—On the 30th Aug., at Macao, Don Francisco de Hoyos, of Cadiz, Spain.
GILL.—On the 9th Sept., at the Chaplaincy, Shanghai, Annie Kate, infant daughter of Henry Scott Gill, Esq.
SEARF.—On the 30th Oct., at Grove-road, Surbiton, Edith Marian, infant daughter of B. Powell and Victoria Searf, aged four months and a-half.
LEAF.—On the 1st Nov., at his residence, Woodlands, Clapham-park, in the fiftieth year of his age, William Ladler Leaf, Esq., of Old Change, London.

It is with the greatest satisfaction we learn that Bishop MACDOUGALL has been appointed to the Canonry in Ely Cathedral, vacant by the death of the late Archdeacon YORKE. Among Colonial Bishops, Dr. MACDOUGALL has been highly distinguished, and we feel sure that all our readers who have been in a position to appreciate the results of his labours in Borneo will join with us in congratulating him upon this recognition of his services. It only remains for us to express the hope that his health, shattered by long years of hard work in the Far East, may soon be restored.

TRIAL OF THE P. AND O. STEAMSHIP "PEKIN."—The preliminary trial of the screw steamship Pekin, just completed by Messrs. Caird and Co. for the P. and O. Company, came off on the Clyde. The Pekin is of 3,750 tons gross measurement, 400 feet over all; 42 feet beam, and 36 depth. Her engines are of 600 nominal horse power, and her fuel-space 1,000 tons. The arrangements for passengers consist of the great saloon, the state rooms, and the bath-rooms, and of the latter there are twelve constructed of marble. One hundred and eighty first-class passengers are provided for, besides fifty-six second-class.

LAUNCH OF A P. AND O. STEAMER.—On the 30th ult. Messrs. Caird and Co., Greenock, launched a large screw steamship, named the Peshawur, of 3,750 tons, for the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, and intended for the Indian passenger and mail service. This is the fifth steamer built on the Clyde this year for the same company. The Peshawur has been fully described in a recent issue of this journal.

The following appointments to the China Station are notified from the Admiralty:—Commanders—N. Osborn, to the Elk, when recommissioned; J. B. Barnett, to the Hornet, when recommissioned. Lieutenant—Eustace D. Maude to Ocean (additional for disposal); Staff-Surgeon—George B. Hill to Ocean (additional for disposal); Acting Assistant Surgeon—Scudamore H. Powell to Iron Duke.

A LARGE and interesting collection of fine specimens of Japanese lacquer, porcelain, bronzes, embroideries, ivory carvings, &c., is now on view at Messrs. Christie, Manson, and Wood's great rooms, in King-street, St. James's, and will be sold to-morrow, and following days. This important sale will afford a rare opportunity to purchasers of Japanese art manufactures.

THE GOVERNORS' REPORTS FROM CEYLON, STRAITS, LABUAN, AND HONG KONG.

We have received the "Reports showing the Present State of Her Majesty's Colonial Possessions," issued in the form of a Blue-book, and comprising the statistical returns of Ceylon, the Straits Settlements, Hong Kong, and Labuan, for 1869. We note with great satisfaction the improved system by which dependencies comparatively adjacent, or at least involved in common interests, are classified and collected into groups in these volumes, instead of being jumbled together, East and West, without any regard to order, as they used to be. At the same time we feel bound to repeat our old complaint of the unaccountable loss of time in compiling and publishing these returns. In our remarks on this point in our last issue we erroneously assumed that the papers were only just published; we find they were presented just at the closing of Parliament.

CEYLON.

Sir Hercules Robinson reports that the revenue for 1869 was £246,494, and the expenditure £881,373, showing a surplus of £65,121. The revenue of the colony, which in the previous year suffered greatly from the depression of trade and from the effects of a drought of unusual severity, by which the early rice harvest was almost entirely lost, recovered with the revival of trade, and under the influence of favourable seasons; the revenue in 1869 showing an increase over that of 1868 of £21,229. The expenditure for 1869, on the other hand, shows a decrease of £93,577 from that of 1868 by reasons of reductions in public works and stores of no less than £97,197, which was effected in consequence of instructions from Her Majesty's Government that a surplus cash balance of £50,000 should be created to meet emergencies. There is a reduction of expenditure also under the head of Establishments, amounting to £5,482, owing mainly to the transfer of the telegraph department to the Indian Government. The results of the year have thus been to show that a somewhat larger economy was practised than was necessary to carry into effect the wishes of Her Majesty's Government, though, in addition to the ordinary expenditure of 1869, there was a further expenditure on Public Works of £79,431 charged against the balances of former years and surplus funds.

The assets of the Colony on Dec. 31, 1869, amounted to £522,732, and the liabilities to £383,219, showing a balance in favour of the Government of £139,513. Omitting some questionable items, the actual cash balance of the Colony available for appropriation on Dec. 31, 1869, amounted to £84,367.

The public debt of the colony consists of a loan of £700,000 raised on debentures at 6 per cent., between 1863 and 1867, for the construction of the railway from Kandy to Colombo. The successful working of the railway has rendered unnecessary the export duties imposed to provide for the interest and redemption of this loan. The sum at credit of the sinking fund at the close of 1869 was £228,300, and it was found that the profits of the railway alone were more than sufficient to meet the interest of the debentures and provide for the gradual extinction of the debt. The export duties were therefore abolished from the beginning of 1870; the receipts of the railway merged into the general revenue of the island, and that revenue has been charged with an annual payment of £58,000 for fourteen years, a payment which it is calculated will provide for the redemption of the debentures as they arrive at maturity. By this arrangement, besides the relief to the planting interest, the colonial revenue has been benefited by the accession of the net profits of the railway, which for 1870 were estimated at over £60,000, after meeting the £58,000 required for the sinking fund.

The value of goods imported in 1869, exclusive of specie, was £3,407,094, showing an increase of £3,106, as compared with 1868. There was a decrease of £142,141 on the exports, which amounted in 1869 to £3,331,921. Adding to these the specie imported and exported, the total value stands thus:—

	1868.	1869.
Imports	£4,403,177	£4,635,023
Exports	£3,786,721	£3,631,065

The total value of Ceylon produce exported in 1869 amounted to £2,989,876. The apparent excess in the value of imports over that of island produce is accounted for by the system of valuation adopted by the Customs Department. Imports and exports are both taken at their value in the market in Ceylon, the latter representing little more than the cost of production. If the exports were valued at their selling price in the markets for which they are destined, the excess would no doubt appear on the other side.

The revenue derived from imports and exports in 1869 was £291,061, showing an increase of £9,002 compared with the previous year. The increase on imports was £13,288, of which £5,428 was on cotton manufactures. On exports there was a decrease of £4,286. The tonnage of the year, both inwards and outwards, also shows a small decrease.

The total expenditure on public works in 1869 was £269,853, showing a decrease of £56,172 from 1868. Of new roads the most important was that between Badulla and Batticalao, forty-eight miles of which have been completed, the expense up to the end of last year being £38,449. Three bridges were completed last year, and three more were very greatly advanced. Among the principal public buildings completed during the year may be mentioned four hospitals, four court-houses, post and telegraph-offices, in Kandy; and a powder magazine and police barracks in Colombo, where progress was also made with additions to the jail, which, when completed, will contain 800 convicts. The total expenditure on irrigation works in 1869 was £13,727.

From the report of the Surveyor-General it appears that 4,420 lots, containing 28,831 acres of Crown land, were disposed of for £48,249, or at the rate of £1 13s. 5d., exclusive of survey fees; 1,818 lots, containing 6,991 acres, were settled on certificates, free grants, &c. The largest sales have taken place in the western provinces. The triangulation of the island made considerable progress.

The receipts of the railway amounted to £180,965; the working expenses to £72,500, leaving a profit of 6 per cent. on the capital cost of £1,800,000.

Eighteen ordinances were enacted in the session of 1869, the principal being to provide an uniform mode of oaths, to discourage the illicit sale of wine or spirits, to repeal export duties, to improve the Post-office, to permit the introduction of traction engines, to prevent the wanton destruction of elephants, to erect a lighthouse on the Great Basses Rocks, to enlarge the Welikade Prison, to consolidate the Customs Acts, to establish tolls, to regulate the possession of firearms, and to provide contingent charges.

The public health was exceptionally good during 1869. There was no remarkable prevalence of disease in any of the rural districts.

The number of schools supported by Government was 120. The returns of the different missionary bodies show an increase of 165 in the number of schools supported by them, and of 7,194 in the number of their pupils. At the end of the year there were 497 schools of all denominations, educating 20,243 pupils. Some approximation to a spirit of individual interest in popular education has at length begun to germinate in the resuscitation of the Kandy Industrial School (aided), the foundation of two scholarships by a former pupil, the establishment of a girls' school by Mr. C. D. Soysa, and the single-handed efforts of the Rev. Mr. Lenanyéke to support seven schools in his parish.

HONG KONG.

Lieutenant Governor Whitfield reports that the revenue for the year was £192,464, showing an apparent decrease of £43,810, as compared with 1868. In reality, however, there has been some increase, as credit was erroneously taken in 1868 for the sum of £55,659, arising from the play-house licences. The expenditure, amounting to £192,309, was much less than that of the preceding year; but this, as in the case of revenue, has arisen from exceptional causes, viz., the remittance, in 1868, of the then arrears of the military contribution, and the closing of the Mint in 1869.

The expenditure on public works amounted to £39,958. Of this £17,093 were spent on the Pokfoohun water-works, which yet remain unfinished, and may be expected to draw largely on the resources of the colony in 1870 and 1871, though, when completed, there will be no reason to regret the outlay.

The Mint has been effectually closed by the sale of the plant to the Japanese Government for $60,000. The buildings have been disposed of for $65,000; and thus the Colony has realised a total of $125,000 as the result of an outlay but three years previously of close on half a million.

As compared with 1859, the population would appear to have increased from 86,941 to 121,979 by the census of 1869; but the accuracy of the earlier calculations have been much questioned, and it is believed that the population has been pretty much the same for some years, viz. Europeans and Americans 4,889; Indians and others of mixed blood 2,810; and Chinese 114,280.

The number of emigrants would appear to have increased 9,408 over the previous year; but this is not from the colony, it is simply owing to the enterprise of the Pacific Steam Company, which has made Hong Kong the entrepot of passenger traffic from China to the United States.

The port being free, no reliable information can be obtained in reference to imports and exports. That the trade of the colony has greatly increased is apparent from the excess over 1868 of 45 British ships and 135 foreign vessels, exclusive of Chinese.

The grants of land during the year were trifling—only six lots at a yearly rental of £280, and one farm lot at Kowloon at a rental of £1. The outlay of nearly $200,000 in this locality is a source of disappointment, but the establishment of some docks affords some ground for hope that Kowloon may yet become of some monetary value.

The number of prisoners committed to gaol has been steadily reduced from 6,246 in 1865 to 3,059 in 1869, an improved state of things which is attributable to Sir Richard Graves MacDonnell's system of deportation.

It is much to be regretted that want of funds has prevented the erection of a new hospital or the improvement of the old one, notwithstanding the representations of the Colonial Surgeon and the necessities of the Europeans who are driven to claim medical relief.

The reports of the police, the schools, and the Post-office have lost all their interest, in consequence of the long time that has elapsed before their publication; and the same remark applies to the colonial surgeon's otherwise valuable report on the sanitary condition of Hong Kong.

We may mention, however, that Capt. W. M. Deane, Superintendent of Police, has not been able to resist the temptation to repeat his old arguments against Mr. A. J. Johnston, in reference to a letter from the latter gentleman which appeared in the London and China Express of the 8th July, 1869. The gallant Superintendent's powers of reasoning seem slower than even the other departments' power of compilation, and, as the subject he has endeavoured to revive was fully discussed and disposed of at the time, our readers would not excuse our bestowing more than a passing notice on Capt. Deane's experiment in political galvanism.

LABUAN.

Governor Pope Hennessy reports the revenue as steadily increasing, and the chief sources of it as secured until the end of 1873. The expenditure was well within the revenue, notwithstanding the additional cost of an armed police force as a substitute for troops. The local force will cost the Government of Labuan less than £3,000, instead of the expense of the two companies of Ceylon Rifles, which is estimated at £12,000 a-year. The general health of the population was remarkably good in 1869, though the troops suffered from a fatal disease called "beriberi," or "the bad sickness of Ceylon." The inhabitants are, as usual, contented and peaceable, and their trade extends every year.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS, SINGAPORE.

Governor Sir Harry Ord regrets the delay in forwarding the Blue-book, which he attributes to changes in the Colonial Secretary's department. The increase of revenue over that of 1868 was a little over $11,000, and, of expenditure, $43,000. The actual revenue was within $7,000 of what it was estimated at, which on $1,200,000 is but little more than half per cent. The expenditure was about 10 per cent. less than was estimated.

The Government was authorised to borrow a sum not exceeding $200,000 from the unappropriated deposits in the Supreme Court; but, the current revenue being found amply sufficient for the requirements of the colony, the privilege was not availed of.

There was an excess of expenditure in public works, chiefly owing to the building of the Government House. Considerable sums which had been set apart for other works, which could not be carried out, caused a saving of about $18,000 on the estimates.

Nineteen ordinances were passed during the year, chiefly relating to the preservation of peace and the suppression of dangerous societies.

The abolition of the Mint at Hong Kong having caused inconvenience from the scarcity of small silver and copper coin, a supply was obtained from the Indian Government.

The exports from Singapore rose from $26,670,989 in 1868, to $26,982,200 in 1869; from Penang from $9,629,475 to $11,372,923; and from Malacca from $1,693,392 to $2,228,199. The imports also rose in Singapore from $31,579,926 to $31,961,941; in Penang from $8,259,038 to $9,472,240; and in Malacca from $2,280,744 to $2,552,041. Thus the total increase on the imports of the Settlements was about 10 per cent., and of the exports upwards of 31 per cent. These results show the trade of Penang to be expanding more rapidly than that of Singapore. The trade of Malacca, always progressive, took this year a sudden and very large rise, owing to the extension of cultivation in the Settlement itself, whilst at Penang the favourable result is more due to the development of the trade with Sumatra and other neighbouring ports. The increase on shipping was hardly in proportion to the augmentation of trade, being greatest at Penang, where it was about 42 per cent. on ships entered, and 66 on ships cleared. At Singapore and Malacca it averaged 5 per cent.

PENANG.

Lieutenant-Governor Anson reports that the revenue showed an increase over that of 1868 of $9,869; at the same time the expenditure was less by $17,619. The most important consideration apparent from this result is that a considerable increase took place in the revenue of the Post-office, while, at the same time, its expenditure was decreased.

No works of importance were executed by the Government, but the town water-works were completed by the municipal commissioners at an expense of about $26,000; and considerable improvements were made in the drains and streets, and a new bridge commenced across the Pranjin river.

Although the exports compare favourably with those of 1868, they are less than those of 1867 by $1,743,448. The amount of shipping compares favourably with that of the preceding year, twenty-two more vessels having entered inwards, and the apparent falling off in the number of vessels cleared outwards being satisfactorily accounted for by an increased tonnage of no less than 84,455 tons.

The treaty made with Siam, by which an exchange of land was effected with the Rajah of Keddah, caused a slight reduction in the area of Province Wellesley. The land obtained from the Rajah is, however, more advantageously situated than that surrendered, and was already in demand.

The daily average of sick in the Government hospitals was greater than in the previous year; but the number of deaths proportionally less.

There were no symptoms of disquiet among the Chinese societies during the year.

MALACCA.

Lieutenant-Governor Shaw reports the revenue for 1869 as $123,626, being an increase of $14,716 on that of 1868. The expenditure amounted to $124,429, being a decrease of $23,257 on the previous year, owing to the reduction of expenditure in the public works, convict departments, &c.

The area of the territory of Malacca is 421,000 acres, or nearly 660 square miles. The coast line is forty-two miles in length, while in breadth the Settlement varies from four to twenty-four miles. It is estimated that 101,600 acres are under cultivation. The land is divided into Crown land, private property land held by prescriptive rights, and land held by commutation deeds or leases. A great prejudice exists among the natives against taking out leases or grants, as they have an idea that they would be signing away their property, while, on the other hand, if they hold land on the prevalent system of paying one-tenth of the value of the produce, the land will still be theirs when the English give up Malacca—an idea of which it is impossible to disabuse them.

The military establishment consists of one European officer and 125 Madras native infantry. Considering that Malacca is surrounded by barbarous native States, the Lieutenant-Governor thinks this force too small. The cost of the detachment, irrespective of rations, was £2,311.

The value of the imports for 1869 was $2,552,041, showing an increase of $271,299 over the imports for 1868. The exports for 1869 were $2,228,199, being an increase of $534,807.

According to a rough estimate, the population of this Settlement was 67,267 souls, exclusive of military and transmarine convicts. The white population (many of whom have mixed blood) was returned at 1,445 males and 1,203 females, but these are included in the above total. Of the native or coloured races the great preponderance is with the Malays; the Chinese are next (many of whom are semi-Malayan). Third in importance are the Tamils, or the "Klings," also many of whom are native born. The remainder of the population are a few Bugis, Arabs, and wild forest men known as Mantres, Jacoon, Orang Huitans, with a sprinkling of islanders from the surrounding islands.

The schools in Malacca are chiefly elementary, but they are not well conducted, the Malay teachers being too pliant, and the people being devoid of ambition, and utterly apathetic to all but sensual pleasures.

There are three prisons in Malacca; and a police force of 202 men, nearly all Malays or natives of India. They are entered for three years, and their pay is too small to be any inducement to enter the service. There being only two officers to 200 men is a drawback to their efficiency, but it is believed that, if called upon to act they would do their duty, if led by European officers.

MISSIONARIES IN CHINA.

(THE TIMES.)

England has been called a great Asiatic Power, and though this statement should not be allowed to absolve us from our obligations in the State-system of Europe, its substantial truth cannot be impeached. Our Imperial rule in India, no less than the immense commerce we carry on with all the nations of the East, makes it inevitable that we should have a decided and energetic foreign policy in Asia. There, other nations may afford to commit errors in judgment, for they incur no greater risk than the imperilling of some personal interests, or, at the worst, the injury of a limited trade. If France embarks upon a quarrel with Cochin China, or undertakes to punish the insolence of the Court of Peking, the worst of failures is of slight significance to a Power the interests of which are essentially European. Even the Americans when they invade the Korea can afford to retreat after a doubtful contest, without endangering any American possession or seriously disturbing the commercial relations of America. But with us the question is much more complicated, and our relations with China in particular offer peculiar difficulties which it will task the abilities of our diplomacy to steer us through with safety. The Chinese trade is so important an element in our national wealth that we cannot permit a semi-barbarous Government to oppress and coerce it, in violation of solemn covenants and treaties. Nor can we leave without hope of protection or redress the Englishmen who on the faith of those covenants and treaties have trusted their lives and property to the guardianship of the Chinese Government. Yet, in China it seems all but impossible to fix responsibility anywhere. When a popular outbreak occurs like that which lately appalled the European population of Tientsin, the Chinese Government is always ready to plead that the rising was local, that the Imperial forces were unequal to the task of maintaining order, and that reparation in the shape of execution done upon some ignoble rioters will be promptly tendered. If we are not contented with such apologies, which can always be concocted and repeated any number of times, we seem to have no resort but war, and war with China is a pre-eminently unsatisfactory operation. We have literally nothing to gain by it, for we want neither spoil nor territory, nor that cheap sort of glory which is to be won by beating ill-armed and ill-disciplined Mongols. Success has proved already more than once to be utterly barren, with the dubious exception of the advantages obtained for our commerce by the Treaty of Tientsin. But if success be barren, failure, even for a moment, would be, we can plainly see, fruitful in ruin. The blow to our commerce, terrible as that would be, must be accounted the least peril. The greatest, perhaps, would have to be looked for on the side of India. In the present temper of certain classes of our Indian fellow-subjects a disaster to our arms in the East might be the signal for an insurrection as formidable as that of 1857.

The satisfaction demanded by the European Powers for the outrages at Tientsin having induced the Chinese Government to send Chung How to Europe, it becomes important for us to see if our foreign policy towards China has been in any way based on unsound principles. Should there be any errors pointed out by experience in our past course, the present is a favourable opportunity for rectifying them. Although disturbances threatening the foreign residents have been growing lately to an alarming head in Southern China, the Chinese Government has hitherto kept them under some control; but the Ministers and officials have, at the same time, indulged in warning predictions, which are not very different from threats. It may be that the authorities at Peking are sincerely desirous to keep their town mobs from flying at the throats of the Europeans, but some day or other they may no longer care to keep the peace, or they may find the populace grow too strong for them. This is the danger that is really to be feared, and even if we could place implicit trust in the loyalty of the Chinese Government, it would be sufficiently serious. The animosity of the populace to the "foreigners" is all the more perilous because it is founded upon unreasoning superstitions, and is inaccessible to common sense. Unfortunately, the missionaries who represent in China the various sects of European Christianity have been more remarkable for zeal than discretion in their dealings with the people; and, still more unfortunately, the Powers which have obtained a footing in China by treaty have identified themselves more or less with these well-intentioned, but irritating, efforts at proselytism, and have involved the political relations of the Western Powers with the Chinese Empire in the loathing with which the Chinese regard the religion of the foreigner. France in this respect has erred most seriously, and has also suffered most severely. The Roman Catholic missions in China were not only under the direct protection of the French Government, as are the Protestant missions under our own, but the pretensions of the priests were fostered by France with an amount of irritating interference which we can well believe was found intolerable both by the local authorities and by the Government at Peking. The history of the massacre at Tientsin, as well as the record of former prosecutions of Roman Catholic missionaries in China, shows that the catastrophe in nearly every case has arisen out of political intrigues. In these we know Roman Catholic missions have been always ready to engage, and France has never been unwilling to help them or profit by them. We need only mention the French championship of the rights of the Latin Church at the Holy Sepulchre, which became one of the causes or pretexts of the Crimean War. Nor even now, after the terrible lesson of Tientsin, can we be sure that the French missionaries will cease to meddle, or the French Government to protect the meddlers.

Our own line of policy is very clear. The Protestant missionaries in China do not interfere with the people so persistently and annoyingly as those of the Catholic Church, but they sometimes make themselves troublesome enough to the authorities, and, unfortunately, a clause in the Treaty gives us a protectorate over them, which seems to make us as a nation responsible for their actions. By insisting on the retention of this clause, which not only galls the Chinese, but gives the French an excuse for extorting a more mischievous extent of privilege, we place ourselves in the position of the protectors and encouragers of proselytism—a position we do not attempt to assume in India, where we are not sojourners, but rulers. Supposing, however, the clause protecting the missionaries as such to be erased from the Treaty, we should still have the right to guard their lives and property as those of British subjects, and it is hardly fair to ask the Chinese for more than this. We are of opinion, therefore, that this clause of the Treaty should be abandoned, and, though concessions are of little avail to conciliate the unreasoning animosities of Asiatics, we should place ourselves in a better position for demanding redress in case of future outrages by doing full justice now. It would, however, be absolutely essential to obtain the co-operation of France in this matter, for unless the French Government ceases to extend special favour to the missions at the same time that we do, we shall gain little or nothing in the way of security or a clear conscience. If the Roman Catholic missions pursue their meddlesome intrigues, riots which the Chinese Government now predict or threaten will break out, and a Chinese mob, once roused, will not trouble itself to make a distinction between Catholics and Protestants, between missionaries and merchants. The restraint which is placed by the Peking Ministry on the populace in the ports is likely only to whet the rage of the mob, and in the meantime the Chinese armaments are growing to gigantic proportions. At any time it may suit the Government to let go the reins and loose the people on the foreigners; or Prince Kung's powers of coercion may fail. We do not wish to take an alarmist tone, but we should warn the country that our relations with China may at any moment bring us to the verge of war. The difficulties may be evaded by a skilful policy, but it would be rash to assume that a resort to a ruder arbitrament may not be forced upon us.

The following letter on the subject has been published in The Times, which upsets the arguments of the leader most completely:—

Sir,—Allow me to point out a misapprehension on the subject of the Chinese Treaty.

There is no clause in that Treaty protecting the missionaries as such. They are simply entitled to the same protection as all other foreigners, and in their protest against the late Chinese Circular on Missions they strongly object to being separated from the rest of the foreign community and placed under special restrictions. The misapprehension has arisen from the fact that there is a clause which provides that toleration shall be extended towards natives who may profess or teach Christianity. The clause reads thus:—"The doctrine of Jesus (Protestant) and the doctrine of the Lord of Heaven (Roman Catholic) teach the practice of virtue and the treatment of others as ourselves; henceforth all teachers and professors of it shall be protected." That this does not refer to foreign teachers is plain, because if this clause were cancelled they would have the same protection as before—namely, that enjoyed by all foreigners; but in so far as it applies to Chinese Christians it is to be hoped that Great Britain will never act so ignoble a part as to withdraw this testimony in favour of religious toleration.—Yours, &c.,

AN OLD RESIDENT IN CHINA.

Mr. H. N. Lay has also addressed a letter to The Times, of which we only give a summary, reserving comment for a future opportunity. Mr. Lay says:—"That we are on the verge of difficulties with China appears to be now admitted on all hands. That we shall ultimately overcome those difficulties may also be said."

dently affirmed; but the cost of our success must necessarily depend upon the course that we may be advised to adopt at the present juncture. The first thing, obviously, is to ascertain, if possible, our true position. What are the difficulties? Why have our treaties become a dead letter? I unhesitatingly say that the real cause of existing dissatisfaction is not in any way the result of the clauses contained in the Russian, American, French, or British treaties concerning the protection of religion and the ministers of the various denominations. This could, I think, be clearly shown by a consideration of the history of those clauses. In addition to which, I am in a position to state, as to the clause respecting missionaries, inserted in our treaty of 1858, that the attitude of the Chinese Government was one of indifference, and whereas objection was raised to other clauses, this particular clause was accepted without demur. To those unfamiliar with the relationship existing between the populace and the Manchu dynasty the part we took in connection with the Taeping rebellion is calculated to produce the most erroneous impression. The policy of providing ourselves with some guarantee that the assistance given would not in the end be turned to our own disadvantage seems not to have occurred to us. We furnished officers, supplied arms, lent troops, and, in return, satisfied ourselves with mere promises, which we now well know have never been fulfilled.

It is to be feared that nothing short of a massacre upon a gigantic scale will open the eyes of those to whom the direction of our affairs in China is intrusted. Their sole engrossing thought appears to have been the propping up of the Manchu dynasty. Treaty rights have been suffered to stand in abeyance, the most important provisions to be relinquished. But, while thus indifferent to our own interests, we have been studious in teaching the Chinese the art of war, liberal in our loan of British subjects for Chinese military and naval service, and have, it is difficult to say to what extent, supplied them with all the armaments and munitions of war.

The Blue-books of 1863 and 1864 reveal the mode in which the Chinese requited our services. Notwithstanding what we there read, an Order in Council was passed in July, 1864, constituting ourselves afresh the supporters of the Government against the people. The Tientsin Massacre has filled Europe with disgust, but that Order in Council still stands. We have fawned upon a dynasty as hostile to ourselves as to its own subjects, and we have taken up the sword against the people. Without our interference the people might have redressed their grievances, inaugurated a more liberal policy, and been induced to regard us with favour. All who have travelled in China have no doubt about the fact that the people themselves are well disposed.

"THE TIMES" AND THE MISSIONARY QUESTION IN CHINA.

(To the Editor of The London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—You have doubtless read the article in The Times of the 31st ult., in which the writer recommends that England should abandon that article of the Treaty of Tientsin which stipulates for the toleration of Christianity in China, and should seek to obtain the co-operation of France in the matter. I own I was astounded at seeing such a proposal made by the chief organ of public opinion in this country, and I could not refrain from addressing a letter to the editor upon the subject, of which I enclose you a copy that you may publish if you think fit. It was refused admittance into the columns of The Times.—I am, &c.,

M. N.

To the Editor of The Times.

SIR,—In the leading article in your issue of yesterday, in which you advocate the erasure of the 8th Article of the Treaty of Tientsin, you have in fact advocated the formal abandonment of the clause that stipulates for the protection of Chinese Christians by the Chinese authorities.

That Article is thus worded:—"The Christian religion, as professed by Protestants or Roman Catholics, inculcates the practice of virtue, and teaches man to do as he would be done by. Persons teaching it, or professing it, therefore, shall alike be entitled to the protection of the Chinese authorities, nor shall any such, peaceably pursuing their calling, and not offending against the laws be persecuted or interfered with."

Now our missionaries, being British subjects, are, ipso facto, extrajurisdictionalised, and are, therefore, safe from any legal persecution on the part of the Chinese authorities; but not so the native converts, for whose benefit accordingly it would seem that this Article was humanely framed. If, however, the step you recommended were taken, a persecution of native Christians would probably be the result, whilst our Minister and Consuls would, at the same time, be deprived of the power of effective remonstrance on this behalf which the Article in question now confers.

Such a renunciation, moreover, following on the Tientsin Massacre, would, I fear, encourage the mandarins and littérati to instigate other atrocious acts of a similar kind, with a view of still further restricting our privileges, and would thus precipitate the catastrophe you are anxious to avert. War with China, depend upon it, will be best avoided by an unflinching maintenance, not by a weak surrender, of our Treaty rights.

There is, I believe, no case on record of Protestant missionaries interfering politically in any way between the Chinese people and their rulers, but, unhappily, there is little doubt that Roman Catholic priests have done so, and that the French Government has, most ill-advisedly, supported them in this interference, and so endangered the safety of all foreigners in China. Effective steps, however, might I think be taken by the other Christian Powers, whose interests are thus jeopardised, to induce France to forego this protection, without any formal withdrawal of that Toleration Clause which is contained not only in the English and French, but in the Prussian and American, and, I believe also, in the Russian, Austrian, Italian, Spanish and Belgian Treaties.—I am, &c.,

LITERATURE.

So Very Human; a Tale of the Present Day. By Alfred Bate Richards. London: Chapman and Hall.

It is nothing less than a great achievement, and a great public benefit to boot, to strike out a new path in fiction—not only to think independently, but to express original thought in a new style—and all this we think has undoubtedly been accomplished by the author of the novel before us. Its pages are alternately pathetic, playful, earnest, sarcastic, and amusing. They are never dull, and they always command the sympathy of the reader. Freshness, vigour, and originality—a distrust of the wise saws, and modern instances of the high priests of modern politics, social science, and philosophy—and a confidence arising from the consciousness of power, are the main characteristics of the book. The chief object which the author appears to have proposed to himself is to move our laughter, our scorn, or our indignation, as the case requires, against quacks and pretenders of every description, and by holding these up to contempt and stripping them of the sham respect which obtains so much of the blind adulation of the world, to excite our sympathy for the ignorant, the destitute, and, the unfortunate, and to show how "very human" these despised creatures are after all.

This is a noble design, and it is thoroughly carried out. Colonel Richards's reflections on men and things, as the scenes he has imagined pass before him, will commend his book to those who admire short terse essay writing of the best kind; and ordinary novel readers will find their attention riveted by a very interesting story, and their sympathies engaged by some perfectly original characters—some of the most prominent of which they will have little difficulty in identifying among public men. The perusal of So Very Human will, in fact, be something like a waking dream of a visit "home" to our friends absent in the Far East, and, as such, we recommend them to put it on their library list.

The Coolie; his Rights and Wrongs. By the Author of "Ginx's Baby." London: Strahan and Co.

The author of this very interesting volume, it is no secret, is Mr. Jenkins, a barrister. In the opening pages he tells us how he was one day called on at his offices by two gentlemen representing the "Aborigines Protection" and the "Anti Slavery" Societies, and asked if he would go to Demerara and attend a Commission to be held there on the coolie system. In a week he was on board the steamer steaming out of Southampton Waters. The author's description of the manners and customs in the West Indies is well told, more especially as he seems to have been ill at ease in the sweltering atmosphere of the sugar estates. There is an inward chuckle always at the miseries of a man transported from London life to such a climate as the swamp of Demerara, with its mosquitoes, alligators, burning sun, and Sangaree drinks.

Nothing, however, is more conclusive in the reading of this book than that the unfortunate Chinese coolie much more than the Hindoo is not understood, and the laws made for his protection on the English scale simply make confusion worse confounded. The planters should instruct their agents in China to send with every cargo of coolies an Englishman who has been for some years in China and understands the peculiarities of a Chinaman. One such man (of course of known quiet and respectable character) would do more in straightening out the difficulties which the coolie finds on landing, and which he rebels against in passion and ignorance than all the managers and magistrates in Demerara. More regard should be practised as to the head men with each ship. There should be at least five Chinese of education, amenable to reason, and capable of exercising an influence on the ignorant masses. These men should be suitably treated on the estates, and facilities given for lecturing, teaching, &c., on Sundays, or other spare time, when the coolies are not at work. Most heartily do we endorse the author's statement that the contract should be looked on "as that of the ancient patriarchal times, like that of Abraham and his servants." No legal adjustments can be happy unless there is combined a spirit of generosity and kindness.

The following extract of the examination of a coolie will convey an idea of the condition of the Chinese coolie:—

In my own country I was a schoolmaster. I was well taught. I heard that people were going to Demerara, and I was asked to go. Agent told me that it was a nice place—many of my countrymen were going; over there they had plenty of work to do—plenty of money—would get rich; food was found at first, and a doctor if we were sick, and good wages. I was told the work was garden work; I thought that meant like our gardening in China. I did not think it was like the hard work in sugar fields here. I was told, if I came, I could soon get good pay as schoolmaster, and I hired as schoolmaster. There were others like me who came in the ship. There was a doctor, some schoolmasters, some tailors, and other people who were not labourers in the fields, and who all thought they were going to work at their own trades. When we got to Georgetown we were taken out of the ship and sent to a sugar estate. At first they gave us food and rooms in houses; the rooms were dirty and not nice. Then they told us to work in the fields; we did not like it, but we had to do it. If we did not work we were brought before a magistrate and fined or sent to prison. It was very hard for us. Some became sick. We could not earn enough to buy food from week to week. We had part of our bounty, but that was soon done. Some had given so much money to friends in China, and the manager wished us to pay it back, and took it from our wages. We could not bear it any longer, so we struck and came to Georgetown. We went to the attorney—he told us we were wrong and must go back. The police took us to carry us to the steamer, and several jumped into the water. They were taken out, and we went to Mr. —. He spoke kindly to us and sent us home, and after that they did not take our money every week. It was always very hard work. Several of my friends hung themselves because they were starving. When I was free I came up here; I want to go back to my own country.

The author has been painstaking, unbiassed, and conscientious, and with so difficult a task—holding as he did a brief for the coolies—it does him infinite credit. To any one interested in the question, and what resident in India or China is not, it is a most valuable book. We shall conclude with the following extracts:—

The number of immigrant depositors in the British Guiana Bank in June, 1870, was 1,817, their deposits amounted to $138,425, over $70 a head. The very large amount of silver, and even gold, worn on the persons of the coolie men and women is of course not calculable; but it is enough to convey an idea of a wide distribution of wealth. Much of this, no doubt, is the mere product of the indenture money, and not very much of it the result of regular earnings, as the rate of wages given by the Commissioners indicates. From papers submitted by the Immigration agent-general the Commissioners gather that in twelve ships which sailed with returning Indian immigrants between the 15th November, 1864, and the 11th November, 1869, 2,828 immigrants took away with them money acquired in the colony to the amount of $453,369, or £94,452. To the above estimate must be added 421 passengers, who embarked by the Ganges for Calcutta on the 10th September, 1870, carrying with them through official channels $47,438. This convoy we had an opportunity of inspecting before they set sail. There was one man, aged thirty-nine, with his wife and three children, all born in the colony, who took back $1,100 of his own, and $200 in the name of his wife. Another, with wife and two children, took $1,000.

The author, in his concluding remarks, says:—

Taking a fair review of the whole system it is one which, spite of its disabilities, its difficulties, its present evils, is full of promise, and in my belief can be made, with care and skill and honest endeavour, not only an organisation of labour as successful as any hitherto attempted, but one leading to almost colossal benefits.

Mercantile Tables Showing the Cost Value of all Principal Staples of Indian Produce on the Basis of First Cost. By Alex. Kalch. London: Effingham Wilson.

This is one of those valuable commercial manuals for which Mr. Effingham Wilson has a speciality. The present tables appear to have been compiled with great care, and they show at a glance the cost price of all kinds of Indian produce, laid down in London, inclusive of freight, insurance, exchange, and all other incidental charges. Besides this, the cost of the principal Indian staples consumed in China are calculated in the same way; and the result is a little volume which will be found of great service in the offices of China and Indian merchants, both abroad and at home.

The Battle of Sik-a-wei. Shanghai: Evening Courier Office.

This little brochure is an undisguised imitation of the kind of squib which was initiated in London by the notorious "Battle of Dorking," and which has since been "hunted to death" by every kind of would-be satirist at home and abroad. We must confess that "We have no stomach for these kickshaws."

We are old-fashioned enough to think that grave matters should be discussed in a grave manner, if they are to be expected to exercise any serious influence. Chili and Chutnee and Chow-chow, without any curry, are condiments that very soon pall on the taste when they are required to be swallowed by the spoonful (as Mrs. Squeers administered the brimstone and treacle at Dotheboys Hall) and followed by a tap on the head with the spoon. The "moral" of such writing seems to us to be capable of being summed up in "three words."

Macmillan presents us this month with such an excellent number that we should be tempted to break our rule and give the reader a foretaste of it by a few extracts, if our space did not interpose with a stern veto. The "Week in the West," referring as it does to Chicago, is painfully interesting at the present time. "Khismet" is a paper which will be read with interest by all who know anything of the Far East. Mr. Bryce contributes a valuable paper on "American Experience in the Relief of the Poor," and Mr. Hamilton a pleasant one on "Fifty Years' Residence in Ireland." "The Autumn Manœuvres" is a clever attempt to make the best of a bad business, and winds up a very readable number with much spirit.

Commercial Policy of France, and the Treaty with England of 1860.

At the present time, when the financial embarrassments in France, and the stagnation of manufacturers in England, have excited an equal desire on both sides the Channel for some practical review of the Cobden Treaty of Commerce, the Cobden Club have rendered good service by causing the present brief statistical summary of the trade of the last ten years to be published in a succinct and convincing form. The following brief extract will give a very good idea of the force of the arguments which the Cobden

Club are now employing to protect a system, which, nine years ago, it was thought impossible to assail.

It is generally assumed that the commercial advantages which have incontestably been gained by the economic reforms of the last ten years, have been attained at the expense of fiscal resources. This is the reverse of the truth. The falling off in the custom-house receipts is in France a most imperfect test of the effects of commercial policy upon revenue; for there, as is well known, some of the largest branches of indirect taxation—viz., the taxes on the greater part of the spirits, salt, and sugar consumed in the country, and the proceeds of the sale of tobacco—are all included under other divisions of the revenue, and must be added to the custom-house receipts, in order to establish a real comparison with former periods. In other words, the proceeds of the service of the "indirect contributions" must be added to those of the "service" of the customs. If this course is taken, the result is found to be as follows:—

Total Receipts of Both Services in 1859 and 1868.

	1859.	1868.
	Million francs.	Million francs.
Customs	228,455,000	144,564,000
Indirect Taxes	485,676,000	620,225,000
Total	714,131,000	764,789,000

From this comparison it appears that the French revenue from these combined sources has been increased by 50,000,000 francs, or £2,000,000, since 1860.

The policy of attempting to increase revenue by the imposition of new charges on the raw materials of industry, and upon manufactures, is condemned by the experience of every country under economical conditions similar to those of France. No tax can be at once protective and fiscal; it can only succeed in one direction in proportion as it fails in the other. And even if, by a careful equalisation of the taxes upon raw materials and upon their manufactured products, the protective element were to be removed, all such charges would constitute a direct burden upon French industry, which would have the double effect of restricting competition at home, by keeping small capitalists out of the field, and crippling the French export trade, thus cutting at the root of the industrial life of the country, and drying up one of the most important sources of national wealth and financial prosperity.

The example of the United States of America is sometimes adduced in evidence of the financial success which may attend such a policy. Such an appeal can only be made by those who are profoundly ignorant of the effects of that policy, effects so disastrous and oppressive that nothing but the vast territorial resources of the country could have enabled them to support. Let the pamphlet before us speak for itself:—

There has been a great decline in shipping, not only as regards foreign trade, but also in the coasting trade, of which the Americans have the monopoly, and in fishing tonnage. In the trade with Great Britain the entries were, in 1860, 924 American and 613 Foreign vessels; in 1869, 365 American and 1,394 Foreign. Mr. Wells states that in 1860 15,000 men were employed, in New York city alone, in building and repairing marine steam engines; and that in 1870 fewer than 700 found employment in this, which was one of the best paid and paying branches of American industry, and in which American artisans formerly excelled. This has happened, he says, in the face of a rise of wages in the same branch of English industry since 1863-4, by about 15 per cent., notwithstanding which, owing to improved machinery and better knowledge, the cost of construction has declined. From this Mr. Wells draws the inferences that within the last ten years the result of Protection in the United States has been to decrease the purchasing power of wages, diminish consumption, prevent exports, and increase the cost of the manufactured product; whilst in Great Britain wages have been increased, cost decreased, consumption increased, and exports largely augmented.

China's Place in Philology; an Attempt to Show that the Languages of Europe and Asia have a Common Origin. By Joseph Edkins, B.A., of the London Missionary Society, Peking. London, Trubner and Co.

This is a very valuable contribution to philological research, and must have been the result of much patient labour, combined with great natural love for the subject. Mr. Edkins is, as our readers know, a veteran missionary, who commenced the study of the Chinese language under the auspices of the London Missionary Society in 1847, and was soon after induced to devote whatever leisure he could command after the discharge of the special work in which he has since so nobly distinguished himself to the study and comparison of the laws of connection between the various dialects of China. From this beginning, the scope of Mr. Edkins's investigations expanded into the inquiries of which the volume before us is the epitome and result. It is a work which will commend itself to every student of the Chinese language, and which we can also recommend to those merely scientific inquirers who seek to lay open the germs and roots of philological principles. Mr. Edkins's frank acknowledgment of the obligations which he owes to the recent work of M. Stanislas Julien (already favourably noticed in these columns) is a proof of Mr. Edkins's desire to take no credit for any discovery that he has not made himself, besides being a graceful act of encouragement to a young and promising student from a veteran and accomplished scholar.

Art is simply admirable this month. The three principal illustrations are reproductions of the paintings of the Jeweller of St. Petersburg, and the Mystic Marriage, and a Sculptured Altarpiece at Fiesole. There is, moreover, a pleasing little group of vases of Messrs. Copeland's manufacture; and the literature which accompanies the illustrations is pleasantly written.

"THE TIMES" ON OUR CHINA POLICY.

ALL readers of The Times must have noticed that, from time to time, strangely tentative articles—articles whose tone is not only not in accordance with its previous policy, but apparently in direct opposition to the policy of the party with which it is acting for the time being—crop up in the "leading journal" in a very amazing and significant manner. All the world knows now what this means; but, although so easily seen through, these portents should not be disregarded by prudent persons whose interests are involved in the question under discussion. They resemble the cloud which foretells the coming storm; and, though that cloud may appear to be "no bigger than a man's hand," it must not be forgotten that, when that hand has a pen in it, and is directed by the Thunderer, the cloud gathers till it bursts—sometimes without injury, but seldom without effect. It is for this reason that we urge upon our readers the necessity of their putting out of sight for a time the facts that they are thoroughly acquainted with China, and that the writer in The Times (whose article we give in another column) knows little about that country; and that, remembering the great harm that may be done to English prestige by such an article published in such an organ, they should unite to disprove the allegations of its writer before the policy it advocates becomes the watchword of the Foreign Office, as (if precedent goes for anything in Printing House-square) it is pretty sure to be soon. Of course our friends will see that nothing could be more uncandid than the argument of The Times, even if it were not based upon entirely false premises. We, as a Protestant country, have nothing whatever in common with Roman Catholic France, in connection with China, except that the missionaries of both countries preach the Gospel of our Saviour in different ways. Protestant missionaries enjoy no sort of privilege, by treaty or otherwise, over the rest of their countrymen. They have no political immunity, and when they travel outside the Treaty Ports they have to apply for passports, like all other classes of foreigners. The writer in The Times must be badly posted up indeed in Chinese affairs if he seriously means to convey that the massacre of Tientsin was caused by political intrigue on the part of the unfortunate priests and sisters. Everybody who cares to know anything about the matter knows perfectly well that that brutal and shameless (and, we lament to add, unatoned) outrage was solely caused by the mandarins—first, by setting on a part of the rabble by appeals to their superstition; and, secondly, by withholding the troops under their command from the protection of the victims. As for the statement that the people of China, as a body, are exasperated against the missionaries, it is marvellous to us how such an assertion can be hazarded, even in The Times, in the face of such statistics of progress as were afforded in the Rev. Mr. JOHN'S address at Swansea, which we published in our last issue. Why, the fact is apparent that Christianity is growing in favour with the people every year, and that it is only the litterati, who foresee their power crumbling under its influence, who are now making a last and desperate attempt to banish it by placing our missionaries at the mercy of a clique of hired assassins, and undertaking not to resent any injury inflicted on them!

If we have not forgotten how to read, mark, and learn, this is the gist and pith of the unfeeling, unpatriotic, un-Christian, and (we must add) scandalous article in The Times. As for the special pleading of the writer as to expediency, it is of so flimsy a character that it may be dispersed by a few questions. Have any of those Chinese who were converts at the time of the massacre repudiated the doctrines by which they were convinced? Are not, on the contrary, vast numbers of the poor creatures, who are now suffering unheard-of hardships by reason of the floods, blessing the fact that missionaries are to be found in the land, not from religious persuasion, but from that admiration and gratitude which benevolence alone can elicit from the most prejudiced and savage? We deny, however, and unequivocally, that the Chinese population are, generally speaking, either prejudiced or savage. We feel assured that the Chinese are more anxious for the acquisition of truth in the abstract than any other nation under the sun; but the lower orders have been so cowed and "put upon" by the litterati and mandarins that they have been taught by severe experience to be, as SHAKESPEARE says,— and they are now waiting to assure themselves which is the stronger—the anti-foreign cabal at Peking, or the Governments of the Far West. It remains with our Foreign Minister to vindicate his claim to succeed with the dignity due to his country to the office so lately and worthily held by Lord PALMERSTON and Lord STANLEY. But we fear—we fear—and it is for that reason that we lose no time in drawing our readers' attention to the insidious article which we have degraded the invention of GUTTENBURGH by copying,—though our fault in that respect is not so unpardonable as that of our leviathan contemporary of Blackfriars.

JAPAN.

THE news by the last mail from Yokohama is a strange mixture of promise and disappointment, though on the whole encouraging. It is, as it were, the seething of a great nation fermenting in the action of civilisation, yet continually checked by the leaven of that kind of prejudice which is mis-called experience. As signs of progress we cannot but hail the establishment of the new Mint with great satisfaction; the issue of the new coinage has been so warmly appreciated that the demand has already far exceeded the supply. But the issue of coin by the Mint has placed the Government in a false position, forcing alterations in values, and causing much trouble and loss to foreign merchants. From January next no kinsats, or paper money, will be accepted in payment of duties. The pressure on the new Mint may therefore be easily conceived. The silk manufacturers have addressed a very becoming letter to the Chamber of Commerce; and, if they only act up to its tenor, it is not unlikely that the Japanese silk trade, lately so much depressed through adulteration and bad workmanship, may in time recover itself. The truth that Japanese silk has been shut out of the English market by reason of chicanery and adulteration seems to have forced itself at length on the attention of the manufacturers, and, if they are in earnest in the remedies they propose, it is possible they may regain the position they presumed upon until they lost it. The movement set on foot, to this end, is at least promising. Not less promising is the last edict of the MIKADO, in which he abolishes the Hans, or Federal territories, and converts them into Kens, or Imperial domains, in consequence of the continual neglect of their responsibilities by the Daimios, whom he has now superseded. In the face of these promising signs of progress, we regret to learn that the Yokohama Custom-house has paralysed trade for a time by refusing to accept duties in the form, and on the scale, in which they were formerly levied. "Piles of goods," we are informed, "are heaped on the Custom-house quay, detained there because their consignees refuse to admit the claims of the Government; and all the Consuls have made their protests to the Governors against the action of the authorities." Any such check as this, of course, is almost equivalent to a frustration, and more than an equivalent to a delay, of the introduction of those principles of commercial progress to which England owes her greatness, and her dependencies their prosperity. On the whole, we see hope largely predominating over fear in the prospect of our future relations with Japan, as revealed by the last mail; and, if the advantages we have gained were pursued, and the disabilities under which we labour were represented in their true light, and with a view to their removal, we doubt not that the activity into which our trade with Japan would suddenly be brought would be startling, even in these days of unexpected and surprising commercial progress in the Far East.

ANOTHER, and yet another, victim to the complacency of the Admiralty and the Colonial-office! The loss of the Malabar and her valuable cargo, and the wrecking of Lord ELGIN, in 1859, were not sufficient warning. Perhaps if Lord ELGIN had been drowned the result might have been different. Surely now the harbour of Galle will be made safe without further delay. The P. and O. Co.'s steamer Rangoon, just lost, was a noble steamer of 2,000 tons, only ten years old, and on her last voyage had made the run to King George's Sound six days in advance of her time. She was therefore giving great satisfaction, and her loss is much to be regretted, independent of the hole it will make in the company's dividends. We believe she stood in the company's books at £75,000. The following is a copy of the telegram received announcing the loss:—

"GALLE, NOV. 1.

"The steamer Rangoon, leaving for Australia at six this evening, struck a rock in clearing the harbour. She sank six hours afterwards. The passengers and crew were saved, and the mails partly."

Great surprise has been expressed at LLOYD'S and throughout the city at the peculiar character of this loss, and it is not readily understood what combination of circumstances can have led to so serious a catastrophe. The Cadda rock upon which the ship struck is not a mile from the harbour of Point de Galle, and its position is perfectly well known to every tyro in seamanship in these waters. Among the conjectures hazarded it seems most probable that the Rangoon, while under charge of a pilot, in order to avoid a sailing ship entering the harbour, may have veered out of her true course, and so run upon the rock.

In another column we publish a complete list of the claimants who were paid indemnification as British subjects—or on behalf of clients who claimed to be such—for losses sustained by the burning of Canton in 1856, and other acts arising out of the war known as the Arrow war. The total sum so paid to the present time amounts to $2,305,613, and a balance still remains in the hands of our Government of $483,786, making a total equivalent to two million taels, or about £650,000 sterling recovered from the Chinese Government. The perusal of this list will afford some amusement to those who were on the spot at the time of the war. In most of the cases no doubt there was lost property to represent the sums claimed, but in many it can be seen that "personal inconvenience" or some such commodity, must have represented the only property lost. Many claims were disallowed as frivolous, and some good stories could be told of how these were made up. The total amount of claims sent in amounted to $3,471,845.

THE introduction of the new ordinance for the employment of traction engines in Singapore is so ill-timed and so unreasonable as to excite general astonishment among late residents in the Straits. Every one who knows anything about Singapore knows perfectly well that neither the roads nor the bridges of that settlement are constructed to bear the weight of a 12-ton traction engine, and that the introduction of such vehicles can only lead to the damage, if not the temporary stoppage, of the principal thoroughfares, and a great increase in the expenses of the Public Works department. These facts are so well known that it is amazing that the project of employing traction engines at all should ever have been entertained, and especially that it should have been introduced at a time when the Legislative Council has disposed of the railway question by a vote in favour of the long line to include all the wharves, instead of the original proposition to run only to Tanjong Pagar.

THE Postmaster General has not yet completed the negotiations for the New Mail Service through France and the Mont Cenis Tunnel.

THE résumé which we give in the present number of the Rev. Mr. MAHOOD's experiences of the Shan-sin-fan intrigues must convince everyone that the time has at length arrived when the great question of missionary protection in the Far East must be definitely settled and set at rest. It would be unfair alike towards the missionaries, towards the cause of revealed religion, and towards the prestige of our country, to allow the present state of things in China to continue; and we hope that such a pressure will be brought to bear on the Foreign Office as will induce Lord GRANVILLE to frame such an ultimatum as will guarantee the safety of our missionaries and countrymen generally in the quiet performance of their duties, without the annoyance and danger to which they are now subjected by the placards and other sinister influences of the Mandarins.

THE P. and O. Company intend to despatch their new steamer Pekin on the 24th inst. to Hong Kong and Shanghai through the Suez Canal. The Pekin is nearly 4,000 tons, and will be a fine opportunity for passengers and cargo for Ceylon, Straits and China. The company also intend to put two steamers on the coast between Hong Kong, Amoy, and Foochow, in addition to the present service to Shanghai.

OUR friends in Ceylon will be gratified to learn that the affairs of their colony, which have so long been regarded as possessing no interest for general readers in this country, have at length attracted so much of the attention of The Times as to induce that journal to re-publish the statistics of coffee cultivation, &c., which recently appeared in the columns of the Ceylon Observer.

THE Gazette contains a notification that Vice-Admiral Sir H. KELLETT, K.C.B., now Naval Commander-in-Chief in China, has been placed upon the retired list. Our readers are aware that Sir H. KELLETT's successor, Rear-Admiral SHADWELL, C.B., is now on his way to China.

It is semi-officially announced that Sir HERCULES ROBINSON will shortly succeed Lord BELMORE as Governor of New South Wales.

MR. SECRETARY SEWARD AT GOA.

The Fredonia Censor publishes an interesting letter from Miss Olive Risley Seward, giving an account of an excursion of Mr. Seward's party, in the spring of this year, to Goa, "the first effective European settlement in India, and always the capital of the Portuguese Indian Empire." After briefly, but feelingly, noticing the monuments of the pioneers of religion in this district Miss Seward proceeds:—

We visited the public institutions. The military force consists of two battalions of artillery and two of infantry, maintained at the cost of $200,000. All being natives, always loyal, they are quite enough for a territory only forty-eight miles square, with a population of 400,000. The military academy trains 150 cadets through a seven years' course. The garrison barracks and hospital are excellent. We looked into the Finance Department. The revenue is $800,000. The salaries are low, and there is no complaint of taxes. The College of Science and Medicine is conducted by eleven professors, several of whom are natives of Goa, and is well attended. There are four newspapers, three of which are conducted by natives, and all in the Portuguese language. One-third of the population is Roman Catholic, the rest are Hindoo, Mah-rattas, and Mahomedans. The good order and perfect cleanliness which pervade the little city explains the curious fact that it supplies the foreign residents of all India with their best household servants.

We fancy that our Indian friends in Madras, Calcutta, and the Punjab will scarcely endorse the last statement. The following description is nearer to fact:—

We thought of the arrival of armed fleets from Lisbon in the now quiet bay; of the building and fortification of a great city; of native armies gathered in siege around it; of the brave and chivalrous defenders who defeated and dispersed them; of the expedition of squadrons for the conquest of Aden and Ormuz in the Arabian Sea, of Malacca, the key of the Sea of China, and of the Moluccas in the Archipelago, and of their triumphant return laden with spoils; of the homeward despatch of argosies loaded with spices, pearls, and diamonds; of the coming in of the humble Jesuit missionaries, their fortunes and their fate, sometimes received with affection and gratitude, and often meeting the martyr's crown; of the baptism of whole tribes, provinces, and nations; of their subsequent relapse into their primitive idol worship; of the enterprise of the colonists on land and sea, extending the fame and sway of Portugal, always brilliant, but ending in defeat and overthrow at last when they came into collision with European rivals equally ambitious and stronger than themselves. This, which is the story of Goa, is also the history of Portuguese colonisation. Of the vast empire which Portugal established in both hemispheres on the track of the great discoverer there remains now only this little province of Goa in India, the already decaying city of Macao in China, and the yet barbarian colonies of St. Paul de Loando and Mozambique in Africa.

ROTTERDAM, Nov. 1.

Our First Chamber has dealt with the Indian Budget for 1872 in a hurry. On the evening of Monday, the 30th ult., the Ministerial answer to the Section report was published and distributed amongst the members of the Chamber, and twelve hours later the debate was opened. It lasted only four hours, and the Budget was passed. I need not state that the discussion of the matter was not very profound, and if we were entertained with some striking arguments they were only a repetition of the common griefs of the Opposition. It was, of course, under the circumstances, a very easy task for the Minister to defend his Budget. The conclusion of the short debate was that thirty-one "ayes" were recorded against two "noes"—Messrs. Hartzen and Rahneen. It will be ratified at once by the King, so that it will probably be forwarded by next mail, and will arrive in Java before Jan. 1. The Lords have taken recess.

I have, from an authentic source, the important news that our Government has concluded a new treaty with the British Government with regard to Sumatra. I am told that the English Government has shown the utmost liberality, in order to overcome the objections which induced the members of the Second Chamber to outvote the former treaty, which was laid before them; and there is no doubt but that the new treaty will be carried.

Mr. J. J. van Angelbeek has addressed the members of the Second Chamber requesting their intervention in his miserable dispute with the Indian Judicial authority. He declares that as soon as his case is settled he will send in his resignation.

The Government has replied to some section reports of the Second Chamber about our Budgets, and they acknowledge that the Budget of war is not what it ought to be. The original intention was that Bills for the reorganisation of the army and the system of fortresses should be laid before the members, together with the Budget. But circumstances—impossible to foresee—prevented this. The Ministry, however, is of opinion that the Budget can be altered in such a way that the opinion of the Chamber about the reorganisation of the army need not be prejudiced. I think that this is the finishing stroke for poor Mr. Engelaart, who has as Minister cut a most miserable figure. The general opinion is that his Budget will be rejected by an overwhelming majority, the more so because the Minister seems disinclined to act in accordance with the wishes of the Chamber and the majority of the ministers; that the organisation of the army should be fixed by law. There is one other point of some interest in the Ministerial replies. Mr. van Bosse, the Minister of the Colonial Department, has again showed his wavering and undetermined character. The M.P.s asked:—"What will you do with the favourable balances of the Indian budgets of former years?" And the Minister replied, "that if the construction of the railways for Java was secured by law, and, if necessary, the State will raise a loan for this purpose, he had no objection to spend these favourable balances for the redemption-fund or other extraordinary expenses of the mother-country. This is a step backward." The Minister only recently stated that this money ought to be spent on behalf of Java. And I think that, even if the construction of railways is guaranteed, there is yet more to be done for the Colony. The general tone of the reply is very acute; and there are indeed some signs of an approaching thunderstorm. Conservative papers are preaching day after day that Mr. van de Putte has a definitive plan to overthrow the Cabinet.

The papers only furnish very scanty news about the journey of the Queen in Italy. We learn, however, that she has visited the Pope, and this, of course, is heard with great pleasure by our Ultramontanes, whilst the fact that she has visited Princess Bonaparte brought down some philippics from the German papers. Thus, I read in a Mainzer Journal and in the Berlin Spenerche Zeitung that our Queen is still the warmest counsellor of Napoleon. They remember her well-known letter, which was found in the Tuileries, and they even find fault with her Majesty because during the war she was most careful for the French wounded. They state that some time ago she had an entrevue with Prince "Plon-Plon," since when she is convinced that the French Empire will be restored, and that united Germany must fall. These papers assert that when the German Emperor visited Friedrichshaven our Queen showed the greatest feeling against Germany. When her brother, King Karl, drank to the health of the Emperor Wilhelm, she coughed so persistently that nobody could hear one word of the toast. This caused some bisbilles between brother and sister, and our Queen will never again visit Stuttgart. I need not add that I give these rumours just as I find them. I do not attach much credence to them, but it is nevertheless a fact worth mentioning, that these on dits find their way to a Berlin paper of high standing.

I hear that a good many of the shareholders of the Netherlands Trading Company, who have the right to attend to the general meeting to be held next month, are averse to the maintenance of the company, unless they are assured that she will act in the future as she acts now, namely, as the agent of the State. They have no confidence in the private undertakings of the company, which, I must agree, have turned out in many instances bad for the profit and loss account. The Opposition, however, are in a minority, and there is not the least likelihood that the company will not be continued for another term of twenty-five years. Rumours are current that Mr. G. L. Baud will be replaced as president-commissary by Dr. A. Vrolik, ex-Minister of the Financial department.

At the Bourse prices have generally maintained a steady aspect, and, excepting where governed by special influences, the movements traceable are undeserving of any particular attention. Speculators are restricting their operations in a material degree. Money is in full supply, and, being obtainable at easy rates, checks any adverse change of consequence.

The steamer Prins Hendrik, of the company "Nederland," arrived to day at Nieuwe Diep from Glasgow. Within a fortnight she will sail for Java with a great many passengers.

The disturbances at the Hague, about which the Conservative papers made so much noise, are over, and order is considerably restored.

H.M.'s steamer Java started some days ago from Nieuwe Diep for Shields. She will load there some Armstrong guns, and proceed to Java.

Mr. E. H. Baron Rengers van Warmenhuyzen is appointed Royal commissary of South Holland, ad interim.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

The favourable anticipations entertained of the Coffee sale of the Netherlands Trading Company on the 25th ult. have not only been fully borne out by the result, but they were even considerably exceeded. In other articles of produce there has been upon the whole but a moderate business doing, mostly at former prices.

COFFEE.—The large competition of buyers, attracted by the last public sale, has caused prices to rule much higher than even the most sanguine anticipations had led us to expect. The article has continued to exhibit a firm appearance, and some demand prevails at the prices of the sale. Stock on warrants, 226,374 bags; total stock, 644,200 b.; floating, 156,800 b.

SUGAR continues to exhibit a strong appearance. Parcels available for immediate delivery are in brisk demand, but they are seldom to be met with. Floating shipments of Java are also but little on offer, and even at $f. \frac{1}{4}$ advance over September it is difficult to buy. The Trading Company's November sale has been announced to be held on the 23rd prox., and to consist of about 39,500 bags Java, stored in our different ports. This day were sold 20,000 piculs Java, new crop No. 9/14 and 18/19 at $f. \frac{1}{4}$ to $f. \frac{1}{2}$ above September prices.

TEA.—Firm, but scarcely anything doing.

SPICES without any alteration. Sales have been closed at Amsterdam of 20 chests Nutmegs and 10 chests Mace, ex Zeebloem, at prices not named. Stock on warrants:—Nutmegs, 2,570 casks; Mace, 330 casks; Cloves, 2,612 casks; Cinnamon, 18 packages. Deliveries in October, 1871, 169 casks Nutmegs, 76 casks Mace, 170 casks Cloves.

RICE firm, without transactions.

TIN.—A quiet tone continues to prevail, but prices are well supported. Banca has found buyers at $f. 81 \frac{1}{4}$ for public sales' prompt, and ex the coming spring sale at $f. 80 \frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$. Sales have also been closed of Billiton on the spot at $f. 80 \frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$; Billiton afloat, distant arrival, is held for $f. 81$. Stock on warrants (Banca) 27,600 slabs. Stocks in second hands (Banca) 90,917 slabs, (Billiton) 756 slabs. New stock unsold with the Trading Company, 21,942 slabs.

HIDES.—About 1,000 Macassar Cows, weighing on an average $6 \frac{1}{2}$ to $8 \frac{1}{2}$ kilo, ex 4 Gebroeders, were disposed of here at a price not named.

INDIGO.—The general aspect of our market for this article remains unaltered. The scantiness of stocks checks business, but prices keep firm. 42 chests Java ex Zeebloem changed hands at full market prices.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.—Oct. 28, at Brouwershaven, from Akyab, Hermit; 29, at Brouwershaven, from Batavia, Tonia; at Texel, from Padang, Henriette Elizabeth Susanna; 30, at Zierikzee, from Hong Kong, Emmanuel Bouteher.

DEPARTURES.—Oct. 29, from Texel, for Batavia, Hosea Rich; 30, from Zierikzee, for Hong Kong, Hollander.

Monetary and Commercial.

The tenders for £400,000 in bills on India were received on the 1st inst. at the Bank of England. The amounts allotted were:—To Calcutta, £250,000; to Madras, £50,000; and to Bombay, £100,000. The minimum price was fixed, as before, at 1s. 10½d. on all the Presidencies. Tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 11½d. will receive about 64 per cent., and on Bombay at 1s. 11½d. in full. These results show an increased inquiry for the means of remittance in the East.

The Anglo-India Tea Company (Limited) invite applications for a second issue of 1,000 shares of £10 each. The company is in active operation, and the business, it is stated, is daily increasing.

The directors of the Hong Kong and China Gas Company (Limited) have issued warrants for the payment of an interim dividend for six months ending June 30 last at the rate of ten per cent. per annum.

Messrs. Forbes, Forbes, and Co. have commenced their appointment as London agents for the Chinese Insurance Company (Limited), to settle claims and to underwrite to China, &c.

ARTICLES OF EXPORT.

WOOLLEN GOODS.

Our report from Leeds states that the prices of Camlets have advanced, but there is no change in other Woollens, the following rates being the lowest which would be accepted.

Quotations:—Spanish Stripes, 62-in., 19 yards, Elephant Chop, 3s. 4½d. per yard for Scarlet; Long Ells, 30/31-in., 24 yards, Lion Chop, 32s. 3d. per piece; Camlets, Best SS, 58 yards, Elephant Chop, 80s. per piece; Lastings, 31 in., 30-31 yards, Lion Chop, 68s. 6d. per piece for Gentian; Brocades, 29 yards, Half Moon Chop, 25s. 6d. per piece for Scarlet.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

The market has assumed a firmer tone since the 27th ult., and a sale to some extent have been made. Buyers show more disposition to place orders on a free scale, but the advance asked by producers for both Yarns and Goods serves to limit transactions. The market closes very firm and steady; spinners and manufacturers holding for advanced rates.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

A fair amount of business has been done, the cargoes of the Sarpedon, Sea Gull, and Forward Ho having afforded a fair assortment of Teas from the various ports. The extreme prices lately current for good medium blackish leaf Congous have been hardly maintained; fine Teas have also sold rather lower, but in all other descriptions there is but little variation in prices to quote.

Red-leaf Congous: Siftings and broken-leaf kinds show no alteration, the demand being still limited. Fair to good common have been in steady demand at previous prices. Fair to good Kaisow kinds show no change. Fine to finest remain firm at former prices. Pak Lin kinds have been steady without change in prices. Black-leaf kinds: Low qualities show no improvement. Fair common of old import have been sold from 9d. to 10d. per lb. Good common, new season's, at about 11d. to 1s. Fair to good medium kinds have been readily saleable, although at a slight decline on the previous extreme rates. Fine have sold rather lower, the demand being quiet. Finest command full prices. Amoy kinds: Low quality has sold at public sale from 5d. to 6d. per lb. Fair to good show no change. New make Canton kinds fair have sold from 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 2d. per lb.; good to fine from 1s. 3d. to 1s. 7d. per lb. Oolong: Finest Formosa kinds have realised very full prices. Other kinds show no alteration in quotations. In Souchongs fine to finest have been saleable at full prices. Fair to good have not been so readily saleable. Flowery Pekoes show no material change. Scented Teas: Canton Capers—fair qualities have slightly improved in price; good to fine have been sold to some extent at an advance of 1d. to 2d. per lb. Foochow kinds show no change. Orange Pekoes: Canton kinds remain as before. Foochow kinds: Fair to good have sold from 1s. 6½d. to 1s. 7½d. at public sale, showing ½d. to 1d. per lb. decline. Uncoloured Japans: Common kinds are neglected; good to fine in fair demand. Green Teas: The principal business continues to be done at public sales without reserve, the large quantity per Ajax, Priam, and Sarpedon, having been mostly sold in this way. Prices on the whole have been well maintained, but the common and medium kinds have sold irregularly at the various auctions. Canton kinds show no change.

Home consumption for London		1871.	1870.

SILK.

The market has been quiet, especially so during the last few days, there being very little disposition to buy, one of the chief causes being the adverse rate of the French exchanges, which for the time stops Continental orders; as importers are firm holders, however, prices remain steady, and quotations of Chinas are without alteration. In Cantons there has been a fair business, some of the recent arrivals of fine Tsatlees having been readily taken at good prices, but finest Loong Kongs, owing to the abundance offering, are weaker. Japan Silks, as also Bengals, are suffering from over weight of stocks, and prices, particularly of the latter, are quite nominal, and where sales are made, very irregular. The deliveries for the month of October were very good, and accounts from all manufacturing districts report almost unprecedented activity.

Messrs. Durant and Co.'s Circular says:—We have to report another month of moderately current business in Silk, with continued good deliveries, although not quite equal to the previous month, and without any quotable change in prices, although the arrivals have again been large and our stocks again show an increase. In China Silk there is less change than in any other class, the arrivals being comparatively moderate, the scarcity of good medium Silk causing a continual demand, and thus giving general firmness to all. In Japan Silk the movements are fitful and spasmodic; every now and then we have a sort of spurt, the comparatively low prices from time to time inducing the idea that it must enter more largely into consumption, and were it not that the stock is so large, and so comparatively small a portion of this season's Silk has come forward, the deliveries are really good. In Canton Silk consumption goes on as well as could be wished, but the arrivals have been very large.

COFFEE.

For some days following our report of last week the market for Ceylon remained buoyant, and, notwithstanding a heavy supply brought to auction, prices, both of Plantation and Native, were firmly sustained at the late advance. Within the past few days, however, there has been less animation, and the public sales, which have consisted for the most part of Plantation, have gone off without spirit and with a drooping tendency; the latest prices paid have been:—Plantation, triage and ordinary, 56s. to 64s.; small grey to coloury, 65s. to 69s. 6d.; low middling grey, 69s. to 71s.; bold do. 72s. to 75s. 6d.; middling, 73s. to 76s.; good middling to fine middling bold, 78s. to 83s. 6d.; peaberry, 83s. to 84s. 6d.; low good ordinary Native Ceylon 63s. 6d. to 64s. Private sales are reported of 300 bags bold Native, old import, at 65s. 6d., 200 casks Plantation and 1,000 bags Native (the latter to arrive) on private terms, also floating sales of 2,000 bags Native Ceylon at 65s., and 100 bags brownish Java at 72s. 6d. per cwt.

SUGAR.

The demand has been active throughout the week, and the improved rates established at date of our last report have been well sustained. The business done, however, has not been extensive, having been restricted by the attitude of holders, who look forward to a further advance, and in many instances refuse to quit their stocks at present prices. The following are the details of the business done during the week:—

Penang.—No transactions.

Manila.—In auctions 2,100 bags low brown (duty 4s.) have been sold at 23s. 6d., 5,000 bags clayed at 26s. 6d., 120 tons taal unclayed at 22s., and afloat 6,000 bags Zebu unclayed, June sailing, at 23s., landed terms for London; privately 6,950 bags clayed (duty 4s.) have been taken at 25s. to 26s., and 11,000 bags clayed (duty 4s. 9d.) at 27s.

Java.—By private contract 8,000 bags syrups have been quitted, price not reported, supposed at about 22s.

The landings for the week are 1,000 tons less than in 1870, but although the deliveries for home use include 830 tons Manila and 570 tons Beet, the total shows a decrease of 580 tons, while exports are 130 tons more. These movements slightly increase the deficiency in the stock to 28,700 tons. Stock, Oct. 21, 62,705 tons, against 90,942 tons. Oct. 23, 59,337 tons, against 88,073 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the forty-three weeks ended Oct. 23, 1871, was, of Penang, 1,422 tons, against 2,747 tons in the corresponding period of 1870; of Manila, Java and China, 18,637 tons, against 17,056 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 3,320 tons, against 1,861 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 27,311 tons, against 21,963 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 289 tons, against 99 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 1,138 tons, against 2,882 tons. The stock on Oct. 23 was, of Penang, 789 tons, against 3,111 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 17,383 tons, against 28,001 tons.

CHINA SILK PIECE GOODS.—The public sales were held on the 1st inst. There was a fair demand, and the following prices were obtained for Pongee Handkerchiefs,—24s. to 26s. for plain white, 27s. 6d. to 28s. for plain crimson, 24s. 6d. to 26s. 6d. for figured white, 27s. for twilled white, and 29s. for figured crimson, all of good silky quality. In all 1,320 pieces were sold out of 1,800 offered. The only other China goods in the sales were 300 Crape Shawls of light weights, which brought fair prices, and 240 pieces Shantung Pongees, which brought 22s. 6d. for sound, the quality silky, but mixed.

CAMPOR.—The nominal quotation for China is 70s., but there is little doing; an offer at auction of 25 cases refined but indifferently prepared and part stained, ex Priam, was withdrawn at £5 12s. per cwt., with £4 4s. bid.

CARDAMOMS.—Scarce and advanced; Ceylon, of which there is no supply, are in request.

CHINA GRASS.—The market is firm, but very quiet; there are buyers at £55 for fine quality, but holders ask a higher figure.

CHINA ROOT.—No demand; 50 bags offered, and bought in at 23s. COCOA-NUT OIL.—There is less demand for Ceylon, but prices show no alteration, the current quotation being still £38 10s. to £39. At auction, of 151 casks offered, 32 casks yellow and yellowish sold at £38 10s., the remainder being withdrawn or bought in at £39, dull £38 per ton.

COPRA.—Penang still absent from the market.

COLOMBO ROOT.—Firm and scarce; no transactions.

CUBES.—At the last auction, when 326 bags were offered (chiefly without reserve), prices declined, the first sale going at 23s., but the latter ones at 21s. 6d. to 22s. 6d. per cwt., part sifted quality, the rest grey stalky and ordinary.

CUTCH.—A fair business has been done, though the active speculative demand existing a fortnight since has quite subsided. About 3,000 boxes fine Pegu sold privately at 24s. 6d. to 25s. per cwt.; at auction 2,340 boxes Pegu were partly sold at 24s. to 25s., and 700 bags Penang at 24s. per cwt.

DRAGON'S BLOOD.—Market steady; good quality scarce.

EBONY.—Fine figured Ceylon is still scarce, and quoted at high rates; no business reported. Of 63 logs (22 tons) Ceylon offered, 12 logs (5 tons) sold at £13 17s. 6d.

GAMBER.—Market firm, and an advance has been paid for arrival. At auction 950 baskets cubes partly sold at 21s. For arrival about 500 tons at 16s. 7½d. up to 17s. with all faults, ex ship; there are still buyers at 17s., and on the spot 17s. 3d. has been paid.

GALLS.—China: The market has been firm, and offers of 300 cases per Priam, mostly sold at 52s. 6d. for fair rather dusty, and 53s. to 53s. 6d. for good, being a slight advance. About 1,000 cases recently arrived per Undine and Elgin have not yet been placed on the market, but a good proportion of these are believed to have been disposed of afloat. Japan: No supply.

GUTTA-PERCHA.—Market continues very quiet for common qualities, and sales have been made from offers of 942 packages and 16 tons at public sale at lower prices, viz., good middling, 1s. 9d. to 2s.; white fair, 1s. 2d.; common, 11½d. to 1s. 0½d. per lb.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Sumatra has sold low, being in large supply. In sale half of 171 cases sold—fine 2nds £9 10s.; fair £8 2s. 6d. to £8 7s. 6d.; middling brownish £7 5s. to £7 15s.; ordinary T. T. and Co. 3rd bought in at 70s. 79 cases Siam sold steadily, bold almond £22 5s. to £23 10s.; rather smaller clean block £20 to £20 10s.; small tear rather foul £11 15s. to £12; and mixed with siftings £10 to £10 7s. 6d.; siftings £8 15s. Copal: Firmer; 697 cases all sold, a few superior selected 43s. to 44s. 6d.; good scraped hard 37s. to 37s. 6d.; partly scraped 32s. 6d. to 34s.; block 33s. to 34s.; soft yellow drossy block 22s. 6d.; inferior 18s. Gamboge: Higher and enquired for; half of 24 cases sold at £12 to £12 5s. for mixed drossy sorts. Damar: Quite neglected, and 223 cases Batavia bought in at 62s. 6d.

HEMP.—The market is steady, but without any great activity; 1,000 bales sold privately; good roping £49, mixed £44 to £45; 250 bales sold in auction at firm prices. Mixed roping £44 to £45, fine to superior brown £43 to £44, fair £40.

HYDES.—At the fortnightly sales held on the 2nd, Singapore and Penang met a limited demand at late rates, whilst Cow brought an occasional advance. Batavian were neglected, and a large supply offered was all bought in. Buffalo: Of 9,707 Singapore and Penang 5,536 sold, first light 11½ to 13½ lb. at 6½d. to 7½d., second light 12½ to 14½ lb. at 5d. to 5½d., heavy 25½ to 40 lb. at 4½d. to 5½d.; 1,140 Java withdrawn, except 104 which sold, thirds 4d., wet 5½d. Of 6,149 Batavian 570 sold, first light 13½ to 14 lb. at 8½d. to 8¾d., second heavy 23 lb. at 5d. Of other descriptions, 13,590 Singapore and Penang sold, dry light 6½ to 7½ lb. at 10½d. to 12d., heavy 8½ to 10 lb. at 8½d. to 9½d., extra 12½ to 17½ lb. at 9d. to 9½d., thirds 6½ to 7½ lb. at 7½d. to 8d., small 4 to 4½ lb. at 10½d. to 11½d.; Calf 2½ to 3½ lb. at 8½d. to 10½d., fourths 5½d. to 6d., brined light 7½ lb. at 11½d., heavy 10½ lb. at 9½d., extra 13½ to 14½ lb. at 10½d.

HORNS—At the last sales a slight advance was realised; 48,980 (67 tons) Siam Buffalo partly sold, 859 to 688 horns at 38s. to 40s. 6d., 12,155 (7 tons) Ceylon Deer sold, 1,762 horns at a ton at 68s. 6d. per cwt.

INDIA-RUBBER—Good qualities still scarce, and common neglected; at auction 26 packages good Batavian realised 2s. to 2s. 0½d.; 68 packages inferior being retired.

ISINGLASS—There is a steady demand for fine Penang, which is scarce; common kinds are neglected.

JAPAN WAX—A fortnight since, in consequence of smallness of stock, prices for fine Sauvans advanced to 105s., which figure was refused for 115 cases of fine quality, but imports of small lots from Holland cause the market to be flatter, and fine is offering at 100s., without finding buyers at that price.

MUSK—Market for China firm; 37 caddies sold in auction—fine, 32s. 6d. to 34s. 6d.; rough bally, 16s. 6d. to 17s.; wet pickings, 23s. to 23s. 6d.

OLDS—Aniseed has been firmly held at 10s. 6d., and a small trade has been done at 10s. 9d. Cassia has been more inquired for, and firmer prices maintained, 4s. 6d. being paid. Nutmeg, steady. Cinnamon: Very scarce, and wanted. Citronelle, steady: 53 cases at auction sold at 1½d. for good, with a few lots at 1½d. Lemon Grass, steady: 31 cases offered, sold at 2½d. to 2¾d. per oz. for good.

PEPPER—Black is decidedly quieter, and sales have only been to a small extent for immediate wants, and stock increases. Afloat only small sales of Penang at 6½d. to 6¾d.; spot sales (about 1,800 bags) at 6½d. to 6 15 16d.; Singapore 7½d., a few lots 7¾d. In sale 4,800 bags, chiefly withdrawn; 773 bags Siam sold at 7½d. to 7¾d. for middling brownish. White last week was sold privately at 4s. 4d., and in auction half of 794 bags were disposed of at fourteen days' prompt, less interest, which terms were strongly opposed; Singapore 1s. 3½d. to 1s. 3¾d.; Penang 1s. 2¾d. to 1s. 3¾d. Subsequently 1,108 bags were offered, and half sold at 1s. 1¾d. to 1s. 2¾d. (part without reserve), and 300 bags afloat at 1s. to 1s. 1½d.

PLUMBAGO—There is little disposition to buy, and the small parcels sold have been at prices in favour of the buyer. In auction, 533 barrels Ceylon offered, and partly sold—fair lump, 22s.; chips, 14s. to 15s.; dust 5s. to 8s. 3d. per cwt.

RATTANS—Market firm with good demand, but supply short

RHUBARB—Of 390 cases China (mostly new arrivals) offered, about two-thirds was disposed of at lower rates, being all rather wormy. Selected bold, 3s. 5d. to 4s. 7d.; medium and small good fracture, 2s. 2d. to 2s. 7d.; middling, 1s. 4d. to 1s. 11d.; high dried fair colour, 1s. to 1s. 1d.; inferior, 5d. to 8d.

RICE—The market is without alteration, a fair business having been done during the week at steady rates. White Bengal has been sold—ordinary at 10s. 6d., middling to good middling at 11s. 9d., good at 12s., Madras at 10s. 6d. to 11s., Moulmein at 10s. 3d. (ex quoy), Rangoon at 10s. 7½d. Two floating cargoes have been sold as follows:—The Eulalia, 740 tons Necransie, arrived off coast, at 10s. 4½d., for the Continent, E contract. The Asternjorn, 730 tons Necransie, near at hand, also at 10s. 4½d., Continental terms.

SPICES—Cassia Liquea: Without change; at auction 13 cases genuine broken bought in at 105s. per cwt.; first continues to realise 125s. in small lots, and seconds are daily exported at 117s. per cwt.; good average quality, unworked, sells readily at 113s., being a considerable advance. Vera: In the absence of transactions we have nothing to report. Cloves: 30 cases in public sale realised 1s. 8d. to 1s. 8½d. per lb. Cinnamon: Ceylon quiet, but steady; in auction half of 100 bales were sold, good thirds, 2s. 7d. to 2s. 8d.; fourths, 2s. 4d. to 2s. 5d. Of Chips, 1,310 bags nearly all sold steadily, very good to very fine 7d. to 9½d.; middling, 4½d. to 4¾d.; common, 2¾d. to 3¾d.; inferior, 1½d. to 2½d. Mace commands extreme rates, and 5 cases Java were withdrawn in sale at 4s. 6d.; 2 cases common Penang realised 4s. Nutmegs have brought about 1d. advance; 67 cases sold—69s. 3s. 9d. to 3s. 10s.; 72s. 3s. 7d. to 3s. 8d.; 85s. 3s. 4d. to 3s. 5d.; 86s. to 90s. 3s. 2d.; 119s. to 124s. 3s.; 141s. 2s. 10d.

SOY—China has realised a slight advance, 150 casks in public sale being quitted at 2s. 1d. to 2s. 2d. per gallon. Japan: No transactions.

SAGO—Market firm. In sale, 968 bags partly sold—fine large, 17s. 6d. to 18s. 6d.; fine small, 15s. 6d. to 16s. Flour inquired for, and 16s. 6d. paid for half of 784 bags fine Singapore in auction. To arrive 16s. has been paid to London, 16s. 6d. Liverpool, and there are no further sellers at those figures.

SAPANWOOD—Manila and Siam: Very little has been offered, consequent upon scarcity in first hands; prices for both descriptions very firm; a few tons damaged Manila sold at £7 15s., and Gambier damaged Siam £7 5s. Ceylon scarce; no transaction.

STICKLAC—Siam scarce, and offers would realise high rates.

STAR ANISEEDS—There is a scarcity of China, and £6 12s. 6d. has been paid in private sale; 8 cases at auction withdrawn at £6 5s.

TIN—An extensive business has been transacted at advancing rates. Large deliveries and small supply place the article in a very sound position and attract the attention of speculators, by whose operations the tendency to advance is further stimulated. We quote Straits, on the spot, £138; for arrival, £137 10s.; Banca £139 per ton.

TERIOCA—Market staid, with large sales. In auction 2,592 bags chiefly sold, and superior white, 2½d. to 2¾d., fair Malacca sort, 2d. to 2¼d. Flour held firmly. Pearl, 259 bags, half sold at 20s.

TURMERIC—Market dull; 120 bags Java at auction retired at 12s.

TABACCO—At public sale, of 119 bales Sumatra, for cigar purposes, offered, a part sold at 10½d. to 18d.: 1 bale Manila sold at 1s., and a good portion of 60 bales 3A Ysabella at 9½d. to 9¾d., 3A Caravan at 9½d.; 6 bales damaged withdrawn. 5 bales Java at 4d. to 6½d.; 9 bales damaged 5½d. to 5¾d.; inferior 2d. Of 4 cases Manila Cigars, 1 case 2A sold at 5s. 9d.

VERMILION—No transactions.

TEA.

The following is from Messrs. Beebe's report:—During the past month the demand for Tea generally has been less active, and sales reported from first hands are limited to 10,500 packages Green, 14,500 half-chests Japan, 15,000 half-chests Oolong, and 3,200 half-chests Congou and Souchong. Included in these are 2,200 half-chests of the new crop Teenkis, 4,500 new Japans, 9,500 new Oologs (chiefly Amoy and Formosa kinds, and part to arrive, and 2,300 new Congous, nearly all to arrive). Our quotations cover the prices realised for new crop goods other than Foochow and Formosa Oologs. We note a further improvement during the month of £2 to £5 in old Greens of medium and cargo grades, and a firm market for old Japans and Oologs, without quotable change in values. At the close the market for new Greens and Japans is somewhat unsettled, and their extreme high cost makes business in them difficult and the outturn unsatisfactory. The deliveries for consumption continue large as compared with last season, having reached the aggregate of 4½ million pounds, against 34 millions for the whole of 1870. There is ample evidence of a liberal increase in the demand, but it will nevertheless be unsafe to conclude that the reported figures are a fair measure of it. Supplies via Pacific steamers and railroad are coming to hand as rapidly as the latter can transport them.

The following are the current quotations (in gold, duty 15c. paid):—Greens (Moyunc, Teenkis, and Fychow, new crop): Gunpowder, first quality, 108c. to 112c.; second, 85c. to 88c.; Imperial, first, 93c. to 95c.; second, 75c. to 78c.; Young Hyson, first, 105c. to 110c.; second, 83c. to 88c.; Hyson, first, 83c. to 85c.; second, 70c. to 75c.; Hyson Skin, 33c. to 45c.; Foochow Oologs (old crop), common and good, 39c. to 46c.; superior and fine, 52c. to 65c.; finest, 70c. to 90c.; Amoy Oologs (new crop), common and good, 43c. to 55c.; superior and fine, 57c. to 67c.; finest, 70c. to 80c.; Souchong and Congou (old and new crop), common and good, 27c. to 38c.; superior and fine, 43c. to 55c.; finest, 60c. to 80c.; Japans (new crop), common, nominal; medium, 56c. to 60c.; good medium, 63c. to 65c.; fine and finest, 68c. to 75c.; choice, 80c. to 85c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to Oct. 18, 1871, were as follows:—Greens, 16,667,149 lbs.; Japans, 13,195,225 lbs.; Souchongs, 2,866,828 lbs.; Oologs, 11,955,371 lbs.; other sorts, 379,706 lbs.; total, 45,064,279 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 16,748,661 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 61,812,940 lbs. as the total supply. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to Oct. 18, 4,368,907 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 41,407,977 lbs., there remains a total of 16,036,156 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from Sept. 18 to Oct. 18 amounted to 3,223,489 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 3,551,396 lbs.; and the exports to 207,099 lbs.

SILK.

The following remarks are from Mr. O Donoghue's Circular:—Since the date of our last we have had a moderately active market for raw silk, the demand having been principally for Re-reeled, Tsatlee and Hineen, which, owing to the paucity of stock and higher cost of all recent invoices, are held in a few instances slightly above our quotations; consumers, however, do not respond very freely to the advance, and a moderate business in that class of silk is the result. Usual Reel Tsatlee and Taysaams are in fair stock, with very little inquiry. Re-reeled Cantons meet with a continuous demand at quotations, first grades being still very scarce. In Japans a few small invoices are offered, but meet with little favour.

Prices current for China and Japan Raw Silks (currency prices six months' terms):—Tsatlee, No. 1, $9.1-4; No. 2, $8.75; No. 3, $8.1-4 to 8.1-2. Taysaam, No. 1, $7.75 to 8; No. 2, $7.1-4 to 7.1-2; No. 3, $6.3-4 to 7. Canton, re-reeled, No. 1 Cotgoun, $7 to 7.1-4; No. 2, $6.50 to 6.75; No. 1 Cumchok, $6 to 6.1-4; No. 2, $5.7-5 to 5.7-8; Mahang and Hongtang, $5.50. Tsatlee, re-reeled, best, $8.1-2 to 8.5-8; fair, $8.3-8; medium, $8.1-8. Hineen, re-reeled, best, $8.3-4 to 9; fair, $8.1-2. Japans, no stock; prices nominal.

Imports: In September, 1,284 packages, $741,681, gold value; corresponding month last year, 596 packages, $355,266 gold value.

COFFEE—The stock of Brazil is almost entirely in the hands of speculators, who buy and sell cargo after cargo over and over again; some cargoes have been sold five, six, and even seven times, and seem in a fair way to be sold as many more. Prices have steadily advanced, and are quoted 1½c. to 2c. over those ruling at our report of 7th inst. For the other kinds there is a good inquiry for home use, and parcels lately sold, though going first into speculators' hands, have been now pretty thoroughly distributed, so that the market is unusually bare both in first and second hands. Prices are well supported and may even be quoted a little higher, Java especially having realised half a cent. advance. Quotations of most kinds, however, are rather nominal, as there is so little left in first hands that the rates given must be considered somewhat unreliable. Pale and Brown Singapore are selling in lots from second hands at 21c. to 22c., Pale Java, 25½c., medium Brown Java, 26c., Brown Java, and extreme Brown Java, all gold. The sales from first hands include 50 bags Government Java, on terms not made public, leaving the whole stock of Java 12,476 mats, smaller figures than for many years past. A public sale of native Ceylon went off with spirit, the whole offering being taken at full and satisfactory prices—6,172 bags, per Syringa, sold at 15½c. to 19½c. gold, in bond, sixty days, average 16½c. We also note the sale of 4,000 mats Java to arrive in December and January next at 20½c. gold, in bond, and 1,145 bags Plantation, and 3,927 bags native Ceylon on private terms.

CORAL.—Market without alteration.

CAMPOR.—China is quoted 15c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $2.85; Cassia, $2 gold (duty paid).

FIRE CRACKERS.—Without change.

GUNNY CLOTH remains inactive; we quote Borneo 17c. to 17½c. cash.

HEMP.—There have been no transactions in Manila during the fortnight, the current quotation rules as at date of our last report; 13½c. gold. The Golden Hind has arrived with 5,404 bales, all of which had been sold before arrival.

INDIGO.—Manila and Madras are in improved demand, Manila at $1.05 to $1.15, Madras at $1.15 to $1.17½, currency.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $3.50 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is 50c. to 60c. currency (duty free).

RICE.—There is, as last reported, a fair demand for foreign and domestic for home use, with a weak market for the latter, as the new crop is now coming forward to a fair extent, and, with the old crop, is offered pretty freely, prices favouring buyers. The sales of Rangoon have been 1,600 bags at $6.87½ to $7.12½ currency, and 1,025 bags at $3.25 gold in bond.

SUGAR.—There has continued a steady good demand from refiners, who, selling their product pretty freely, are daily in the market for fresh supplies, and as holders seem disposed to meet them pretty readily, the market can only be called steady at previous rates. The only reported sale of East India during the fortnight has been 21,594 bags Manila, per Golden Hind, before arrival, at 9c. Other invoices are said to have been sold for future delivery, but the particulars are withheld.

SPICES.—The bulk of the stocks of most descriptions, here and to arrive—notably those that are the product of the East—have passed into second hands, and consequently there has been little or no business in invoices. There continues a good distributing demand, and the market, as a whole, remains very firm. Notwithstanding the considerable advance here in prices of Pepper, Mace, Nutmegs, Cassia, &c., during the past few months, they have scarcely kept pace with the rise in the primary and in the European markets, so that supplies are held with confidence, the tendency being still in sellers' favour. Cassia has advanced to 37½c. duty paid, and 27½c. in bond. Black Pepper hardens, and has been run off pretty freely at 19c. for Sumatra and 20c. for Singapore. White Pepper is 2½c. to 5c. per lb. higher, cable accounts from London having been received advising an advance there to 14½d.; 40c. is generally demanded. We notice sales in lots of Penang Pepper at 19c. to 20c.; Singapore, 14c., in bond; Cloves, 11½c. for large parcels, and 12c. to 12½c. for small lots; Nutmegs, $1 to 1.05, chiefly at $1; Mace, $1.45 to 1.47½; Cassia, 36½c. to 37½c.—all gold.

TIN.—The inquiry is still very limited, buyers responding feebly, or not at all, to the recent advance in prices; in the absence of sales we quote nominally, Banca 41½c., Straits, 36½c.—gold.

CASUALTIES.

The Yorkshire (str.), from London to Colombo (via S.C.), returned to Gravesend, Oct. 27, with damage to machinery, but left on 23th inst., for her destination after repairing.

Advices from Cape Town, dated Sept. 20, received at Rotterdam, Oct. 28, state that the Anna Digna, Zwaneveld, from Batavia to Amsterdam, which put into Simon's Bay, Aug. 1, with damage, had finished her repairs, and would shortly proceed, for her destination.

Advices from Amsterdam, dated Oct. 28, state that the Ymueden, Zeylstra, from Batavia to that port, which put into St. Helena, Sept. 22, had shipped a quantity of water, and sustained damage to hull and rigging.

The Titania, which sailed from London, Oct. 24, for Shanghai, put into Brixham, on the 30th, very leaky.

A telegram from St. Petersburg, received at Amsterdam, Oct. 30, states that the Victor (Russian vessel), from Cronstadt to the River Amoor, with rye, had been sunk by collision with a Russian vessel of war.

Accounts from St. Thomas', dated 14th Oct., received at New York 21st, state that a second survey would be held, on the 16th, on the Ferdinand Meyer, from Singapore to New York, which put into St. Thomas', 30th Sept., in distress; the masts were sprung, and the master stated that the vessel wanted re-coppering. Cargo not badly damaged; principal damage sustained by about 300 bags pepper. The vessel would probably go on to repairing slip for examination.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At PORTLAND.—Oregon, Oct. 5, Garibaldi, Noyes, loading for Hong Kong.

At PORT SAID.—Oct. 30, Canton (str.), Jaques, from London, and proceeded, 31, for Singapore, China, &c., after coaling.

The committee of Lloyd's have issued a notice asking for information respecting the Geraint, Ponsonby, which vessel is reported to have sailed from Cardiff for Shanghai on the 1st March.

DEPRESSION OF SPIRITS—DEBILITY.—Some defect in digestion is generally the cause of mental depression; on rectifying the disordered stomach the long list of gloomy thoughts retires, and is succeeded by more hopeful and more happy feelings. Holloway's Pills have been renowned far and wide for effecting this desirable change without inconveniencing the morbidly sensitive or most delicate organism. They remove all obstructions, regulate all secretions, and correct depraved humours by purifying the blood and invigorating the stomach. Their medicinal virtues reach, relieve, and stimulate every organ and gland in the body, whereby the entire system is renovated. No medicine ever before discovered acts so beneficially upon the blood and circulation as Holloway's celebrated Pills.

SINGAPORE DOCKS.

THE PATENT SLIP AND DOCK COMPANY execute SHIPS' REPAIRS of all descriptions in the most efficient manner under the supervision of European Engineers and Shipwright.

There are TWO DRY DOCKS, each capable of admitting two vessels at the same time, being over 400 feet in length, with depth of water ranging to 20 feet.

Adjoining the above there is extensive WHARF WAREHOUSE, and other accommodation, including every convenience for coaling Steamers, discharging cargo, and storing goods, together with ample MACHINERY and appliances for repairing iron steamers, &c.

Apply at the offices of Messrs. PATERSON, SIMONS and Co., Singapore; or 21, St. Swithin's-lane, Cannon-street, London, E.C.

WM. CLOUGHTON, Managing Director.
New Harbour, Singapore, January, 1870.

PORT OF AMOY.

SHIPOWNERS, AGENTS, and COMMANDERS are informed that the Dock Company's establishments at the above port afford every facility, at moderate charges, for REPAIRING and STARRING VESSELS, cleaning and painting iron ships and steamers.

Their large Granite Dock has 286 feet length on the blocks, and at average spring tides can receive vessels of 16 to 17 feet draught. It has a caisson-gate and a powerful centrifugal steam pump, and an engineer's workshop fitted with lathes and tools, driven by steam; iron and brass foundries, boiler-makers' shop, a large smithy and carpenters and boat-builders' sheds. All superintended by resident Europeans.

Their two smaller GRANITE DOCKS can receive, at spring tides, vessels drawing 12 feet.

Spars, timber, and other Dockyard material kept in stock.

TANJONG PAGAR DOCK COMPANY

VICTORIA DOCK, SINGAPORE.

This Company's Granite DRY DOCK, 450 feet in length, 65 feet width of entrance, and 20 feet depth of water on the sill, was OPENED on the 17th October, 1868. In the high tides of the North-East Monsoon there is a foot to eighteen inches more water.

In connection with the Dock is a complete range of workshops, fitted with steam machinery, driving all descriptions of engineers' tools required in the construction and repair of vessels and machinery, and a foundry for iron and brass castings.

The Company's extensive Wharves and Godowns for receiving and storing cargo immediately adjoin the Dock.

Having an efficient European staff in each department, the Company is in a position to guarantee the best workmanship, executed with every possible despatch, as well as low rates of charges.

These advantages, and the great facilities which the proximity of the Dock to the town offers for the transport of materials, &c., enable this Company to adopt a very low scale of charges for ships' work of all classes.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

Our advices by this opportunity extend to the 23rd Sept. The P. and O. mail of 28th July arrived out on the 14th; and the French mail of the 4th Aug. on the 20th Sept. The following items are from the Japan Mail :—

The excitement caused by the refusal of the Custom-house to accept duties in the usual form and scale still continues. The Government was unquestionably justified in its demands, but not in its mode of making it. It was also wrong in its method of procedure as regards the assessment of the difference between the duties hitherto paid and the amount now exacted in accordance with the treaties. Instead of taking the sats (paper money) at its market value, say 383 per 311 silver boos, it placed an arbitrary and depreciated value on this paper, and required 400 sats boos for 311 silver boos. This was ill-advised. But the arrangement now made is liberal, and leaves three full months for the old system to run.

H. B. M.'s Charge d'Affaires publishes for the information of British subjects the following agreement made at Yedo on the 14th Sept., between the Japanese Government and the Foreign representatives :—Up to the 31st Dec. inclusive, nibookin, and the Shosha paper money representing nibookin, will continue to be received in payment of import and export duties and other taxes as heretofore, at the rate of one nibookin for two silver ichi-boos. From and after Jan. 1, 1872, the said paper money will not be received at all, and the nibookin will be received at the rate of 202 for 311 silver ichi-boos.

The whole attention of the administration is at this moment turned towards the conversion of Han into Ken, or, in other words, the abolition of the powers still retained by the dispossessed Daimios, and the conversion of their former fiefs into domains or counties governed directly by the central power in Yedo.

Amongst the recent departures from Yokohama we must note that of Mr. Van der Tak, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Van der Tak has occupied the position of Consul-General for the Netherlands, and chief administrator of the Netherlands Trading Company for many years, and during a long residence in Japan has earned the respect and esteem of a large circle of friends.

Yokohama has received an addition to its legal practitioners in the person of Mr. Cooper, lately admitted to practise in the English Court. Mr. Cooper has, we believe, practised in India and China.

It is reported that some of the holders of silk-worms' eggs have been imprisoned for selling their stock too cheaply. The story is credible, though we do not know if it is true. All Asiatic nations do this kind of thing, and must be content to be looked down upon by Europeans in consequence. But it is not very long since our own laws against regrators and forestallers were repealed, and these speculators were liable to imprisonment or the pillory, until Adam Smith showed that they were very beneficent agents in society. We cannot fairly blame the Japanese for these acts, although we now look upon them as very foolish and very wrong. A larger knowledge is the cure for them, but we used to do many things infinitely more wicked and cruel long after we boasted of a far higher civilisation than that which Japan now possesses.

We take the following from the Japan Gazette:—The Yedo and Yokohama Railway Stations are beginning to show a fair front; and the rails are being laid down. A steam-engine with a first-class carriage and break-van attached has run up and down between Kanagawa and Noge (about a mile and a-half or two miles), conveying the Prime Minister Sanjio Daijin and suite, who came from Yedo for the purpose of visiting the works.

The steamer America has brought twelve Japanese, whose passage was paid from Honolulu by the Hawaiian Government, in fulfilment of a contract entered into with the Japanese Government to return such of the Japanese as desired after their term of service of three years had expired. From appearances the returned Japanese are in good condition and comfortably off, considering they left here as common labourers. There are still quite a number of Japanese abroad, with permission of their Government, who are now receiving high wages as experienced house servants, and are as such well liked.

Information reaches us that at last the Government are making an attempt to increase the police force; but the wages offered, viz., $50 per month, without either board or lodging, are hardly enough to induce good men to enter the force.

We hear from Hakodate that H.E. Mr. De Long, at the request of the American citizens of Hakodate, held an inquiry into the conduct of Colonel Rice, the present U.S. Consul for that port. The result is not yet definitely known.
